ICE-HENGE? The daunting task of cutting the 18-inch-thick ice from Deep Creek Lake is under way this week near Uno's, as the waters are prepared for the annual Deep Creek Dunk, slated for Saturday, Feb. 21. The mammoth hunks of ice were being crafted into a Stonehenge replica, not only because it looks so cool, but also to create a barrier for snowmobile operators. Organizers don't want anyone driving into the frigid lake, although they are looking forward to the hundreds of "dunkers" to take the plunge on Saturday to raise money for the Maryland Special Olympics. Registration is at noon, and the dunk will take place at 2 p.m. There is a $50 minimum donation to participate. The event is certainly a sight to see, so come early and watch the day unfold. ## March 1 Public Meeting Set For DCL Discussion

A public meeting to solicit citizen opinions on growth trends in the Deep Creek Lake area, originally slated for last month but canceled because of adverse weather conditions, has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, March 1, in Room 314 of the Garrett College Continuing Education building.

The meeting will be hosted by the Deep Creek Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis Task Force and Environmental Resource Management (ERM), the consulting firm contracted by the county to undertake an analysis of growth trends and provide recommendations for the county commissioners to choose from in guiding the lake area's future.

"We hope the extreme winter weather conditions are behind us now and we can anticipate a good turnout for our public meeting," said ERM staff consultant Clive Graham. "The purpose of the meeting is to solicit ideas and opinions from all citizens regarding their perception of grown and development in the SHS STUDENTS WIN BIG IN BULL MARKET – Jimmy Hinebaugh, Mike Muenchow, and Drew Taylor, Southern High School students in Lisa Bender's economics class, placed first of 581 teams to win the statewide competition, sponsored by the Maryland Council on Economic Education. A team of sophomore girls from SHS, Katie Nichols, Destiny Kitzmiller, and Sarah Ford, also made an impressive showing by finishing 27th overall and earning second place honors for the Western Region. Pictured in the front, from the left, are Hinebaugh, Taylor, and Muenchow. In the back are Bill Grant, Rob Sharps, and Bender. See story for more details.

SHS Places First In State Stock Market Contest

Southern High students in Lisa Bender's economics class earned an impressive win in the Maryland Stock Market Game recently. Team members Jimmy Hinebaugh, Mike Muenchow and Drew Taylor managed a stock portfolio for 10 weeks and came out on top of 581 teams to win the statewide competition.

Sponsored by the Maryland Council on Economic Education, the Stock Market Game is an academic competition that is available to students at schools throughout Maryland, as well as college students and adults.

A team of sophomore girls from Southern High, Katie Nichols, Destiny Kitzmiller and Sarah Ford, also made an impressive showing by finishing in 27th place overall, and earning second place honors for the Western Region.

Prior to the start of the statewide competition, Bender gives lessons on the history of the stock market, its role in the U.S. economy, principles of investing, and conducting market research. Rob Sharps, a local stock broker representing PrimeVest Financial Services and First United Bank and Trust, visits the classroom to discuss investment strategies for short-term and long-term investing.

Sharps also works with Athena Wilson's accounting II classes during the spring semester. First United's business partnership with Southern High has been in place for nine

New Amendments Added To Garrett County's Water, Sewer Master Plan

The Garrett County commissioners this week unanimously approved three new amendments to the county's water and sewer master plan, allowing provisions for projects to proceed in Grantsville, Oakland, and Accident.

Prior to the commissioners' vote, a public hearing was held on the new amendments. However, no members of the general public attended the event.

A periodic update to the plan is required by the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE). "The water and sewer master plan is a dynamic document that changes with each new water and sewer project," said Mark Tonkovich, director of Public Utilities.

Additionally, the MDE will not release funding for projects until a county's master plan is updated, noted local municipal assistance coordinator Mike Mullan.

Grantsville intends to replace a 2-inch galvanized water line in the Springs Road area with 1,200 feet of 10-inch PVC pipe, three fire hydrants, and related apparatus.

This project will provide adequate water supply for residential customers, serve as a water source for the Grantsville Fire Department, and provide fire protection for the service area, according to county officials.

Another new paragraph in the amendment includes recent upgrades to Grantsville water facilities, which provide fire protection to the Northern Garrett Industrial Park and water supply in the Keyser's Ridge area. Constructed between 2001

Five Arrested In Connection To Oakland Burglary

Five persons were arrested recently by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in connection to a December 2003 nighttime residential burglary in the Oakland area.

The burglary occurred the night of Dec. 30 at the residence of Carole Cuppett on Bray School Road. She reported the burglary to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after she discovered numerous items missing from her residence, including several thousand dollars in cash, police said.

Steven Lee Kinsinger, 18, Grantsville, was arrested and charged with first-degree burglary and felony theft. He posted $50,000 bond.

Tonya Renee Matthis, 20, Grantsville, Michael Kenneth Fazenbaker, 23, Grantsville, and Tim Lee Bittinger, 19, Accident, were arrested and charged with first-degree burglary, felony theft, and conspiracy. Fazenbaker and Bittinger were released after posting $5,000 unsecured bond each. Matthis posted $5,000 bond, which was a reduced amount.

A 17-year-old juvenile of Grantsville was also arrested and charged with first-degree burglary and felony theft.

Pa. Bank Robber Gets Eight Years For Local Thefts

A Somerset County, Pa., man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last Friday to two counts of felony theft. Corbin Jay Will, 31, was sentenced to eight years' incarceration by Judge Jim Sherbin.

Following an investigation by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, Will was indicted by the September 2002 grand jury. He had entered two Garrett County banks, handed the tellers notes demanding money, and left with quantities of cash. The robberies occurred at the First Peoples Community Credit Union in Grantsville on Nov. 14, 2001, and the First United Bank and Trust in Friendsville on Jan. 3, 2002.

Prior to the First United robbery, authorities had developed Will as a possible suspect in a string of bank robberies that occurred in Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. When First United reported the incident on Jan. 3, local investigators worked in conjunction with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Pennsylvania State Police to immediately contact Will in Somerset County.

The officers found him outside his home, and evidence was recovered from his car that linked him to the First United theft and others. Will later confessed his involvement, according to the state's attorney.

400 Dunkers Expected To Jump In Icy Deep Creek Lake This Saturday

Organizers of the 6th annual Maryland State Police Deep Creek Dunk are expecting approximately 400 "dunkers" to jump in frigid Deep Creek Lake behind Uno Restaurant this Saturday, Feb. 21, at 2 p.m., while 1,000 observers enjoy the spectacle. All proceeds from this annual fund-raiser benefit Special Olympics Maryland.

"The event committee is currently working to clear enough ice and snow from Deep Creek Lake to create a dunk zone so that [participants] can get the full dunk experience," said a Special Olympics spokesperson.

The event is presented by Uno's and area Toyota dealers and is coordinated by the MSP and Garrett County law enforcement agencies.

Participants must bring a minimum of $50 in pledges and will receive a complimentary meal from Uno's, a commemorative event sweatshirt, a group color photo, and entry into a prize drawing for either a Coleman Spa hot tub, roundtrip Air Jamaica tickets, or a Deep Creek Dunk prize package. Prizes will also be awarded to the best

FLANAGAN MAKES IT FIVE – The 1,000 career point club of the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball season added its fifth member this week as senior Becca Flanagan (#20, shown during Friday's victory over Fort Hill) joined the "grand" company during a big win over West Virginia powerhouse Hedgesville. The forward netted 30 points against the visiting Eagles, including 22 points during a 39-29 second half Ram run. Flanagan's season has been marked by injury, making her accomplishment even more noteworthy, and she and five fellow seniors will play their final regular campaign game in Oakland tonight against Tucker. ## Delegate Claims Bear Season Is Ehrlich Political Payback

by Zenitha Prince
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Animal rights activists charged Wednesday that a proposed bear hunting season is less about wildlife supervision than about a political quid pro quo.

"This is not about bear management," said Wayne Pacelle, Humane Society of the United States' senior vice president of government affairs, at a news conference. "This is about a political payback to the National Rifle Association."

Pacelle and other animal rights supporters were supporting a bill before the House Environmental Matters Committee to impose a six-year moratorium on bear hunting in Maryland. Delegate Barbara Frush, D-Prince George's, introduced the bill after the Department of Natural Resources announced it would lift a 50-year hunting ban this fall to reduce bear road-kills, nuisance complaints, and damage to property.

"No one will be honest enough to say that this is just a trophy hunt," said Frush. "Somebody somewhere will have 30 bearskin rugs on their floor."

But that assertion is false, said Paul Peditto, director of the department's Wildlife & Heritage Service. "That's positively unfounded," Peditto said.

The measure was part of the recommendations of a

Arson, Theft, Endangerment Charges Filed

An 27-year-old Oakland man has been charged by the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office following an alleged attempt to burn a building owned by a local farm machinery and repair business.

Forrest Bachtel, an employee of Ernest Schrock, has been charged with arson in the second degree, reckless endangerment, and felony theft following an incident that reportedly occurred Wednesday, Feb. 11.

According to the report filed by Deputy State Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver, the suspect allegedly set fire to the business office, located in a 12' x 20' wood-frame and masonry building, located at 3344 Underwood Road, south of Oakland. The act was reportedly an attempt to cover up the alleged theft of two business checks by Bachtel.

Rodeheaver said that another employee who arrived for work around 9 a.m. on Thursday, Feb. 12, found evidence of the fire on the floor beneath a desk in the office area. The fire had apparently burned itself out, so no fire department was called to the scene.

The deputy fire marshal estimated damages to the structure to be $1,000, and losses to contents to be $500.

Bachtel was released from the Garrett County detention center after posting $25,000 bond, according to a spokesperson for the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

CAR ROLLS ON THIRD STREET – An Oakland Volunteer Fire Department crew is shown working to remove a Kitzmiller woman from her car following an accident that occurred on Third Street Friday morning. According to the Oakland Police Department, Connie Lynn Craver, 35, was driving north in her Dodge sedan when she veered to the right and struck the back of a parked Dodge pickup truck, which in turn struck the rear of a parked Honda sedan. When Crave's car hit the pickup, her sedan rolled over onto its roof and came to rest in the middle of the street. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Craver to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she told investigating officers that she did not recall the impact. Police later learned that Craver did not have car insurance, and charged her with operating an uninsured vehicle.

Conference To Offer Business Youth Program

Area youth may learn how to become entrepreneurs by attending the Rural Enterprises Conference at Garrett College on March 27. Presented by the Garrett-Preston Rural Development Coalition, the conference is geared to all age groups and features four youth sessions, according to RDC president David Moran.

"Our future economic viability ultimately resides with our youth. The Rural Enterprises Conference brings youngsters into contact with the rest of our agricultural business people," Moran said.

The focus of the conference this year is on the importance of learning as much as possible about the target market for goods or services and how to reach that market, Moran explained. The agenda includes 16 adult sessions and 4 specifically targeting youth.

"We set up a program that shows them how to think creatively, work with customers, and learn how to design profit into their products. They will be doing market surveys and selling refreshments at the conference at part of their learn-for-fun activities," he explained.

FOSTERING BUSINESS SAVVY – Extension Office educator Ann Sherrard will provide young people with an entrepreneurial learning experience during the Rural Enterprises Conference at Garrett College on March 27. In the photo above, Sherrard reviews key marketing points with students. The conference will offer a full day of seminars on rural economic issues, with special sessions for youth. See story.

Ann Sherrard, Garrett County's 4-H Extension educator, developed the curriculum for the youth sessions.

"This will be the third year for the conference, and we have offered the youth program each year. The boys and girls who participated seemed to enjoy the activities we set up for them. We take the kids through exercises on determining and setting prices and marketing products.

"We will also look at issues involved in expanding a business. At the end of the day, the young people will cash-out, determine their profit or loss, and evaluate their marketing plan," she explained.

Most of the sessions at the conference will deal with businesses related to traditional and alternative agriculture. However, the sessions on management, marketing, and home-based businesses can apply to any rural enterprise, Moran noted.

Major sponsors for the Rural Enterprises Conference include the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Garrett College, GCNet, Maryland Cooperative Extension, West Virginia University Extension Service, and Sincell Publishing/ The Republican.

For more information on the conference or to make reservations, persons may call Cheryl DeBerry at 301-334-6960.

Oakland Man Arrested After Alleged Assault

An Oakland man was jailed after an alleged domestic-related assault early Friday morning, according to the Oakland Police Department.

Scott Edward Patton, 29, was taken into custody and charged with second degree assault following the 12:41 a.m. incident. Officers who had responded to a loud noise complaint at the Glades West apartment complex heard a couple yelling at each other upstairs. Inside the apartment officers observed broken items lying on the floor, and marks on the alleged female victim.

Patton was later released from the Garrett County Jail when he posted 10 percent of a $5,000 bond as set by a District Court commissioner.

Greensboro Man Gets Probation For Marijuana Charge

A Greensboro man pleaded guilty recently in Garrett County Circuit Court to possession of marijuana. Judge Jim Sherbin then granted John Christopher Valltos probation before judgment, and placed him on three months of probation and imposed a fine of $100 and court costs.

Valltos, 22, was the owner of a vehicle stopped by a Maryland State Police trooper last April for speeding on I-68. While getting information from the driver, the trooper smelled the odor of burnt marijuana coming from the car. A trace of marijuana was found in a package on the floor of the vehicle where Valltos, who was the passenger, was seated.

A small quantity of marijuana was also found on Valltos, as well as a pack of rolling papers, according to the state's attorney.

Police Arrest Man Found Lying In Ditch

An Oakland man was arrested Friday night after police found him lying in a snow-covered, icy ditch along Oakland Drive near G Street in Mtn. Lake Park, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

David Allan Everett II, 31, was arrested and charged with intoxication and self-endangerment.

In other police news, Jason Todd McCroskey, 26, Oakland, was arrested for drunk driving after deputies observed his truck swerving, crossing the center of Gorman Road, and traveling off the road, nearly entering the northbound ditch on several occasions.

After McCroskey failed field sobriety tests, he was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI), driving while impaired (DWI), negligent driving, failure to drive right of center, and displaying an expired registration plate.

In a separate incident, deputies made a traffic stop on William Ervin Norris, Mt. Storm, W.Va., who was found to be wanted in Allegany County.

In addition to the arrest warrant, Norris was arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia, which was found on him at the time of the stop.

Oakland Woman Sentenced To 30 Days For DUI

An Oakland woman pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to one count of driving under the influence (DUI). Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Sheila Gale Dillsworth, 37, to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail and fined her $500. Related charges were dismissed upon her plea.

Dillsworth was charged on June 17, 2003, by a Garrett County Sheriff's Office deputy. On that date, he had been advised by his office to be on the lookout for a vehicle that was traveling southbound on Garrett Highway at a high rate of speed.

The deputy found the vehicle over an embankment near the intersection of Ben DeWitt Road. Dillsworth was observed outside and leaning against the 1999 Hyundai. According to the deputy's report, Dillsworth's vehicle had failed to negotiate a curve, traveled off the roadway, went through a guardrail and over the embankment, and had struck a bank before coming to rest.

Following a field sobriety test and license check, Dillsworth was charged with DUI, DUI per se, driving while impaired (DWI), negligent driving, driving in excess of reasonable and prudent speed, and failure to reduce speed on a curve.

Police Arrest Man Reportedly Lying In Middle Of Road

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office received a complaint that someone was lying on the center line of Maryland Highway near Weber Road Friday night, and when they arrived the subject was found running on Jamison Lane.

John Stewart Patton III, 43, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested and charged with hindering passage and alcoholic beverage endangerment.

In a separate incident, Charles Raymond Housley Jr., 30, Terra Alta, W.Va., was arrested after his vehicle was observed crossing the center and white lines of Garrett Highway.

A traffic stop was made on Ben DeWitt Road, and Housley failed field sobriety tests.

He was arrested and charged with driving while impaired (DWI), driving under the influence (DUI), failure to drive right of center, negligent driving, driving suspended, and failure to display license on demand, and he was issued a child safety seat violation.

In a another incident, Woodrow Thomas Futch, 34, Accident, was arrested after he failed field sobriety tests early Sunday morning.

His vehicle was observed speeding and swerving on Gorman Road. He was charged with DUI, DWI, DUI per se, exceeding the maximum speed, and failure to drive right of center, police said.

In other police news, a deputy was patrolling the area of Rt. 219 just north of Oakland, when he saw a 1996 Ford truck being operated by John Wayne Strawser Jr., Oakland, who was known to have a suspended Maryland driver's license.

The vehicle was stopped, and Strawser was arrested and charged with driving on a suspended driver's license and possession of a suspended driver's license.

In a separate incident, John R. Parker, 17, Swanton, was cited for failure to control speed to avoid a collision. His vehicle hit the rear bumper of a 1996 Chevrolet Blazer operated by Crystal L. Moon, 35, Oakland, which was stopped in front of him at the intersection of S. 11th Street and Dennett Road.

No injuries were sustained in the 8:30 a.m. incident Friday.

FREEZIN' FOR A VERY GOOD REASON – These men plunging into the icy pool of water on a frigid February day have not lost their minds. They are just a few of the hardy, generous souls who participated in last year's Maryland State Police Deep Creek Dunk. Proceeds from the annual fund-raiser benefit Special Olympics Maryland. Last year's event raised about $60,000. The 6th annual Deep Creek Dunk will be held this Saturday, Feb. 21, at 2 p.m. behind Uno's. Event committee members have been working to clear enough ice and snow from the lake to create a "dunk zone." They want participants to get the "full dunk experience." See photo on front page for more information. Last year, four feet of snow on top of 20 inches of ice prevented participants from plunging into Deep Creek Lake. Event organizers had to improvise by filling fire department "dump tanks" with icy lake water and snow.

Kitzmiller Youth Center Opening; Open House Set

The town of Kitzmiller, in cooperation with the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department, will open a Youth Center in the fire department's upstairs recreation room. The first night of the center will be held on Friday, Feb. 20, with an open house event.

The Youth Center will be open for all youth under the age of 21. Those attending must reside within the Kitzmiller postal district. Each guest must complete a membership form, which then must be signed by his or her parent or guardian.

The hours of operation will be every Friday from 6 to 9 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays, 3 to 7 p.m.

Organizers report that the center will provide a supervised gathering spot for the community's youth with many recreational opportunities available, such as ping-pong, billiards, and Foosball, as well as a variety of card and board games. The center will also offer a big screen television and stereo system.

Refreshments will be available for purchase. The open house on Friday, Feb. 20, will provide opportunities for interested youths to obtain membership forms and for parents to visit to see what is being offered.

For more information, persons may contact Mayor Jim Browning at 301-453-3449.

Police Probing DCL Home Site Burglary, Theft

Maryland State Police investigators assigned to the McHenry barrack are seeking information as they work to solve a burglary and theft from a house under construction in McHenry.

Between 4 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 12, and 7 a.m. the following morning, a Bostich brand air compressor was stolen from within the home located at 79 Cedar Shore Drive. The house is located just south of the Pine Lodge Steakhouse, and is visible from both Garrett Highway and Deep Creek Drive. The $600 piece of equipment is the property of Tressler Builders.

Persons with information are asked to contact Cpl. Lowman at 301-387-1101.

SGCRS GIVEN "ADOPT-A-METER" FUNDS – The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad was presented with a check for $3,575 this week. The money was earned through the town of Oakland's Adopt-A-Meter fund-raiser that allowed individuals or organizations to "adopt" parking meters for both the Autumn Glory Festival weekend and the Christmas season. The meters, adopted for $50 each, were decorated for each season by the organizations. That money, as well as the coins placed in those meters during those seasons, added up to the donation given to the squad this week. The parking meter that had the most change put into it was the one decorated by the Department of Social Service's FIT Unit. It is pictured below. Shown above from left are Jerry Kestner II, SGCRS chief; David Moon, SGCRS president; and Mayor Asa McCain. Bea Crosco was also a lead organizer in the effort. She and McCain expressed their thanks to all 40 meter-adopting sponsors.

Road Conditions Play Factor In Vehicle Mishap

Road conditions played a factor in a two-vehicle accident Wednesday afternoon on Pysell Crosscut Road approximately one quarter mile west of King Reis Lane, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Investigation revealed that Brian Fox, 35, Morgantown, W.Va., was traveling eastbound on Pysell Crosscut Road at the same time David Rolf, 43, Mtn. Lake Park, was traveling westbound. Rolf saw Fox's vehicle and immediately stopped his vehicle in his lane of travel, police said.

Fox tried to stop but was unable to because of the narrow ice-covered road; consequently, his vehicle slid into Rolf's vehicle. Fox was cited at the scene for failure to reduce speed in dangerous highway conditions, police said.

In a separate incident, Andria M. McRobie, 22, Grantsville, failed field sobriety tests and was charged with drunk driving early Thursday morning.

Her vehicle was stopped on Main Street and Springs Road in Grantville after a deputy observed her vehicle traveling at a high rate of speed.

McRobie was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), DUI per se, driving while impaired by alcohol (DWI), and speed greater than reasonable.

In other police news, deputies executed an arrest warrant on Kevin Lamont Essex, 22, McHenry. As part of a routine search incident to arrest, Essex was found to be in possession of marijuana.

Lonaconing Man Sentenced To 18 Months In GC Jail

A Garrett County Circuit Court jury recently found a Lonaconing (Garrett County) man guilty of manufacturing marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Joseph Justin Diehl, 31, to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail.

The judge suspended 12 months of that sentence and imposed a fine of $200. Diehl will be on probation upon his release.

He was charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force last August after marijuana plants were found near his house during a marijuana eradication operation. Officers searched Diehl's house and found additional marijuana and items of paraphernalia.

Girl Falls From Moving Vehicle, Escapes Injury

A 3-year-old girl escaped injury in what police are calling an "unusual occurrence" Friday afternoon when she fell from the rear driver's side door of her grandmother's moving SUV on Oak Street, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

According to the driver, Chrystal Louden of Oakland, she did not know her granddaughter had fallen from the vehicle, and said she only realized the girl was missing after stopping at a local business to have lunch. She then contacted authorities, police said.

Meanwhile, Sharon Holstine of Mt. Storm, W.Va., was operating a vehicle behind Louden and stopped and removed the child from the middle of the road when Louden's vehicle failed to stop and continued down Oak Street. Holstine transported the child to the sheriff's office, where she was later transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad, where she was treated and later released.

Police said the child was not properly secured in a child safety seat.

Louden was charged with possession of marijuana and failure to secure a child under the age of 6 in a child safety seat, said a GBI spokesperson.

Groups Sought For Community Service Alternative

The Community Service Office is seeking interested non-profit and governmental organizations to serve as work sites as an alternative sanction that can be imposed on a defendant by the judge in non-violent cases not necessarily requiring a period of incarceration as a penalty.

This Alternative Sentencing and Community Service has been an option for judges and state's attorneys in Garrett County since 1995. The state's attorney can also invoke community service as an option where appropriate as a pre-trial diversion.

This program provides needed volunteer staffing to public and non-profit organizations, said Dick Sanders, sheriff. By performing community service, defendants are provided the opportunity to return something of value to the community, and this work serves as a tool for their rehabilitation.

At the same time, defendants are not stripped of the ability to continue to meet their family, employment, and educational obligations, something that is not always possible when a period of incarceration is imposed, he added.

Finally, the use of community service as an alternative to incarceration serves to reduce the jail population, easing overcrowding and saving the Garrett County taxpayer's burdens, Sanders said.

Since January 1999, the community service program has provided 66,112 hours of volunteer service to the community. At the rate of $5.15 an hour, this equals a saving for the community of more than $340,000, according to a report by the sheriff's office.

Services provided range from performance of maintenance duties at state and local parks to the development of computer web sites for non-profit organizations.

Interested groups may contact Cindy Smith, community service coordinator, at 301-334-1915.

The Community Service office is located at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, 202 South Third Street, Oakland, and is open for walk-ins at any time between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

EMS Personnel Learning New Computer System

Allegany and Garrett counties' emergency medical services personnel have begun training in the use of the Electronic Maryland Ambulance Information System (EMAIS). The program is a web-based computer software application which will allow EMS personnel to submit ambulance run data via the computer.

The result will be a savings of money, improved quality of data, and shortening of the timeframe to obtain management and operational statistics, according to Region I EMS administrator Dave Ramsey, Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS).

The training began on January 29 and will be concluding at the end of February. More than 600 EMS personnel will be trained on the use of EMAIS once the program is implemented, Ramsey noted.

Eric Chaney, the associate director for the MIEMSS medical director's office, and Kathy Paez, MIEMSS senior data specialist, have been instrumental in the development of this program and are the lead instructors for the courses that are being presented.

Computer laboratories have been provided through Allegany College of Maryland and Garrett College. In addition, ALLCONET and GCNET have assisted the ambulance services in obtaining Internet access to facilitate submission of ambulance run data from their stations.

It is planned that the EMAIS program will become operational on March 1, making this area the third one in the state to utilize the program. The goal will be to have all jurisdictions in the state use EMAIS, resulting in improved efficiency for the EMS system, said Ramsey. Other areas using EMAIS are Cecil County and Washington County.

Dr. William May, Region I medical director, noted that the response from the EMS providers in this area has been outstanding.

"We have had tremendous response from the volunteers and paid personnel in signing up and taking this training," he said. "In addition, their acceptance of the new computer program has been positive and enthusiastic. The participation from Allegany and Garrett colleges has also been instrumental in the success of our training efforts. Their providing us with computer space has made it possible for us to do this education on such a large scale."

The next EMAIS training sessions to be offered will be at Garrett College on Feb. 20 and 21, and at Allegany College of Maryland on Feb. 22 and 23. Individual EMS providers wishing to register for the program may contact the MIEMSS Region I Office at 301-895-5934 or 301-746-8636.

EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES PERSONNEL in Garrett and Allegany counties have begun training in the use of the Electronic Maryland Ambulance Information System (EMAIS). The program is a web-based computer software application which will allow EMS personnel to submit ambulance run data via a computer. Kathy Paez, senior data manager for the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS), and Jean Tressler, coordinator of Continuing Education at Garrett College, assist Mary Kay and Dave Biset during recent EMAIS training at the college. More than 600 EMS personnel will be trained on the use of EMAIS once the program is implemented, said Region I EMS administrator Dave Ramsey, MIEMSS. The next EMAIS training sessions to be offered will be at Garrett College on Feb. 20 and 21, and at Allegany College of Maryland on Feb. 22 and 23. See story for details.

Not the Best Way...

It's no secret that Maryland, like many states, is facing a fiscal crisis, and the legislators and Governor Ehrlich are scrambling in the 2004 session to find ways to address the problem. Controversy surrounds just about every proposed solution, as there is simply no easy answer to getting the state back into the black.

One such proposal by Delegate Sheila Hixson is to raise the state sales tax from its current 5% to 6%, which would, according to proponents, generate approximately $550 million annually in new revenue. That figure, however, is based upon the supposition that the volume of retail sales in Maryland would remain the same as the past year. Therein lies the problem.

Opponents of the bill point out that increasing the sales tax will encourage citizens to do more of their shopping either out of state or over the Internet. Delaware has no sales tax at all, and Pennsylvania has no sales tax on clothing. Many purchases made via the Internet do not include sales tax. An analysis by the Department of Legislative Services indicates that the one-cent hike could cause a $600 million decrease in retail sales in Maryland, which would obviously be detrimental to Maryland businesses, many of which are struggling just to stay afloat anyway.

In real numbers, a family with an annual income of $15,000 would pay approximately $55 more per year in sales tax, while a family earning $70,000 would have to spend an extra $211. It's a double whammy on less fortunate families because they typically spend a larger portion of their income on taxable items.

Gov. Ehrlich has vowed to veto any tax increases, and continues to push hard for legalized, albeit limited, slot machine gambling to address the state deficit. A fallback bill that is a companion to the sales-tax-hike bill calls for the same one-cent increase, but submits it to a statewide referendum in order for it to be enacted. It is our guess that getting such a bill passed by referendum is highly unlikely, even though Maryland is predominantly Democratic.

While there are plenty of negatives that surround legalized gambling, it seems that increasing the sales tax is far from being the best way to attack our monetary deficiencies.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is a letter to the Good Neighbor who found my check book (Friday the 13th?) and put it in my mailbox. I would like to thank you for the kindness. I placed it on the back of the car, "forgot" it, drove off, and you know the rest. Thank you!"

Will Taylor
Swanton

To the Editor,

This response is to John McEwen's letter to the editor last week. I don't get involved in political issues. I see last week's letter as a religious issue that I can't ignore.

It's not going to take me five large paragraphs to point out a few things. I will get right to the point!

1. One nation under God.

2. Yes, the cross is a symbol of Christian faith. Do you know that the star of David is also a Christian symbol?

3. The little fish cutout is a symbol, too.

4. I reckon you don't eat candy canes...the red on them symbolizes the blood of Jesus.

5. It's freedom OF religion, not freedom from.

You come across as being a non-Christian. I don't know if you are, and I am not the one to judge. But perhaps someday you will want to see a cross, and you won't be recognized.

Proud to be an American and a Christian,
Esther K. Clemons

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter sent by Jerry Ruby. The letter that was written "to my dear family" was so touching, and so applicable to so many things in life, not just mental illness.

We have all hurt the people we love, and most of the time without the slightest intent. Sometimes we react poorly to the response we receive from someone who means the world to us because we expect more of them, and in turn, wound that person. Sometimes that wound is not able to be mended, and relationships are destroyed.

To Brian, Barb, and Ron, I'm sorry. Although I know in my heart that I did the right thing, I'm sorry for the way things turned out. I'm sorry for saying things that stung, and for not accepting the reality of what was to be my life. Trying to change that reality caused more harm than good, and I will forever regret losing the relationships that we shared. But, the gift that was given to me in the process will be something that I will never regret and will forever cherish.

Thank you, Jerry Ruby, for your words. I sincerely wish you a life of peace and calm, health and strength. For you did not choose to have your illness, and even if you could, I'm sure you would never choose to hurt your loved ones. I didn't either, but life just takes us down roads sometimes, against our will, and going down those paths kicking and screaming isn't always the solution.

Sincerely,
H. Ford

To the Editor:

It is understandable that John McEwen feels excluded when he sees a Christian cross, yet his exclusiveness is due to his own free will. In America it is his right to be an atheist if he chooses, but his rights do not supercede those who choose to be Christians. Psalm 14:1 says he is a fool.

The cross that Mr. McEwen is offended by is a memorial to the only man God permanently raised from the dead and is an open invitation to whosoever will to accept him as God or die the second death for refusing. To a Christian, God is first in everything, all the rest is secondary, including the American flag. Surely Mr. McEwen does not think the Boy Scouts should be disbanded because of their God and Country Creed. Surely he does not think the memorials of great Americans like Washington and Lincoln should be separated from the flags they defended and which surround them. To these great men God was first in everything.

Perhaps, Mr. McEwen, the loving omniscient God that you do not believe in decided eons ago to have a cross installed by the Mountaintop Ministerial Assn. that you can daily view from your bedroom window so you would have a change of heart or be without excuse for refusing the truth. You, Mr. McEwen, do not need the aid of a psychologist for your flawed complex. You need the prayers of true believers and a reassessment of your thinking.

Respectfully,
Bob Groves

P.S. "He that believeth in him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already." John 3:18

To the Editor:

I am writing in support of Mr. John R. McEwen's letter last week on the subject of plans to erect a 30' cross on the hillside overlooking Oakland.

As a frequent, and very happy, visitor to Garrett County and Oakland over the years, I agree with Mr. McEwen's feelings that the placement of ANY single denomination religious symbol is exclusive to some, both in the community and to your many guests. Garrett County and Oakland are blessed with a natural beauty and harmony, a tolerance for welcoming many visitors, and most of all, a sense of acceptance.

I do not deny the right of the Mountaintop Ministerial Association to place the symbol on private property, but it seems that a single denominational symbol would be better located at a house of worship, where there would be no question about its message and purpose. Placement of a 30' cross in such a prominent "public" place certainly implies to the observer that the community "endorses" the beliefs of that symbol, to the exclusion of all others. No such implication is inferred from a religious symbol on a house of worship.

As a partner in an interfaith marriage, I am tolerant and accepting of all beliefs. I would hope that the friendly and family oriented Garrett County and Oakland communities would also be accepting of all faiths, as our supreme spiritual leader and our country's founders intended.

Please re-think this idea of a religious symbol so publicly displayed.

Sincerely,
Edward and Rosalind
Dixon
Ellicott City

To the Editor:

This is in response to Jeremy Gosnell's letter on February 12 concerning federal money for programs and training for schools and community colleges.

Many of the jobs available to the local people in Garrett County are minimum-wage jobs and involve, many times, customer service to us wicked weekend type people (many of whom are homeowners who pay their property taxes just like year-round residents). What jobs would be available at this time to many of the local people without the hotel, restaurant, and service-type jobs that there are currently?

Possibly the job training program would help young people identify their interests and talents so that they would be inspired to open their own businesses in the area. The program would most likely involve career training, not "job" training, to help young people have the confidence to strive for more than the jobs that are available in the area at this time as well as to look at careers outside the area.

I agree that Garrett County needs a television station with local news and stories. A broadcasting school is one idea for the use of the federal funds, but a much wider range of interests needs to be developed. The number of people employed in that area would be minimal compared to the number of (mirroring your sarcasm) non-rich, subservient, low-paid yearly residents living in Garrett County.

Maybe you should welcome the financial help from the federal government, have much more faith in the local people, less disdain for the tourists, and work with the high schools and college to develop a plan for career development ideas that could be implemented when the funds become available.

Kathe Kane
McHenry

To the Editor:

Luke 6:37 – "Judge not, and ye shall not be judged: condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: forgive, and ye shall be forgiven."

On Feb. 11, two ministers from the Apostolic Church of Oakland were summoned to Ocean City to appear before the Board of Maryland/District of D.C. United Pentecostal ministers by the request of their pastor and the Board of Ministers. The two ministers has submitted a petition with 35 signatures requesting help to prevent the pastor and trustees from selling our church which is located in Mtn. Lake Park, (formerly the Mtn. Lake Park camp meeting grounds). These two men have been reprimanded and severely punished for their action.

To maintain their minister license, this is their punishment: They cannot preach, they cannot attend any UP church in Garrett County, they can only attend church in Keyser or Cumberland. They are not to communicate or have any contact with anyone affiliated with any of these churches, although they have co-workers, lifetime friends, and family members attending these churches. These men have been raised in this church and have raised their families there also. Their children had also been raising their children there.

These men have had their rights violated by this board. We have been told only 19 names on the petition have voting rights. Are you one of the 19? My family has attended this church for 35 years and we are told we cannot vote on the selling of the church. With these two men and their families not being allowed to vote in the selling of the church, that means there are only 15 voting members.

I would sincerely hope that the ones signing this petition will support these men. This was done on your behalf to save our church from being sold for financial gain. Now you have heard the other side of the story. (These numbers are approximate.)

Jean Peterman

To The Editor:

This is in response to last week's letter by Mr. John R. McEwen. I would like to express my own outrage with this matter at hand. I am part of the youth of this great country and it would make me irate to see my constitutional right of expressing myself through the first amendment blocked.

Should I be stripped of my clothes if they bear any notion of my Christian background? If I wear these, does it say to others of different faiths that I have no tolerance for them? No, I believe that it is not a sign that I am intolerant of others, but a sign that I have my own faith and I believe what I believe. It is my inalienable right that is given through the constitution of our great country. I have friends who are not of the same faith as I. I have spoken with them on this matter. From the comments I received, it would not bother the rest of the religious community for the cross to be erected. The cross that would be put up would not be something that they would be forced to acknowledge or worship.

The cross that is to be erected should not be a sign to drive away others. It should be a sign to show that we are proud of our background and are open to religion in our town and elsewhere. It is the right of the Christians of our community to show their faith through the freedom we all have received thanks to the great country we are lucky to live in. If the Jewish or Muslim community would wish to do such as we the Christian community has chosen to do, I will be in favor of it. It is also their right to practice their religion and express it to their will. Should we proceed to dismantle the local churches because we have too many signs of Christianity through our county?

I would like to praise Mr. John R. McEwen for his exercising his freedom of speech, and I thank my great county for letting me exercise this right also. I am a Christian and will stand proud. I am an American and I will not fall down. "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

Sincerely,
Bradley S. Lilly

To the Editor:

It had been a warm and graciously pleasant August day last year, one on which the wind was kind to us, relieving the summer's heat with a mountain breeze. Retirement has its pleasantly lazy days, so it was time for me, Ed, and our dog Lady to walk on Tom's Ridge where we had built our little second home 11 miles southeast of busy Deep Creek Lake. We had vacationed often during our childrearing years at Blackwater State Park in West Virginia and had come to enjoy the openness and natural beauty of the mountains. This walk, however, was one to remember. I call it a "Close Encounter of the Bear Kind."

I will always be thankful that Lady was with us. Being novices at bear watching, I am not certain that the mother and bear cub which we sighted within 60 feet of us on Fort Hill Road that day would have left us so quickly. Lady's barking triggered a departure by the cub and Mama soon followed, but not until she had stood her ground high enough to assess the "danger" to her cub. Like most thrilling experiences that turn out well, we chuckled about it and repeated our story across the state to just about anyone who would listen. I felt that the encounter was special and more than equal to seeing a bird species for the first time.

During the rest of August and until harvest time, we experienced the bear(s) quite often, not on our subsequent and somewhat guarded walks, but when the bear(s) ravaged our neighbor's cornfield. Until one sees this damage, one cannot imagine it. But try a bear (or bears) sitting in a cornfield, eating each and every night preparing for a long winter's sleep. (This farmer also experienced considerable damage to his wrapped hay bales.)

According to DNR's draft management plan, compensation funds raised until now have not been able to fully reimburse farmers for crop damage. The range of payment has been between 41% and 70% of total claims. The report states that this source would be abolished, and that all compensation to landowners for damage would be eliminated if hunting is permitted. If a hunt is not permitted, the Task Force recommends that the state provide 100% compensation for eligible claims; and, it suggests that DNR request a $50,000 annual appropriation for itself to manage compensation.

One cannot assume that just because there is a bear hunt, there will be no damage to the farmer's livelihood. Whenever crop damage occurs, a fair and timely compensation is justified.

No matter how one feels about a hunting season for Maryland's black bears, western Maryland farmers need the protection of our state government. It is the government's proper role to promote the general welfare of its citizens, especially when they are vulnerable. If this is accomplished, both the farmer and Ursus americanus will survive.

Sincerely,
Mary E. Sipes

To the Editor:

Again, Maryland's law abiding firearms owners present and future are being maligned and scapegoated. Senate Bill 288 purports to be a cure-all to end crimes committed by criminals with "so-called assault weapons." The language of this legislation when carefully and honestly analyzed shows it can be easily construed to next extend this ban to all semi-automatic shotguns, pistols, and rifles, whether they're considered to be competition, sporting, hunting, or self-defense arms. One example is the use of the phrase "that can accept," which opens the gates to bans and confiscations of all semi-auto pistols, rifles, and shotguns made since semi-auto technology arrived 100 years ago. The bill is either a meticulously masked necessary step towards confiscation and should be defeated or so poorly written that it should be withdrawn.

Another justification being touted is that the D.C. area snipers used a so-called assault weapon, but this bill would have had no effect on their criminal acts. Are we to seriously entertain the notion that Muhammad and Malvo would have abandoned their plans had they only had a hunting rifle available? If the two had used a hunting rifle would our left elites then be calling for the banning of all hunting rifles? Of course.

The tragedy of this legislation is that it can do nothing to stop criminals with illegal firearms just as the federal ban had no effect on Muhammad and Malvo. This state ban will be readily ignored by the repeat-offender-ridden criminal class as they ignore every other law. The fact is, the AR15 and M1A service rifles are most often used in organized, highly disciplined competitions.

This bill is another wanton waste of the limited resources of our police agencies, which increases the criminal elements odds of successful evasion of arrest and conviction. If this bill passes into law, Malvo and Muhammad will have succeeded in manipulating a majority of Maryland's legislators into punishing law-abiding Marylanders by employing the despicable and insulting notion that eliminating law-abiding citizens' rights instead of limiting the number of criminals preying on us will make any of us safer. Senate Bill 288 is about political vengeance and the condescending view that free and respectable men and women gun owners should be blamed for a criminal's conduct.

Gun control is an abysmal failure, as Baltimore's and D.C.'s murder counts prove. Maryland's liberal wing needs to embrace reality, stop senselessly attacking gun-owners' constitu-

Winterblast '04 To Offer Week Of Snow Events

The annual Winterblast at Wisp will offer a weeklong slate of snow-related activities from Saturday, Feb. 28, through Sunday, March 7. The event provides non-profit organizations and promotional partners an opportunity to raise funds and public awareness for their causes.

This year's Winterblast opens with the Cardboard Boxcar Derby at the Bear Claw Snow Tubing Park on Saturday, Feb. 28. With boxes limited to only cardboard, tape, and string, entrants will be judged on design from 1 to 2:30 p.m. before speed races begin at 3 p.m. The minimum individual donation is $15, and the minimum business donation is $150.

Registration forms for the derby are available online at www.skiwisp.com, or persons may contact Ed King at 301-387-4700, ext. 211 until Feb. 22, or Jay Kamineck at 301-387-6386 after that date. The Cardboard Boxcar Derby is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club.

The Maryland Governor's Cup Slalom and Giant Slalom are set for Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 28-29.

The Deep Creek Winter Sports Team will sponsor the Wisp Cup Slalom on Saturday, March 6, and the Giant Slalom on Sunday, March 7. Registration begins at 8 a.m. on the day of each event, and prizes will be awarded in overall and age categories.

U.S. Amateur Ski Association (USASA) members will compete to qualify for nationals during the Mason/Dixon and Mid-Atlantic Snowboard Series Regional Finals on March 6 and 7.

The Ford Built Tough Series will also take place on March 6 and 7 as the area's best skiers and boarders compete at the Savage Terrain Park and Super Pipe. Saturday's Border Cross Final begins at 11 a.m., and will be followed by the Big Air Final. Sunday's Super Pipe Jam Final begins at 3 p.m. Ford Series Registration will open at the ski school desk at 8 a.m. the day of each event, and the cost is $10 per entrant.

The Pond Cross, a Garrett County tradition, will close the weeklong celebration on March 7. Registration for the Pond Cross will be taken the day of the event, with proceeds benefiting the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company.

This year's Winterblast sponsors include Coca-Cola, the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, Ford, the Deep Creek Winter Sports Team, the Deep Creek VFC, and the United States of America Snowboard Association

For more information on any of the Winterblast events, persons may call 301-387-4911, or visit the Wisp's Web site at www.skiwisp.com.

Hafer Sponsors Bus Safety Bill; Hearing Today

Senator John J. Hafer (D-1) has again proposed legislation in the General Assembly to combat the problem of motorists failing to stop for school buses with activated flashing lights.

Senate Bill 280 would increase the penalties for those motorists who commit these "run-throughs" of passing school vehicles with activated lights. The proposed legislation was scheduled to be heard before the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee today, Feb. 19, at 1 p.m. in the Miller Senate Building.

The proposed increase in penalty for a violator would raise the fine to a maximum of $1,000 from its current $275 penalty, as well as increase the point penalty to a maximum of five from the existing three point consequence. At the present time, violators may mail in their fines and are not required to appear before a judge.

"In an effort to send a stronger message to our drivers, this legislation mandates an appearance before an administrative law judge where harsher penalties are more likely to be imposed," said Hafer. This is the third year that the senator has tried to get the legislation passed.

He noted that Maryland has seen a significant trend over the years of run-throughs at school bus pickup and drop-off points. In December 2001, a motorist fatally injured a 10-year-old Garrett County boy, Melvin Beachy, who had just exited a school bus on Rt. 219 near Gortner.

Reports also have shown, Hafer said, that in loading and unloading zones, 8 out of 13 fatalities of children were the result of drivers who failed to stop for vehicles with activated flashing lights.

"I feel very strongly that we need to send a clear message to these offenders that the state of Maryland is serious about protecting our children," the senator said.

Hafer said he encourages support for SB 280. He may be reached in Annapolis at 800-492-7122, ext. 3565. Concerned individuals may also call the Judicial Proceedings Committee to register their support by calling 800-494-7122, ext. 3623, as soon as possible.

Shown below is graduate Bobby "Greg" Wagner, son of Bonnie C. Wagner, McHenry, and the late Robert D. Wagner. All are graduates of Northern High School. Resh and Wagner will be stationed in Princess Anne County, and Stein will be at Forrestville.

Morgantown Man Gets Three Years For CDS Charge

A Morgantown, W.Va., man was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court for possession with intent to distribute a controlled dangerous substance. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Joseph Anthony Plattner, 24, to three years in the Division of Corrections, suspending all but one year.

He was also fined $1,000.

Following his release from the Garrett County Jail, Plattner will be on supervised probation for two years.

He was charged in March 2003 by a Maryland State Police trooper, who had stopped Plattner for an equipment violation as he was driving on I-68. After the trooper arrested him for driving on a suspended license, Plattner's car was searched, and approximately ½ pound of psilocyn mushrooms was found.

He pleaded guilty to the CDS charge in October 2003. Related charges were dismissed by the state upon Plattner's plea.

Terra Alta Man Gets One Year For Theft Charge

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to theft. Jonathan David Jones, 26, was sentenced by Judge Jim Sherbin to one year in the Garrett County Jail.

That sentence will run concurrently with several other sentences that Jones is serving for a total of 6½ years.

He was orginally charged with burglary and theft when officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation learned last July that Jones was passing checks from an account of a local business owner and the checks had to have come from the owner's home office.

"There was insuffienct evidence to go forward with the burglary charge as there was no evidence showing the actual breaking and entering of the residence that is required for the burglary charge," said State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

WINTERBLAST CARDBOARD DERBY SET – The 2004 Winterblast Cardboard Derby, coordinated by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, is set to take to the slopes on Saturday, Feb. 28, starting to 1 p.m. Pictured above is the winning entry in the 2003 derby speed category from Bill's Marine. That entry slid to victory down Bear Claw Tubing Park in exactly 15.71 seconds. Last year's derby raised more than $1,200 for the Lions Club programs. Derby boxes must be constructed exclusively of cardboard, string, and tape. No metal is permitted. Judging for the trophy and first, second, and third cash prizes is based on the categories of speed, design, and originality. For more information, persons may pick up the rules and entry form at the Wisp ski school desk at the lodge in McHenry or by calling Ed King at 301-387-4700, ext. 211.

NOTICE
GARRETT COUNTY TAXPAYERS!

According to the laws governing my office (Section 14-808/Tax Property), the Tax Collector must advertise and sell properties for delinquent County, State, Town and/or taxes due other taxing agencies.

Delinquent notices were mailed Feb. 4, 2004. We have included all taxes on the property as required by law. However, only delinquent taxes (2002-2003 and prior years) must be paid to avoid a tax sale on the property. Also, personal property taxes for 2002-2003 and prior years are delinquent and become a lien on the real estate (Section 14-808). (If you are involved in a bankruptcy proceeding, please contact our office as soon as possible.) TAX BILLS MAILED JULY 2003 ARE NOT DELINQUENT!

According to legislation (Annotated Code 14-809), the county collector shall proceed to advertise and sell any real property located in any municipal corporation in the county on which municipal corporation taxes are delinquent. Unpaid amounts for municipalities or other taxing agencies were shown at the bottom of the notices. After March 12, all delinquent town taxes must be paid at the County Tax Office in order to guarantee collection of additional costs. ALL SANITARY CHARGES ARE NOW COLLECTED AT THE TAX OFFICE!

Property taxes may be paid at the Tax Office with Discover Card Only. Also, we accept payments by credit card online. To pay by credit card, call 1-800-2PAY-TAX or visit www.officialpayments.com. (Use Jurisdiction Code 3014). There is a nominal fee charged for this service. Cards that can be used are: VISA, MASTERCARD, DISCOVER, and AMERICAN EXPRESS. (VISA will not accept Sewer and Water charges.)

The annual tax sale will be held in May 2004. Additional fees for attorney costs will be assessed after March 12. Please contact our office for the correct figures. After approximately April 15, additional fees for advertising will be included in the total amounts due.

If you should have questions or if we can be of assistance to you, please don't hesitate to call anytime between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Special Olympics Winter Games Coming To Wisp This Weekend

A contingent of 213 athletes from around the state will be on hand at the Wisp Ski Resort Sunday through Tuesday, Feb. 22-24, for the annual Special Olympics Maryland (SOMD) Winter Games competition. The highlight of the winter sports season for these athletes, the three-day event will feature alpine skiing, cross country skiing, and modified alpine skiing (including mono-ski, bi-ski, and sit-ski).

The SOMD Winter Games will get under way at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening with opening ceremonies such as the Parade of Athletes, and the Athlete's, Official's, and Coach's Oaths. The official opening of the games is marked by the lighting of the Special Olympics cauldron, which is performed after the torch is skied down the mountain and handed off to an athlete representative.

Approximately 200 volunteers will be on hand throughout the competition, representing the American Legion, Frostburg State University, Garrett and Allegany colleges, Northern and Southern high schools, local ski clubs, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and the community at large. Ninety additional volunteer coaches from around the state will be assisting at the SOMD Winter Games, after having trained their athletes for the required eight-week period leading up to this competition.

Special Olympics Maryland—Garrett County's delegation to the 2004 Winter Games includes 11 athletes and two coaches. Representing Garrett County will be athletes David Albert, Cameron Barone, Krista Beiler, Annamay Broadwater, Robert Broadwater, Charlene Durst-Beiler, Carrie Anne Fike, Brittany Gank, Randall Guthrie, Chad Stallman, and James Winebrenner. The squad's coaches are Charla Beiler and Karen Broadwater.

The 2004 SOMD Winter Games is sponsored by Toyota, the American Legion — Department of Maryland, WKHJ 104.5, 92.3 The Train, Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort, Wisp Mountain Resort Hotel and Conference Center, Long & Foster Resort Rentals, Tub Tech, Uno's, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

The 213 athletes who are participating in the 2004 SOMD Winter Games are only a small part of an extensive network of 10,000 athletes around the state, noted a spokesperson. Special Olympics Maryland provides year-round sports training and competition opportunities for Maryland's children and adults with developmental disabilities, at no cost to themselves or their families.

For further information about Special Olympics Maryland, persons may call 1-800-541-7544 or visit the organization's Web site at www.somd.org.

Meeting Set

Deep Creek area, and whether or not they perceive any problems or issues associated with the growth."

The meeting is an outgrowth of a process likely to continue to the end of the year. In December 2003 the board of county commissioners appointed a 10-member task force to guide and assist ERM in the preparation of the Deep Creek Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis. The purpose of that study is to evaluate existing plans, policies, regulations and development trends in the Deep Creek planning area and to identify growth issues and potential problems associated with development in the resort area.

The consulting firm is responsible for recommending solutions to those issues and problems in order to assure continued economic growth, and for responsible and managed development and resource protection in the watershed, according to a spokesperson.

"We are hoping to hear specific ideas and opinions regarding the development trends within the Deep Creek Watershed so that we can clearly identify the issues," said task force member Troy Ellington. "Once we have identified the issues, we can proceed with our task of developing options for solutions."

"The county commissioners are urging all citizens of the county to participate in this public meeting, recognizing that every citizen has a stake in the continued vitality of the Deep Creek resort area," commented county administrator Monty Pagenhardt. "This public meeting will be a very important step in the process of completing this planning study."

Meeting Set To Discuss Trip To Holy Land

Pastor Mel Menker of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren will host his seventh trip to the Holy Land, departing Nov. 8 of this year. An informational meeting about this trip will be held this evening (Thursday) at the Oak Park Church, beginning at 7 p.m.

The trip itinerary will be discussed, along with the cost, specific travel details, and preparation needs. The travel will be through Educational Opportunities, Menker said, which is a Christian-based, not-for-profit organization, and is the largest tour host to the Holy Land in the world.

A brochure about the trip can be obtained from Menker by calling 301-334-5906, by sending him an e-mail at hmenker@gcnetmail.net, or by attending this evening's meeting. He will also be available to meet with interested persons one-on-one.

Delegate Claims

bear management task force appointed by former Gov. Parris Glendening, he added. According to agency figures, 38 bears were struck by vehicles and $40,000 worth of crop and property damage was incurred last year. In 2002, 364 nuisance complaints were filed.

To cull this growing problem, the department said, it will issue licenses to about 200 sportsmen to kill 30 bears, or 7.5 percent of the estimated 400 bears in the state. However, said Frush, people cause many of their own bear problems when they feed them, leave trash uncovered, and commit other unwise practices.

"I think it's the instinct of the animal versus the stupidity of the people that causes the problems," said Frush. "They've become nuisances because we've created nuisances."

Frush also said the department needs to be more certain of the bear population figures, to consider non-lethal alternatives, and to impose tighter oversight measures to ensure that no more than the proposed 30 animals are killed.

The delegate pointed to bear hazing techniques successfully applied in Mammoth Lakes, Calif., by Steve Searles, a bear expert who discussed his methods at the news conference. Searles' techniques include using rubber bullets, pepper spray, and even noisemakers, some of which Peditto said the department routinely employs.

However, Peditto said, Searles' techniques were used in an area with a different bear density than Maryland, which has about 400 bears in about 1,000 square miles in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties. "We can't use that tool in this landscape," Peditto said.

Activists said they were also concerned public opinion was overlooked in the administration's haste to promote hunting interests. The agency, they said, announced its plans before the public comment period concluded Feb. 13.

"This is indicative of how much disregard this agency has for public input," said Michael Markarian, president of the Fund for Animals.

Opponents of the legislation said the department is doing a good job of managing the state's resources, however, and said they fear the bill would strip the agency of its authority.

"We feel this bill is not about bear hunting," said Steve Huettner, president of the 12,000-strong Maryland Sportsmen's Association. "It's about who is going to manage Maryland's resources. "We feel DNR [officials] are the ones who should be making this decision and this bill would take that power away from them."

Added To

and 2003, the improvements included two new 100-gallon per minute wells on the Arthur Green property, a new 400,000-gallon water storage tank, and a water treatment plant located on Negro Mountain.

The former Garrett County Sanitary District had entered into a cost-sharing arrangement with Grantsville to purchase 40 percent of the new capacity to supply the Keyser's Ridge area with water.

Another amendment to the master plan pertains to properties along Memorial Drive that were annexed recently by Oakland. Town officials intend to provide water and sewer service to approximately 20 residential customers in this area.

They had also attempted to annex properties along and adjacent to Windy Lane, just off Memorial Drive, but met strong opposition from residents. The Garrett County Health Department, however, has now requested that Oakland "correct" failing wells and septics in the Windy Lane area.

The town officials are now looking into providing water service to this area and may annex it. "It is the responsibility of the citizens of this area to petition the town for annexation," stressed Oakland councilman Jay Moyer. He noted that the town had tried to annex the area before, but was turned down.

The Health Department will require properties within 100 feet of the new line to be connected to the system. If the Windy Lane area is not annexed, its residents will pay out-of-town rates for the water service, said Oakland mayor Asa McCain.

"Before construction," said Moyer, "everyone will receive information about cost estimates." Town official have preliminary cost estimates for the project. The next step will be hiring an engineer who will draw up plans and provide an engineering estimate. He estimated that the project would take one to two years to complete.

Though there is nothing definitely lined up yet, the town is looking into MDE funding for the project, noted McCain.

The third new amendment to the county's water and sewer master plan involves Accident. The town constructed a sanitary sewer collection and treatment system in 1974 to provide service to approximately 200 customers.

The system, however, has had a considerable amount of inflow and infiltration (I&I) that has plagued its operation since its inception, according to county officials. The sewer system has been upgraded and extended during the past 30 years. In 1980, it was repaired through manhole-seal replacement and spot repairs. In 1994 and 1996, the MDE ordered that portions of the system be repaired and replaced in an effort to eliminate I&I.

Problems, however, continued to hamper the operation of the wastewater and treatment system. In October 2000, the MDE issued another complaint and consent order to Accident. The town is under a new construction restriction from the MDE until effluent permit limits can be achieved.

Accident hired Thrasher Engineering Inc. to evaluate the sewer system and compile an I&I report, which will be used for a sanitary sewer collection and treatment plant improvement project. The study recommended sewer line renovation in addition to wastewater treatment plant upgrades.

Collection line improvements consist of sewer system U-lining and manhole replacements or rehabilitation. Approximately 23,000 linear feet of 6-inch, 8-inch, and 10-inch sewer line will be rehabilitated with a high-density polyethylene deformed/reformed pipe liner. A robotic cutter will reinstate customer service lines. Approximately 77 manholes will also receive rehabilitation work.

Improvements to Accident's wastewater treatment plant will increase treatment capacity to 90,000 gallons per day from the existing 50,000 per day discharge limits, according to officials.

In order to increase the capacity, three new 30,000 gallon concrete treatment basins will be installed, replacing the two existing 25,000 gallon steel basins. A new aeration system and flow control valves will be installed, all along with an Auger Monster screening system. According to officials, this screening system should assist the town in controlling system grit.

Additionally, Accident wants to adopt a new sewer-use ordinance, which prohibits resident connections of unallowable flow sources such as down spouts and year drains. No additional customers will be served through completion of this project.

AURORA/EGLON

SNYDERS OBSERVE 45TH ANNIVERSARY

Jackie and Alma (Donham) Snyder of Aurora were guests of honor at a surprise dinner on the evening of Jan. 31, in celebration of their 45th wedding anniversary, which was Feb. 14. Their children and spouses, Jack and Barbara Snyder, Alan and Lesa Snyder, and John and Sue Shillingburg, planned the event which was held at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. Also in attendance were the couple's grandchildren and other family and friends.

MOUNTAINEERS MEET

Although the January meeting of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club had been cancelled because of bad weather, storms subsided long enough for the Feb. 9 meeting to take place. "Love and a Snowplow" was the topic for devotions presented by Caitlin Norwish, Trevor Spaid, and Sara Lewis.

Jennifer Anderson led the club in the 4-H and American flag pledges.

Renee and Josh Mullenax, representatives of the Preston County Livestock Association, spoke to the members about the rules and obligations of showing and selling project animals at the Buckwheat Festival.

This meeting provided the last chance for members to add or drop projects, or to drop from membership.

Two members, Sara Lewis and Caitlin Norwish, entered photos in the county 4-H photo competition.

Items of new business discussed were the Preston County 4-H Day events and West Virginia Beef Expo Cookoff to be held April 17 at Jackson's Mill. The next meeting is planned for March 8, at which time they will be constructing bluebird houses.

Jonathan Blamble gave a demonstration on his plans to make his 4-leaf clover exhibit for his "This Is 4-H" project. An illustrated talk about clothes of the 1980s and a demonstration on how to make homemade soda were presented by Katelyn Harsh. Caitlin Roth demonstrated how to properly fold a shirt, and her talk concerned the common notions found in a sewing box.

Twelve members, two leaders, and five parents were in attendance.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER

The Mt. Grove VFD will sponsor an all-you-can-eat buckwheat cake and sausage dinner on Sunday, March 7, from noon until 5 p.m., at the Mt. Grove Community Building, located 3 miles south of Silver Lake along U.S. 219. Adults pay $6, children 12 and under $3, and proceeds are for building improvements.

"THE LENTEN ROAD" BEGINS WEDNESDAY

Union District Ministerial Association has chosen "The Lenten Road" as the theme for the 2004 Lenten Services, held each Wednesday evening, at 7:30. The first service will be Feb. 25, Ash Wednesday, at St. John's Lutheran Church with the Rev. Keith Pittsnogle speaking on "The Road to Damascus." All are urged to attend this series of "road trips."

MOUNTAIN LIONS TO MEET

The Mountain Lions Club meets tonight, Feb. 19, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building, for a spouse's evening. Mrs. Edna Rothwell, newly assigned principal at Aurora Elementary School, will be the guest speaker.

At the March 18 meeting in the Union Ambulance squad hall, guest speaker will be Michelle O'Connor.

AAHS SEEKING INFORMATION

The Aurora Area Historical Society is looking for old photographs, stories, or histories of homes or businesses, and any pertinent information to the era of 1920-1950. Members are attempting to map the district, and a Sunday, March 7, meeting is being planned to which all are invited to attend at 3 p.m. Schools, churches, and cemeteries are included in needed photos and history.

CONFERENCE SET AT GC

At a conference planned for March 27 at Garrett College, West Virginia and Maryland heads of agriculture, Gus Douglass and Louis Riley, will be present to address statewide problems and solutions. Other guests will be Beverly Williams, founder of the American Home-Based Businesses Inc., and C.J. Eades, owner of Marketck, LLC. Seminars will focus on the particular needs and interests of those trying to develop and market home-based businesses. Persons may call David Moranat at 304-735-6413 or Cheryl DeBerry at 301-334-6960 for further information, or visit www.more farmmoney.org.

PERSONAL MENTION

Kathy Collins returned last week to her home at Horse Shoe Run. Her husband, David Collins, remains a patient in a Morgantown medical facility, where he had been admitted prior to her release. Their daughter, Kim Miller, has returned to her home at Moorefield.

Hassaleah Snyder was released Thursday from Preston Memorial Hospital and has returned to her home at Amboy.

Willie Lantz was a recent surgical patient in a Cumberland hospital. He is a son of Bill Lantz, Aurora

Donald Roth of Horse Shoe Run was a patient in a Pittsburgh hospital last Tuesday for medical evaluation. He is a patient this week in Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Louella Fike returned Sunday to her home at Aurora from a visit in Belington with Carolyn VanHooten.

Dick and Janice Myers of Shenandoah Junction were Thursday afternoon visitors in Aurora with his aunt, Jessie Fedorow.

Maple Spring Church attendees were treated to a covered-dish Valentine dinner on Sunday. Games and door prizes completed the day's entertainment.

The body of Leona Whitehair Madden, 85, of Cumberland (Corriganville), was returned Saturday to Cumberland for burial. She was born at Horse Shoe Run, a daughter of the late Roy and Bertha (Snyder) Whitehair. Preceding her in death were siblings, Lester, Carl, Chester, Robert, and Lenora, and her husband, "Matt" Madden. Mrs. Madden had been in Hagerstown, living with her daughter, Ella May Riezer, and died in a nursing home there, where she had been a patient approximately two weeks. She is also survived by one grandson.

Ted Stieringer of Aurora is recuperating satisfactorily from heart surgery on Friday, Feb. 13. He hopes to continue recuperation at his home.

Mary, Shawn, and Craig Rembold of Aurora and Kristen McCasky of Oakland were Sunday guests in Pittsburgh with Mrs. Eileen Rembold, Shawn and Craig's grandmother.

Sadie Hawkins Poem Afternoon Set In Petersburg

The public is invited to a Sadie Hawkins Poem Afternoon on Sunday, Feb. 29, from 2 until 4 p.m. at the Moomau Library in Petersburg. Sponsored by the Grant County Arts Council, the event is free.

"You may bring a favorite poem to share or just come to listen," said a council spokesperson.

Persons requiring accessibility assistance may contact the Arts Council at P.O. Box 988, Petersburg, WV 26847 or at gcac@beaconnet.net before the event.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

TERRA ALTA PUBLIC LIBRARY

Terra Alta Public Library received a grant from Libri Foundation, Books For Children. A special evening was dedicated for these books to be displayed. The library chose to display the books: "In Honor of Howard Metheny." Howard has been a lifetime friend and worker of the library. Howard was mayor of Terra Alta in 1972 when the library first opened its doors. He built and put up the first shelves in the back room of the former Terra Alta Town Hall. He then went onto the board of trustees for the library and has served there for 31½ years. Most of those years he has been treasurer. Howard retired from the Terra Alta Bank with 44 years of service there, but has stated that he plans to stay on the library board.

Several of the Summer Reading Program participants came out to share the evening with Howard: Amber Kope, Trisha Martin, Alecia Hart, Jessica Martin, Mason Hart, Christy Moats, and Mary Noland. Other board of trustees members present were president Wayne Williams and secretary Lynda Hopkins.

The books that were from the Libri grant were references and fiction. They covered baseball, Christmas, poetry, and quotations. Favorite authors of the fiction were Vera Williams, David Adler, Patricia MacLachlan, Zilpha Keatley Snyder, and Cynthia Rylant, to name a few. The students attending that evening had first choice of the new books. Lots of smiles and easy choices were made.

The Terra Alta Civic Club has made its yearly donation to the library. This has been a wonderful happening for several years. This year all the donation went toward new books, which are as follows: The Last Juror by John Grisham, The South Beach Diet by Arthur S. Agatston, M.D., The Perfect Day by Richard Paul Evans, Amateur Marriage by Anne Tyler, Crown Jewel by Fern Michaels, Noblest Invention by Bicycle Magazine editors, and The History of America's Stock Car Tracks by Kathy Persinger. The Terra Alta Civic Club, formerly, Terra Alta Junior Women's Club, was also very active in setting up the library when it first opened.

The cataloging of the obituary files is moving right along. Several letters of the alphabet are now complete and indexed. Genealogy researchers are appreciative of this helpful information.

The Arts

TICKETS REMAIN FOR ROMANCE IN D – Tickets remain for Our Town Theatre's production of Romance in D, written by James Sherman. The show will be given Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week (Feb. 19, 20, and 21) at 8 p.m. Theatre-goers also have the option of having dinner before the show on either the 19th or 21st (dinner on the 20th is sold out, but tickets remain for the show that evening). Tickets for just the show are $5; tickets for dinner and the show are $25 and there are accommodations for up to 20 people for the dinner each available night. The doors will open at 6 p.m. for dinner guests. When the meal is finished, these guests will be allowed their choice of seats before the rest of that evening's patrons are admitted at 7:30. (Reservations for the dinner theatre guests must be paid for in advance and will not be refunded.) The story revolves around Charles (played by Matt Eary, seated) and Isabel (Sue Lisantti, also seated), both middle-aged loners. Charles lives alone with his music and books, and Isabel, a poet newly separated from her husband, moves in next door. When Isabel's father (Bruce Steele, standing) arrives for a visit, he meets Charles's mother (Judy Bertsch, also standing) and their friendship quickly turns to romance. This leaves the door open for the younger couple to make their own romantic connections. "All in all, the play is a comic illustration of love's ability to blossom under unlikely circumstances," said Jane Avery, director. For more information or to make a reservation, persons should call the theatre at 301-334-5640.

GARRETT GALAXY, a celebration of the performing arts in Garrett County, is scheduled for this Saturday, Feb. 21, in the auditorium of Garrett College, McHenry. The annual showcase of local talent, sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council, will feature folk and traditional music by the Richard Kusy and Susan Weisbrod, a duo known as Allegheny (pictured above). Presenting dramatic and musical excerpts from Our Town Theatre's recent production of Valley Song will be Richard Hill and Chelsea Davis, pictured above right. Vocal selections will be presented by Adam Sincell, pictured below. Other scheduled performers will be the Glades Players (dulcimer music), the Mountaintop Dixieland Jazz Band, and the Anchored Quartet (four-part a cappella harmonies). Admission to the show, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., is free. Additional information is available on the Garrett County Arts Council web page, found at www.garrettarts.com, or by telephoning the council at 301-334-6580.

OTT To Offer Senior Citizen Drama Classes

Our Town Theatre (OTT) will offer creative dramatics classes to senior citizens in its desire to serve as many facets of the community as possible, said Jane Avery, artistic director of OTT.

The first class will take place on Wednesday, Feb. 25, 1:30-2:30 p.m., at the theatre. Admission is free.

Avery will instruct seniors in theatre games, comedy, storytelling, drama, oral interpretation, singing, stage movement, skits, and other dramatic activities.

"I'm not going to set age limits," Avery said. "Everyone is welcome!"

For more information, persons may call the theatre at 301-334-5640.

Shattering Glass To Be Discussed By Teen Readers

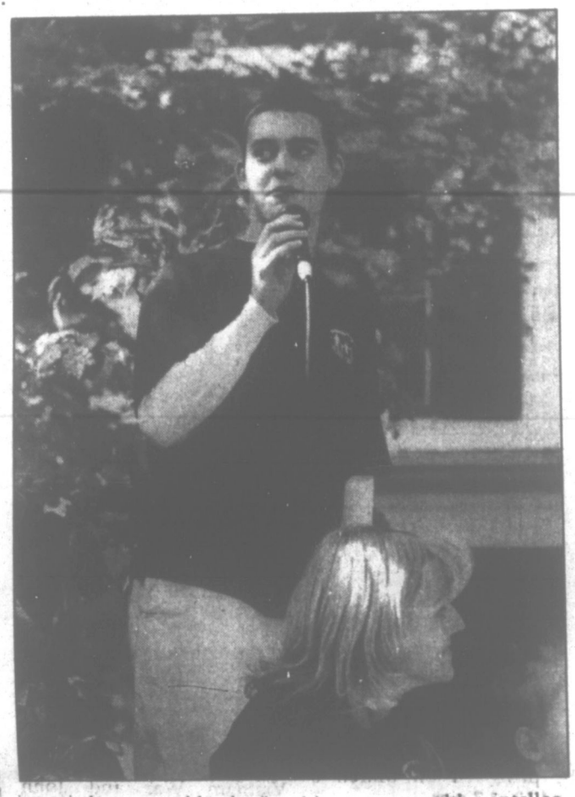
The Ruth Enlow Library Teen Book Club will meet at 2 p.m. on Saturday, March 6, in the Oakland library to discuss Shattering Glass by Gail Giles. All students 12 and older are encouraged to attend. Amazon.com's editorial review said the work is "an enthralling first novel that evokes William Golding's Lord of the Flies and Robert Cormier's The Chocolate War. Giles employs a brilliantly original structure to layer present and future in an exploration of the consequences of following a charismatic but amoral leader."



As the book itself opens, readers are told, "Simon Glass was easy to hate....I guess, really we each hated him for a different reason, but we didn't realize it until the day we killed him."

The publisher's description elaborates as it states: "Fat, clumsy Simon Glass is a nerd, a loser who occupies the lowest rung on the high school social ladder. Everyone picks on him — until Rob Haynes shows up. Rob, a transfer student with charisma to spare, immediately becomes the undisputed leader of the senior class. And he has plans for Simon.

"Rob enlists the help of his crew — wealthy, intellectual Young, ladies' man Bob, and sweet, athletic Coop — in a mission: Turn sniveling Simon from total freak to would-be prom king.

"But as Simon rises to the top of the social ranks, he shows a new confidence and a devious side that power-hungry Rob did not anticipate. And when Simon uncovers a dangerous secret, events darken. The result is disquieting, bone-chilling...and brutal."

Published in Sept. 2003, Shattering Glass has earned a 4½-star review from each of the 28 readers who have submitted a review to Amazon.com. The book was nominated for inclusion in the lists of the American Library Association's 2003 Best Books for Young Adults; the 2003 American Library Association Quick Picks; and the Booklist Top Ten Mystery for Youths.

Persons may visit the Oakland library or call 301-334-3996 to reserve a copy of the book.

The library offers four book clubs serving children in first grade through adults, and further information is available on the library Web site at www.relib.net or by calling the number above. All book clubs are funded in part by the Friends of the Library.

Jeremiah People To Perform At Springs Church

The Jeremiah People, an American Christian musical theater company, will perform at Springs Mennonite Church on Feb. 25 at 7 p.m.

For almost 30 years, according to a spokesperson, the Jeremiah People have been on the "cutting edge" of Christian music theater, entertaining audiences throughout the United States with Christian drama and music for the entire family.

Composed of seven actors/musicians, the Jeremiah People continue their tradition of laughter, tears, and relevant ministry using drama, music, and testimony, noted the spokesperson.

The church is located at 1686 Springs Rd., Springs, Pa.

Award-Winning Play Slated At Frostburg State

A benefit performance of Eve Ensler's Obie Award-winning play, The Vagina Monologues, will be presented at Frostburg State University at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Feb. 27-28. The performance is the culmination of more than a week of events marking V-Day, a campaign to stop violence against women and girls around the world.

This is the third year FSU has marked V-Day as part of the College Campaign. Through V-Day campaigns, local volunteers and college students produce annual benefit performances of The Vagina Monologues to raise awareness and funds for anti-violence groups within their own communities. In 2003, nearly 1,000 V-Day benefit events were presented by volunteer activists around the world. V-Day, a non-profit corporation, distributes funds to grassroots, national, and international organizations and programs.

Hailed by The New York Times as "funny" and "poignant," The Vagina Monologues, which was first performed off-Broadway by the author, delves into the mystery, humor, pain, power, wisdom, outrage, and excitement buried in women's experiences. Ensler has performed the play throughout the world.

The weeklong V-Day observance at FSU begins with the Clothesline Project on Thursday, Feb. 19, from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Lane University Center Manicur Assembly Hall. On Monday, Feb. 23, at 6 p.m. in the Cordts Physical Education Center Leake Room, Ronda Pick from the Family Resource Crisis Center will speak about ways to guard against sexual assault. The University Programming Council will sponsor poet Dana Gilmore, who will read in the Lane University Center Loft at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 25.

This benefit production is sponsored by FSU Women's Studies Program, the Feminist Majority Leadership Alliance, Amnesty International, Alpha Phi Omega and the University Programming Council. Tickets are $5 for students and $10 for non-students, and may be reserved by calling 301-687-7462.

Youth Drama Classes Continue At Our Town

The creative dramatics workshops at Our Town Theatre, held on Saturdays, will continue on Feb. 28. Persons may make required reservations for these workshops by calling the theatre beginning on Feb. 22 at 301-334-5640. Reservations must be made by 5 p.m. on Feb. 27.

The Kidstuff workshop, designed for children in grades K-5, will be held from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Coolstuff, for youth in grades 6-8, will be held from 1 to 2:30 p.m. The cost is a modest donation to the theatre.

BONNIE RIDEOUT TO PEFORM AT FSU — The Bonnie Rideout trio Scottish Fire will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 6, in the Pealer Recital Hall at Frostburg State University. A three-time U.S. Scottish fiddle champion, Rideout has performed on stages from Scotland's renowned Edinburgh International Festival to Washington, D.C.'s, Kennedy Center, and she is a popular fixture of the annual McHenry Highland Festival. Her fiery fiddle playing will be accompanied by Steve Holloway's driving Celtic percussion rhythms and Bryan Aspey's dynamic guitar. For further information, or to purchase tickets, persons may call the FSU Box Office at 301-687-3137, or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES.

Potomac State To Present Rock Show Footloose

Footloose, a rock musical, will be presented at the Church-McKee Arts Center on the campus of Potomac State College of West Virginia University next month.

Opening night will be Thursday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m., with shows continuing on March 5, 6, 11, 12, and 13. Two Sunday shows will be given on March 7 and 14 at 2:30 p.m.

"The play centers on Ren McCormack (Matthew Hawkins), a rebellious teenager who moves from Chicago to a small conservative Iowa town where time seems to have stopped for the local teenagers. In this classic tale of rebellious youth, it's the adults who learn a valuable lesson from the town's teenagers," a spokesperson said.

For reserved seating and advance tickets, persons may call 304-788-6863. Tickets will also be available at the door during each performance. Potomac State College students are admitted free with their student ID.

CHAUTAUQUA PLANS BEGIN – Plans have begun for the Chautauqua Festival which will be held at Garrett College Sunday, July 4, through Thursday, July 8. Pictured below are Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett College, Beth Johnson, executive director of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, and Steve Schlosnagle, execute director of the Garrett County Arts Council. The three organizations are the co-presenters of the free, five-day festival, which is held under a huge tent on the college lawn. July 4 marks the third year of celebrating Independence Day with the Garrett Community Concert Band. This event is sponsored by Sincell Publishing Company with sponsor partner Sandra and Ihor Zakaluzny. "The American Environment: Voices and Choices" will provide living history portrayals July 5 through 8. These will include Henry David Thoreau, Teddy Roosevelt, Rachel Carson, Meshach Browning, John Garrett, and more. These portrayals are made possible by the Maryland Humanities Council, with sponsor partner Heilig Plumbing and Heating. For more information, persons may contact the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival at 301-387-3082 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Ukrainian Egg-Decorating Class Slated At Garrett

A one-session course in Pysanky, the ancient Ukrainian art of decorating eggs, is set for Saturday, March 13, from 9 a.m. to noon at Garrett College. Edna Stinefelt will instruct the class, which will impart a technique that began in eastern Europe thousands of years ago.

"The egg has always been regarded as a symbol of rebirth and renewal," said Stinefelt. "In the spring eggs were decorated with special symbols and used as charms for health, good luck, bountiful harvest, and warding off evil. The colors and designs are thought to have powerful influences to protect and bring good fortune. When Christianity came to Europe, many of the old pagan symbols merged with those of the new religion. Today Pysanky plays an important role in the Easter celebrations of the Ukrainian people."

For further information, or to register, persons may call the college's Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

Registration is still being accepted through Tuesday, Feb. 24, for a "Fundamentals of Acting I" class that began yesterday (Feb. 18) at Garrett College. The three-credit course meets from 10:10 to 11:40 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays for the remainder of the spring semester.

Taught by professor Ben Sincell, who has a long record of accomplishment in the fine and performing arts, the course emphasizes the basic principles of acting. Among the topics that will be covered are relaxation and concentration, movement and mime, imagination and improvisation, dramatic action, and knowledge of theatrical space.

The course is free for Garrett County senior citizens, who may register for the course for credit or audit it. There are no prerequisites.

For additional information persons may contact Sincell at 301-387-3016. To register for the class, persons may contact Connie Meyers at 301-387-3044.

FSU Theatre To Present Popular Musical Working

Frostburg State's University Theatre will present the musical Working at the Performing Arts Center on Friday and Saturday, March 5 and 6, and Thursday through Sunday, March 11-13, at 8 p.m. each evening. Matinee performances will be presented on March 6 and 13 at 2 p.m.

Based on Studs Terkel's 1972 best-selling book of interviews with ordinary American workers, Working is a "musical celebration of the anonymous many whose lives touch ours everyday without our realizing it," noted a spokesperson. Created by Stephen Schwartz (Godspell) and featuring a variety of songs by five additional composers including James Taylor and Mary Rodgers, the story "reflects the grievances, hopes, and dreams of the unsung heroes and heroines of the American workforce."

Variously influenced by pop, folk, rock, blues, and country music, songs like "Millwork," "Brother Trucker," "Just A Housewife," "Neat to Be A Newsboy," and "If I Could've Been," capture the "poetry of the everyday and admirably honor the ability of the human spirit to transcend even the most demeaning job."

Tickets are $5 for students and $10 for the general public. For reservations and information, persons may call the FSU Theatre box office weekdays at 301-687-7462.

David L.G. Stancill

To the Editor:

Over the past two weeks the 2004 presidential election has begun to take shape with what appears to be Senator John Kerry running against President George Bush. Though I am certain that eventually these two will begin to debate the real issues facing this country, such as the loss of manufacturing jobs, escalating budget deficits, health care, and education, at this time both parties seem more absorbed with trying to cast the opposing candidate as lacking patriotism. The mud slinging centers on President Bush's National Guard service record during the Vietnam War and John Kerry's vocal protest of the war.

What bother's me about this debate is that by making an issue of Kerry speaking out against the war, one can infer that the Republicans are trying to suggest that the Vietnam War was a just war; a war that America should have been engaged in. I do not mean to be disrespectful of American veterans, especially those who served in Vietnam. Certainly, many men and women felt they were fighting for all the right reasons. Many others, though, were only following their commander's orders. The Vietnam War resulted in 58,000 dead American men and women, and for what? Nothing good came out of the war. The communists were not stopped.

In the same way that this administration has sold out and sold us on Iraq, they are now trying to rewrite history and resell the Vietnam War. Since when does a man who was wounded in action, who was a decorated veteran, and who returned home to an awareness of the senselessness of the war become an unpatriotic American? I don't get it!

As in Vietnam, some troops in Iraq feel they are fighting for a just cause. Some are fighting because they are commanded. The only difference today is that all the troops fighting chose to be in the military. Which of the troops in Iraq are most patriotic, those who stand behind the cause or those who don't agree, but still follow orders?

For me, when people say we should support our troops in Iraq it means I will pray for their safekeeping and swift return home. But am I unpatriotic if I do not agree with the rationale given by this administration for fighting this war in the first place?

Before March 18, 2003, I never once woke up and said, "Gee, I sure hope Saddam doesn't come and get me today." Our leaders sold us on a war in Iraq. I want my money back; I want a refund! I want my money spent on AIDS, SARS, chicken flu, and research for the millions of mutating viruses that could potentially plague the world. These are the things that worry me.

I also want my candidates to debate real issues, not who is the most patriotic.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Mr. John R. McEwen's letter to the editor in last week's edition of The Republican. I would like to commend you, Mr. McEwen, for exercising your right to freedom of expression and your right to freedom of speech. However, I also have these rights, and I take issue with your opinion about the proposed cross to be erected near the overlook flag.

First of all, the constitution says that congress shall pass no law prohibiting the free exercise of religion or the establishment thereof. This also means that you, Mr. McEwen, shall not prohibit it either. To the best of my knowledge, the honorable and well respected Rev. Mel Menker and his Christian friends purchased the property with private funds. No taxpayer dollars have been spent in purchasing this property or in the funding of the proposed cross. They are expressing their right to freedom of religion because it means a lot to them and they have the right to do so.

If you so choose, you can purchase a piece of property and erect a symbol to whatever you want as well. It is your right. Why are you offended by their expressing their constitutional rights? What part of the constitution do you take issue with? After all, you are trying to discourage them from this project and therefore are discouraging them from their rights as Americans.

Second, as for the Jewish Star of David or the Muslim Crescent, maybe it would be a nice addition to the project as well if the community and others could agree on it. Why not? As long as taxpayer money is not being spent on these projects, there is nothing wrong with them. That is their right as well and people fight for that right every day and no one, not even you, Mr. McEwen, can take that right away. That is what the flag stands for.

Third, the proposed cross would not show that Oakland discourages other religions and beliefs; it shows that the community embraces religion and freedom and shows that the citizens of Oakland and Garrett County are open-minded to freedom of religion or, if you so choose, no religion at all. It is a symbol of unity, not division. That is something that we should cherish as Americans and not discourage.

Fourth, you made it sound like it is bad to express freedom of religion. That in itself is a closed-minded view that discourages unity.

Last, if you are so offended by the proposed cross, I suggest you go to our lovely Oakland Wal-Mart and support our community with your funds, whenever you purchase window blinds so as to not see it out your window. Or perhaps, move to another location, where freedom of religion is not important, and you won't feel so underpinned, like China. This matter is not political; it is a matter of freedom and the expression thereof. Thank you.

To the Editor:

I was elated to see so many people other than those of the Humane Society, Animal Shelter, and Animal Issues Advisory Commission at the recent meeting of the commissioners concerning the proposed ordinance for animals. Thanks to the many people who showed up from long distances in severe weather to support the new proposed ordinance and ask questions.

It was great of Dr. Dona Alvarez to close her office and send her staff to support the new ordinance, as she had surgery and could not attend herself. Her office manager, Ellen Green, is Humane Society treasurer. Dr. Alvarez is a great financial supporter.

Also, we are grateful to Dr. Deal for his presence and comments. He knows quite well what it is to see so many abused animals.

Someone dropped a kitten off at my residence with part of its intestines protruding. On the way to the hospital I held it in my arms and it purred all the way. I watched Dr. Deal with sadness in my heart put the little dear to sleep to relieve its suffering because someone didn't care enough to have its mother spayed.

From May to August 1, 60 litters of kittens were dropped off at the shelter, with 4-8 in each litter. That is a lot of unwanted creatures – God's creatures.

Letting farmers continue to let cats multiply is where most of the abuse is. I'm sure they don't beat the cats, but providing no vet care to prevent disease and sickness, no human touch, and over-breeding are all abuse. As I stated at the meeting, the farmer who came to my house for a sack of cats said all the cats he had were wild and diseased and they had to shoot them. When God gave man dominance over animals, I don't think he meant this kind of care.

A special friend of mine who was raised on a farm said they always had two cats. They were spayed and were fed warm milk at feeding time and had vet care. They kept the barn free of mice. Dozens of cats can kill mice faster than they (the mice) can reproduce. Then what? They go looking for food elsewhere, thus feral cats wandering around kill birds, etc.

As for the person who talked of my 39 cats, but didn't know if I had any dogs, yes, we are down to 13 dogs from 22, 10 years ago. Old age affects animals also. We also have two horses, ages 19 and 21, and a pony 16 yrs. old. We have as many as 90 ducks and geese on our two ponds. Our "momma bear" who wanders our property helps herself to the grain put out for the ducks and geese. No Humane Society money goes to care for our animals. We pay for everything they need!

The 12 of us who worked for nearly four years on the Animal Issues Advisory Commission have all seen much abuse of animals. It was the animals' welfare we were mostly concerned about.

The ladies at the animal shelter do a great job caring for animals. Like members of the Humane Society, they could write a book about the horrible abuse of animals. Of course, it wouldn't sell. After the first chapter no one could stand to read it.

I'm also sure our law enforcement people could tell some pitiful stories of animal abuse they have seen while making calls on their own and with the Humane Society and Animal Shelter people.

Many people support the Humane Society – Dick and Gayle Miller work hard heading our "Christmas in July" event. Judy and Ken Carbone had a birthday party to help us and the animals at the shelter. Memorials such as from the Mel Foley family and Frankie Sweitzer family went toward the spay/neuter program. The students from Broad Ford are selling doggie biscuits to support our cause. All the donations from almost every business in the county and any private citizens help support our spay/neuter program.

Even though some people do not support us, when they call for help they are never turned down.

I commend our three commissioners for their decision to support the new ordinances. It was the right thing to do. These men and their county administrator are very supportive in many ways.

Our biggest gratitude goes to our Creator, who has made it possible for us to be financially secure through monetary gifts from the above-mentioned so we can care for the animals. I care for animals to please Him and myself.

A final note – the fee for license is basically a donation for the prevention of cruelty to animals. I'm sure those who truly care for animals will not miss a few dollars for this cause. If there is a problem, call me. We will discuss the problem.

Lakers Hit 100 Points In Three Games, Advance In Tourney

In an outstanding display of offense, the Garrett College men's basketball team not only won four straight games this past week, but scored exactly 100 points in three of them.

Coach Dennis Gibson's squad whipped host Baltimore City last Thursday, 100-82, embarrassed visiting Harford CC on Friday, 100-56, and got past Southern Maryland in overtime on Saturday, 83-79, also in McHenry, to conclude their regular season.

The Lakers then whipped the College of Southern Maryland again Tuesday night, 100-84, in an opening round of the Maryland JUCO Tournament, also played at Garrett.

The Lakers (24-3) went into the JUCO tourney seeded #2 among 16 teams, while Southern Maryland was 15th. Garrett will now face #7 Montgomery College-Rockville on Friday, as Rockville defeated #10 CCBC-Essex on Tuesday.

Garrett trailed the Red Devils of Baltimore City at halftime last Thursday, 35-34, but erupted for 65 second-half points to record the 18-point victory.

Akeem Scott led the Lakers in scoring with 26 points, while Adam Morgan finished with 15 and Jermond Harper scored 10.

The game was riddled with fouls, and four players on each team fouled out before the final buzzer. There was a total of 88 free throws, with the Lakers taking 42 of them and the Devils shooting 46 times.

James Taylor led Baltimore in scoring with 19 points, Fernando Moore netted 15, Nevan Lewis scored 14, and Victor Molen recorded 13.

Morgan was the top scorer for the Lakers in Friday's easy win over Harford, as he finished with 21 points, 15 of which were recorded from three-point range. Antonio Alston scored 16 points and James Hippolyte finished with 12.

The Lakers took control of the contest in the early moments and never looked back, going into the locker room at halftime with a 45-25 advantage.

Recording a game-high 26 points for Harford was Jason Peterson.

Scott played an excellent game for Garrett in the first meeting with Southern Maryland, as he finished with 23 points, nine assists, seven steals, and four rebounds.

However, teammate Morgan led all scorers with 25 points, hitting six three-point buckets in the process.

Darvus Gray added 10 points and six rebounds, while Darren Stackhouse finished with nine points, four rebounds, four steals, and four assists.

Once again the Lakers started slowly, and trailed their visitors by a 36-28 margin at halftime. A foul shot by Southern Maryland with 12 seconds left in regulation tied the score at 72 and sent the contest into overtime.

Scott scored the Lakers' final six points of the overtime period, on four free throws and then a lay-up with 30 seconds to play.

Doug Cornwell led Southern Maryland in scoring with 24 points, Ryon Rabon scored 14, and Robbie Brisco finished with 10.

The third game in 48 hours seemed to take a toll on the Lakers. "We really played tired, especially in the first half," Coach Gibson said. "They outplayed us through most of the game, and did a great job of making us shoot over their zone."

Having three days to recuperate seemed to do the trick for the Lakers, who scored 50 points in each half of Tuesday's game against Southern Maryland.

Setting a college record with 11 three-pointers for Garrett was Adam Morgan, as all 33 points of the 6-7 freshman's game-high total were recorded from long range. He made 11 of 17 attempts from outside the arc.

Akeem Scott also reached double figures with 18 points, and also dished out six assists. Recording eight points apiece were Stackhouse, James Jones, Gray, and Lavonti Jeter.

Jeter also grabbed eight rebounds, Stackhouse had seven, and Pat Carwile contributed six assists.

The Lakers held a 50-33 advantage at intermission.

Adam Halborson was the top scorer for Southern Maryland, finishing with 17 points. Doug Cornwell recorded 12 and David Sarbarcher finished with 10.

Southern Maryland concluded the season with a 6-21 record.

"They played hard against us," Coach Gibson said. "But this time we did a better job of matching their intensity, and we were able to capitalize on our quickness to attack offensively.

"Also, when Adam Morgan is hitting like that from the outside, it's tough to defend us using a zone."

The Lakers' next tournament game against Montgomery County-Rockville will be played at Prince George's CC this Friday, with the tip-off set for 6 p.m. If they are successful, they will advance the semi-final round and play at 6 p.m. on Saturday. The Maryland JUCO championship game is slated for 1 p.m. Sunday.

Allegany College of Maryland is seeded #1 in the tournament.

LAKER SCORING GOES WILD — The Garrett College Lakers ended their regular season and took the first step forward in the Maryland JUCO Tournament this past week by pouring in the points, scoring a total of 383 in just four victories and reaching the century mark in three of those games. Garrett rolled over Baltimore City, 100-82, last Thursday; flattened Harford, 100-56, on Friday; topped the College of Southern Maryland in overtime, 83-79, on Saturday; and whipped Southern Maryland again Tuesday evening in JUCO tournament action, 100-84. Setting a Garrett record for three-point baskets in the tournament win Tuesday night was Adam Morgan, pictured above left sending up one of his 17 attempts from outside the arc. He drained 11 of those attempts for a game-high 33 points and an effectiveness average of just under 65%. Above right, Laker Jon Mann is met with tremendous resistance in trying to go for a lay-up, which put him at the foul line. The Lakers, who are now 24-3 overall, are the #2 seed in the 16-team JUCO tournament and will next face Montgomery College-Rockville, seeded #7, this Friday at Prince George's CC. The tip-off is set for 6 p.m. Photos by John McEwen.

Laker Women Crush Cardinals, Fall To Howard; JUCO Ahead

After decimating Catonsville by 50 points Friday, 93-43, the Garrett College women's basketball team let go of a 14-game winning streak Saturday against Howard in a showdown for the Maryland JUCO regular season crown. The Lakers couldn't seem to buy a basket through the second half as they fell to the visiting Howard Dragons by a 74-62 tally. Garrett will likely have an opportunity for revenge this coming week in the Maryland Women's JUCO Tournament, which opens tomorrow in Hagerstown. (See below.)

Friday's 50-point win at Catonsville was paced by a pair of 16-point performances turned in by guards Jenna Bradford and LaSha Anderson. Tiffany McFarland recorded 13 points, Amanda Frantz contributed 12, and Tamika Duck 11. Lovarsha Knox added 10 rebounds and Beavers and Bradford each had nine. Denae Kennedy had eight assists, seven rebounds, five steals, and two blocks. Garrett led by 19 at the half, 42-23.

Saturday's contest was a battle of the best, as Garrett and Howard entered the fray with identical 11-0 JUCO marks.

Although GC opened strong in the evenly matched battle, and was up by a 39-38 margin at the half, the Lakers struggled through the second stanza while Howard surged into the lead. GC scored just 23 points as its normal shooting prowess turned stone cold over the second half, while the Dragons turned Garrett killers by racking up 36 points.

Only two Lakers hit for double figures in the contest, as Bradford scored 13 points and Knox recorded 12 points. Kennedy contributed 9 points, and Anderson had 8. Howard guard Kierra Wilkens paced her squad with 28 points, almost double her third-place JUCO average of 16.7 points per game. Forward Tierra Wilkens put up 23 points, and California native and fellow forward Caitlin McNiff recorded 13 points. Garrett may want to study up on those names for next season, because the Wilkens-Wilkens-McNiff trio is composed of three freshmen.

LaTonya Crowder 0 1-2 1, Denae Kennedy 3 0-0 6, Amanda Frantz 5 2-2 12, Ashley Liller 0 2-2 2, Jenna Bradford 7 2-2 16, LaSha Anderson 6 2-2 16, Tiffany McFarland 6 1-2 13, Lovarsha Knox 4 1-6 9, Tamika Duck 5 1-2 11, Autumn Beavers 2 2-2 7. Totals 93 14-22 44.

CATONSVILLE (43)
Swain 1 0-2 2, Blue 3 2-4 8, Jenkins 4 3-4 12, Geiger 6 0-0 13, Hugess 0 2-4 2. Curry 3 0-0 6. Totals 43 7-14 17.

Halftime - Garrett 42-23.
Three-point goals - Garrett 3 (Anderson 2, Beavers 1), CCBC 2 (Jenkins 1, Geiger 1). Total fouls - Garrett 21, CCBC 15. Fouled out - none.

JUCO TOURNAMENT

The Maryland Women's JUCO Tournament lies ahead, and second-seeded Garrett will debut tomorrow against seventh seed Allegany College of Maryland. That contest tips off at 5 p.m. at Hagerstown Community College.

Allegany finished in a three-way tie for fifth in the conference with a 6-6 record after Saturday's 63-50 victory over Montgomery-Rockville. The Trojans are 9-10 overall. Garrett prevailed in the two regular-season meetings with Allegany, winning 93-51 and 107-52. The winner of that contest will face the Prince George's-Harford winner on Saturday at 5 p.m.

Eighth-seeded Hagerstown (6-6) will host No. 9 Frederick (3-9) in the play-in game tonight for the right to play Howard on Friday at 7 p.m.

The other two quarterfinal games on Friday will have No. 4 Baltimore City (9-3) playing No. 5 Cecil (7-5) a 1 p.m. and No. 3 Prince George's (10-2) meeting No. 6 Harford (6-6) at 3 p.m.

The JUCO championship game will be played Sunday at 2 p.m.

HUSKIES NABBED BY PANTHERS – It was nip-and-tuck Tuesday night in the Cove, as Northern and Hancock battled through 32 minutes of evenly matched basketball. When the smoke settled, the visiting Panthers took the game by a 54-47 margin, the biggest difference of the night. Senior Jason Rice (#50) is shown at the left making a quick cut that gave him the jump on his Hancock defender, while classmate Billy Jones (#32), right, goes up for an uncontested lay-up after getting behind his man. Rice, Jones, and Andrew Frantz were each recognized as soon-to depart seniors during Senior Night ceremonies. NHS's regular season concludes tomorrow night at Westmar. Photos by John McEwen.

Husky Boys Edged By SHS, Catch Beall, Fall To Hancock

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team gave Southern a real battle Thursday night before falling by a narrow 50-46 margin (see SHS account), then took a thrilling come-from-behind 50-47 win over visiting Beall the next day. The Huskies dropped a 54-47 contest to Hancock Tuesday, and their record stands at 9-12 heading into the final week of the regular season campaign.

"We came out a little flat after that emotional Southern game," NHS head coach Paul Edwards said of his squad's hard-fought victory over Beall, "but we rebounded and pulled ourselves back into the game, and for the first time this season we won a really tight game. Brent Beachy really played an all-around solid game, and Chris Speicher showed his continuing development as our floor leader. Both of those sophomores helped us control the flow of the contest so we could do what we needed to do to win."

Beall took a 10-8 lead over NHS after one quarter, and was up 24-22 at the half. The never-say-die Huskies stayed close through the third quarter, which ended with the Mounties up by just one point, 36-35, then Northern lit up the scoreboard and its frenzied home crowd with a 15-11 fourth-quarter run that gave the hosts their rallying win.

Beachy led NHS with 14 points, and Speicher recorded five points while dishing out six assists. Senior Jason Rice added nine points. Beall's Carter Dickel had 12 points.

A big part of Northern's win was the Huskies' coolness at the free-throw line, especially in the final eight minutes. NHS nailed 16 of 27 foul shots, while the Mounties only netted four points from the charity stripe in nine attempts. Overall, Beall hacked away at NHS by committing 25 fouls, while Northern was whistled for only eight infractions.

Tuesday night's game against visiting Hancock was another hard-fought affair, but this time the Huskies came out on the losing end. The score was knotted at 13-all after one quarter, and at the half Northern had claimed a 27-26 lead. As the fourth quarter opened NHS was still up by one, 35-34, but the Panthers clawed back with a 20-12 run through the final stanza to take the win.

Sophomore forward Blake Walker paced NHS with 15 points, and senior Billy Jones, playing in his final game on the Cove court, scored 13 points and nailed a three-pointer from long range. Jeff Willison led Hancock with 20 points.

Northern won the junior varsity game by an unreported score.

The Huskies close out the regular campaign tomorrow night at Westmar.

Mt. Top League Results Reported

Midas upset Copeland's, 64-58, in the first game of the Mt. Top Basketball League on Sunday, despite a 35-point performance by Doug Copeland. Joe DiSimone and C.J. Getson led the winners with 18 and 16 points, respectively.

Mt. Top Paving ran away from Plaza Hobby, 75-63, in the second game behind a 32-point effort by Nathaniel Panther. Teammate Jimmy Yoder scored 17 points.

In the third game of the day, First United coasted past Smiley's, 81-57, as Antuon Townsend ripped the nets for 30 points and Jerry Merrick contributed 22.

Games slated for this Sunday will pit First United against ConDoerr at 1 p.m. and Midas vs. Mt. Top Paving at 2 p.m.

Rams Hang On To Edge Huskies; Up Record To 11-7

A clash between county rivals Northern and Southern in varsity boys' basketball last Friday in Oakland was truly the classic battle that so often occurs when the Rams and Huskies meet on the court or playing field.

The score was close from the opening tip-off to the final buzzer, with the Rams holding on for a 50-46 victory. The win improved Southern's overall mark to 11-7, while the Huskies dipped to 8-11.

Junior point guard Cory Bosley keyed the Ram win, as he scored 18 of his total of 20 points in the second half, including 13 points in the fourth quarter. He also went 7-for-7 at the foul line in the final eight minutes to ice the victory.

The Huskies led by a point at the end of the first quarter, 10-9, as well as at halftime, 21-20, as Brent Beachy recorded eight points in the second quarter. They were on top by three, 37-34, going into the final stanza.

The Huskies led by as many as five, 39-35, early in the fourth following a bucket by Jason Rice. Northern was up 41-39 with 3:53 remaining, but Bosley hit two free throws to tie the score at 41.

Blake Walker answered with a bucket to give the Huskies a 43-41 edge, but another pair of foul shots by Bosley with three minutes left tied it again.

A three-point play by Walker at the 1:51 mark put the Huskies back on top by three, 46-43, but those would be the final points scored by the visitors.

Two more free throws by Bosley cut Northern's lead to one, 46-45, with 1:03 left. The Huskies attempted to freeze the ball, but the Rams fouled. Following a miss on a one-and-one, Bosley put the Rams on top, 48-46, with a basket and a free throw with just 9.3 seconds remaining.

After a miss by Northern, the Rams regained possession, and Bosley was fouled again with 3.5 left on the clock. He secured the victory by hitting both free throws and concluding the scoring for the evening.

Also reaching double figures for the Rams was Corey Tressler with 12 points, and he also grabbed eight rebounds. Evan Lantz pulled down a team-high nine rebounds.

Beachy finished with 14 points to pace the Huskies, while Walker recorded 10.

The Southern junior varsity coasted to a 53-28 win in the preliminary game, with Joey Tressler scoring 21 points. Ryan and Bret DeWitt also reached double figures with 11 and 10, respectively. Tyler Southerly paced the Northern jayvees with nine points.

The Northern varsity rebounded with a win over Beall Friday evening and then fell to Hancock on Tuesday (see separate story). They will conclude their regular season at Westmar on Friday.

Ram Freshmen Whip Frankfort

The freshman boys' basketball team of Southern High School recorded a 42-33 victory over host Frankfort on Saturday behind a 15-point performance by Seth Fike.

Leading the Falcon freshmen was Eric Peer with seven points.

The 9-3 SHS freshmen, who are coached by Jon Hegeman, will face Bishop Walsh at 6 p.m. this evening in the Beall Freshman Tournament in Frostburg. Play in the tourney will continue Friday and Saturday.

NHS Girls Downed By 'Cats; Closing Vs. Falcons, Panthers

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team had one outing this week, which ended in a 43-28 defeat at the hands of Westmar's Wildcats.

The Huskies gave their hosts a run for their money through the first half, as the opening period ended with NHS down by a slim 7-5 margin, and at the half Westmar was up by only four, 19-15. The 'Cats began pulling away over the third stanza, which ended with the hosts holding a 32-21 advantage. An 11-7 Westmar run over the final eight minutes sealed Northern's fate.

NHS was paced by senior guard Lyndsi Butler, who netted 11 points. Sophomore center Sarah Stewart chipped in 8 points. The Wildcats' Megan Patton recorded a double-double of 16 points and 10 rebounds.

Northern's junior varsity dropped its battle by a 19-12 tally. NHS's Amber Savage and the hosts' Andrea Cleveland shared game-high honors with five points each.

The Huskies close out the regular season in their own friendly Cove confines, hosting Frankfort tonight and Hancock Monday. Both varsity contests will get under way at 7:30 p.m., following the jayvee battles.

SHS Rolls Up Sixth Straight; Flanagan Passes 1,000 Points

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball squad took its winning streak to six in a row this week with victories over Fort Hill, a tough Hedgesville squad, and Keyser. The action takes the Rams' record to 16-4.

The highlight of the week was Saturday's revenge win over Hedgesville, the sixth-ranked team in West Virginia, which had beaten Southern two weeks previously. The victory was sparked by the second lightning strike in a month, as senior Becca Flanagan passed the 1,000 point scoring mark early in the fourth quarter. Flanagan's superb game, which ended in 30 points overall for the forward, gained her entry into the same exclusive club that teammate Robbin Gregg joined last month.

Flanagan's accomplishment is especially noteworthy, as she has been hampered by injuries. The standout missed the start of this season with a leg injury. As usual, on Saturday the gritty athlete's left knee was swathed in a large bandage, but she put on quite a show for her delighted friends and family in the SHS stands, pouring in 22 points in the second half alone.

SHS's big week got off to a big start, as the Rams flew past Fort Hill Friday in a 77-55 victory. Southern held a slim 20-17 advantage after one quarter, then expanded its lead to 39-27 at the half. The flurry continued through the third stanza, which ended with SHS holding a huge 60-35 lead.

Gregg and Flanagan combined for 53 points, scoring 23 and 20 points, respectively. The dynamic duo turned in stellar showings on both ends of the floor, as Gregg dished out nine assists and snagged five steals, while Flanagan grabbed 11 rebounds. Tamisa Page had 13 points for the Sentinels.

SHS's junior varsity took a one-point squeaker, 34-33, behind 13 points scored by Sarah Stephens. Chelsea Root had eight for FH.

Saturday's huge come-from-behind was a clinic for not only Flanagan, but Gregg and Justine Pagenhardt as well. Flanagan, who scored 30 points in passing the 1,000-point barrier, also grabbed eight rebounds, sank 8 of 11 foul shots, and hit 11 field goals. Gregg added 13 points, and handed out an amazing 14 assists, believed to be a school record. Senior forward Pagenhardt turned a number of those scoring passes into buckets as she netted 21 points. Hedgesville was paced by Jennifer Hoffman's 22 points.

SHS needed every point from every one of its players to take the game, as the Rams were down 23-21 after one quarter and 37-35 at the half. Southern roared back to take a 54-51 advantage as the third quarter ended. Gregg and the other Ram guards worked hard to get the ball inside to Flanagan during the fourth quarter, and the senior responded with 10 points in the clutch over the final eight minutes. Hedgesville fouled her repeatedly as the Eagles tried to stop the strong forward, and Flanagan responded by hitting 8 of 10 free-throw attempts. The game was a physical battle throughout, and the visiting Eagles lost three players to foul trouble down the stretch.

SHS lost a close jayvee battle by four points, 35-31. Stephens recorded 11 Ram points.

The Gregg-Flanagan-Pagenhardt trio formed another winning nexus for the Rams last night at Keyser, as the three paced Southern to a 53-48 victory in a hard-fought battle.

The Golden Tornado hosts blew SHS away in the first quarter, taking an early 18-8 advantage on their way to an 18-11 lead after one quarter of play. The Rams rebounded in the second quarter behind seven points by Pagenhardt and Gregg's six-point tally to take a two-point lead at the half, 32-30.

Gregg scored another six points in the third quarter, which ended with the Rams up 42-40. Southern had a big scare late in the fourth quarter, when Keyser's Lacy Rohrbaugh nailed a three-pointer to cut a four-point SHS lead to one, 49-48. The Rams responded when Gregg sank both ends of a clutch one-and-one with 17 seconds showing to put Southern up 51-48. With 2.5 seconds remaining, Flanagan aced a one-on-one opportunity of her own to give the guests their five-point victory.

Gregg and Flanagan combined for 34 points overall, netting 19 and 15 points, respectively, while Pagenhardt contributed 11 points. Flanagan also hauled down 11 rebounds and snagged six steals, Gregg recorded sever assists, and Pagenhardt grabbed six rebounds. Keyser's (10-11) Rohrbaugh took game-high honors with 26 points.

The Rams' junior varsity dropped a 23-20 contest, despite Sarah Cosner's game-high 11 points. The hosts' Dominique Blowe had eight points.

The Rams host Tucker in their final home game tonight at 7:30 p.m. (6 p.m. jayvees), and end the regular season Saturday in a make-up game rematch at Fort Hill. The 1A West Region playoffs get under way Monday, March 1.

SHS SENIORS SHOW THE WAY — The storied tradition of the superb Southern High School girls' basketball team will be turning to a new chapter after this season, as the Rams will lose six seniors to graduation. Among that group are guards Robbin Gregg (#15), left, and Justine Pagenhardt (#10), right, who are shown during Friday's win over visiting Fort Hill. During victories this week over the Sentinels, Hedgesville, and Keyser, the duo combined for a total of 93 points, and adding in classmate Becca Flanagan's 65-point tally over the week, the Ram "perfecta trifecta" of Gregg/Pagenhardt/Flanagan accounted for a mind-boggling 158 points in just three outings — including Flanagan's 1,000th career point. The senior Rams will be bade farewell during tonight's 7:30 p.m. regular season home closer against Tucker. Photos by John McEwen.

Umpires Meeting Slated At SHS

The Appalachian Umpires Association will host a meeting for all umpires at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 25, at Southern High School. The session will take place in the health classroom in the gymnasium complex.

Any persons interested in umpiring local high school and summer league baseball games should attend, according to a spokesperson. All current umpires and those interested in becoming certified by the National Umpires Federation must attend.

For further information, persons may call Dave Bender at 301-334-4390.

Oakland Hoops Results Noted

The Oakland Basketball League reported the results of three contests played on Sunday.

Westvaco flattened Fox's Pizza 82-44 as Tim Braithwaite netted a team-high 18 points. Chuck Fitzwater scored 11 points for Fox's Pizza.

Mettiki scraped out a three-point, 50-47 win over Quality Machine. Joe DiSimone paced Mettiki with 18 points, while Stan Eggleston recorded 12 in the Quality Machine defeat.

Markwood's Citgo edged M Acres Boys 68-63, in a contest that featured the day-high scoring tallies. Rick Selders had 20 points for Markwood's Citgo, while Tobi Stoner contributed 20 points to M Acres Boys.

Oakland Basketball League match-ups scheduled for this Sunday will feature Westvaco vs. Mettiki at 6 p.m., Markwood's Citgo vs. Fox's Pizza at 7 p.m., and M Acres Boys vs. Quality Machine at 8 p.m.

Local Runners Perform Well In Collegiate Events

Three local students who are on collegiate track and field teams performed well for their respective squads in events held over the past two weeks.

Beth Sauder, a senior at Frostburg State University, finished fourth in the mile run and 12th in the 800-meter run for the Frostburg State University women's team in the West Virginia University State Farm Games, held Feb. 7 in Morgantown.

Sauder, a graduate of Southern High School, recorded a time of 5:38.6 in the mile run and a time of 2:33.74 in the 800.

She also set a personal best in the 800 run this past Saturday in the Bucknell University Winter Classic at Lewisburg, Pa. Her time was 2:31.20.

Northern High graduate Ron Lipscomb finished 10th in the men's mile in the Morgantown event with a time of 4:44.43. He is a junior at FSU.

Meanwhile, at the Susquehanna Orange & Maroon Classic in Selinsgrove, Pa., Northern graduate Kristin Lander of Elizabethtown College was a member of the fourth-place 1,600-meter relay team. She and her teammates set an Elizabethtown record in the event with a time of 4:13.35.

Lander, a junior, also placed eighth in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 9.98 seconds.

SMC Members Win Trophies In State Tournament

Fifteen members of the Southern Mat Club traveled to the first-ever Maryland Elementary and Middle School State Wrestling Championships last weekend, and eight of the local wrestlers came home with trophies.

The team garnered four first-place awards, one second-place award, two thirds, and a fourth. This was the first time Maryland has sponsored a statewide wrestling championship for youth, similar to those held in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Fifty-six teams with 350 wrestlers participated in the tournament, which was held at a Baltimore high school.

"It is clear from the results that we have some of the most accomplished young wrestlers in the state," said Terry Murphy, the mat club's president. "When it came time for the awards ceremonies, Southern Mat Club was being announced right and left. Coaches wanted to know: Who are these kids from western Maryland? All of our hard work at practices and other tournaments paid off."

Winning first-place awards were Coy Ozias, Jakob Scheffel, Ryan Bennett, and Lex Ozias. George Scheffel won a second-place trophy; Scott Cooper and Lee Custer took third-place trophies, and Gavin Murphy brought home a fourth-place trophy. Jason Warnick and Nick Brandt also wrestled.

Some of the club's newer up-and-coming young wrestlers also traveled to the state tournament, including Dalton Cooper, Travis Newton, Justin Ashby, Matthew Shaffer, and Davey Sweitzer.

"This tournament gave

GC AIRMAN SEEKS SPONSORS FOR U.K. RACING CIRCUIT – Oakland native Randolph Kitzmiller (shown above and below), a U.S. Air Force airman stationed in the United Kingdom since 1999, took up motorcycle racing just two years ago and has already progressed a long way on the British racing club circuit. He made his second straight appearance in the North Gloucester Road Racing Club's 600 and Open championships this year on his 1997 bike, but has hopes to convert a 2002 road bike for next year's races. Financial sponsorship in the sport is all but impossible to obtain, as most of the "big name" sponsorship money goes to a few top racers, leaving the club racers – the real core of the sport – desperate to find the means to continue racing. To that end, the racing Brits have established "Adopt-a-Racer," a non-profit Web site that provides an opportunity to help sponsor a specific racer through a secure Internet link for as little as 10 British pounds per month (approximately $19 U.S.). "I can't imagine life without motorcycles," Kitzmiller said. "When I read about Adopt-a-Racer, I thought it was too good to be true. Financial sponsorship, no matter how small, would be very appreciated and go toward petrol, tires, entry fees, and replacement parts." The Adopt-a-Racer site can be viewed at www.adopt-a-racer.org.uk, and Kitzmiller said he would be happy to answer questions about his avocation via e-mail at rkitzmiller@hotpop.com.

Rams Crush Wildcats, 76-6; End Regular Season At 13-1

Winning eight individual divisions via pins, the Southern High School wrestling team flattened host Westmar last night, 76-6, upping the Rams' dual meet record to 13-1 and concluding their regular season.

The Rams won 13 of the 14 bouts against the Wildcats on eight pins, one decision, and four forfeits. The only Westmar win of the evening was a pin by Eric Beeman in the 152-pound division.

Southern pins were recorded by Josh Armstrong (103), Greg Graham (112), Justin Ratliff (119), Daniel Carr (125), Andrew Pritts (130), Jeffrey Gregory (140), Jason Weeks (171), and Dan Goulart (275).

Justin Fitzwater won by major decision in the 189-pound division, and forfeits were awarded to Nathan Sines (135), Jeremy Gregory (145), Scott Wildesen (160), and Chris Bennett (215).

The Rams will return to Lonaconing this Saturday, where they will be the favorite to win the Bi-County Tournament. Other teams that will compete in that event will be Northern, Westmar, Allegany, Beall, and Fort Hill.

SMC COMPETES IN FIRST STATE TOURNEY — For the first time ever, the state of Maryland held a state youth wrestling tournament, and members of the Southern Mat Club were among the competitors. It was an outstanding effort by the local grapplers, who brought home a total of eight trophies from the championships. Pictured above are the members of the club who participated. In the front row, from left, are: Lex Ozias, Dalton Cooper, Travis Newton, Justin Ashby, Coy Ozias, Gavin Murphy, Matthew Shaffer, Jakob Scheffel, and Ryan Bennett. In the second row are: Terry Murphy (coach), Scott Cooper, Nick Brandt, Jesse McComas, Davey Sweitzer, Lee Custer, Jason Warnick, George Scheffel III, George Scheffel II (coach), and Darryl Ozias (coach). In the photo at right is Jakob Scheffel (left) who recently placed second at the Tulsa, Okla., Nationals, earning the runner-up trophy from among 36 competitors in his age and weight division. He is pictured with the champion of the division, who edged Scheffel by a 5-3 decision in the championship bout. See story for details of the state tournament.

Husky Matmen End Regular Season By Crushing Preston

The wrestling team of Northern High School concluded its regular dual meet season on a positive note, recording an easy 66-15 victory over visiting Preston last Thursday.

The Huskies will head into this Saturday's Bi-County Tournament at Westmar with a 6-7 regular-season record.

Against Preston the Huskies recorded all of their individual wins either via pinfalls or forfeits.

Earning pins were Travis Glover in the 119-pound division, Jay Clark in the 125-pound clash, Eric Garlitz at 130 pounds, Michael Moyer in the 135-pound bout, and Michael Wolf at 145 pounds.

Awarded forfeits for Northern were Randy Wilhelm (103), Casey Kamp (112), Remington Friend (152), Brock Glotfelty (189), Shane Snider (215), and Jared Beachy (275).

Gaining pins for the Knights were Josh Gribble (160) and Daniel Miller (171).

The Bi-County Tournament at Westmar on Saturday will get under way at 11 a.m.

MONSTER

Rated R - Running Time: 1:51 - Released 12/26/03

I had no idea who Aileen Wuornos was until about two months ago when I saw a TV documentary about her, the release of which was timed in conjunction with this film. Aileen Wuornos, called Lee by her friends, was the Florida woman who made headlines in the early '90s as "America's first female serial killer." The validity of this label is somewhat faulty—there have been many women who committed more than one murder, but Wuornos, a highway prostitute who confessed to killing seven men from December 1989 through November 1990, had adopted the methods of the serial killer previously reserved for males: she killed strangers, she used a gun, and her crimes were done on separate occasions, with a "cooling off" period in-between (as opposed to a killing spree that takes place all at once). After more than 10 years on Florida's death row, she was executed by lethal injection on October 9, 2002.

Monster, written and directed by Patty Jenkins (her first feature film after a couple of shorts), is based on Wuornos's story; although it is as tragic and brutal a film as they come, it serves as an acting tour-de-force for Charlize Theron, who has already won the Golden Globe and been nominated for the Oscar in the Best Actress category. Also excellent is Christina Ricci in the supporting role of Lee's lesbian partner Tyria Moore (her name was changed to Selby Wall for the film), who famously took the stand and helped convict her former lover without ever making eye contact. While the performances of the two leads, who share the huge majority of screen time, make this an important film to see—unpleasant subject matter notwithstanding—its strange construction may annoy viewers who have knowledge of the Wuornos case. The film focuses on the relationship between the two women, but mixes up events, presents a misleading timeline, and gives short shrift to the trial, which included some of the most amazing aspects of the story. But the film, thanks largely to Theron's performance, does accomplish the difficult task of making its main character both a sympathetic protagonist and a brutal villain, the classic anti-hero(ine) which, if we cannot exactly get behind, we at least care about in some strange, pathetic way.

The film begins with a short overview of Lee's childhood, during which, under Theron's voiceover, we learn how she was ridiculed, sexually and physically abused, and/or rejected by just about everyone in her life, while clinging to the hope that she would be discovered someday and become a star like Marilyn Monroe. Then we cut to 1989, when we first see Theron as the adult Lee, sitting under a highway overpass in the rain, contemplating suicide. But rather than killing herself, she decides to go to a bar and spend her last five dollars. There she meets Selby (Ricci), a young lesbian, and the two hit it off—but Selby has family issues. She is currently staying with her extremely conservative aunt and uncle, because her father in Ohio has disowned her for being gay. Needless to say, they have no use for Selby's new friend, and forbid the girl from seeing her again. But Selby decides to leave their home and move into a hotel room with Lee, who promises to finance their life together by getting a real job. After a few ill-fated job interviews, she returns to turning tricks on the interstate for money.

The first murder occurs when Lee's client (Lee Tergesen) turns out to be a sadistic creep who ties her up, beats and sodomizes her, and obviously intends to kill her when he's done. She struggles free, shoots him several times, and steals his car and possessions, leaving his body in the woods. After returning to the motel room and cleaning up, she eventually admits to a horrified Selby that she killed a man, but that it was in self-defense. Soon, however, she begins offing every client who looks at her the wrong way, including a man who simply offers her a ride (Scott Wilson).

As is usually the case when a beautiful actress changes her appearance for a role (e.g., Nicole Kidman in The Hours or Salma Hayek in Frida), that itself is what has caused most of the buzz about this movie. Theron reportedly gained almost 30 pounds for the part and sports false teeth, stringy hair, and a freckle-covered face which transforms her (thanks in part to makeup artist Toni G.) from the glamorous Hollywood actress we all know into an uncanny resemblance to the real Wuornos. But it is her extremely raw, powerful performance that makes all the difference in my book. Theron's attitude, her walk, her body language are totally different from anything she's done before, and her behavior immediately after the first murder, like an animal after a successful hunt, tells us something about Lee that is of crucial importance; it is a major psychological turning point for the character. Admitting later that she hates men, she gets a chip on her shoulder, a sort of give-me-a-reason attitude with her subsequent clients, and her murders become more brutal, less "justified," and perpetrated on victims who are less and less threatening. Since Wuornos maintained throughout her trial that all her victims were rapists, but then suddenly changed that story just before her execution and claimed that only the first killing was in self-defense, it was of utmost importance that we understand this transition, and Theron and writer/director Jenkins have little difficulty pulling it off.

Meanwhile, Ricci is so effective at making Selby an innocent, impressionable young girl, easily led by Lee into a life of crime, we are able to sympathize rather than revile her—not a small task for a woman who was a lesbian and lover to a notorious cold-blooded killer. The movie does imply that Selby coerced Lee into one of the murders, but no such charges were ever brought against Moore (this may, of course, be the result of a plea bargain, but one of the rare consistencies in Wuornos's testimony was that Moore was absolutely innocent). Also on hand is Bruce Dern as Lee's only male friend, who tries to help her straighten out her life but ultimately has to watch her self-made destruction.

There are some strange choices made regarding the sequence of events in Jenkins's screenplay, which is reportedly based on Wuornos's own letters. First, the film makes it look like all the murders (we only witness four) took place in a few weeks; in truth they were spread out over almost a year. More importantly, the trial/execution period is covered at such a breakneck speed in the final reel, it omits or glosses over many of the most interesting things about the case, including Lee's numerous versions of the story in her testimony, her adoption by born-again Christian Arlene Pralle, her spiteful comments to the judge and jury after her conviction, and her bizarre last words. Regardless of flaws in the story line, however, the performances by Theron and Ricci make this unpleasant story one of the best films of 2003. ★★★★½

Adorable Adoptables

"PLEASE ADOPT ME," says this very friendly Siamese mix, who was brought in as a stray to the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Also available for adoption is a friendly female tabby, who was part of an unwanted litter and is now in search of some tender loving care. The male, red bone hound was picked up as a stray. "The big guy wants attention!" said a Humane Society spokesperson. There are also several other cats looking for homes. One is already spayed, and one is neutered. For more information about adopting these pets, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. The facility is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. and on Thursday until 6 p.m.

these newer kids an idea of what tough competition is like," said George Scheffel, who coaches the Southern Mat Club along with Darryl Ozias and Terry Murphy. "They gave it their all, and I expect to see some of them on the podium next year."

The Southern Mat Club has been traveling to tournaments virtually every weekend since late December. In January, Gavin Murphy, Jakob Scheffel, George Scheffel, and Jason Warnick wrestled at the Tulsa Nationals Competition in Oklahoma. Jakob Scheffel took second place out of 36 wrestlers in Division 3 (10 and under), at 76 pounds. He pinned his way to the finals, then lost that match by a 5-3 decision.

Also in late January, the club held its own tournament at Southern High School, attracting close to 300 wrestlers from Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. About 45 of the club's own members participated. Each team that entered the tournament put forward a 10-man roster to compete for team trophies, and the Southern Mat Club's 10-man team won.

The mat club coaches and officers note their appreciation to local businesses that lent support by advertising or donating food and other supplies for the home tournament. They also extend thanks to Coach Dave Taylor and his high school wrestlers and their parents, who helped with the event.

Day-of registration begins at noon on Saturday, and all participants and spectators are welcome. Dunk-day activities include music by DJ Jonny Rock, food offerings, a photo booth, an ice house, live remote broadcast by WKHJ 104.5, and the chance to meet television's Survivor Pearl Island castoff Trish Dunn, who lives in Annapolis.

Following the dunk in the afternoon, the Black Bear Tavern, McHenry, will host the official Post-Dunk Party from 5 until 10 p.m.

The Deep Creek Dunk is the final event in the three-part Winter Water Series. Last month, the MSP Polar Bear Plunge at Sandy Point State Park in Annapolis hosted 1,908 plungers and raised $500,000, according to the spokesperson.

"Taking part in this academic competition is an ideal way of making economics come alive for students," said Bender. "The businesses and markets are analyzed, and students buy and sell with real time quotes. They realize their role as a consumer much better as they investigate companies and see how supply and demand plays a role."

"Participating in the game has taught me more about the real world, because it has real life situations," said sophomore Katie Nichols.

"The winning team had to modify their strategies several times, and it was challenging to maintain momentum during the 10 week game. It's an excellent way to learn teamwork and the importance of decision making in a business setting," said Bender.

She concludes the unit of study about stocks with some financial planning advice for all her students: Investing should be seen as a marathon, not a sprint. Investing is a lifelong process, she added.

The stock market game is an academic competition that involves interactive and interdisciplinary activities that help teachers engage their students in the study of business and finance.

The Stock Market Game is the only market simulation endorsed by the National Council on Economic Education and involves more than 700,000 students and 25,000 teachers across the U.S. each year.

Local Truck Stop, Waitress Winners Of "Buck-A-Cup"

The Keyser's Ridge Auto-Truck Stop was named the top restaurant and had the top waitress in the 2003 Scottish Rite "Buck-A-Cup" The fund-raiser benefits the Cumberland Scottish Rite Speech/Language Disorders Clinic managed by the League for Crippled Children.

The Cumberland-based league provides free clinics for orthopedics, braces, cerebral palsy, and orofacial anomalies, including cleft lip and palate, to children birth age to 21 years in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania. The organizaiton began in 1926 and was incorporated in 1934. Karen Shaffer, M.S., R.N., is the executive director.

Participating in Buck-A-Cup at the Keyser's Ridge Auto-Truck Stop were manager Glenn Teagarden and waitresses Timmy Warnick, Joy Stewart, Tammy Bittinger, Charity Platter, and Sheila Rounds, who was also the waitress winner for the fund-raiser.

See story for details.

This is the first time the restaurant has participated in the fund-raiser. The waitresses donated their prize back to the league to help the children. The package will be raffled at the restaurant, with the drawing to be held April 7.

Other Garrett County businesses participating in Buck-A-Cup were Annie's Kitchen, Accident; the Funny Farm, Friendsville; and Smiley's Pizzeria, Deep Creek Brewery, and Pine Lodge Steakhouse, all of McHenry.

"Each year more restaurants come on board to support the league and to elicit some healthy competition among waitresses at the restaurants involved," said Shaffer.

"What the League for Crippled Children does for the children is to be commended," said David Glotfelty, Oakland Masonic Lodge. More information about the league is available online at leagueforcrippled-children.com

The next Cumberland Scottish Rite Project is the "Thing A Ma Jig," a local talent/variety show scheduled for April 23 at the Allegany College Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Auditions will be held of March. For more information, persons may call Jerry Robinette at 301-729-6778.

Driver Arrested After Driving In Wrong Direction

An Elkins, W.Va., woman was arrested after a Garrett County sheriff's deputy had to swerve off the road to avoid being hit head-on by her vehicle, which was traveling south in the northbound lane of Garrett Highway early Friday morning.

Elizabeth Ann McKay, 34, was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI), driving while impaired by alcohol (DWI), negligent driving, and failure to drive right of center.

The deputy turned around and made a traffic stop just south of Deep Creek Drive. McKay failed field sobriety tests.

Kindergarten Registration Program Set

The Garrett County Board of Education recently announced that the annual comprehensive preschool registration program will be held again this year. This program is for all children entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time in August.

This registration program, which will be held in all elementary schools during March and April, has been developed to help identify strengths and needs of children and to identify early any problems that may interfere with a successful start in school.

Parents must register any child who will be 5 years old by Oct. 31, 2004. The law allows exemptions to the school attendance requirements as follows:

•Permits compliance through the home school instruction regulation.

•Grants a one-year immaturity waiver if the parent or guardian makes a written request to the local school system.

•Allows a 5-year-old to be enrolled in one of three alternative program settings: a full-time licensed child care center, a full-time registered family day car home, or part-time in a Head Start 5-year-old program.

Parents of children who meet the above qualifications are asked to fill out the registration blank in today's issue of The Republican and mail it to the designated address. All parents registering children for school will receive a registration appointment. However, parents who choose to use one of the exemptions from the required 5-year-old attendance must request the appropriate exemption from the Department of Pupil Services at 301-334-8939.

State regulations require parents to provide evidence of birth (their child's birth certificate), an official immunization record, and documented proof of current residency. Documents accepted by the state of Maryland as proof of residency include: deed/mortgage agreement, current property tax bill, current rental lease or agreement, or current utility bill with applicant's name and address.

In addition, parents must complete an Affidavit of Disclosure to verify the residency of the student. Social Security cards are also requested at registration.

As a part of the comprehensive registration program, each child registering for school will receive a general health interview and dental screening. Immunizations, if needed, will be administered on site by the Garrett County Health Department nurses free of charge.

Statewide Fire Deaths Decline; Third Lowest

State Fire Marshal William E. Barnard has announced that fire deaths in Maryland in 2003 were the third lowest in state history. According to data received by Barnard, 71 persons died from fire during 2003, compared to 75 persons during 2002. The lowest all-time total was 62 persons during 1996.

Death from fire in residential occupancies far exceeds other occupancies in Maryland, with 59 deaths occurring in single-family homes, apartments, and mobile homes. This total is a modest decrease over 2002, where 63 persons died in similar occupancies.

An examination of the data also indicates electrical malfunction was the leading known cause of fatal fire in Maryland. Twelve persons died from fire caused by electrical malfunctions. Twenty-one fire deaths during 2003 remain under investigation where the exact cause of the fire has yet to be established.

In previous years, careless smoking has consistently been one of the leading causes of fire death in Maryland. In 2003, seven persons died from fires caused by careless smoking. Seven persons also died in 2003 from fires attributed to candles, which is a significant increase over past years. Cooking-related fires were the second leading cause of fire death in Maryland in 2003. Cooking-related fires resulted in the deaths of eight Marylanders.

Commenting on the reduction in fire deaths, Barnard credits the statewide effort to install, maintain, and test smoke alarms, along with families developing and practicing home fire escape planning as the key to surviving a home fire.

"The entire Maryland Fire Service has placed special emphasis on these life-saving steps, and we continue to encourage our citizens to be prepared for a fire emergency in their homes. Unfortunately, numerous fire deaths in Maryland in the first few weeks of 2004 remind us we have much work ahead of us to further reduce injury and death from fire," he said.

DAYTONA REVIEW

Junior PREVAILS

Son of the late Dale Earnhardt wins 'Great American Race' on fifth try

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Daytona Beach, Fla.

It took the great Dale Earnhardt 20 tries to win NASCAR's biggest race. His son, Dale Earnhardt Jr., took a step toward greatness of his own by outdueling talented Tony Stewart to win the Daytona 500 in his fifth try.

With no drafting help available, Earnhardt had to rely on his driving skills and the muscle of his No. 8 Chevrolet to drive by Stewart with 20 laps remaining Sunday. He led the rest of the way, waving to the crowd as he sealed the popular victory.

"This has got to be the greatest day of my life," an exuberant Earnhardt said in Victory Lane.

Stewart finished two car-lengths behind in second, ahead of rookie Scott Wimmer, who put a recent drunk driving arrest behind him to finish third. Kevin Harvick and Jimmie Johnson completed the top five, but they were not in the lead pack at the finish.

From start to finish, the day's events at Daytona International Speedway went off as if the principals were following some great script. President Bush flew in on Air Force One and participated in a patriotic extravaganza before the race in front of a packed house estimated at 180,000.

He stayed around long enough to see some door-to-door racing and a typical 12-car "Big Wreck" on the backstretch that left Michael Waltrip fuming about the rescue crew's delay in upright-ing his crumpled car so he could climb out.

Then, the 46th annual Daytona 500 reverted to an old-fashioned duel between two of the sport's top stars. The wild 43-car drafts of previous years disappeared, in large part because of a new "softer" tire that made handling and driving skill more important than aerodynamics and drafting deals between drivers.

Some, including Harvick, said the racing was boring, but few in the crowd seemed to feel short-changed.

In the end, Stewart and Earnhardt chased the checkered flag much like Lee Petty and Johnny Beauchamp in 1959, Richard Petty and David Pearson in 1976, Donnie Allison and Cale Yarborough in 1979, or the late Dale Earnhardt and numerous foes of the 1980s and '90s.

Earnhardt Jr. said he felt the presence of his father, who died on the last lap of the 2001 Daytona 500, while speeding around the historic 2.5-mile trioval.

"He was over in the passenger seat riding with me," Earnhardt said. "I'm sure he was having a blast."

For a time it looked as if Stewart would realize his own dream of winning at Daytona. He dominated the middle portion of the race, leading from Lap 85 to Lap 180.

Dale Earnhardt Jr. displays his trophy as he celebrates in Victory Lane after winning the Daytona 500 Sunday.

Then, during the final round of pit stops with 30 laps to go, Wimmer grabbed a big lead by taking two tires instead of four. The rookie said he thought he might be able to sneak a 500 victory, but it didn't work out because there were no potential drafting partners in position to help.

Driving all alone on the track, he led five laps before Stewart and Earnhardt teamed up, erased the lead and drove off to settle the victory between themselves.

With 20 laps to go, Earnhardt moved to the outside, and when Stewart moved up to counter, Earnhardt drove under Stewart on the frontstretch. Stewart momentarily regained the top spot, but Earnhardt prevailed with a move to the bottom in Turn 2.

From there, the race he so badly wanted to win was his to lose. And he didn't falter, calmly negotiating every lapped driver and countering every maneuver Stewart tried.

After coasting to a stop at the start-finish line, Earnhardt climbed from his car, waved his fists to the crowd, then jumped into the arms of his crew.

"I wanted to stand there with my team for a second and enjoy it with just them for a minute and hear the fans," he said. "I just wanted to let it sink in."

DAYTONA NOTEBOOK

Roush entries' engine trouble ends day early

By AL LEVINE
and RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Daytona Beach, Fla.

The biggest shocker of Sunday's Daytona 500 was the early exit with engine failures of two Roush Racing entries.

Mark Martin's No. 5 Ford lasted only seven laps before its engine blew. He finished 43rd.

Teammate Jeff Burton's No. 99 Ford made it through Lap 87 and then its engine gave out, relegating him to 42nd place.

The two quick failures followed an engine problem with Greg Biffle's No. 16 Ford in practice Saturday. Biffle had to change engines, costing him the pole.

It had been a successful Speedweeks for Roush Racing in which its new engine-technology alliance with Robert Yates Racing was being toasted. Yates' Dale Jarrett won the Bud Shootout, Biffle the Daytona 500 pole.

Sunday, the alliance had four drivers in the top 12. Yates' Elliott Sadler finished seventh in the No. 38 Ford; teammate Jarrett was 10th. Meanwhile, Matt Kenseth's ninth-place finish was the best among five Roush drivers. Biffle rallied from starting last to 12th, while Kurt Busch finished 16th.

Miscue costs Biffle

Biffle, the Daytona 500 pole-sitter, was in the top 10 after 40 laps and ran as high as second for much of the mid portions of the race. A miscue entering the pits and a run-in on the track with Tony Stewart dropped him to 12th at the finish.

"I felt we could get a top-5 finish, and I kind of threw it away for the team," Biffle said.

Harvick: Race 'boring'

Don't count fourth-place finisher Kevin Harvick among those singing the praises of the new softer tires and taller spoilers, changes that broke up the big packs at Daytona.

"Three-quarters of the race was pretty boring, if you ask me," Harvick said. "But it is what it is, and we'll do whatever they ask us to do."

TALK THE TALK

A guide to NASCAR terms

"Round"

A slang term for a way of making chassis adjustments utilizing the race car's springs. A wrench is inserted in a jack bolt attached to the springs. It is then used to tighten or loosen the amount of play in the spring. This loosens or tightens the handling of the car.

MEDIA TALK

Timely commentary on telecasts and press reports

Madison Avenue was Sunday's clear-cut winner, which lined up race winner Dale Earnhardt Jr. to pitch beer, brakes, rental cars, cellphones, auto parts and razor blades during commercials.

Pre-race entertainment: MTV's handprints were nowhere to be found. Instead of Kid Rock wearing Old Glory like a cape, we had LeAnn Rimes wailing "R.O.C.K. In The U.S.A." as American flags by the thousands were waved.

Racin' 101: The NBC choir wisely simplified restrictor plates and drafting for NASCAR newbies, as well as the rejiggered points system.

Yet the network, which benefits because it carries the season's second half with TNT, did not adequately address the format's critics.

WORD!

RENEÉ HANNANS / Cox News Service

"He is an awesome race driver and a great competitor and a great friend. It was great to be able to race him at the end."

Dale Earnhardt Jr.

Bush makes pit stop at Daytona

The most famous words in auto racing — "Gentlemen, start your engines!" — came in the form of an executive order at Daytona International Speedway on Sunday.

President Bush (at right with Bill Elliott) worked the race campaign-style from pit row to the grandstand suites.

He was met at every turn by enthusiastic cheers at the Daytona 500 and he returned the sentiment to a superspeedway filled with potential voters, especially members of the "NASCAR dad" demographic: white, middle-class conservatives.

It was also a chance for the president to make an appearance at one of the largest annual events in a must-win state — Florida — that he carried by a historically narrow margin in 2000.

Waltrip criticizes rescue

Michael Waltrip criticized the safety crews at Daytona for leaving him trapped in his car for about 10 minutes after a wreck on Lap 70 that involved 12 cars.

He was hit initially by the spinning car of rookie Brian Vickers, then Robby Gordon's No. 31 Chevy slammed into him on the infield grass. Waltrip's car flipped three times before it came to rest on its roof.

"When the car stopped, I was pinned way bad," said Waltrip. "I felt like I was in a box and I couldn't get out. I didn't appreciate the way the safety crews were going about it, and I was trying to tell them just to turn the car over."

Garrett College Scholarships Detailed In Free Publication

The scholarship book of the Garrett College Foundation, which provides information about scholarships offered for the college's 2004-05 academic year, is available at locations throughout Garrett County (see below). The scholarship application is included in the publication, and the deadline to apply for GCF scholarships is Monday, March 1.

There is no fee to apply for GCF scholarships, which are awarded based on competitive merit and/or financial need, and are available to prospective and current students, full-time and part-time students, and Garrett County residents and non-residents. Current Northern and Southern high school juniors who are considering enrolling in the college's Early College Admissions Program (ECAP) for the 2004-05 academic year may also apply.

With its open-door admissions policy, Garrett College admits all high school graduates and GED recipients. Interested persons may apply for GCF scholarships without having applied to the college for admission, and individuals who submit a GCF scholarship application are considered for every scholarship administered by the foundation.

The GCF scholarship book is available from the Garrett College Financial Aid Office at the McHenry campus, and the college's Oakland and Grantsville centers. Northern and Southern high school students, as well as other high school students throughout the tri-state area, may contact their high school guidance office to obtain a copy.

Reference copies of the scholarship book are available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library and at the Garrett College Library. The scholarship book may also be viewed on the GC Web site at www.garrettcollege.edu/foundation.

For further information, persons may contact the GC Financial Aid Office at 301-387-3083.

Earns Shenandoah Dean's List Honor

Joshua Bosley of Oakland, a business administration major in the School of Business at Shenandoah University, Winchester, Va., was named to the 2003 fall semester dean's list.

Bosley is a senior at Shenandoah, where he carries a 3.8 grade point average. He is a member of the Hornet baseball team, and was selected by his teammates to serve as co-captain of the squad.

A 2000 graduate of Southern High School, Bosley is the son of Craig and Todd Bosley.

Read. Then Recycle.

On Dean's List

Sarah Knighton-Wisor was recently named to the fall 2003 semester dean's list at the University of Maryland, College Park, by Edward Montgomery, dean of the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences.

Sarah, a 2003 graduate of Glenelg High School, Glenelg, is the daughter of former Grantsville resident John Wisor and his wife, Jane Knighton, of Glenwood. Sarah is also the granddaughter of Mary Jane Wisor, Accident.

MLP Church Slates Presentation By Local Missionary

Don Stephens, a missionary serving in Sarajevo, Bosnia, will be at Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park on Sunday, Feb. 22, at 7 p.m. He will discuss his experiences, tell stories, and perform sacred music and ethnic Bosnian songs on the piano.

Stephens, a native of Westernport, has served with the missionary organization YWAM (Youth With a Mission) for the past 10 years. He is a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan College and has traveled as a Christian missionary and musician to Hungary, Japan, Brazil, Indonesia, Costa Rica, Mexico, the Philippines, and throughout the United States.

For the past six years, he has lived in Sarajevo, where he has primarily performed missionary outreach among Muslim university students from Bosnia and other countries, including Iran and Iraq.

The concert is free to the public, although a free-will offering will be taken. Faith Evangelical Free Church is located at 1009 Maryland Highway. For directions or other information about the church, persons may visit its Web site at mindspring.com/~faithfreechurch.

For more information about Stephens, persons may visit don-bosnia.faithweb.com.

SHS STUDENTS PLACE NATIONALLY IN CURRENT EVENTS CONTEST

Two different teams of students at Southern Garrett High School recently placed among the top 20 in a national current events contest. Bobbie's Flying Buttresses achieved first place in the state of Maryland and 15th nationally. Joe's Jivin' Jesuits finished 2nd in Maryland and 19th nationally and Calvin's Predestined Rams were 3rd in Maryland. The News-Bowl Contest is a current events contest. The Cumberland Times-News donated daily newspapers for students to use as they studied current events. After two months, September and October, the students participated as a team in answering 50 current event questions. The national quiz was taken over the internet on a specified date. "The contest is a great teaching tool for me," said Mr. Bender, "it motivates the kids and myself to make sure we pay attention to what is happening in the news and discuss how these events affect all of us. It is fun for the students because they cover all aspects of American culture, not just national and international news. One of the most important skills we must teach our youth is the habit of paying attention to, understanding, and discussing the events that affect all of our lives. The first line for the defense of liberty is vigilance."

2004-05 ECAP APPLICATIONS DEADLINE ANNOUNCED

Juniors who are interested in the Early College Admission Program need to pick up application packets this month if they are interested in enrolling in the program for the 2004-05 school year. Deadline for applications to be turned in to the Guidance Office is April 15. Prospective ECAP students also have the opportunity to apply for the James Nordeck Scholarship, which has an application deadline of March 1, 2004. This scholarship would assist a student to attend Garrett College in 2004-05. Interested students need to contact Mrs. Sincell in the Guidance Office as soon as possible. Parents who have questions can also contact Mrs. Sincell by calling the Guidance Office at 301-334-1660.

Former 'Freaks' star now on NBC's 'ER'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Linda Cardellini

Q: Is the woman playing Sam, the new nurse on "ER," the same actress who played one of the teens in "Freaks and Geeks"? –Gina via e-mail.

A: Yes. Linda Cardellini, the 28-year-old actress who plays Samantha Taggart on "ER," previously played Lindsay Weir in the critically acclaimed but low-rated 1999-2000 NBC dramedy "Freaks and Geeks."

Cardellini also recently finished reprising her movie role as Velma Dinkley in the 2004 feature comedy "Scooby-Doo 2: Monsters Unleashed."

Q: In the sitcom "My Two Dads," who played the other dad opposite Paul Reiser? Who played the daughter and what else has she done? –Vic in Columbus, Ohio.

A: In that 1987-1990 series, Greg Evigan ("B.J. and the Bear") played Joey Harris, the "other dad" to Nicole Bradford (Staci Keanan in her TV series debut).

Since "Dads" ended its run, Keanan has co-starred in the sitcoms "Going Places" and "Step by Step."

Q: Is the lady who played Mrs. Landingham on "The West Wing" really dead, or did I see her playing God on "Joan of Arcadia"? I could have sworn I saw her picture flashed in a memorial tribute at some awards show. –Donna Montgomery, Lutz, Fla.

A: I am delighted to report that actress Kathryn Joosten, who was so memorably crusty on "The West Wing," is still very much with us and, yes, has a recurring role as "Old Lady/God" on CBS' hit family drama "Joan of Arcadia."

Since her character died in a traffic accident on "West Wing," Joosten has been very much in demand, guest starring on shows including "Less Than Perfect," "The Drew Carey Show," "Charmed," "Hope & Faith," "Monk," "Judging Amy" and "Even Stevens."

Q: Is the dog playing Eddie on "Frasier" the same dog that appeared in the early episodes of the show? –B. Mccleery via e-mail.

A: No. Canine performer Moose, the original Eddie, became too old to perform all his stunts on the long-running NBC sitcom, although he continued to attend rehearsals during this, the final season.

That's Enzo, Moose's son, you see in episodes nowadays. The two also shared the title role in the hit movie comedy "My Dog Skip."

St. Mark's Sets Soup Suppers, Lenten Services

St. Mark's Lutheran Church, 6 South Second Street, Oakland, will begin its observance of Lent with a worship service on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 25, beginning at 7 p.m. The Rev. Theodore Bessey, pastor, will preside and preach at this service, which will include the imposition of ashes and the sacrament of holy communion. Lenten services will follow each Wednesday in Lent through Wednesday, March 31. The preaching theme for the Wednesday evening services is based on Jesus' prayers on the way to the cross.

Each Lenten evening service will be preceded by a soup supper at 5:45 p.m. There is no charge for the supper. A free-will offering will be received to benefit a designated charity to be announced.

All are welcome to attend both the soup suppers and the worship services. For the soup supper, persons are asked to enter at the Center Street door and proceed down the stairs to the fellowship hall. Following supper, the worship service will be held in the sanctuary.

Sunday worship services during Lent, both at 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., will include the sacrament of holy communion.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled for this week at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Further information on the programs, and the park's snowshoe rental concession, can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

•Sat. 2/21: "Tricky Tracks," a one-hour activity during which participants will learn to identify various animal tracks and make their own casts of tracks, will begin at 10:30 a.m. ($1 per participant); and "Living with Maryland's Black Bears," a one-hour naturalist's presentation, will provide information on bruin biology and behavior, and tips on how to humans can co-exist with the animal.

•Sun. 2/22: A U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service bird bander will present "A Bird in the Hand," a 45-minute activity that will include the trapping of several wild birds, at 10:30 a.m.; and a winter scavenger hunt will get under way at 1 p.m.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• One of the most well-known poets in the English language is George Gordon, Lord Byron. During his lifetime he was also well-known, as much for his questionable lifestyle as for his literary work. When he died at the age of 36, he left behind a manuscript of his unpublished memoirs. Evidently, the contents were potentially damaging to some people still living. Several interested parties managed to acquire the manuscript and burn it — even before Byron was buried.

• Many people object to the proliferation of billboards, saying that this form of advertising detracts from the natural beauty around it. And most people think of billboards as a relatively new blight on the scenery, but this isn't so. The first billboards on record in the United States were erected during the Civil War.

• Author Colette made this observation about her profession: "Sit down and put down everything that comes into your head and then you're a writer. But an author is one who can judge his own stuff's worth, without pity, and destroy most of it."

• Before he became famous, James Cameron — director of 1997's blockbuster hit "Titanic" — was a machinist and a truck driver.

• Cats have a better sense of smell than humans do, but you might wonder just how much better. Well, the average cat has about 19 million cells devoted to the detection of odors, while the average person has only 5 million.

• Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite and the man who established the Nobel Prize, was also very accomplished in other areas of study. By the time he was 17 years old, he was fluent in Russian, English, French, German and, of course, Swedish — his native tongue.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 29, 1915, in South Carolina, the minimum age allowed by law for workers in mills, factories and mines was raised from 12 to 14 years old. Though child labor was largely curtailed by the mid-20th century, it is estimated that today child labor makes up between 2 percent and 10 percent of the workforce in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East.

• On Feb. 26, 1929, in a controversial move that inspires charges of Eastern domination of the West, Congress establishes Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming.

• On Feb. 27, 1936, Shirley Temple receives a new contract from 20th Century Fox that will pay the 7-year-old star $50,000 a film.

• On Feb. 23, 1940, folk singer Woody Guthrie writes one of his best-known songs, "This Land is Your Land." He died in 1967, having lived long enough to see his music inspire a whole new generation and "This Land is Your Land" become a rallying song for the civil-rights movement.

• On Feb. 25, 1956, American writer Sylvia Plath meets her future husband, Ted Hughes, at a party in Cambridge, Mass. In 1962, Plath discovered he was having an affair, and the following year she committed suicide at age 30. "The Collected Poems," published almost two decades after her death, won the Pulitzer Prize for poetry in 1983.

• On Feb. 24, 1968, the Tet Offensive ends as U.S. and South Vietnamese troops recapture the ancient capital of Hue from communist forces.

• On Feb. 28, 1994, in the first military action in the 45-year history of NATO, U.S. fighter planes shoot down four Serbian warplanes engaged in a bombing mission in violation of Bosnia's no-fly zone.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Reader's Digest

Q. I have several issues of Reader's Digest from the 1940s. Who can I contact to sell them? — Marie, West Warwick, R.I.

A. The bad news is that there is little or no interest in older issues of Reader's Digest. In most shops, they are either discarded or sold for a few cents per copy. For a second opinion, you want to contact Mike Sandusky, owner of Million Magazines, 221 E. Sixth St., No. 125 rear, Tucson, AZ 85705.

Q. I have shoes that feature glass beads on them. They appear to be quite old. Who can I contact to find out if they are worth something as a collectible? — Kathleen, Grove City, Minn.

A. One of my favorite vintage clothing shops is How Sweet It Was, 419 North 4th Ave., Tucson, AZ 85705. There are several excellent reference books available, too, including the user-friendly "Valuable Vintage: The Insider's Guide to Pricing and Collecting Important Vintage Fashions" by Elizabeth Mason (Three Rivers Press, $18.95).

Q. I have a pair of eyeglasses that are quite old. Who can I contact to sell them? — Charles, via e-mail

A. Dr. J. William Rosenthal buys, sells and appraises items connected with vision, including spectacles, lorgnettes and opera glasses. His address is 3434 Prytania St., Suite 250, New Orleans, LA 70115. John Boggs wants to buy pre-1960s glasses only. His address is P.O. Box 88833, Seattle, WA 98116. ### Another Solution to Dueling Housecats

Q. In regard to your advice to the owner whose two cats had stopped getting along, may I offer my own advice?

You offered behavioral tips, but based on my experience — which was somewhat similar — a good solution may be to get a third cat. Ideally, bring a kitten into the house. It will create a new order in the household and may give both cats a mutual project. As long as the kitten is easygoing and playful, I assure you that after six months the adult cats may not be buddies, but they will both be distracted by the new, playful ball of attention. Neither will have to find a new home. — Jamie F., Scottsdale, Ariz.

A. Thanks, Jamie, for providing another perspective on the common but troublesome problem of dueling housecats. A third cat may subdue their rancor somewhat. Owners, be certain that your home is large enough to support three cats and that you can afford the extra time and cost involved (including veterinary bills).

And while we're on the subject, why not take a look at a couple of books on cats?

The "Cat Owner's Manual" by Dr. Bruce Fogle (DK Publishing, $25) is a beautiful, full-color reference on the basics of cat care, from picking a kitten to finding out about different disorders and diseases. This would make a very nice gift for first-time owners.

"What Cats Want" by Claire Bessant (Barron's, $10.95) is filled with insights and information on the relationships between cats and humans. Presented in accessible language, Bessant discusses cats' instinctive traits and how they relate to the domestic world. While more of a read than a reference, "What Cats Want" provides new ideas for dealing with feline behavior problems in a manner that is more common to books on dog behavior — a refreshing addition to any cat owner's library.

Presidents' Day is a time to remember the leaders of our country and the admirable qualities each exhibited in his service to our nation Perhaps we can take the opportunity on this occasion to mention just a few.

George Washington, our first President, was revered for his honesty, simply stating, "I cannot tell a lie." Certainly, it is this legacy that is the basis for all effective relationships in our world.

John F. Kennedy exhibited courage and nerve with his handling the Cuban Missile Crisis and great vision by encouraging our space program.

Lyndon Johnson, who grew up in humble surroundings, contributed compassion, an innate understanding that those in poverty could rise to impressive heights in spite of their beginnings.

Remembering OUR Presidents

Ronald Reagan gave us the strength of optimism and the positive effectiveness of humor in his communication with the American people, incorporating the best qualities of both of his careers.

Finally, we think of Franklin Roosevelt's candor with the people. He was warmly reassuring in his "fireside chats." With his guidance, this country endured the Great Depression and the infamous attack on Pearl Harbor.

Won't you take a few moments to thank God for these and all of our Presidents' contributions to our nation as we celebrate Presidents' Day?

Sometimes Loving Others Is Difficult

Although loving those around us is sometimes easy, at other times it may seem almost impossible.

When we are feeling good and our friends and family are treating us well, loving them is easy and affords no great credit to us. But when others treat us poorly, especially when they do things that we consider unforgivable, loving them can be extremely difficult. However, when we are able to love them under these trying circumstances, it is a credit to our goodness and a true reflection of God's unconditional love. When thinking only of how good it feels to love and be loved, we may mistakenly be tempted to think that loving others is easy. We should remember that loving others, especially those who hate us or do us harm, can sometimes be very difficult. It may be the hardest thing that we are called upon to do. God's commandment to love our neighbor is something that we should strive to do on a daily basis.

The greatest love is that which loves when love seems truly impossible.

For with God nothing will be impossible.
R.S.V. Luke 1:37

Antioxidant Properties Of Pomegranate Juice Evaluated

Pomegranate has been used for centuries to aid human health. One group of active constituents in pomegranate are called anthocyanidins. Tests have shown that these active constituents have anti-oxidant activity. Usually found in pome-granate juice of the cold pressed seed oil, these antioxidants help fight free radicals in the body. Estrogen-like substances are also found in pomegranate seeds. Preliminary data suggests that pomegranate juice may slow the progression of artery clogging and provide significantly reduced blood pressure in those with hypertension. Because of this effect, the medicinal use of pomegranate by those already taking blood pressure medications should do so under the direction of their doctor.

6th District Campaigns Run Hard Right, Then Harder Right

by Danny Jacobs
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – The American Conservative Union gives Rep. Roscoe Bartlett, R-Frederick, a near-perfect score of 96 for his voting record during his 11 years in Congress.

That's not conservative enough for Frederick County state's attorney Scott Rolle, who is running against Bartlett in the March 2 Republican primary in the 6th District. Rolle is campaigning as a "consistent conservative" who said, unlike Bartlett, he fully supports the Patriot Act and would not have asked for United Nations approval before the war on Iraq.

The title of most-conservative candidate can be a winning one in the conservative 6th District, which has not elected a Democrat to Congress since 1990.

"Most of the people in the 6th District are conservative. Obviously, I want to represent everybody when I'm elected to Congress, but I am a conservative myself, which seems to jibe with most of the views of people in the district," Rolle said during a recent campaign stop.

But Bartlett believes he knows the district as well as anyone after six terms in Congress.

"There is a common denominator in my district," he said. "Most of its people believe that we have too much government, that it takes too much and it regulates too much. They all share a common concern that we do not need a government this big."

His beliefs fuel what he sees as his current biggest challenges – waging the war on terror without eroding civil liberties, and managing government spending better. Though he voted for the Patriot Act, Bartlett's strict interpretation of the Constitution makes him concerned about erosion of civil liberties.

His views also help explain his stance on Iraq. Bartlett said he voted for the Iraq war resolution because it had strong language encouraging President Bush to get UN backing.

"I wanted to go in with either a UN resolution or significant Arab-Islamic coalition allies, because I didn't want there to be any risk that this would develop into a war of the United States against the Arab-Islamic world," he said. "If that's the war, we lose."

When the administration failed to get UN support, Bartlett voted for an amendment that would have brought Bush back to Congress for a declaration of war – a power reserved in the Constitution for the legislative branch.

Rolle said second-guessing the president was not the right thing at the time.

"The biggest weapon of mass destruction in Iraq was Saddam Hussein," he said. "We should never sell out our sovereignty to the UN. When our security is at stake, we should decide ourselves."

Rolle is a first lieutenant in the Army Reserve who serves two days a month, often at Fort Meade. He promised to be a "watchdog" in Congress for veterans and notes Bartlett did not serve during World War II.

Bartlett, a Seventh-day Adventist, said he took a physical while in college and registered for non-combatant status. He planned to be a medic, but was not drafted. He later found out it was because he was the only person in his district attending college and noted, "They decided to leave me there."

Bartlett brushed off Rolle's charges that he has missed 75 percent of the meetings of a small business committee he sits on and that he has not passed "meaningful" legislation during this term. Because of their schedules, Bartlett said no congressman can attend every meeting of committees they sit on. And because most legislation is committee legislation, he said, very few bills are passed with individual names attached.

As chairman of the projection forces subcommittee, Bartlett oversees Navy and Marine Corps programs, among other things, some $30 billion in the federal budget, and has a hand in the annual defense authorization bills, he said. He rebuts Rolle's criticisms of his leadership and legislative achievements by pointing to the plaques and awards that cover the walls in his office. They come from farmers, veterans, and gun-rights activists, as well as science, women's, small-business, and conservative groups.

The two men are slated to appear together Feb. 21 on a Frederick radio show, but Bartlett has rebuffed Rolle's challenge for a series of debates, saying he would like to see all the 6th District candidates involved in the debate.

"The seven Democrat contenders and Green [Party] candidate have just as much credibility as Scott," he said.

Win or lose, Rolle believes his candidacy will benefit the Republican Party on the whole.

"A primary in my mind is a good thing for the party. It helps them (voters) define where their party is going and what it stands for, and no one can tell me having a choice in an election is a bad thing," he said.

Rolle Expected To Lose Race, But Have A Bright Future

by Danny Jacobs
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – After 6th District congressional challenger Scott Rolle spoke to the Frederick Kiwanis Club in late January, club president Jerry Jenkins's mind was made up: He would vote for Rolle in the March 2 Republican primary.

He also expects Rolle to lose. Incumbent Rep. Roscoe Bartlett of Frederick will win, Jenkins said. "He's too ingrained in the political mind."

That sentiment seems to be shared by many Republicans across the district. For them, Rolle (rhymes with "volley"), 42, is a rising star in state Republican circles, but Bartlett, 77, is too well-known and too well-liked to be unseated in his bid for a seventh term.

"I think the voters will be receptive to a young Republican who is capable and can serve, but they also don't want to unseat a sitting congressman," said John Bambacus, an associate professor of political science at Frostburg State University. Especially one like Bartlett, whom Bambacus said has done "a careful study of the district, so he knows what people are interested in, and then pursues those interests."

Rolle, the three-term state's attorney from Frederick County, is not deterred.

"I've had many people say, 'I voted for Bartlett because I never had a choice before, and now we have a choice with you,'" he said.

Rolle has been taking that message throughout the district, which stretches from Garrett to Harford County, campaigning so far in Accident, Oakland, parts of Allegany County, Hagerstown, and Frederick. He is also running – literally – through parts of the district, usually jogging a couple of miles around town centers with campaign staff and supporters.

Despite a sprained foot suffered during a family volleyball game, Rolle ran up and down Main Street in Westminster on a recent sunny but windy Saturday with seven supporters, while others stood at a busy intersection and held up signs. After the run, Rolle talked with voters in local businesses, but not before asking the owners how business is faring. His campaign is focused on small business, in part because he comes from a family of small-business owners, including his own daughter, who runs a traveling snow-cone stand.

On the campaign trail, Rolle is both open and personable, moving easily from Baltimore Ravens chatter in a barbershop to music talk with teenagers at a nearby music store, where he also sat to briefly play a guitar.

Despite the energy he brings to campaigning, Rolle is far behind in fund raising. Forms filed with the Federal Election Commission show Rolle had almost $23,000 on hand at the end of 2003, while Bartlett had more than $280,000.

Rolle also does not have the endorsement of one of his highest-profile friends, Gov. Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. The governor is backing Bartlett, saying in January that Rolle has a bright future in state politics, but that he is running "the wrong race at the wrong time."

Rolle shrugged off the endorsement. "To a certain extent, the incumbents support the incumbents," Rolle said, adding that he would work with Ehrlich if elected.

With both candidates staking out similar, conservative stands on the issues, Bambacus said the campaign could become more of a "generational election" between Rolle and Bartlett.

But Bartlett, who called Rolle an "aggressive young man," said he still feels like he did at age 50, bounding down steps on Capitol Hill instead of taking an escalator. He said his age helped him make friends early on with contemporaries who are now full committee chairs, including Reps. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., and Don Young, R-Alaska.

"One of the advantages of being older is that the friends you make frequently have seniority," he said.

Aides said Bartlett's wide range of experience – farmer, scientist, and small business owner – gives him credibility and institutional knowledge that helps the district in Congress. His down-home and folksy demeanor belies a sharp mind and a resolve to adhere to a strict interpretation of the Constitution; he is sponsoring a bill to repeal part of the campaign finance reform laws because he believes it restricts free-speech rights.

Bartlett said "only the Lord knows" when he will retire.

"The truth is, the longer you're here the more effective you are," he said. "I want to continue serving my constituents. It's very rewarding."

Many observers agree that the seat is Bartlett's until he decides to leave.

"Definitely Roscoe," said Beatrice Crosco, president of the Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club. "The public knows him and he hasn't really made a big mistake yet."

Crosco said Bartlett is in the county at least four times a year for parades and political events. She has seen Rolle on television a few times, but said most people do not know him in Garrett County, where a personal touch is appreciated.

"He needs to appear more. We like candidates who know where Garrett County is," Crosco said.

Bambacus found it "unusual" that Rolle would throw his hat into the ring against an incumbent like Bartlett. In two of the last three GOP primaries Bartlett ran unopposed and he took 78 percent of the vote in the 2000 primary, when he was challenged.

But Allegany County Republican Central Committee chairman Bud Willetts said Rolle may be looking beyond the "uphill battle" in this election.

"He is not hurting himself at all if he's unsuccessful," said Willetts, who came away impressed after Rolle met with the central committee. "One of the smartest things he is doing is showing respect for Bartlett," said Willetts. "He talked about their differences, not bashed them. He's running a positive campaign, not burning bridges."

That positive campaigning also attracted Jenkins of Frederick. "He didn't want to throw dirt," Jenkins said of Rolle. "He only wanted to talk about what he wanted to do. It was refreshing."

Named To Dean's List At Cedarville

Garrett County resident Rachel Bender has been named to the 2003 fall semester dean's list at Cedarville University, Ohio. The senior is majoring in nursing.

Bender is the daughter of Lowell and Verna Bender of Bittinger.

Josh Fike's Love Of Outdoors Lives On In New Scholarship

by Bretta Reinhard
GC Foundation

Friendsville residents Paul and Sharon Fike, parents of the late Josh Fike, have initiated an annual scholarship in memory of their late son, who was killed in a car crash last summer.

Fike was an 18-year old student at Garrett College who had completed his freshman year majoring in natural resources and wildlife technology when he died. He would have started his sophomore year last fall and was expected to earn his degree and graduate this year. He represented the first generation in his family to pursue higher education.

"Josh Fike was an outstanding young man whose memory at Garrett College will live in those who knew and cared for him," stated Garrett College president Dr. Stephen J. Herman. "The Josh Fike Scholarship will give other students the educational opportunity which Josh himself so much valued. Our hearts go out to the Fike family."

In addition to his parents, the immediate relatives who survive Fike include his brother, Scott Fike, a student at Northern High School, his paternal grandparents, George and Janet Fike, and his maternal grandparents, Marlin and Elaine Sisler, all of Friendsville.

Fike attended Friendsville Elementary School and Northern Middle School, and graduated from Northern High School in 2002. He was awarded two scholarships by the Garrett College Foundation, the Charles L. Briner Memorial Scholarship and the Garrett College Board of Trustees Scholarship.

FIKE SCHOLARSHIP PROMOTES LOVE OF OUTDOORS – The Josh Fike Scholarship has been established in memory of the Garrett College Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program student who was killed in an automobile accident last summer. The scholarship will be presented to an NRWT student who meets certain criteria, including a demonstrated love of the outdoors. Shown above, from the left, are NRWT program director Kevin Dodge, Dr. Stephen Herman, Josh's parents Sharon and Paul Fike, and his brother Scott Fike. The Josh Fike Scholarship will be awarded for the first time this coming 2004-05 academic year, and the deadline to apply for the funding award is March 1. (See story).

Described by his parents as a quiet individual, Fike was interested in and took enjoyment in all aspects of nature, both great and small. One of Fike's greatest pleasures was gazing at the night sky. Fike was encouraged by his parents to pursue his interest in nature. The family attended an event to learn about the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology Program at Garrett College. Kevin Dodge, NRWT program director, became acquainted with Fike. He, too, fostered Fike's interest in this signature academic program at Garrett College.

This new scholarship is intended for an individual who exemplifies the qualities of the late Josh Fike. Overall, the individual should possess and demonstrate a love of the outdoors. Specifically, this scholarship is designated for a resident of Garrett or Allegany County, Fayette or Somerset County, Pa., or Preston or Tucker County, W.Va.

The individual must enroll as a major in the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology Career Advancement Program and pursue this degree as a full-time student. The individual must demonstrate financial need, have a high school cumulative average of at least 80 percent, and maintain a college semester average of at least 2.50. The individual who is awarded the Josh Fike Scholarship is to be no less than 17 years of age and no more than 22 years of age in the calendar year Jan. 1—Dec. 31, 2004. The family of the late Josh Fike wants to emphasize that this scholarship may be awarded to a first or a second year student (freshman or sophomore).

The Josh Fike Scholarship is scheduled to be awarded for the first time for the 2004-05 academic year at Garrett College. The GCF scholarship application deadline is Monday, March 1. Interested individuals should contact the Garrett College Financial Aid Office at 301-387-3057.

There has been an outpouring of charitable contributions for the Josh Fike Scholarship. Numerous (50+) family members and friends have made memorial donations. In addition, individuals also recognized Fike's birthday with charitable contributions and gave holiday remembrances as well. Charitable contributions may be made to the Josh Fike Scholarship at any time and in any amount. These should be directed to the Garrett College Foundation, 687 Moser Road, McHenry, MD 21541.

The Garrett College Foundation is a 501(c)(3) organization, and all donations are tax-deductible.

SHS Grad Serving As Intern At U.S. Embassy In Paris

Marianne Peracchio, a senior at Grove City College, Pa., is serving as a State Department intern this spring at the U.S. Embassy in Paris, France.

She is working in the press office, where her duties include monitoring the French newspapers and radio and writing a daily report on how the French view America.

Peracchio was also recently named to dean's list at Grove City College for the fall 2003 semester. To qualify for the list, students must have an average of at least 3.4 out of a possible 4.0, or better than a B+ grade.

A 2000 graduate of Southern High School, Peracchio's future plans include attending graduate school this fall and majoring in comparative literature. She is the daughter of Dorian and Carol Peracchio.

Financial Aid Deadline Noted

The deadline to apply for most of Maryland's need-based financial aid is March 1.

To be eligible, students must complete the FAFSA, available electronically at www.fafsa.ed.gov, or pick up paper copies of the form from libraries or high school guidance offices, or by contacting the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

This year, the Office of Student Financial Assistance of the Maryland Higher Education Commission will award more than $80 million in financial aid to Maryland students. For more information, persons may visit www.mhec.state.md.us or call 1-800-974-1024 or 410-260-4565.

Intro To Internet Course Slated

Garrett College has scheduled a three-session, non-credit "Introduction to Accessing the Internet," computer course for 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, Feb. 24 and 26, and Tuesday, March 2. The class will meet at the McHenry campus.

Topics to be covered include the World Wide Web, file transfer protocol, and e-mail and electronic group discussions. Information on how to communicate and conduct business without leaving one's home will also be presented.

For additional information, persons may contact the GC Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

DOG BITE PREVENTION BOOKLETS have recently been distributed to all first and second graders in Allegany and Garrett counties, nearly 2000 students in all, courtesy of Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety (PAWS) and Rob Michael's State Farm Insurance Agency in Oakland. The distribution of the booklets, titled Fido! Friend or Foe?, was part of a Frostburg State University educational outreach effort in which PAWS was invited to participate. The effort includes the upcoming FSU appearance of Gregory Popovich and his Comedy and Pet Theatre. Written by veterinarians at the College of Veterinary Medicine at Auburn University in collaboration with State Farm Insurance, the booklet instructs children how to behave responsibly and safely around dogs and cats in order to avoid painful bites and scratches. A PAWS spokesperson said it is hoped that the resource will not only help youngsters avoid serious injury, but will also help to reduce the number of animals taken to shelters for behavior that can be easily averted through common sense measures. Persons interested in acquiring copies of Fido! Friend or Foe? or in scheduling a program on bite prevention may contact PAWS at 301-334-2699. Pictured above with a sampling of the many boxes of bite prevention materials distributed to the Allegany and Garrett county education boards are PAWS board member Stephanie Beddow and Rob Michael of State Farm.

Recognized By Real Estate Firm

Local real estate sales associate Lana Roby has earned the Coldwell Banker Previews Property Specialists designation. Only five percent of the more than 90,000 Coldwell Banker sales associates have been awarded this designation.

Roby earned the designation by meeting performance criteria based on successfully selling luxury properties, and completing a prescribed certification course, according to Ruth Seib, broker and co-owner of the firm. "The course covers topics such as developing a detailed market analysis for sellers of luxury homes and how to make use of Previews resources to implement specialized marketing plans that will expose exceptional properties to affluent buyers on a world wide basis," clarified Seib.

Roby has been affiliated with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty since 1998. She has consistently been a top producing sales associate, and is a President's Circle member for having performed in the top 12 percent of associates internationally. She has been a member of the firm's Sales Associate Advisory Council.

A native of Garrett County, Roby resides with her husband Larry in the McHenry area, and is an active member of Emmanuel Lutheran Church. She sings with various local choirs and serves as soloist in her church.

New Benefits Of Medicare Noted By Area Agency

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging is issuing information about new benefits in Medicare, some of which will begin this spring.

A prescription drug discount card program will be implemented in May, according to the report, that will provide immediate assistance of $600 to those individuals with low incomes and who do not have other coverage. The discount card will provide savings until the full drug benefit goes into effect.

In 2006, seniors without prescription drug coverage will be able to join a Medicare-approved plan that will provide an average of 50% in savings for eligible persons. The basic benefit includes a monthly premium of about $35 and an annual deductible of $250. There will be a co-payment of 25% of the cost of medications up to an initial limit of $2,250 per year.

The 2006 benefit provides additional coverage for Medicare beneficiaries with limited savings and incomes below 150% of poverty, including reduced premiums and other savings. Those with incomes below 135% of poverty will pay no monthly premium, no deductible, and only $1 to $5 out-of-pocket per prescription.

Seniors will receive new coverage for preventive care under the modernized guidelines, including screenings for cancer, diabetes, and heart disease, as well as immunizations against pneumonia and the flu.

As of now, Americans can set aside money each year, tax-free, in a Health Savings Account, according to the report. These accounts can be used to pay for medical expenses. Money that is not spent will stay in the account and gain interest tax-free.

For the latest information on Medicare, persons may visit www.medicare.gov or call 1-800-633-4227. The Area Agency on Aging Senior Health Insurance Program (SHIP) coordinator can also provide information and may be reached at 301-334-9431, ext. 140, or toll-free at 1-888-877-8403.

UNITED PENNIES FOR A UNITED WAY – Broad Ford Elementary students Quinn McLean and Hannah Schroyer are pictured sharing their pocket change to benefit the United Way of Garrett County. For more information on the United Way of Garrett County, persons may call 301-359-9697 or visit the web site at www.garrettunitedway.org.

Creation Video To Be Shown At Grace Church

A Creation Seminar Series video, featuring Dr. Kent E. Hovind, will be shown at Grace Bible Church, free of charge, on Saturday, Feb. 21, beginning at 7 p.m.

This video is the first of a seven-part series and is titled "The Age of the Earth." "The video will explain," said the spokesperson, "the truth about how scientific evidence supports the accuracy of the Bible, and that the Earth is not billions of years old as evolutionists tell us."

Free refreshments and soft drinks will be available. The church is located two miles south of Accident, along U.S. Rt. 219.

For more information, persons may call 301-746-8635 or 301-746-8099. The public is welcome to attend.

Maust, Voelkel Take Top Two Honors At NMS Science Fair

CARRIE MAUST AND SARAH VOELKEL

FARING WELL AT NMS SCIENCE FAIR – A total of 110 eighth graders at Northern Middle School recently participated in the science fair. The first place winners are pictured above. In the front, from the left, are Christopher Wood, Engineering; Abby Sherrard, Environmental Science; Zachary Trautwein, Physics; and Tamra Beiler, Medicine and Health. In the back are Neil Buckel, Earth and Space Science; Ainsley Raley, Chemistry; Sarah Voelkel, Botany; and Carrie Maust, Behavioral Social Sciences. Absent from the photo was Courtney Stein, Mathematics. The second place winners are pictured below. In the front are Elijah Lais, Biochemistry; Ariana Wilt, Behavioral and Social Sciences; Danielle Brenneman, Chemistry; Brittany Stein, Botany; and Susan Thatcher, Physics. In the back are Kasie Fratz, Medicine and Health; Zak Brosnihan, Engineering; Roland Fisher, Earth and Space Science; and Steven Taylor, Environmental Science. See story for more details.

The two overall grand prize winners of the recent Northern Middle School Science Fair were Carrie Maust and Sarah Voelkel. A total of 110 eighth graders participated.

Students participated in the following categories: Behavioral and Social Sciences, Biochemistry, Botany, Health and Medicine, Microbiology, Zoology, Chemistry, Earth and Space Sciences, Environmental Sciences, Engineering, Math, and Physics.

Maust is the daughter of Barry and Carol Maust, and Voelkel is the daughter of Mike and Carol Voelkel. Both girls reside with their families in Accident.

Demonstrating her interest in the behavioral sciences, Maust's experiment was titled "Comparison of Linguistic and Logical Mathematical Intelligences." Her hypothesis stated, "Most people retain information though the logical mathematical intelligence. Most people use this way according to www.ibiblio.org." Her survey of 27 persons supported her hypothesis by a one-point margin.

"I am excited about going to regionals. (The Regional Science Fair is scheduled for April 2, at Allegany College of Maryland.) I might change a couple of my graphs to make them easier to read before I present again," she said.

Voelkel's experiment was in the Botany category. She tested eight different mediums (sand, perlite, vermiculite, peat moss, potting soil, top soil, compost, and compost/soil mixture) to observe which could produce the most number of leaves on a lettuce plant. Her hypothesis was that the lettuce seed planted in compost would produce the most number of leaves since compost contains an abundance of nutrients to aid in plant growth.

Her recommendation based on this experiment was that "further analysis of the top soil would be beneficial." This also shows that sand is not a good choice for lettuce growth.

"I am excited about going to regionals. Once I study my judges' sheet from this event I'll decide what I need to change for regionals. I liked seeing all my classmates' projects. Now I have some ideas for next year's fair."

Each student project was judged by at least two teachers in a collaborative setting, and approximately 50 finalists were selected based on project displays. The next day the finalists were judged by a team of six community members, again placed in pairs.

The judges for the event were Cat Stylinski, biology instructor at UMCES Appalachian Lab in Frostburg; her co-worker, Katia Engelhardt; Chuck Trautwein, 12-month computer resource teacher; Brian Price, science teacher at Northern High School; and Shawn Sanders and Roger Kitzmiller, both of the Garrett Soil Conservation District.

Ribbons were awarded for first, second, and third place in each category. A plaque was given to each of the two overall grand prize winners. Each participant also received a certificate for their work.

Students earning honorable mention also received an additional certificate of merit.

A science fair open house was then held in the evening, where students, parents, faculty, and community members were welcome to view all projects and awards.

First place winners were Christopher Wood, Abby Sherrard, Zachary Trautwein, Tamra Beiler, Neil Buckel, Ainsley Raley, Sarah Voelkel, Carrie Maust, and Courtney Stein.

Second place winners were Elijah Lais, Ariana Wilt, Danielle Brenneman, Brittany Stein, Susan Thatcher, Kasie Fratt, Zak Broshnihan, Roland fisher, and Steven Taylor.

Third place winners were Allison Yoder, Kasondra Braodwater, Stephanie Shapiro, Lindsay Wolf, Emily Rosser, Michael Clise, Ryan Bowser, Ryan Seaman, and Benjamin Sharp.

Honorable mention winners were Andrea Miller, Amy Lander, Kelli Wilhelm, Alexis Shannon, Sarah Broadwater, and Jessie Storey.

SWANTON

There will be an Ash Wednesday service at Otterbein U.M. church on Feb. 25 at 7 p.m. as we begin Lenten season leading up to Easter. There will be no Bible study that evening. All are welcome.

A meeting to discuss the June 28-July 2 Bible School will be held on Thursday, Feb. 26, at 5 p.m. at the Otterbein Church.

On Monday, Feb. 9, the ministry team met at Otterbein U.M. church to plan for lent through Easter and other programs. There were eight present for that meeting. The next meeting will be in May.

The United Methodist women met at the home of Freda Teets on Feb. 10. Helen Friend was the program leader.

PERSONAL

The Charles McClosky family have returned home after a vacation trip to Florida.

Charlotte Carr has been visiting family in Florida the past week.

Charles Ward was a patient in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where he had heart catheterization last Monday.

Melvin, Dotty Beckman, and Luella Baker took their aunt, Ildra Frantz, for her doctor check-up last week. She had fallen and broken her arm the week before. Ildra has a birthday coming up on March 2. She will be 89. If anyone would like to send her a card, the address is 1318 Orendorf Road, Accident, MD 21520.

On Thursday afternoon, Pastor Vickie Minnich, along with Mary June Harvey and Luella Baker, went to visit Ildra Frantz.

Orval and Mareva Teets attended the February 11 meeting of Unit 103 of The National association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees in La Vale.

David Bush came to take his wife, Lissa Bush, and children Anna and Jonathan back to their home in Orlando, Fla., on Friday. Lissa and children had spent a couple weeks with her family.

Orval and Mareva Teets were Friday evening dinner guests of Lucinda and Steve Davis, Oakland.

Linda Fleming and Mary Louise Wilson drove to Baltimore-Washington International airport Saturday morning to pick up Barbara Scarpa of Winter Haven, Fla., who will be spending several days with Linda and other family members in the area.

Sunday morning worship at Otterbein featured a surprise puppet show as the Kids for Christ Puppeteers were preparing for their puppetry show at the Mt. Bethel U.M. Church in Kitzmiller that evening. Following the puppet show, Dorothy Tichnell, New Creek, W.Va., presented a report on volunteer ministry work here and abroad. She spoke about how they help build churches and homes and do other work in needy areas.

Thanks To Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop

There are times when the hustle and bustle of our daily lives and occupations that we are kept so preoccupied with our own concerns, we rarely have a second thought about those who need us the most. We often fail to give any attention to those in need.

However, there are those who constantly strive to give their time and extra efforts that escalate above and beyond the boundaries of reason. It was because of your sincerity and enthusiasm that this fund-raiser for cripple children was a success. There is someone, somewhere whose day had been made a little brighter and more meaningful because of your effort. These special people deserve recognition and sincere thanks for doing more than what was ever expected of them.

To the staff, management, and patrons of the Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop, for your achievements with the Buck-A-Cup fund-raiser for the League Crippled Children are of great honor and magnitude. The efforts you made in accomplishing your goal are greatly appreciated. Thank you again for a job done well above our expectations.

Sincerely, Dave Glotfelty

Avian Flu Testing Zone Expanded

by Zenitha Prince
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Maryland agriculture and poultry industry officials continued their efforts to stave off an outbreak of avian flu, announcing they will expand testing for the economically devastating disease to a wider zone of the state's poultry farms.

No new cases of the flu had been found as of Friday, said Maryland Department of Agriculture spokeswoman Sue duPont. "I think we've been very effective in containing the disease," duPont said. "We don't necessarily think we are out of the woods yet, but we're cautiously optimistic."

The department increased scrutiny of state poultry farms after the H7 strain of the virus was found two weeks ago on two farms in Delaware's Sussex and Kent counties, resulting in the slaughter of about 100,000 chickens. The H7 strain cannot be communicated to humans, unlike the recent outbreak of H5N1 strain of avian flu in Asia.

Poultry production propels the state's agricultural industry, accounting for 37 percent or $600 million of Maryland's $1.6 billion farm revenues, according to the department.

Crews from Maryland, Delaware, and the federal government tested 79 bird houses on 34 farms within six miles of the Delaware sites where the outbreak originated. Beginning Wednesday, testing zones were expanded over Camden, Laurel, and Dagsboro in Delaware and Hurlock and Salisbury in Maryland, said Bill Satterfield, executive director of Delmarva Poultry Industry Inc. Teams of about 25 people will test birds ready for processing within a 35-by-40-mile grid and expand into a 50-by-55-mile grid later this week, Satterfield said.

"We're doing everything we can to stop the progress of this disease," he said.

It is the first time avian flu had occurred in the commercial broiler industry in the Delmarva region, Satterfield said, though there had been a flu outbreak among game fowl in 1993. But Satterfield said the outbreak was not a complete surprise. "We were well prepared, as much as anyone can be prepared when an emergency occurs," he said.

The industry had an emergency procedure manual for more than 20 years, Satterfield said, which allowed them to respond "quickly and decisively" to the situation. In addition, an Emergency Poultry Disease Task Force has been in place since 1982 to deal with such situations, he said.

Maryland and Delaware farmers have had to run a tighter ship since the flu was discovered. Workshops, training courses, meetings, and live poultry markets have since been canceled and disinfecting procedures implemented to contain the spread of disease. Despite the restrictions, Satterfield said, the industry had not had sustained any significant economic loss.

"This is not an epidemic. I would not even characterize it as an outbreak," he said.

And Maryland agriculture officials vow to keep it that way, duPont said. "We are continuing to look and look hard for diseases."

Vegetable Growers Meeting Slated At Garrett College

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and Garrett College's Alternative Agriculture Center will host a meeting for local vegetable growers on Feb. 28 at the Garrett College Center for Adventure and Outdoor Studies, located behind the Panorama Motel along Mosser Road.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. with Bryan Butler, Extension educator from Carroll County's Agriculture and Natural Resources Office. He will field producer questions about growing vegetables in high tunnels, with which he has had extensive experience.

Dale Johnson, regional Extension specialist in farm management, will provide hands-on information about developing budgets for vegetable enterprises. He will speak at 11:30 a.m.

Next on the agenda, at 12:30 p.m., will be Willie Lantz of Garrett College's Alternative Agriculture Center and Cheryl DeBerry, Garrett County agricultural marketing specialist, who will conduct a discussion about local vegetable marketing opportunities.

The meeting is open and free to anyone interested in growing vegetables. To reserve a seat for the meeting, persons should contact the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service at 301-334-6960 by Feb. 26.

NEW EWE LAMB PROGRAM

The Secretary of Agriculture recently announced that the USDA, locally through the Preston County FSA Office, will provide $18 million in payments to sheep and lamb producers. This program, Ewe Lamb Replacement and Retention Program (ELRRP), was implemented to encourage the replacement and retention of ewe lamb breeding stock.

Eligible producers under the ELRRP will be paid $18 per head for each ewe lamb purchased or retained during Aug. 1, 2003 through July 31, 2004. Producers must retain these qualifying ewe lambs in their herd for at least one complete offspring lambing cycle.

It is important that producers maintain adequate records for the animals paid for under this program. Sales receipts, farm management records, and veterinarian certifications are examples of what records can be used. The documentation must disclose each of the following: the dates of lamb purchase, birth, and death (if applicable); lamb identification and control information; number of ewe lambs purchased; and identfication with APHIS-approved scrapie program.

For further information regarding this new program, persons may contact the Preston County FSA Office at 304-329-1923. The office is located in the Corner Mall area of the Kingwood Shopping Plaza.

Cystic Fibrosis: Drug Treatment Options

Cystic fibrosis (CF) is a genetic disorder that affects much more than just the lungs. In people with CF certain glands in the body produce thick secretions that can block the airways, cause lung collapse, increase susceptibility to infections, block intestinal glands and ducts, and cause malnutrition.

Treatment of CF usually focuses on preventing airway blockage and controlling infection. Albuterol is commonly prescribed to dilate the bronchial tubes leading to the lungs. Many different antibiotics are used for the prevention and treatment of bacterial complications. Inhaled drugs such as domase alfa can be used to thin the pus-fulled mucus. Sometimes anti-inflammatory drugs such as ibuprofen or naproxen can be used to slow lung deterioration. The government is looking at a new drug, DX-890, that stops an enzyme crucial for the process that produces abnormally thick, sticky mucus in the CF lung. Another mucus regulating drug called talniflumate is being tested for safety and effectiveness.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

About 25 members attended the all-day meeting at Emmanuel Lutheran Educational Building on Saturday. A lunch was served at noon. I was unable to attend. I am still serious about getting to the heart of our problems and feel I might shake the status quo feelings. I know how my own family feels sometimes about my outspoken views. People just don't want to deal with any difficult idea or rock any boats.

But I am on solid ground that the primary mission of Christians is to work for peace in the world and goodwill among all people of the world. In fact when Jesus said, "Love your neighbor as much as you love yourself," he included our neighbors across the world, even in other religions, races, other nationalities, and those with other political philosophies. That is too radical a view for almost everyone, except Christ, as he was the most radical person in history.

I believe with all my heart that it is the most important task for even people from Garrett County to make a better place for all of God's children. World Hunger should be a primary concern for all of us. Even with the once-a-month loose offering, it is still not enough.

However, thanks go to the organizers of the Monday night soup suppers which supported World Hunger. It is not important to have the most fancy church in the Bittinger area, but just an adequate one, and still have enough to be able to provide for those less fortunate, including hungry people of the world.

I am sure that I would be the only voice to plead for global missions in Emmanuel's mission statement. I think we would do more good for peace in the world if we would only open up our hearts to others. It would do more good than all the bombs we build.

Maybe it is only a coincidence that I had a dream last night that my brother Scott died again right here on our farm, not like the first time in Africa. How could he die again!? I had a feeling the reason I survived the deadly aneurysm was to keep doing his work. He was not afraid of his comfort zone or to defy opinions to do what he knew was right. Once again, I do not live up to his example. I am just not as strong or as brave as he was (or smart or gifted, either).

As Meredith, Caitlin, and I watched an episode of one of their favorite programs, "The Fresh Prince of Bel Air," there was a quick gag as, when Hillary headed off to her parachute lesson, Will said, "Wait until you pick up my book bag." It reminded me of my favorite joke in the world. My girls agreed that it is pretty good. So I must share it with y'all, too.

In 1970 a plane was flying with President Nixon, Premier Brezhnev USSR, Henry Kissinger, a priest, and a hippie on board. The pilot announced "We are going down and you had better bail out, but we only have four parachutes for the passengers." Of course, Nixon claimed that he was the leader of the free world, Brezhnev claimed he was the leader of the Communist world, Kissinger claimed that he needed one because he was the smartest man in the world, and the priest told the hippie to take the last one, as he had led a good life and was ready to meet his Maker. The hippie broke into a laugh saying, "Don't worry, Father. The smartest man in the world just jumped out with my backpack."

I was always afraid to watch the old movie The Bird Man of Alcatraz. I was right, as I should never watch or know the story of one felon with a third grade education who was locked up for life, tamed a wild sparrow, studied bird disease, and then published the most ultimate expert work on bird health. He then turned his genius to the task of writing a book about the penal system and what it does to the human spirit. It kills the essential element of human's individualization and, if you allow it, it will make you into another rubber-stamp being. That's why I am in my own little prison in solitary confinement, as I only have occasional visits from the outside world.

Of course, my prison is not by an armed guard, but just by the deep snow on these mountains. The only way I can visit the outside world is via my car, but at the present it has experienced engine failure and I am at an inconvenience of getting it fixed and the expense of it. Unless I can keep the cash flowing into my girls' hands, I am no good to them at all. I hope that is not true, as I want to believe it when they say that they need me in their lives. If not, then what is the reason to keep on trying? The only life I have ever known was made up of that word "try," – or try harder – then I could make my dreams come true. But now the only dreams I experience are nightmares every night. To paraphrase Hamlet, "To sleep, to dream, oh, that's the rub," or as a final standup comic said the other night, "I can't stop thinking." Yes the biggest curse human beings have to deal with is the urge to make sense of things that make no sense. Or the searching for answers to questions that are unanswerable.

I felt a small comfort when I heard from Sheila Southerly that she is dealing with the same stuff that I am – like the question of whether their vehicle will go and bring them home, as there is ice everywhere. Pets are so beset with cabin fever that they demand in and out all times of the day and night. Minor illness – cold and flu – are occurring, and she felt so bad that she had to miss the big Mission Statement Pow-Wow at the church on Saturday.

Brother Barry came up from Frederick over the holiday weekend to take advantage of the excellent snow for cross country skiing and collect his birthday present from me, which was two weeks late. I serenaded him and Sue Haydel on their birthdays over the phone. I guess my big brother Rodney, Cindy Stanton, and Linda Bowman Neidelberger will also be celebrating their birthdays this month. I am not sure that my singing is worth the long distance call to Linda in W.Va. But I guess it is the thought that counts.

Barry explored some old logging roads north off Foxtown Road and was accompanied by Walter Haydel. Dennis Buckel did some skiing, but not Sheila, who was afraid of hitting an unexpected patch of ice. Her driveway could be used as an ice skating rink.

The last home game for the Northern Huskies' basketball teams is tonight. So I will not see my girls until late evening. That is the worst thing about my prison life, as most days there is nothing to look forward to. Spring is too far away to even believe in it. Anyway, spring is painful if you don't have anyone to share the wonders of it with. Even if the official first day of spring is only a little more than about one month away, we will not be really into it until May around here. That means another two weeks of burning more fuel oil, as a long, wet, cool spell makes our house pretty chilly during the nights. Even though it seems a long way off, we will have flowers again, and pretty soon our day will be as long as our night.

It is good to report that we have a bit of late winter sunshine today, which is much better than grey sky and snow flying.

Large Memorial Donation Given To Rescue Squad

A $5,000 donation in memory of the late Wilma A. Calhoun was received recently by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Mrs. Calhoun, who was a resident of Oakland, was 94 when she died last year.

The contribution was made by the staff of James Bell Associates Inc., a research firm based in Arlington, Va. James Bell's mother Pat is a daughter of the late Mrs. Calhoun.

Bell, president of the company, said that the gift was made not only in memory of Mrs. Calhoun, but also on behalf of her children, Pat Bell and the late Sue Pagenhardt; her grandchildren, James Bell, Kathy Chrestensen, Steve Pagenhardt, Christine Speer, and Monty Pagenhardt; and her nine great-grandchildren.

In the letter which accompanied the donation, Bell said that Mrs. Calhoun, her late husband, Arthur Calhoun, and her sister, Glenna DeWitt, all "greatly appreciated the life-sustaining work" of the rescue squad.

"We hope that in some small way, the rescue squad's continuing efforts to safeguard the well-being of Garrett County residents will extend her (Mrs. Calhoun's) spirit into the future," Bell's letter concluded.

Town Hall

KITZMILLER

•Due to adverse weather conditions, the Jan. 23 meeting with the Garrett County commissioners was postponed. This meeting has been rescheduled for Feb. 23 at 7 p.m. in the Kitzmiller Community Building. All interested citizens are urged to attend.

•Tuesday, March 2, has been designated as registration day in the town of Kitzmiller. All citizens of Kitzmiller not registered in the county, but desiring to vote in the town elections in April may register at the Kitzmiller Town Hall from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on this date. Also, all Certificates of Nomination must be turned in to the election judges on this date. Those councilpersons whose terms have expired are Melissa Nesselrodt and Judy Paugh. Town elections will be held on April 13. Persons who would like to run for these council seats or wish to nominate an individual to fill these vacancies should stop in at the town hall and fill out the necessary paper work.

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

•The ATOD Family Movie Trip to see Disney's Miracle will be held on Sunday, Feb. 22, with a bus leaving the town hall at 2:30 p.m. The cost is 50¢ for youth 12 years old and under, and $1 for adults.

The next regular mayor and town council meeting is scheduled for March 2 at 7 p.m. at the town hall.

Accentuate the Positive!
Although it may be obvious to many that home ownership offers countless benefits, a recent study by Ohio State University proves exactly how owning your own home can benefit you, your family, and your community. These results go beyond the basic financial ideas that owning a home builds equity, security and good credit.
Think of all the ways that home ownership can improve your situation. Beyond providing more security and stability, being a homeowner is proven to increase your social involvement. You end up caring a lot more about what's around you, and you start imagining different ways to improve it.
This sense of pride makes you more aware of environmental issues and how they impact your neighborhood, which can also make you more politically active. What's great about this type of involvement and commitment is that it also reduces crime rates.
When individuals and families have the stability and involvement that comes from home ownership, the entire community benefits, and children in particular benefit from all of the above.
If you're ready to take the next step and take advantage of all that home ownership has to offer, select a neighborhood that you like and contact a real estate professional to help you find the home that suits your needs and your budget. That perfect first home is out there and waiting for you!
If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call at the office, or on my cell phone at 301-501-DALE!

ACCIDENT NEWS

GRACE BIBLE CHURCH

The Grace Bible Church will present a free showing of the Creation Seminar Series videos. Part I of the 7-part series is titled "The Age of the Earth," which will be shown Saturday, Feb. 21, at 7 p.m.

Grace Bible Church is located two miles south of Accident. For more information, persons may telephone 301-746-8635 or 301-746-8099. Refreshments will be served.

ACCIDENT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

As a reminder to parents, third and fifth graders will begin testing on March 1. It is very important for students to attend if at all possible, according to Sheila Miller, principal.

Because of the primary elections, there will be no school for students on Tuesday, March 2.

NORTH STAR 4-H CLUB

The North Star 4-H Club met at the Accident fire hall on Tuesday, Feb. 10. Brett Stanton led the American pledge, and Kara Savage led the 4-H pledge.

Annamay Broadwater reported on the Christmas party. Annamay, Kevin Haenftling, Robert Broadwater, and Rachel Schmidt talked about the annual planning meeting that was held in January. Kara Savage gave a report on the officer training workshop that was held Jan. 15. Annamay was voted in as the new club photographer since Corey and Christina House resigned the position.

A committee was formed to go over the bylaws. Those on the committee are Brett Stanton, Kevin Haenftling, Annamay Broadwater, Rachel Schmidt, and Kara Savage. Anita Gardner is the adult leader. Other committees were formed for fundraising, 4th of July, parade, and fair booth. Those on the committees are: Annamay and Robert Broadwater, Kevin Haenftling, Brittany Gank, Rachel Schmidt, Kara Savage, and Brett Stanton. George Haenftling and Nancy Savage are on the fundraising committee as adult leaders. Adult leaders for the 4th of July and parade committees are Bonnie Haenftling and Anita Gardner. Fair booth adult leaders are Nancy Savage, Bonnie Haenftling, and Karen Broadwater.

Kara Savage gave a report on the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention that she attended. Rachel Schmidt announced that she received a certificate from the American Rabbit Breeders Association that her rabbitry is now registered as Pamdara's Rabbit Tree. Rachel Schmidt did a demonstration on public speaking. Kara Savage gave a sewing demonstration and Robert Broadwater did a pig demonstration. The group played heart bingo for the rest of the evening.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 9, and the members will be doing public speaking.

NHS SPORTS

The northern High School Boys' Basketball teams will compete at Westmar on Friday, Feb. 20, at 6 and 7:30 p.m.

The girls' basketball teams will host Hancock on Monday, Feb. 23, at 6 and 7:30 p.m.

The NHS wrestlers will compete in the Bi-County tournament this Saturday, Feb. 21, at Westmar. The regional tournament will be held Friday, Feb. 27, and Saturday, Feb. 28.

Karmen, Janelle, and Allison Carey of near Frostburg visited their grandmother, Ida Reckner, one day recently, and baked cookies for her while there. Lisa Platter, Smithsburg, also visited her grandmother Saturday morning while her husband and son were ice fishing with friends at Deep Creek Lake, and took Ida's lunch to her.

Tom Glotfelty of Detroit and Alpine Lake was a Sunday caller. Ida is doing well this winter, and is nearing her 99th birthday, which will be March 20.

LIONS HELPING OUT – The Friendsville Lions Club distributed 75 baskets during the recent holiday season to area home-bound and/or needy persons. Members and volunteers gathered at the Lawson farm outside Friendsville to prepare dinner baskets each containing either a turkey or ham, fresh potatoes, sweet potatoes, onions, apples, bananas, canned vegetables, noodles, stuffing, and two fresh loaves of bread. Pictured above are the youngest volunteers Catharine and Robert Lawson, children of Michael and Chantay Lawson, along with some of the Thanksgiving baskets.

The youth will be leaving the church at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 22, to travel to the Augusta Church of Christ for Augusta's OR program.

SAND SPRING CHURCH OF GOD

Primetime for Kids will be held every Monday evening at 6:30 p.m. at the Sand Spring Church of God. All youth from K-6th grade are welcome to attend.

Every Monday will include a Bible story, singing, craft, refreshments and games. A puppet team will entertain on Monday, Feb. 23.

CORRECTION NOTED

by Lucretia Sines

A correction should be noted on the operating hours for the CornerHouse Cafe in Friendsville. Hours are Monday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. until further notice. (The hours posted in The Republican last week were my mistake, and I apologize for any confusion.)

SPAGHETTI DINNER

The Friendsville Fireflies and the Snowy Creek 4-H clubs will be sponsoring a spaghetti dinner on Saturday, March 20, from 4 to 7 p.m. The dinner will consist of spaghetti, salad, bread, dessert, and beverage. The price is $5 per adult, and $2.50 for ages 5-10. Those under 5 may eat for free. Tickets for the dinner can be obtained by contacting any member or at the door on the 20th. Proceeds of this event will benefit the Scott and Carol Hunter family, who recently lost their home in a fire.

THE WISHING WELL

by Lucretia Sines

Sherry Sisler, wife of Darrell Sisler, is a patient at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland. The Sislers' infant son Joshua is a patient at Ruby Memorial Hospital. Cards can be sent to them at 7324 Cranesville Road, Friendsville, MD 21531.

SCHOOL NEWS

There will be no school for students on Tuesday, March 2, for the primary elections.

SNOWY CREEK 4-H CLUB

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club met Thursday, Feb. 12, at the Friendsville Elementary School. The meeting was called to order by President Darrick Lowdermilk. David Smearman led them in the Pledge of Allegiance, and Lincoln Lowdermilk led them in the 4-H pledge.

A program on gun safety was presented by Deputy Rob Corley. Leader Rick Lowdermilk gave the announcements. There were no demonstrations.

The next meeting of the Snowy Creek 4-H Club will be held Thursday, March 11, at the Friendsville Elementary School at 6:30 p.m. The program will be about forestry.

GUN BASH

The Friendsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept. will be hosting a Gun Bash on Saturday, Feb. 28, from noon to 6 p.m. A donation for a gun bash ticket is $25, and tickets can be purchased from any volunteer fireman or at Funny Farm Citgo, Ed's BP/Amoco, Friendsville Discount Liquors, or S&S Market. Doors will open at 11 a.m. and a total of 25 guns will be raffled off, one every 15 minutes, starting at noon. There will also be separate raffles all day long, and food and beverages will be provided. Only those persons with a ticket will be able to enter the gun bash. Tickets can also be purchased at the door if available.

COLLECTING ALUMINUM CANS

Mary Ann Umbel is currently collecting aluminum cans, with the proceeds to go toward the Tim Umbel Memorial Scholarship Fund. All help would be "greatly appreciated." Anyone who has cans that they would like to donate to this cause may do so by contacting Mary Ann at 301-746-5109 and she will come pick them up.

The Tim Umbel Memorial Scholarship Fund is a scholarship set up by Coach Paul Edwards of the Northern High School boys' basketball team in Tim's name, to be presented to an NHS senior boy or girl athlete who has played four years of basketball, is a leader in the community, and has achieved the academic requirements set forth by the fund. The fund is through First United Bank & Trust, and donations can also be made at any bank location in Tim's name.

PERSONALS

Lester Lewis recently passed the EMT course offered at Garrett College. He will now be serving with Friendsville's Station 3 of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

WING NIGHT

Wing Night is held every Friday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Friendsville fire hall. Proceeds support the Friendsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept. Inc.

Wing Night will not be held Friday, Feb. 26, so that members can prepare for Saturday's Gun Bash.

WALKING PROGRAM

"Walkways," a walking program sponsored by Maryland Cooperative Extension, will be conducting four two-hour sessions to teach more about walking and healthy eating. The sessions are being held at the Friendsville Senior Center. The remaining three sessions will be held March 16, April 20, and May 18, all beginning at 1 p.m. For more information or to register call 301-334-6960.

NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

Notice is hereby given that Backbone Mountain, LLC, 293 Table Rock Road, Oakland, MD 21550, Telephone No. 301-334-3952, intends to conduct blasting activities on the surface of Deep Mine Permit No. DM-03-112 located in Election District No. 8 of Garrett County, 1 mile northeast of Gorman, Maryland, in accordance with all applicable State and federal laws.

Blasting activities will commence and continue in accordance with the following schedule of dates and time periods:

March 15, 2004, until February 15, 2005, from 8:00 AM-12:00 Noon and from 2:00 PM till 6:00 PM. Monday through Saturday.

Public access to the blasting area will be controlled prior to blasting by barricading all accesses to the permit area. At least 3 minutes prior to blasting a pre-blast warning signal of three short horn blasts of five seconds duration at 5-second intervals will be sounded. After the blast, one 20 second horn blast shall indicate an All-Clear signal.

Blasting activities will not be conducted at times other than those announced except in the event of an emergency situation where rain, lighting, other atmospheric conditions, or operator or public safety dictate an unscheduled detonation.

Any resident or owner of a dwelling within one-half mile of the permit area may request to have a structural blasting survey of their dwelling conducted by contacting the above permittee or the Maryland Bureau of Mines, in writing, at 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on Thursday, February 26, 2004, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the County Commissioners' meeting room, Second Floor, Courthouse Annex, Oakland. The Board will review the following docketed cases:

1. SE-341 – an application submitted by Deep Creek Mountain Resort Lakeside Club, LLC, for a Special Exception permit for a private or membership club. The property is located at 1077 Deep Creek Drive and is zoned Town Center (TC).

2. SE-342 – an application submitted by Silver Tree Suites for a Special Exception permit for a proposed hotel that would be 3.5 stories and 42.5 feet in height. Hotels in excess of 3 stories, but less than 6 stories are permitted by Special Exception. Also hotels that exceed 35 feet, but are less than 60 feet, are permitted by Special Exception, in the Town Center (TC) District. The property is located at 567 Glendale Road and is zoned TC.

3. SE-343 – an application submitted by Dennis Glotfelty of Double G for a Special Exception permit for sales of Recreational Vehicles with no displays. The property is located at 76 Double G Drive and is zoned Commercial Resort 2 (CR2).

4. VR-566 – an application submitted by Gregory and Sheri Mortimer for Variances to build a proposed residence to come within 15.0 feet of two rear, lakefront property lines instead of the required 40.0 feet. The property is located adjacent to 2470 Stockslager Road and is zoned Lake Residential (LR).

5. VR-567 – an application submitted by Linda J. Green for a Variance for an existing, substandard residential lot. The lot does not comply with the one-acre minimum lot size requirement in the Lake Residential (LR) zone. The property is located adjacent to 3386 Glendale Road. This case is continued from the January meeting.

6. VR-568 – an application submitted by Robert and Lilly Kelly for a Variance to construct an addition to a residence that will come within 16.0 feet of the rear property line, instead of the required 20.0 feet. The property is located at 1231 Deep Creek Drive and is zoned Town Center (TC).

7. VR-569 – an application submitted by William and Judy Houley for a Variance to construct an addition to a residence that will come within 10.0 feet of the side property line, instead of the required 15.0 feet. The property is located at 142 Grandview Drive and is zoned Lake Residential (LR).

Interested persons are invited to attend.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE
OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
308 CHESTNUT ST.
FRIENDSVILLE, MD 21531

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Lonnie Folk and Darla R. Folk, dated March 21, 2002 and recorded in Liber 910, Folio 725 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., at the Court House Door, Oakland, on

MARCH 5, 2004 AT 10:00 AM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $6,000 in the form of cash, certified check, or in any other form suitable to the Substitute Trustees in their sole discretion, shall be required at the time of sale, except no deposit shall be required of the secured party, its successors or assigns. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited and the property may be resold at the purchaser's risk and expense. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The purchaser is responsible for any amount in excess of $500 of outstanding water bills, if any, incurred prior to date of sale. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. In the event the sale is not ratified for any reason, the purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit. Additional terms, if any, to be announced at sale. Purchaser agrees to pay $245.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC
OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT
AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS
TOWN OF DEER PARK

The purpose of the Notice is to identify two separate but related actions to be taken by the Town of Deer Park.

On or about March 9, 2003, the above named town will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds under the Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following project:

Project Title: Town of Deer Park Water Connections Project MD-01-CD-26

Project Purpose: Assist income eligible residents with the cost of connecting to the new water system.

Location: Scattered sites throughout the corporate limits of Deer Park.

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

Notice is hereby given that the above named municipality has prepared an Environmental Review Record on the project described in this notice and has determined that said project would have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment. No further review of said project is proposed prior to requesting the Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant Impact is based on the following:

The project involves providing financial assistance to eligible residents of Deer Park for costs associated with connecting to the public water system presently under construction in the town. All construction activities are being performed by the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities by contract to a private contractor. Construction standards will be regulated by various permit requirements, and no negative environmental impact is anticipated.

The Environmental Review Record, which documents the environmental review of this project, is available for public examination at the Town Hall during normal business hours, or by request.

PUBLIC COMMENTS ON FINDING

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments respecting the environmental impacts of the described project to the Deer Park Town Hall and to the Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than March 5, 2004. All comments will be considered and the Town will not request the release of funds nor take any action on the project prior to this date.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

The Town will undertake the project described above with Community Development Block Grant Funds. This Notice also certifies that Donald Dawson, serving in the official capacity of Mayor, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making, and actions; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the Town may use the CDBG funds and the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS

Objections to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the certifying Officer; or (b) that the Town's Environmental Review record for the project indicated omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the program in the environmental review process; or (c) no opportunity was given to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation or its executive director to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places or found to be eligible for such listing by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with 35 CDR part 800; (d) Objections by a Federal Agency. All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the Town and to the CDBG Program Manager, DHCD, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, MD 21032-2023. All such comments must be received no later than March 5, 2004.

PUBLIC NOTICES

CRELLIN WATER SYSTEM
NOTICE OF VIOLATION
Surface Water Treatment Technique

The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities is providing the following notice regarding the Crellin Water System. The springs for the water system have been evaluated for protection against surface water influence as required by the Surface Water Treatment Rule (SWTR), as adopted in the Code of Maryland; COMAR 26.04.01, Quality of Drinking Water in Maryland. The spring was determined to be under the direct influence of surface water by the Maryland Department of the Environment. As a result, this source requires additional treatment, such as filtration, or replacement with a protected water source. Federal and state regulations require that the Crellin Water System install filtration.

What is the Department of Public Utilities doing? The Crellin Water System disinfects the drinking water that is produced from the spring. The drinking water is tested monthly for coliform bacteria and results have met state and federal standards.

The Department of Public Utilities is in the process of testing the design for a new water treatment facility. After the pilot test is completed, design for the project will proceed. Construction is expected to begin March 2004.

What should I do? People with severely compromised immune systems, infants, and some elderly may be at increased risk. These individuals should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. General guidelines on ways to lessen the risk of infection by microbes are available from EPA Safe Drinking Water Act Hotline (800-426-4791). If you have specific health concerns, consult your physician.

What does this mean? This is not an emergency This notification is provided to advise Crellin Water customers of the treatment requirements for their water system. Any questions or concerns should be directed to Allen Festerman at 301-387-9141. Please share this information with others that may find it useful.

Date of Notice: February 2004

IF IF IF — ALL ALL ALL

If you will seek the Lord and be converted every day; If you will of your own spiritual choice be free and joyous in God; If with gladsome consent of heart to His gracious call you come wearing the yoke of Christ - the yoke of obedience and service - All your murmurings will be stilled, All your difficulties will be removed; All the perplexing problems that now confront you will be solved.

DENTAL HEALTH MONTH PROCLAIMED – The Garrett County commissioners recently declared February 2004 as Children's Dental Health Month. The proclamation is to bring attention to the fact that dental decay is the most common disease found in children. Untreated dental decay occurs in 42% of Maryland school children, according to the Garrett County Health Department. Garrett County's dental practices and health department have significantly reduced that percentage over the past four years through preventive measures such as the use of fluoride, good oral hygiene, dental sealants, healthy diets, and regular preventive dental visits. Pictured above, in the front, are commissioners Ernie Gregg, Fred Holliday, and Dave Beard. In the back are Bob Stephens, GCHD; Dr. Tim Longest, Dental Health Group; Tami Hintz, dental assistant for Dr. Sheets; Dr. David Sheets; Debra Baker, office manager for Dr. Sheets; Jessica Wildesen, dental assistant for GCHD; Cindy Heselbach, dental hygienist for GCHD; and Julie Dixon, office assistant for GCHD. National Children's Dental Health Month

KEEP CHILDREN'S SMILES HEALTHY IN 2004
Children 's Dental Health Month February 1-29

The way children care for their bodies today will have an impact on their health far into the new century. The good news for parents is that preventive dental care has dramatically improved the oral health of American children. It's now possible for many children to reach adulthood without ever experiencing tooth decay.

February is National Children's Dental Health Month, and the Garrett County Health Department has these tips for parents and caregivers:

1. Take your child to see the dentist regularly, beginning by the child's first birthday.
2. Put only water in a child's naptime or bedtime bottle.
3. Start brushing as soon as the child's first tooth appears.
4. Begin flossing when two teeth begin to touch.
5. Brush and floss your child's teeth daily until the child can be taught to do this alone.
6. Make certain your child gets the fluoride needed for decay-resistant teeth. Ask your dentist how this should be done.
7. Ask your dentist about dental sealants, a thin protective barrier that shields the chewing surface of back teeth against tooth decay.

Good oral health practices should begin in infancy and continue throughout adult life. In your child's early years, you must provide this care. Later you will need to instruct, monitor, and motivate your child to help maintain good oral health habits.

Attitudes and habits established at an early age are critical in maintaining good oral health throughout life.

Panel Strikes, Guts Children's Insurance Bill

by Sara K. Clarke
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – A House panel stripped a bill to require health insurers to carry policyholders' children up to age 30, substituting information requirements and sending it to the floor.

Sponsoring Delegate Dan K. Morhaim, D-Baltimore County, supports the changes released by the House Health and Government Operations Committee Tuesday. Morhaim said he introduced the bill after he was contacted by constituents upset that their adult children had been booted from insurance without their knowledge.

The bill addressed the "grand chasm of no insurance," which faces young adults after they are no longer eligible for their parents' policy, he said. The committee's amended version of the bill mandates insurance companies notify parents 60 days before a child loses coverage and provide literature on other options.

At a Jan. 27 hearing, committee members considered four issues: at what age should coverage end, how dependency should be considered, whether married children should be exempted, and how the insurance risk should be divided. After testimony by insurance advocates, the committee abandoned two proposed amendments about risk allocation and changed the nature of the bill entirely.

Insurance representatives said there are plenty of options available to young adults other than remaining on a parent's policy. For instance, a healthy 26-year-old can get private insurance from about $600 a year. Internet sites such as www.ehealth.com and www.insure.com can help consumers shop comparatively, the representatives said.

"One of the things that became clear in the hearing is that people on group policies don't know how to shop for individual insurance," said Elizabeth Sammis, senior vice president for corporate communications and external affairs for Mid Atlantic Medical Services. She called the amended bill a "good compromise."

"The notification we will provide under the legislation will help them follow up and find appropriate insurance for their children," she said.

Insuring young adults also might raise parents' employer costs, some representatives said. Adults in their mid-20s are higher-risk to insure than one might think, due partially to pregnancy costs, said Fran Doherty, vice president of government affairs for CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield.

But Doherty said selling insurance to young adults isn't easy. "One of the things that happens with these kids is they don't think they need it ... it's a very difficult sell unless Mom and Dad step in and say, 'You need health insurance,'" she said. The new bill will require insurance companies to sell their products, said Doherty.

"We can do a better job of communicating what we have to sell," which will translate into more benefit from health care, she said.

The bill also requires that the Maryland Insurance Administration provide online and written lists of insurance carriers offering individual coverage plans. If it becomes evident that there are not enough options for young adults, Morhaim said, lawmakers can revisit the issue.

A LOVELY DAY FOR A DIP – There's nothing quite like a frigid, snowy day for a brisk swim in Deep Creek Lake, huh? Just ask the 418 folks who took the plunge in this year's Deep Creek Dunk, held Saturday near Uno's Restaurant. Eighteen inches of ice had to be sawed away to create some open water, and the hole was not large enough for the traditional all-at-once dunk. Pictured above is just a moment in what was a long procession of brave (and slightly nutty) souls who trudged into the freezing lake and gave "high fives" to the attending Natural Resources folks (who thought ahead and wore their wet suits for the event). The annual event is a fund-raiser hosted by the Maryland State Police to benefit the Maryland Special Olympics, and this year the total of $75,000 broke the record, as did the total of dunkers, who numbered over 100 more than last year. ## GC Delegation Sponsors Bills In Annapolis

The Garrett County Delegation has sponsored five bills in the Maryland General Assembly. The proposed legislation was requested by the Garrett County commissioners and other local officials.

The House Ways and Means Committee recently gave a favorable report for HB 539. The proposed legislation would make unpaid hotel rental tax in Garrett County a lien against certain real and personal property, and would allow that tax to be collected in the same manner as property tax is collected in the county. The Senate must now review the bill.

If HB 539 passes, the Department of Legislative Services has projected that Garrett County expenditures would decrease by $1,040 for each circumstance involving unpaid hotel rental taxes because of avoided attorneys' fees and courts costs. Revenues would not be affected.

The House Environmental Matters Committee will hold a public hearing today, Feb. 26, for HB 620. This bill would repeal several obsolete provisions in the Public Local Laws of Garrett County.

The antiquated laws pertain to "appliance installers, billiard rooms and bowling alleys, crimes and punishments, firearms, manufacturers and miners, pensions for teachers, the poor or insane, the sheriff, thistles, and wages."

Senator John Hafer has

NHS CHEER TEAM CELEBRATES – The Northern High School cheer team took second place in the Cheerleading East Coast National championships, held over the weekend at the Atlantic City (N.J.) Convention Center. The Husky cheerleaders sailed through the semifinal round of the competition Saturday by netting their best-ever team score with a flawless performance. A very gymnastically skilled team from Middlesex, Va., bested Northern in the finals. "This is a big achievement for our 12 girls, four who are freshmen," commented Coach Lisa Carr. "Going to a national competition is a once in a lifetime opportunity. This experience would not have been possible without tremendous support from the parents and community." Shown on the beach as they celebrate their well-deserved honor are, in the front row, Coach Carr, Kimmy Beiler, and Coach Larah Savage. In the middle row are Laura Costa and Stephanie Law. In the back row are Shayla Rodeheaver, Chloe Bauermaster, Caitlin Carr, Janine Beachy, Angela Nunez, Darsey Branthoover, Becca Stark, and Abbi Sisler.

Officials Receive Update On Rec Trail's Progress

The Garrett County Recreational Trails Task Force updated the county commissioners this week on its progress in establishing a biking trail along Glendale Road.

That trail would be the third leg of a three-part system in the McHenry area that links the Wisp Resort and Deep Creek Lake State Park. Because of property issues and the narrowness of Glendale Road, however, this section has been the most difficult to develop.

The task force met with about nine Glendale Road property owners recently to discuss the plan and its various options. "All in all, it was a very good meeting," said task force chairman Steve Green. A majority of the owners and two homeowner associations were interested in seeing the trail developed, Green noted.

"It's encouraging to have the property owners' support," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg.

The tasks force's number one priority for the trail is safety, stressed Green. Keeping that in mind, the members looked at two trail design options: on-the-road lanes on each side of Glendale Road, where bicyclists would "share the road" with motorists, and an off-the-road trail along one side of the road only.

A majority of the group wanted an off-road trail, Green said. In addition to being safer, flexible, and

Deer Park, MLP, Accident To Begin Strategic Planning

Next month the communities of Deer Park, Mtn. Lake Park, and Accident will join the ongoing "community legacy" strategic planning process already undertaken by the county's five other municipalities. The process is designed to identify development opportunities, community resources, and the financing required to fully achieve the potential for each community's unique commercial and residential areas.

As part of the kick-off of the process, each town will host a public meeting to solicit citizen input and develop goals for each community. The first meeting for Mtn. Lake Park is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 3; Deer Park's session will take place at 6 p.m. Thursday, March 4; and Accident's meeting is slated for 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 9. All meetings will take place at each community's town hall.

Last year, Garrett County Community Action Committee received funding from the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's 'Community Legacy' program to undertake a strategic planning process for all of the county's eight munici-

Road Conditions Blamed For Many Saturday Mishaps

White-out conditions and ice and snow-covered roads were to blame for numerous accidents Saturday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Four vehicles were involved in an accident on Garrett Highway just south of Sand Flat Road around 11:45 a.m.

Charlotte Dillsworth of Accident was operating a 1987 Plymouth 2-door northbound on Garrett Highway when she lost control of the vehicle because of the white-out conditions and the ice and snow-covered road. Ramona Kitzmiller of Oakland, who was operating a 2003 Dodge van behind Dillsworth, observed that vehicle go out of control and she swerved, which caused her to travel into the southbound lane and strike a 1992 Toyota 2-door operated by Lori Gallagher of Accident.

Another vehicle, operated by Tracy Ahern of Oakland, was following Kitzmiller and could not stop in time before hitting the Dillsworth vehicle in the northbound lane, police said.

None of the four passengers in Ahern's vehicle were injured. One passenger in

Oakland Recycling Program Slated To Begin On March 5

The Oakland mayor and town council have issued a reminder to town residents and businesses that curbside recycling of newspapers and cans will begin next week. Collection of these recyclables will start on Friday, March 5 and 19, and continue twice monthly.

The town council amended its refuse collection ordinance last fall to allow for the collection of newspaper and cans. Participation in the program will be voluntary. "Hopefully, the curbside convenience will encourage more people to recycle, thus saving landfill space," said Mayor Asa McCain. "If the recycling is successful, the tonnage fees at the landfill eventually may be reduced or at least not increased."

Participants in Oakland's recycling should place the newspapers and cans in separate bags outside by 7 a.m. on the first and third Friday of each month. Bags must be left in the same place where trash is picked up,

Jury Finds Local Man Not Guilty Of Rape, Kidnapping

A Garrett County Circuit Court jury recently found a 23-year-old Oakland area man, Chad Michael Troshak, not guilty of first-degree rape, second-degree rape, second-degree assault, kidnapping, and false imprisonment.

The jury, however, did find him guilty of violating an ex parte/protection order, second offense. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Troshak to one year in the Garrett County Jail, with credit for time served.

The charges stem from incidences that occurred last May involving a 21-year-old female, who had a ex parte/protection order against Troshak.

According to a police report, Troshak allegedly grabbed the female from the front porch of her residence and drove her to a secluded area along Deer Field Road. She reported that the defendant taped her wrists and arms with duct tape and raped her twice, before driving her back and releasing her near her home.

Lake's Growth To Be Examined Monday At GC

A public meeting to solicit citizen input concerning growth trends in the Deep Creek Lake area will get under way at 7 p.m. this Monday, March 1, in Room 314 of the Garrett College Continuing Education building.

The Deep Creek Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis Task Force and the consulting firm Environmental Resource Management (ERM) are co-hosting the session. ERM has been contracted by the county to undertake an analysis of growth trends and provide recommendations for the county commissioners to consider as the lake area continues to develop.

Machines, Polling Places Ready For March 2 Election

New touch-screen voting machines are "set to go" for the March 2 primary election, according to the Garrett County Board of Elections.

Judges were trained in the new statewide voting program, and were given the opportunity to try out the new devices, said Steve Fratz, director of the board of elections.

In addition to candidates for the presidential, Senate, and 6th District congressional race, voters will choose delegates to the party conventions.

Candidates vying for three delegate positions to the Republican National Convention are Tim Brooks, Samie Conyers, George C. Edwards, James M. Harkins, Koreen Hughes, Philip Greene, Richard Hugg, David G. Lenhart, and Tricia Wolfe.

Voters will choose two women and two men for the Democratic National Conventions. Female candidates are Corynne B. Courpas, Susan Lucas Derse, Jennifer Dougherty, Gail L. Evans, Maggi Hays, Beverly Kipe, Lisa M. Lum, Rachel Querry, Anita L. Riley, Barbara Rodekohr, Betty Roth, Joanne M. Rubin, Judy Lyons Wolfe, and Laura J. Wright.

Male candidates are Robert Blumenthal, Dale R. Chase, Michael G. Comeau, Michael G. Day, Bill DuVall, Rodney D. Vox, Damian L. Halstad, David

SHS Boosters Ask Commissioners For Help Buying New Band Uniforms

The Southern High School Band Boosters asked the Garrett County commissioners this week for financial assistance in defraying the cost of new band uniforms.

Kathy Johnson noted that, "ideally," uniforms are only purchased every 10 years and are not a usual expense for the band. It will cost the boosters $31,000 to replace the 17-year-old uniforms that the musicians are currently using.

Johnson and Sheila Edwards told the commissioners that total expenses for the band from June 1, 2004, through May 31, 2005, will be about $80,300. Projected income for that period, however, is only $50,500, which would leave the boosters with a $29,800 deficit after purchasing the uniforms.

Field show expenses are expected to total between $27,000 and $28,000 next year, according to the boosters. Transportation alone will cost $12,000 for the band to travel to the various competitions, with band camp, camp staffing, and music copyright payments making up the remaining field show costs.

Other yearly expenses include instruments, instrument repairs, insurance, winter percussion costs, and various miscellaneous expenditures. Sheet music for the parade, stage, and concert bands will cost at least $1,000.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg noted that only 23 percent of the band's budget comes from the Garrett County Board of Education.

The BOE now contributes $13,000 annually for transportation, instruments, and instrument repairs and replacement. Commissioner Dave Beard noted that the BOE usually looks at what is required for the classroom when it decides funding.

Other sources of income for the boosters include band camp tuition, bingo, donations, grants, fair booth revenue, and admission fees from the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands.

Edwards noted, however, that the band's annual tournament held during the Autumn Glory Festival was its only home field show.

Cindy's Fund Supports Early Cancer Detection

Cindy's Fund recently made a $14,000 donation to be used for early cancer detection. The money is being donated to the Garrett County Cancer Control Program (GCCCP), coordinated by the Garrett County Health Department.

Partners of this program include all the primary care providers and surgeons in Garrett County, as well as Garrett County Memorial Hospital, all of whom provide services to this program at discounted rates.

In the first three years of operation, over 500 county residents have participated in the program and received cancer-screening services, according to a report from the GCCCP. Cancer was found in 21 of the persons who were screened. Most of these persons have cancer at an early stage, when treatment can be more effective and sometimes even lead to recovery.

The cancer screening panel usually includes a medical history, physical examination, and screening test for up to six cancers. More than 280 colonoscopies have been performed under this program, according to the report. Although treatment is not paid for by the GCCCP, program staff assists the patient to find care.

The report notes that money available for medical services for the current fiscal year has nearly been expended. However, with this donation, services can continue without the need to establish lengthy waiting lists. Funding for the program comes from donations

DYNAMIC DUO DUNK FOR OLYMPIANS – Dave Taylor and Melody Calderon of Railey Mountain Lake Vacations participated in their fourth consecutive Maryland State Police Deep Creek Dunk for Special Olympics this past weekend. This year the duo raised more than $5,600 for Special Olympics. Individually, Taylor took first place for overall money raised. They were sponsored by Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, Railey Realty, and several other local sponsors.

Ongoing Growth At Wisp Sparks Need For More Ski Patrollers

Since the Wisp Ski Area opened in the mid 1950s (then Marsh Mountain Ski Area) in McHenry, members of the National Ski Patrol have been taking care of injured skiers and helping to make the resort a safer place to ski and, in more recent years, snowboard.

The Wisp Ski Patrol consists primarily of volunteers from Garrett County, West Virginia, and the Baltimore-Washington metropolitan areas. The patrol also has a small staff of paid members.

However, with the rapid growth of the Wisp currently under way, it is getting more and more difficult to adequately patrol the slopes and trails, according to Mark Halsig, paid patrol director, and Bill Roszell, volunteer patrol leader.

"We have reached the point where we really need to begin some recruiting," Halsig said, and he invites all skiers who may be interested in becoming patrol candidates to report to the Wisp Ski Patrol room on Saturday, March 6, at 8:30 a.m. to begin the process.

"We annually take on new candidates to train to become full-fledged patrollers at the Wisp," Roszell explained. "Candidates can look forward to not only learning first aid skills, but also to seeing their skiing abilities improve dramatically."

Candidates must be at least 18 years of age and have at least advanced intermediate skiing ability.

"The training process is somewhat time consuming," Halsig said. "It involves a three-month first aid course in the fall, followed by a one- to two-year on-the-hill training program in which candidates learn how to run toboggans and how to apply their first aid skills in the field."

A candidate becomes a National Ski Patrol patroller once he or she successfully passes skiing, first aid, and toboggan handling testing.

The Wisp provides a free ski pass to candidates for their training period. Once candidates become patrollers, they are scheduled to patrol at the Wisp 12 days per season and are eligible for free ski passes for the members of their immediate families.

"The great majority of patrollers have found that being a part of the patrol is a great way to expand one's skiing experience, to become a better skier, to gain the satisfaction that comes with helping others, and to enjoy the camaraderie of belonging to a great volunteer group," Roszell said.

Halsig emphasized that there is also a need for paid patrollers at the Wisp, whose training is essentially identical to that of the volunteer patrollers.

Anyone who is interested in joining the patrol and/or obtaining more information is invited to stop in at the patrol room at the Wisp or contact Halsig and Roszell at 301-387-4911, extension 2138, or by e-mail at mhalsig@skiwisp.com.

FOR NEARLY 50 YEARS members of the National Ski Patrol have provided emergency medical care for injured skiers at Marsh Mountain, now the Wisp Resort in McHenry. With the rapid expansion of the ski area, however, the leaders of the Wisp Ski Patrol are attempting to recruit some new members, both volunteer and paid. See story for details.

Driver Charged After Hitting Crellin Bridge

A Loch Lynn woman was charged with drunk driving after her 1996 Mercury passenger car stuck both sides of the bridge near Otterbein Street in Crellin Sunday night, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Emily Marie Knotts, 29, was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving while impaired by alcohol (DWI), negligent driving, and failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

According to police, the Knotts vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed, struck the eastbound side of the bridge, crossed the center of the road, and struck the westbound side of the bridge before coming to a stop in front of Gibson's Store.

In a separate incident, James Robert Edds, 26, Arnold, was arrested and charged with drunk driving after deputies stopped the vehicle at the entrance of Wal-Mart in Oakland early Saturday morning.

Edds was charged with DUI, DWI, failure to drive right of center, and inadequate illumination of the registration plate.

Also in police news, Michael J. Andres, 45, Frostburg, failed field sobriety tests after deputies stopped his vehicle for failing to stop at a stop sign at Ravine Street and Pennsylvania Avenue Friday night in Grantsville.

Andres was charged with DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and failure to stop at a stop sign.

Two Residents Arrested After Alleged Assault

Two Oakland residents were arrested and charged with second-degree assault after Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a residence on East Reese Street in reference to a domestic incident in progress Wednesday night.

June Sauerwald, 29, and Robert Elburn Jr., 27, were arrested and are currently being held in the Garrett County Detention Center awaiting a bond hearing.

Oakland Woman Injured In Sand Flat Rd. Mishap

A Saturday afternoon accident slightly injured an Oakland woman when her vehicle rolled over on Sand Flat Road, according to the Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack.

Pamela Trickett, 44, was driving in the area of Paradise Point Road shortly before 5 p.m. when she lost control on the ice-covered roadway and crashed. She was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. No charges were reported.

Severna Man Charged After Sunday Crash

A Severna Park man was charged by Maryland State Police troopers for unsafe driving that led to a Sunday morning single-vehicle crash on Mayhew Inn Road. Although the 10 a.m. mishap did not result in any injuries, a downed utility pole knocked out the electricity and telephone service in the area for several hours.

Daniel John Parry Sr., 43, was traveling east near Bray School Road when the trailer he was towing behind his 2000 Ford Excursion slid on the icy roadway and jackknifed. The momentum caused Parry's SUV to hit the pole, requiring crews from Allegheny Power and Verizon to be summoned for repair work. Mayhew Inn also was closed for several hours.

Parry was charged with failure to reduce speed in dangerous highway conditions. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded.

Driver Injured When Vehicle Slides Into Bus

The driver of a Dodge 2-door car was injured after his vehicle reportedly slid on black ice on Maryland Highway at the intersection with Swanton Road and hit the driver's side rear of a Garrett County school bus, which was carrying 25 students Friday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Clifford Cooper, 19, Swanton, was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of his injuries in the 8 a.m. incident.

The bus, driven by Kevin Stahl, 55, Oakland, was stopped at the stop sign when the Cooper vehicle was making a right turn on Maryland Highway and slid into the bus.

All 25 students were taken to GCMH for examination; however, none were injured, police said.

Deer Park firefighters, the State Highway Administration, and Garrett County school board officials assisted at the scene.

Cooper was charged with failure to reduce speed on dangerous highway conditions.

Three GC Residents Included In Ehrlich's Green Bag Appointments

Gov. Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. last Friday submitted 200 appointment nominations, known as "Green Bag" appointments, to the Maryland State Senate. Three Garrett County residents have been nominated to three different boards: Robert E. Heilig, State Board of Master Electricians; George C. Tichnell, Garrett College Board of Trustees; and Charles P. Nolan, Garrett County Board of Elections.

The governor's appointments secretary, Lawrence J. Hogan Jr., presented Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr. with a green bag with names of nominees that included representatives from all 23 counties and Baltimore City and several former elected officials.

"I am proud of the job my appointments staff has done in selecting qualified persons for respective boards and commissions based on their experience and integrity, regardless of party affiliation," said Ehrlich.

This year's Green Bag includes appointment nominations for over 90 different State offices, boards and commissions. Nearly 25 percent of the individuals proposed for appointment come from diverse ethnic backgrounds, according to the governor.

Among the items submitted for Senate confirmation are two new appointments to the University System of Maryland Board of Regents: Adela M. Acosta a Prince George's County educator, and R. Michael Gill, chairman of Hoyt Capital. Acosta is believed to be the first Hispanic to serve on the board.

The Green Bag also includes new appointment nominations to the Public Service Commission, the State Workers' Compensation Commission, the Maryland Stadium Authority, and a wide array of governing, regulatory, and advisory bodies.

Places Ready

G. Nance, Sushant Sidh, William Stevens, George D. Wenschhof, and Ronald W. Wolf.

Jim Raley and Charlotte Sebold, two candidates for seats on the Garrett County Board of Education, will not appear on the primary because they are running unopposed. Their names will appear on the general election ballot.

Residents can register from March 15 until Oct. 12 to vote in the Nov. 2 general election.

Several voting places have changed. Voters in Kitzmiller will now go to Kitzmiller Elementary School, Grantsville voters will go to Grantsville Elementary School, and Gorman voters will go to the fire department engine room. The polling place in Deer Park is now the Mountain Top Christian Assembly of God Church.

More information about the election can be found at www.garrettcounty.org or by calling 301-334-6985.

Absentee Vote To Be Tallied Next Thursday

The Garrett County Board of Elections has announced that on Thursday, March 4, at 10 a.m. the Board of Canvassers will begin the process of opening, reviewing, and/or counting the absentee ballots cast in the March 2 presidential primary elections. This process is open to public observation.

The canvassing will be conducted at the Election Board office at 2008 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park. For more information, persons may call 301-334-6985.

and local, state, and federal resources, including the federal Breast and Cervical Cancer Program (BCCP) and the state Cigarette Restitution Fund (CRF).

Cindy's Fund was started in 2002 in memory of Cindy Kutchman, who devoted much energy in her last years of life to the prevention and early detection of cancer before succumbing to cancer herself. The fund "spun off" from the Garrett County Community Cancer Coalition. This planning and advisory group identified the need for more funds to support cancer screening for lower-income county residents who did not have health insurance and were unable to pursue recommended cancer screening.

The fund now operates under the Western Maryland Health Care Corporation, a Garrett County private non-profit (501)c3 organization promoting local access to health care. The money goes directly to fund local cancer screening services, and there is no overhead because of the efforts of many local volunteers.

Donations may be made to Cindy's Fund and addressed to the Western Maryland Health Care Corporation, PO Box 656, Oakland, MD 21550.

Recycling Program

but not in a bin or any other enclosure. They must be in plain view for the collection crew.

For the first month, Oakland will supply the recycling bags, which can be picked up at the town hall, 15 S. Third Street, weekdays. After that, each household will be responsible for purchasing the bags, either at the town hall or from a local merchant.

The bags must be strong enough to hold 25 lbs. of newspaper and be a clear, translucent blue or translucent white.

The bag for newspapers may include the thin glossies that come with them, but other items such as catalogs, magazines, and any type of mail should not be included. The bag for cans may hold both ferrous (tin/steel) and aluminum mixed. All cans must be rinsed out.

Even though recycling in Oakland will be voluntary, each customer will be assessed a mandatory, nominal fee to support the program. An additional charge of $3 quarterly will be assessed on the water/sewer bill.

Persons interested in more information about recycling in Oakland may contact McCain at 301-334-2691.

GOLDEN GLOWS FARE WELL AT COMPETITION – The Grantsville Golden Glows Cheer and Dance Team recently competed in the Winter Cheer and Dance Challenge at the Community College of Baltimore County, Dundalk campus. Both teams earned second place trophies. The teams also received bids to attend the Extreme Shore Championship at Rehoboth Beach, Del. The Golden Glows are currently trying to raise the funds to attend this event, and a spaghetti dinner will be held this Friday, Feb. 27, at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club, from 5 to 9 p.m. Monetary donations are being accepted as well, and anyone wishing to donate to the group may forward their contribution to 4367 Chestnut Ridge Rd., Grantsville, MD 21536. ## Strategic Plans palities. "The program provides funding for a wide range of important activities for local governments, including the strategic plans for our municipalities," said Duane Yoder, president of the Garrett County Community Action Committee.

"To date, the towns of Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, and Oakland have completed their plans," Yoder added. "The process has truly invigorated the communities, and we are seeing a great deal of enthusiasm among residents to begin implementing the recommendations. I am looking forward to the same level of excitement as a result of the Deer Park, Accident, and Mountain Lake Park planning process."

The plans already developed by the first five communities include recommendations on beautification, business recruitment and retention, housing, recreation, and tourism opportunities. Recommendations are based on how residents want to see their communities grow and the assets that each town has to offer.

GCCAC has contracted with Terrell Ellis & Associates, a consulting firm from Charleston, W.Va., to facilitate the strategic planning process. The firm specializes in community and economic development planning and has extensive experience in working with rural communities like those in Garrett County.

"This plan will allow the residents of our community to voice their opinion about how Deer Park should develop over the next few years," commented Deer Park mayor Don Dawson. "This is a great opportunity for everyone to come out and be heard. I would encourage as many of our citizens as possible to attend this important meeting."

Blamed For

Dillsworth's vehicle was injured, and one of the two passengers in Kitzmiller's vehicle was injured. Gallagher and Kitzmiller also sustained injuries.

All injured persons were transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Assisting at the scene were Oakland firefighters and Maryland State Police.

The juvenile driver of a 2000 Dodge Dakota truck was slightly injured when the vehicle was pulled in the ditch area of Route 219 just north of Monte Vista Road because of white-out and slushy road conditions. The vehicle overturned in the field. No charges were filed in the accident.

Two vehicles were involved in an accident on Sand Flat Road at approximately 2:20 p.m.

A 1998 Volkswagen driven by Kailee Craig of Oakland was traveling southbound when she entered white-out conditions and struck the rear of a 1999 Dodge truck, operated by Steve Weaver, Oakland.

A passenger in the Weaver vehicle, Rebecca Iden, was transported to GCMH for treatment of minor injuries, police said.

At approximately the same time, deputies responded to Garrett Highway near Roth Reynolds Road for another two-vehicle accident.

Police said that Rebecca Ashly Witz Littlefield, 19, Reisterstown, slowed her vehicle almost to a complete stop because of the white-out conditions, and was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Samuel Slaubuagh, 52, Bayard, W.Va.

No injuries were reported, and no charges were filed because of the weather conditions.

In a separate incident, Cheryl Christine Pachilis, 39, Oakland, was injured when her vehicle stuck a guardrail and came to rest in a snow drift along Garrett Highway just north of Monte Vista Road shortly before 1 p.m.

According to the report, Pachilis was not able to see because of the severe snow and crosswinds. She was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH for treatment.

One driver, Katie M. Grimm, 17, Friendsville, was cited for failure to drive right of center in a two-vehicle accident on Garrett Highway just north of Glotfelty Enterprises at 1 p.m.

Grimm was traveling northbound on Garrett Highway and lost control of her vehicle, crossed the center line, and struck a southbound vehicle operated by Debora S. Robinette, 43, Oakland.

Police said that the snow-covered road was a factor in the accident. Both parties were transported by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH for treatment.

Oakland firefighters and Oakland City Police also responded to the scene. Fitzwater Towing removed both vehicles from the scene.

Man Charged With Drugs After Traffic Stop By Deputies

A Westernport man was charged with drug possession after police stopped his vehicle Monday night after it was observed swerving and crossing the center of the road on Maryland Highway near Altamont, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jeremiah Daniel Martin, 19, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia after a bag of suspected marijuana and a metal smoking pipe containing burnt residue were found in the vehicle, police said.

In a separate incident, Barclay Henry Dixon, 37, Terra Alta, W.Va., was charged with drunk driving after his vehicle was stopped on Crellin Street for not having the proper rear lighting equipment on his truck.

After failing field sobriety tests, Dixon was charged with driving while under the influence (DUI), DUI per se, and driving while impaired (DWI).

All the rest are away. "We try to keep a schedule that is reasonable," she said. The farthest that the band traveled last field show season was to Scranton, Pa., for the Atlantic Coast Tournament of Bands Championships.

Only the top 25 bands in groups I-IV in the 13-state Atlantic Coast region qualified for the event. The Northern High School Band also qualified, placing 20th in the event. Southern came in 24th.

"I think the community is very proud of our bands," said Beard. "I know I certainly am." They provide "a lot of good publicity for the county," he added.

Each new uniform will cost the Southern band boosters $403. They made a $9,945 down payment on the uniforms in January. To help pay off the remaining $21,000, the boosters will be conducting several additional fund-raisers, which may include asking help from alumni and a big-bucks bingo game.

Gregg said the commissioners would take the boosters' request for financial assistance under consideration and let them know their decision as soon as possible.

Bigger Fish to Fry...

It's unfortunate that the issue of same-sex marriage is suddenly becoming such a heated, controversial debate in national politics, spurred most recently by the mayor of San Francisco opening the district court doors and issuing marriage permits to homosexual couples. It's unfortunate because, frankly, there are many other more important issues and problems that need our energy and attention right now.

Granted, for those aforementioned couples, this is a vital issue, as they struggle for recognition and, more importantly, for rights that are equal to those afforded married heterosexual couples.

Opinions on the legal marriage of same-sex couples run the gamut, from not caring one way or the other to morally repugnant. To a certain extent it is a matter of semantics, and what comes to mind for each individual when contemplating the marriage relationship. For most, there is a definite religious connection ("What God has joined together..."). For many others, marriage is more of a legal union, with the religious connection (if there is one) not being of primary importance.

The constitutional amendment proposed by President Bush to guarantee the sanctity of marriage by legally requiring it to be between a man and a woman is not a good idea. It will do nothing to address the equal rights issues that exist for citizens who choose same-sex relationships. In fact, it will aggravate that situation even further. The amendment will probably not survive Supreme Court scrutiny even if it gets congressional approval in the first place, which is unlikely. It seems more logical to allow the individual states to continue to decide how best to deal with the issue.

There is also a tremendous amount of hypocrisy in how we value the marriage relationship. Our society in general does not treat the relationship with much respect anyway, as wedding vows are tossed out the window every second of every day throughout our country. Divorce is rampant, and in some places can be achieved in a matter of hours. Entertainers like Britney Spears, who was "married" for less than 48 hours, make a mockery of it, and such behavior is blithely accepted.

And how about all of the heartache and abuse that exist in some families in which the totally incompatible husband and wife, for whatever reason, stay together? There are without question far more acts of violence that occur in homes headed by heterosexual couples than those of a gay couples, even on a per capita basis.

There are much bigger fish that need frying right now, and the president should do himself a favor by allowing the 50 governors and state legislatures to deal with this one.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The thought that the erection of a cross of any size on any location sending a message that non-Christians are unwelcome in our community is, I feel, absurd, as absurd as the notion that the display of the American flag sends a message that people of other nationalities are unwelcome here. Displays of symbols such as these represent certain beliefs, not condemnation of other peoples.

However, I think the issue that needs to be addressed is one of aesthetics. We already have an overlook and flag on the side of that mountain. Next, a 30-ft. cross? Then what? Another religious symbol? Another flag representing an organization or club? A sign of some sort? What was once a lovely green mountainside could soon become a large community bulletin board.

There is a place for these things, but I don't feel this location is it.

Respectfully,
Sue Moriarity
Oakland

To the Editor:

May I endeavor to calm the waters for your "outraged" newspaper photographer John McEwen? Unless I am totally ignorant of the constitution, it is quite clear on the freedom that is guaranteed for exercising one's religious beliefs far more than privately. Would we better disallow the various area churches to have public signs or crosses nearby identifying their denomination, for fear of offending passers-by?

Surely we would all understand the world's religious beliefs more if we allowed Jews, Muslims, and Buddhists to also exercise their rights similarly to the display of a large cross. Then it would behoove all of us to research the rudiments of all religions, and everyone would become aware of the fact that more Christians are martyred in the present time than in all previous centuries, and we would also come to understand who is responsible for that kind of intolerance in many countries of Africa, the Middle East, and Southeast Asia.

Should not tolerance be exercised with a spirit of respectful reciprocity?

Sincerely,
Paul A. Eary
Cranesville, W.Va.

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to all of the letters published last week about why the cross should be put up on the overlook in Oakland. I am a Christian myself and I believe that Christians should be spreading the word of God to others. However, I strongly disagree that this project should be completed.

The cross does not convey the true message of Christ to non-believers. When people drive by and look at the cross, do you really think that the first thing that comes to their mind will be the true message of Christ? Probably not. They will most likely think about how big it is and how wonderfully it was constructed. Most won't even give the faintest thought about the true meaning behind it.

In this day and age, I believe it is very sad that we call ourselves Christians and yet we go and spend $25,000 dollars on a giant cross on a hill, while there are still millions of people all over the world who have never had the privilege of hearing about God. I think that this money could be used to truly convey to others the sovereignty and holiness of Christ through missions or other means. It says in the Bible to "Let others see your good works and glorify your father who is in heaven." (Matt. 5.16) Tell me, would it be more glorifying to God to put a giant cross on a hill, or let others hear the true message of Christ and learn about his sovereignty and grace through our examples and actions?

I urge everyone supporting this project to just take the time to sit back and really reflect on the true message that they are trying to convey to others. Is this cross more of a statement of pride for Christians, or are you truly trying to express the message of Christ? If you still think that putting up the cross will help to reveal God's true grace, then please go on with the project. All I am asking is for the people behind this to think before undertaking such a big and expensive project. Thank you.

Bobby J. Bonser

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Mr. John McEwen's letter (2-12-2004). He complains about the idea of erecting this cross. Has he not traveled this nation's vast road system to see the crosses erected by the late Rev. Coffindaffer? If you notice, many of them are located in areas of beautiful views. This was one of his criteria. Doubtless, the view from the overlook in Oakland is just as beautiful. Has he not traveled along I-75 between Bristol and Knoxville, Tenn., to see a 40-ft. tall cross along the interstate? How about at the top of Chalk Hill on Rt. 40 before descending into Uniontown, the huge cross that overlooks that valley?

You talk about the "waste" of money on such a project. Interestingly, Judas did the same when Mary broke the alabaster box ointment and anointed Jesus' head.

As for the erecting of a Jewish Star of David, it would be a good reminder to pray for Israel and the peace of Jerusalem (Psalm 122). After all, while they do not believe that Christ the Messiah has come, they do believe in God! Not to mention that Israel is also God's chosen people. As for a Muslim crescent? No. Do you not remember 9-11? The Muslims do not believe in God or Christ and would most definitely be against what this country was founded on – *Christ*ianity.

You want a community where there is absolutely no outward display of Christianity. And the American flag that my forefathers fought and died for would need to be surrounded by flags of every other nation. After all, you want to make everyone cozy and right at home, right? Have you not watched the news, documentaries, or even seen pictures of the Middle East where there are towers that men stand in and yell prayers to Allah over loudspeakers. Those towers are more prominent than any church steeple or cross, and that is five times a day they yell the chants/prayers. And talk about religious intolerance? They do not tolerate Christianity. China is the same way. It is against the law (to the point of death if caught) to try to not only propagate Christianity but also worship on your own.

A cross is not a "You're not welcome" sign to a non-Christian; it is a welcome sign. Matthew 11:28, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." The cross is a symbol of unconditional love. The Bible says that God has no pleasure in the death of the wicked. Ezekiel 33:11, "Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked." That is why Christ came, so that all men might be saved. Christ died on the cross for the sins of the whole world so that all people, past, present, and future, could have eternal life.

I John 2:2, "and he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world." John 3:16, "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Churches, along with the Union Rescue Mission, Red Cross, and Salvation Army, are affiliated with Christian organizations, and take in and take care of everyone from the drunk to people of other races and religions. I am 34 and have never seen or heard of Muslims or Buddhists taking to the streets to help people in need.

If it offends you that much, you can go live in another country. Better yet, you need to get saved and proclaim the gospel of Christ (Matthew 28). By the way, Psalms 33:12, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."

Sincerely,
Mark A. Phillips
Oakland

To the Editor:

We've all heard that one should never discuss politics or religion in polite company, as both tend to be spark strong emotional and passionate reactions in people. Of course, both are among the most interesting of subjects and, as such, are difficult to avoid. With that in mind, I'd like to weigh in on the debate regarding the placement of a 30' cross next to the U.S. flag overlooking downtown Oakland.

John McEwen recently wrote a letter to the editor in opposition to this addition to local landscape. He viewed it as implying that this town is solidly Christian and not welcoming to those who aren't. As would be expected, his letter sparked a number of responses, mostly in favor of the cross being erected. I wish to stand up alongside Mr. McEwen in opposition to the placement of this cross and agree with him that the implied message is clear – welcome to Oakland, as long as you view the world the way "we do."

I have no idea what, if any, religious path Mr. McEwen follows, but I am a Christian and an active member of my Oakland church. For me the cross represents a symbol of my faith and the ultimate sacrifice offered by the founder of my religion. I am comforted by its prominence in my church and would passionately fight anyone who tried to remove it. However, it is a symbol of my faith, not a symbol for everyone.

One of the greatest qualities of this nation is our attempt to recognize all faiths as being equal and to even give equal status to those who don't subscribe to any faith. Unlike the cross being on a house of worship, the placement of this cross right next to our national flag in such a visible public place sends a strong message that these symbols represent us all, when in fact they don't. In spite of the arguments that "it is private land and the owners should be able to do with it as they please," there is no question that anyone coming into Oakland will see these two symbols together as linked and representative of public policy in our town. For many that will be comforting, for many others it will send a chilling message of intolerance and exclusion. The bottom line for me is that it is totally inappropriate, just as the placement of a memorial to the Ten Commandments in a public courthouse in Alabama was totally inappropriate for a diverse nation like ours.

A number of the letters written in response to Mr. McEwen condemned him by quoting biblical scripture, implying that there is only one way to read the Bible and one way to interpret its message. I want to remind the reader that Christians do not speak with one voice. Some Christians view the Bible as the literal word of God. Others, such as I, view it as a divinely inspired story of the struggle of humanity to understand God and our relationship with God, but do not believe every passage in the Bible is the word of God.

To quote scripture as though it is the final word is fine for those who believe such, but is meaningless and divisive when directed at those who have a different perspective. This diversity of opinion is just one more example of why this cross, in such a prominent display, is loaded with far too much baggage to be the public symbol of Oakland it will certainly become.

Gary Lambert
Oakland

To the Editor:

One of the most well-reasoned and articulate letters to ever appear on the pages of The Republican was that by Mr. McEwen on February 12, and it deserved a headline to draw the attention of all readers.

Mr. McEwen wrote about the Mountaintop Ministerial Association's plan to erect a 30-foot-tall cross next to the flag at the overlook in Oakland. His thoughts should be blazoned on a flyer which in turn should be distributed to every voter in Garrett County along with the e-mail, fax, phone, and snail-mail addresses for the zoning board so they hear from the public before making a decision which will come back to haunt the county for decades.

One can easily envision the scenario he describes. The war of the religious symbols would be the inevitable result. Christians are not the only religion with $25,000 or more to spend on monuments. And it might not be a 30-foot-tall Star of David or Islamic crescent, but a 150-foot-tall Star of David or Islamic crescent, and then will the Mountaintop Ministerial Assn. want a 300-foot-tall cross? Will the battle of the big religious symbols escalate ad infinitum? Common sense says this would be the only possible result.

And here's the ironic point always overlooked by all those who would claim to speak for the Founding Fathers and say these are good Christian acts indicative of the history of our nation.

As anyone who has visited Monticello knows, one of our Founding Fathers, Thomas Jefferson, had what could best be described as a "cut, paste, and patch" Bible. President Jefferson did not believe certain parts of the Bible, and he cut the parts of the Bible he approved of and made his own Bible.

How many bookstores make the "Jefferson Bible" available to the public today? And how many Christian ministers today would approve of any parishioners who followed this lead of one of our Founding Fathers?

I daresay it is dangerous to invoke the Founding Fathers when we are not even cognizant of some of the more idiosyncratic ideas they had. There are sound reasons they were called revolutionaries, and we would be wise to know more about our American history before we claim to speak for all Christians.

Respectfully yours,
Douglas Scott Arey

To the Editor:

I have been reading my online edition of The Republican and I have found it quite interesting, all of the debates over various things that are going on in the county: the Humane Society, the cross on a mountain, everyone exercising his or her freedom of speech.

I am saddened that my home county is arguing over a 30-foot cross that is to be placed near the overlook. Why, you ask, am I disheartened by this? I know Garrett County and I love it. This means that I know there are people in our county who need help. I can think of a million better uses for the money being spent on this horribly tacky display of "our heritage."

Right now, this very moment, there is someone who is without heat in the county, or without food, or someone who needs you to visit them, not just pray for them and tell them that Christ is with him or her. There are people who need help, and I can imagine that getting money is better than getting the joy of seeing a cross on top of a mountain symbolizing someone's faith.

I implore you, my fellow Garrett Countians, remember, as Christ pointed out time and again, the poor...remember those in need. Rather than we argue over a cross, let's argue over a living wage, argue over the horrific state of our federal government and its citizens' lack of concern, argue over the McMansions that are springing up around our once beautiful lake, argue over 800 families living in poverty in Garrett County, argue over something that really matters, and let's find a way to change it so that our children will want to live in Garrett County. For crying out loud, quit arguing about a stupid symbol.

In peace,
David Coffman

P.S. Don't let anybody make you think that God chose America as His divine messianic force to be – a sort of policeman of the whole world. God has a way of standing before the nations with judgment, and it seems that I can hear God saying to America: "You are too arrogant! If you don't change your ways, I will rise up and break the backbone of your power."

To the Editor:

After rereading the article titled "Delegate Claims Bear Season Is...Payback" from last week's edition of The Republican (2-19-04), I still come to the same conclusion. Delegate Barbara Frush of Prince George's County thinks we are all stupid up here in Garrett and Allegany counties.

She is quoted in the article as saying, "I think it's the instinct of the animal versus the stupidity of the people that cause the problems."

Are we stupid for wanting to plant gardens or feed song birds. Or are we stupid for wanting to make a living raising crops or livestock. Maybe we're stupid because we don't want our vehicles damaged and our lives threatened by these animals wandering onto our roads or even into our homes.

I witnessed this debate in Pennsylvania a few decades ago as a resident there before relocating to Maryland. The bear hunting season had been closed for several years and all of the same

Babbling Brainstorms

By Beth L. Bowers

MY 2-YEAR-OLD TRAINER

I was starting to feel quite proud of myself for sticking to my new workout routine. I have been dedicated to doing an hour-long walking tape at home at least six days a week for the last month. Not since college and the fear of gaining the "Freshman 15" had I been so diligent. But last week, I quickly came to the realization that my diligence doesn't come from within myself. So where does it come from? — my tireless 2-year-old trainer named Carter.

When I started using this tape, I decided to try to do the workout about the same time every day so that it fit nicely into the busy after-work and school schedule. At first Tyler was into walking with me, but he quickly tired of it since, according to him, it seemed like "it lasted forever." Carter has reacted quite differently to it.

Twice last week, before I had even removed my coat I heard Carter yelling from the back room, "Hurry, Mom. Exercise is starting. Hurry or you're going to miss it."

He had dropped his coat in the middle of the hallway in order to turn on the TV and pop in the video before I had even closed the kitchen door. Talk about a motivation for me.

The second day he started the video well before I was ready. I started it because he insisted it was "exercise time," but after the first mile, I turned it off because I just wasn't in the mood. He asked me several times why I stopped, and didn't seem to like my answer. Every time he saw me walk toward that room, he jumped up and asked if it was exercise time. After dinner and getting everything ready for the next day, Carter seemed to have forgotten about the video, but he had made me feel guilty and sure enough I had to pop the tape back in.

The only bad part about doing the tape at that time of day is I have an audience of three. I prefer not to have anyone watch me, but I must admit I do feel much better after I put in my hour no matter who is there to watch. After this weekend, I have figured out one reason Carter likes the video so much. It seems to lull him to sleep. Once, he fell asleep on the floor and I had to step and kick over him for the last two miles, and yesterday he kept his eyes half open until the final half mile when he started full blown snoring.

Even though I still don't see any physical changes yet, I do feel slightly better overall and with Carter's motivation I am hoping I will see all sorts of changes by summer. That is the goal, and I am sure Mr. Little Trainer won't let me forget it.

Oakland Man Charged With Sex Offense

An Oakland man was arrested Thursday and charged with fourth-degree sex offense and contributing to the condition of a child following an investigation by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

According to police, Michael Christian Elliott, 31, admitted to providing alcoholic beverages and marijuana to a juvenile. He also admitted to inappropriate sexual contact with the juvenile, police said.

Elliott was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting $2,500 bond.

more pleasant to use, the off-road trail would actually be cheaper than an on-road one, he added.

Recreation planner John Trant of Pashek Associates, who was hired by the task force, said the Glendale property owners at the meeting also looked at the off-road and on-road options. They, too, were concerned about safety and decided on the off-road trail, he said.

The two-lane off-road bicycle trail would be 10 feet wide. A 5-foot section planted with vegetation would separate the trail from Glendale Road, providing a safer and more scenic route, noted Trant.

He did cite some disadvantages, however, to the off-road design. Drainage, retaining walls, grading, driveway crossings, and mail boxes will have to be addressed. Additionally, pedestrians may also want to use the trail. Signs will need to be erected stating "bike trail only," said Trant.

The biggest hurdle, however, will be extending the trail across Glendale Bridge. The planner said the only option appears to be constructing a bike crossing lane on the bridge. The task force will have the county roads department examine the issue and go over preliminary costs, said Trant.

Green said the bridge crossing would be a future project and "fairly expensive." The task force's next step will be getting easement agreements and grading permissions from home owners.

The chairman also updated the commissioners on the other two legs of the Deep Creek Lake area trail. The State Highway Administration will paint the bike lanes along Rt. 219, from the Visitors Center to Glendale Road, as soon as weather conditions improve. The SHA constructed that portion of the trail and will be responsible for maintaining it as well.

To address maintenance issues on the other portions of the trail, Green said the task force may implement something such as a "Friends of the Trail" program. Individuals and businesses would adopt a section of the trail and be responsible for maintaining it.

Additionally, the task force has been working with the Wisp and condominium owners on Marsh Mountain to secure rights of way to link the trail from the Visitors Center to the top of the mountain.

Bill Devore, a task force member and planner with the county's planning and zoning office, said about $21,400 in Program Open Space funds has been approved for the recreational trails project. The funding may be used for preconstruction costs, he said.

The group has also received many pledges for the project, said Green. The members have been discussing ways in which they could acknowledge contributors, such as putting their names on signs or benches along the trail.

"You are to be commended for your progress so far," said Gregg.

Sponsors Bill

crossfiled the proposed legislation in the Senate as SB 610. The Senate's Education, Health, and Environment Affairs Committee will hold a hearing on the bill tomorrow, Feb. 27, at 1 p.m.

The House Economic Matters Committee will also hold a hearing on March 8 at 1 p.m. for HB 642. This bill clarifies a restriction on alcoholic beverage licenses in Garrett County. The proposed legislation would repeal a general prohibition against the employment of people under the age of 18 by licensees. It still would still not be legal, however, for those underage employees to handle alcoholic beverages.

The House's Health and Government Operations Committee will hold a hearing for HB 850 on March 10 at 1 p.m. Sponsored by the Garrett County and Carroll County delegations, the proposed legislation pertains only to tobacco product retailers.

The bill would prohibit store owners or operators in Garrett and Carroll counties from storing or displaying tobacco products in a manner that is easily accessible to customers. The products would have to be accessible only to the owners, operators, or employees.

The proposed legislation also outlines the fines and penalties for those who violate the display/storage stipulation.

A fifth bill sponsored by the Garrett County Delegation is HB 890. Hafer has also crossfiled the bill as SB 610.

The bill would allow municipalities to adopt ordinances for the licensing, control, location, or maintenance of junkyards. The municipalities, however, would have to hold hearings before adopting the ordinances.

The House Environmental Matters Committee held a hearing on the legislation today. The Senate's Education, Health, and Environmental Affairs Committee will hold its hearing for the bill tomorrow at 1 p.m.

More information about these and other bills is available on the General Assembly's web site at mls.state.md.us.

problems were happening, along with all of the same pros and cons to having a season. Many of the residents finally got fed up waiting for the state to act and started dealing with nuisance bears in their own way. They learned that if you "gut shoot" a bear, it will run at least a mile before it dies, and they also learned that if you hang a bear carcass from an interstate overpass, douse it with gasoline and torch it, people will start to take heed.

These were drastic measures taken by desperate people, and as a hunter I am totally opposed to this sort of thing. These animals can be managed wisely by having a limited hunt as proposed, or maybe we could load up about 30 bears a year and haul them to Prince George's County and see how Barbara Frush and the highly intelligent citizens of that part of the state deal with them.

To the Editor:

"No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shall condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of me, saith the Lord." Isaiah 54:17.

This letter is in regard to the letter written to the editor on February 19 by Mrs. Peterman.

I have known both families involved in this scandal for many years. Both families have been in the Apostolic Church for approximately 70-75 years. (about 30-45 years per family). Due to the so-called "bylaws" made up from a group of self-proclaimed Christian pastors and ministers, their rights have been violated, their character has been degraded, and there have been untrue remarks made by this group of "men" to the victims. The wrath of judgment has fallen upon them, not from our Lord Jesus Christ, but by these self-proclaimed men of God.

I am a former member of the Apostolic Church in Oakland. Believe me, I know just how judgmental and dishonest they can be. I can recall an incident when the mothers of the children worked very hard to raise the money for an outing to Funland. Thanks to the generosity of the owner of Funland, Mr. Tom Kuhn, we went to Funland for a minimal cost and some things were free. The pastor asked the chairman of the Children's Ministry in front of the congregation if he could have the money raised to help purchase and install a baptistery with a heater and a continuous filtration system. He also promised that he would purchase a plaque that stated that X amount of dollars were donated by the Children's Ministry, and the plaque would be placed on the baptistery. This lady, being full of the spirit of God and having a genuine concern for souls, gave him the money. That was at least six years ago and to this day this has not been done. Where did the money go?

His #1 board member that he has appointed now has been heard on several occasions announcing, "Well, if he does not do what we want him to do, we will call down state and have him removed." Come on, pastor, you had better re-examine your #1.

I also know that during one of their turkey dinners they served weakened regular coffee for decaf coffee. That is low. The remark was made that the customer will never know. But guess what – God knows.

There has also been a violation of the Constitution of the United States. The Constitution says that we have the freedom of religion. These victims have been ordered to attend the Apostolic Church in Keyser, and to pay their tithes (money) there. They have to do this to hold their minister's licenses. I would tear up the licenses anyway. You do not need a license to tell people of the good news of Jesus. Show me in God's Word where it says that you must attend an Apostolic church to go to Heaven. There is not going to be an Apostolic Street, or a Presbyterian Street, or a Catholic Street, or a Church of God Street in Heaven. We will be there in one accord.

To close, this is a little note of encouragement to the ministers and their families. We love you and we are praying for you. This is an act of the devil. Isaiah 54:17 says that no weapon formed against you shall prosper. Keep your eyes on Jesus.

To the Editor:

In observance of the 10th Annual Spay Day USA, Feb. 24, Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety (PAWS) reminds area pet owners to have their dogs and cats spayed or neutered. The surgery is a simple one that is performed on healthy animals from the age of about 5 months on up. The sooner an animal is fixed, of course, the better. There simply are not enough homes for all the puppies and kittens born as the result of neglecting this responsibility.

The benefits of spaying or neutering extend beyond curbing pet overpopulation. Altered pets are healthier, happier, better adjusted, and more devoted pets because their hormones aren't raging, and the organs that can cause them serious health problems as they age have been removed. Spayed or neutered pets are nicer (and cheaper) to have around. Gone are those annoying habits that intact pets exhibit, such as spraying or marking, yowling, roaming, fighting, and getting pregnant.

Happily, there are now a number of animal welfare organizations in the county offering a variety of spay/neuter assistance programs that make it very easy for all pet owners to get their animals fixed. The PAWS Big Fix program, made possible, in part, through a grant from the Snyder Foundation for Animals, offers to pay for at least 2/3 of the cost of spay/neuter surgeries for the pets of eligible low-income county residents. This program includes shots if vaccinations have lapsed. To apply for the PAWS program call 301-746-5939, 301-334-2699, or write PAWS Big Fix, P.O. Box 745, McHenry, MD 21541. For information about other spay/neuter programs currently available in the area, contact the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

Finally, as part of the Spay Day celebration, PAWS, the Garrett County Weekender and Farmers and Merchants Bank and Trust are sponsoring a Spay Day Essay Contest to give kids a chance to "write out loud" about why people should have their pets spayed or neutered. This is the second year for the contest, which is open to middle school children throughout the area. Prizes of $100, $75 and $50 United States Savings Bonds will be awarded to the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winners. The contest runs from now through March 26, 2004. For contest rules and more information, see this Friday's Garrett County Weekender or call the PAWS numbers mentioned above.

To the Editor:

I am writing about a concern for my community. I am an assistant coordinator for our local elementary after-school program. I spent the past few years as a volunteer, and in August of last year, I accepted a paid position as assistant coordinator. Little did I know the problems that accompany this new position.

Even though our program has been up and running for a while, this year was like starting completely over. Not only did our program expand by three nights a week, but we also have a new funding source this year. This means more money and more work. The grant has very specific requirements. As coordinators, it is our job to make sure those requirements are met. We were thrilled to hear of the new grant. However, it seems to have caused more controversy than anything.

My concern is this: Instead of embracing the program, we have received nothing but criticism from parents, school staff, and fellow community volunteers – complaints like "You don't have enough trips" and "Your kids are too loud." We have provided several opportunities for anyone to come to ask questions, give comments, and express their concerns. However, these same "complainers" insist on badmouthing this wonderful program instead of coming straight to us. The staff of this program is not only hard working, but also extremely dedicated to the program. It makes me feel ashamed that my community would smear the names of this staff by degrading the program, because of their lack of knowledge.

We realize that the program is more structured this year than it has ever been in the past. As coordinators, we have no control over that. We have spent endless hours planning, trying to make the 45 minutes of homework each night and the 10 weeks of book club more enjoyable for the children. In addition, trust me when I say we would love nothing more than to take these children on more trips. However, our money has been budgeted out for us. We were not given a line item for field trips, nor were we given a line item for snacks. The children would not have a snack every day if it weren't for the Board of Education. Yet, some still feel the need to complain instead of being grateful.

I believe that dealing with a group of noisy kids or erasing an occasional pencil mark from a desk is a small price to pay when that child you have been studying with finally brings home an A instead of a D or knowing that some of those kids have nowhere else to go but home alone. I just wish our community would focus on the big picture instead of dwelling on the petty, everyday inconveniences.

Nevertheless, we still have two months to go, and regardless of how others may feel about the program, the kids enjoy it. Sometimes I even have to remind myself that I am there for the kids and no one else. We will not be intimidated and we will finish this year to the best of our ability. To all those who choose not to utilize this program, it is your loss.

Sincerely,
Angela Paugh

ZIMMERMAN'S FIRM ACQUIRED – A Cumberland certified public accountants (CPA) firm, Turnbull, Hoover & Kahl, P.A., has acquired the Oakland CPA firm of Katherine Zimmerman, CPA, CFP. David Turnbull, president of the expanding company, said the addition of Zimmerman's practice "substantially bolsters our ability to serve the Garrett County community." Turnbull's company, headquartered along Washington Street in Cumberland, was founded in 1983. The location in Oakland will remain at Zimmerman's Garrett Highway office. Zimmerman said she is excited with the transaction. "Without the everyday responsibilities of running an office, I will be able to focus more on the needs of my clients," she said. Bernard Kahl, vice president and the owner primarily on-site at the Oakland office, comes from a family that has been a part of Garrett County for over 100 years. He is a 1992 graduate of Frostburg State University. Kahl and Zimmerman are pictured above.

4-H Club News

TRAILBLAZERS
by Candace Blamble

The January meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held on the 15th at Yough Glades Elementary School. Several members reported on the fundamentals of raising a market steer workshop.

They were reminded by Emily Green that their record books were due to Janet as soon as possible. Emily also told the group about the officer training that was held at Southern Middle School.

The members planned the year's events at the meeting they held at the Wisp, where they participated in skiing and snow tubing.

Jenna and Carrie Rush taught the group how to make homemade birdfeeders with peanut butter, pinecones, and bird seed. The member's families provided refreshments after the meeting.

Challenge of Giving the Correct Drug Dose to Premature Infants

Drugs can have very different effects on babies when compared to adults. Treating sick premature infants can be even more of a challenge. Newborns have a greater proportion of their body weight made up of water and a significantly lower percentage of baby fat. Both of these factors can make a big impact on the proper dose for premature infants. Also, kidney and liver function in a premature baby may mean that the normal dose for an infant for certain drugs may be removed from a preemie's body at a faster or slower rate. It is very important to consult a healthcare professional before such infants, especially preemies are given drugs.

Because preemies have trouble producing stomach acid, medicines have trouble being absorbed and often require a higher dose than for a full term infant. Painkillers also need higher doses due to lower amounts of a key enzyme needed to convert the drug into its active metabolite. Because of competition for carrier proteins in the blood, lower doses of some drugs are required to prevent overdose. Reduced liver function is one reason why doses are sometimes lowered for preemies.

A Guide To Planning Your Wedding

Bridal Beauty Countdown:

Start Early to Perfect Your Wedding Day

So much to do, so little time. If you thought you were busy before, just wait until you start planning your wedding. With so many choices to make, it's a small wonder most brides-to-be begin planning their nuptials 12 to 18 months before their special day.

And while making all those big decisions may seem like a full-time job in itself, it's important not to forget that the best way to ensure that you'll look your most radiant for your walk down the aisle is to start a personal beauty countdown at the same time. Here are some ideas to help get you started:

•Skin – By preparing for your wedding day far in advance, you'll also have ample time to address skin imperfections like acne marks and scars.

There's no need to worry about these flaws spoiling your wedding photos. Now you can reduce the visibility of raised or discolored scars by making them appear flatter and closer to your skin's natural texture and color with a product like Sudden Change Scar Zone. Available at most drug, food and discount stores, it's formulated with both moisture-retaining liquid silicone and SPF 15 sunscreen. A unique, plastic surgeon-tested topical vanishing creme, it helps soften and smooth when massaged into the scar daily. Its SPF 15 sunscreen helps prevent the discoloration and redness that exposure to the sun can inflict on sensitive skin.

•Hair – Consult with your hairdresser six months in advance about styles you're considering. At three months prior, have an in-depth discussion with your stylist about options that best suit your dress and head-piece. Finalize the look with a "test run" six weeks before the big day. Schedule color, perm or relaxing touch-up appointments for two weeks prior.

•Face – For a clear, glowing wedding day complexion, begin monthly facials. Six weeks prior to the wedding, increase the frequency to weekly. To further improve the appearance of your skin, increase the amount of water you drink every day and remember to cleanse, tone and moisturize twice daily. You might even try a weekly exfoliant or skin-refining facial. Three months before the wedding, consult with a professional makeup artist to determine which products and looks will work best for you. "Test run" your makeup one month before the special day.

•Hands & Nails – Beautify and strengthen your nails with weekly manicures up to a day or two prior to the wedding. Use a nourishing nail formula like Nutra Nail 5 to 7 Day Growth to help stimulate growth and condition nails. Pamper your hands with exfoliating treatments, and a week prior to the wedding, try a conditioning hot oil or paraffin treatment. With advanced planning, it's easy to transform your skin, hair and nails into their wedding day best.

Begin a personal beauty countdown as you start planning your nuptials to ensure you'll look your wedding day best.

Grooming to be a Groomsman

Your friend comes over to tell you he finally proposed to his girlfriend. Then he pops the question to you, "I'd like you to be a groomsman." Refrain from wrinkling your face in disgust or confusion. Here's the low-down on how you'll help out your buddy:

Pre-wedding activities: You'll attend the engagement party and rehearsal dinner. You'll help plan the bachelor party and fend off the bride's interrogations about the festivities.

Attire: You'll pay for your own tux. You can rent one but be sure to get it fitted prior to the wedding.

Stress: You'll keep the groom cool with some pep talks and male outings. Help make his day memorable and stress-free by taking care of anything he needs you to do.

The ceremony: You'll usher guests to their seats, perhaps. Guests will approach you with questions such as the restroom location. You may escort a bridesmaid down the aisle. And of course, you'll pose for photos.

The reception: You'll be introduced to all the guests, perhaps with the bridesmaid you escorted down the aisle. You'll dance with the bridesmaids or single female guests.

The getaway car: You'll decorate the honeymoon getaway car with streamers, soap, shaving cream or plastic soda bottles. Pop a romantic musical mix into the tape player for their enjoyment. And check to make sure the newlyweds' luggage is stashed in the trunk.

Fairy Tales Can Come True Create Your Dream Wedding

As a bride and groom, you want your wedding to be perfect. From the ceremony to the reception, you'll need to consider all the details. Whether a garden reception, an ultra-formal ceremony or a wedding/honeymoon combination, each wedding shares common characteristics upon which a couple must agree.

Once you've agreed to tie the knot, the days up until your wedding will be a whirlwind of activity. By knowing what tasks you should tackle now and which are better reserved for later, you'll have plenty of time to plan the wedding of your dreams.

This basic checklist can get you started on your way to a beautiful wedding day.

•Set the date – As soon as possible after getting engaged, you should select a wedding date and decide on the type of wedding you would like to have. From a traditional ceremony in a church to a surprise wedding, where guests are invited to a "party" that turns out to be a wedding, you can personalize the event and plan a wedding that reflects your lifestyles and interests.

•Reserve a location – Reserve the church or location of the ceremony soon after setting the date to ensure you can get married on the day you've chosen. Then, you need to reserve a reception location. Most party houses and reception halls have party planners and catering directors who can assist you in planning your dream wedding.

•Select a photographer – Every photographer has a different style. You should choose one who will accommodate your wishes, like taking the types and number of shots you want, attending both the ceremony and reception, and offering the album design you would like. The photographer's personality is very important – you will be spending an entire day with this person, so you should choose someone who will make you feel comfortable.

•Book reception entertainment – Select a band or disc jockey who will cater to everyone at the reception – both the younger and older generations. The musical selections should be diverse, and requests from the guests should be taken.

•Arrange wedding transportation – Whether it's a Rolls-Royce, stretch limo, horse and buggy, or double-decker bus, you should plan for transportation to and from the ceremony and to the reception for yourself and your attendants. Make reservations early, especially if you want a white car.

•Order dresses – Shopping for a wedding dress, headpiece and bridesmaid dresses is one of the most fun parts of the planning process. Choose a wedding dress that reflects your style and personality – and makes you look beautiful. When considering dresses for your attendants, you should opt for a style that complements your dress, as well as the women in your party.

•Choose a florist – Flowers can add an elegant touch to the wedding day, and every florist has a unique style. Select one whose arrangements you like and who can offer helpful, creative ideas about bouquets, corsages and centerpieces.

•Decide on a bakery – Select a bakery based on the varieties of the cakes offered and the look of previous work. Ask for a taste of the different types of cake offered, and check if the bakery will be able to create the design that you want.

•Select formalwear – Whether it's a basic tuxedo or a top hat and tail coat, formalwear completes the look of the wedding party. Select a formalwear provider who offers the style you want, has a variety of sizes available to fit all of the male attendants, and offers a large selection of bow ties and cummerbunds or vests.

•Order invitations – Invitations come in many different styles, so you will have a number of books to look through. Decide on a design that best suits the wedding, based on its formality, the time of day and the wedding colors. A stationery professional can help with this decision.

With these important decisions made, you only have a few things left to do, like selecting favors, writing a wedding bulletin and buying thank-you gifts for your attendants. You are now well on your way to the wedding of your dreams.

The Road to Saying "I Do": Some Creative Marriage Proposals

Besides telling how you met your spouse or where you had your first date, there's always the question, "How did he propose?" Like snowflakes, no two engagement stories are exactly alike, though it's likely most bring a tear to your eye when you hear them. If you are about to get down on one knee or need a good cry, here are some ways to say "I Do."

THE MAGIC OF THE MOVIES

My now-husband, Arn, was a film editor and animator. One evening, he decided we should watch one of his favorite old movies, The Bride of the Monster. We were about halfway through the movie when the monster came on screen and pulled off a mask, revealing Arn. He asked if I would be a "bride" to his "monster."

CALIFORNIA DREAMIN'

My boyfriend, Alon, told me not to make weekend plans. On Saturday morning, he called and told me that he had left an envelope in my laundry basket. He said, "Love you. Bye." and hung up. I opened it, and it said there was a driver waiting for me downstairs. In the limo, the driver handed me my first clue. It told me to go to where we went on our first date. It was a bar in Hollywood, where I found the next clue taped to the bar's door. It told me to go to the restaurant where we celebrated our one-year anniversary. The next clue was taped to the door there, and that lead me to our favorite restaurant in Santa Monica. The hostess there handed me my next clue, which instructed me to go to the airport. On the way there, the driver handed me the next two clues. Number five told me I was getting on a plane to Oakland, California. Number six said not to open it until the plane landed. After landing, I read the clue, which said the driver would take me to my final destination – a hotel suite in San Francisco. Inside, there were 18 dozen roses, 12 dozen tulips, 5 dozen gardenias, candles burning, our song, "At Last," by Etta James, playing in the background and, of course, Alon. He stepped out of the bedroom, and I ran to him, crying. He held me in his arms and proposed.

WINTER WONDERLAND

Everyone knows to bring me a snow globe when they travel, but only the plastic goofy ones. My boyfriend, Jason, was back from a trip to Paris. I asked about my snow globes, but he just ignored me and kept on unpacking. I went into his bag to look for them. I found one, but felt a sticky glue on the bottom. I complained that it was damaged. He came over to me, put it upright and made me look at it from the front. When the snow cleared, I saw a ring hanging from the Eiffel Tower. We ran to the kitchen, cracked it open, and he asked me to marry him.

Before the wedding comes the proposal. What kind of story can you tell?

ON CLOUD NINE

Bob and I were sitting in first class on the way to Seattle, Washington, to meet my family. During the flight, a voice came on over the intercom and said, "This is your pilot speaking. I would like to acknowledge some people in first class." I looked around for some celebrities. The pilot went on. "They're sitting in seats 1E and 1F." I looked at Bob and said, "We're in seats 1E and 1F." The pilot continued, "As we're approaching Niagara Falls, I feel that it's appropriate to say 'Diana, Bob has a question for you.' " Bob smiled, handed me a box, and asked me to marry him.

Allamuchy, New Jersey

PIE IN THE SKY

I had volunteered to help with my high-school reunion dance. At one meeting, someone asked who I was taking, and I said I didn't have a date. A committee member said she knew a single classmate and suggested I call her. Shirley and I began dating. The reunion committee had a final meeting a few month's later. When the hostess was preparing to serve pie a la mode, I went into the kitchen and handed her a diamond engagement ring wrapped in plastic. I asked her to put it in the ice cream she was about to place on top of the apple pie she was about to serve Shirley. She agreed, and everyone there (except Shirley) soon knew what was going on. Shirley took a bite, with all eyes on her. On the next bite, Shirley reached up to her mouth and pulled out what she thought was a "piece of ice."

Edison, New Jersey

FIRST-DATE JITTERS

I thought nothing of it when my husband Brian took me to Café Montana, which happened to be the site of our first date. After dinner, he took me to the apartment he had lived in when we first started dating. We were standing outside the door to the apartment when he recited a little speech about this being the place where it all began. I just thought he was being sentimental and told him we should leave. He then put the ring on my finger. Only after the fact did I realize he was wearing the very same outfit he wore on our first date!

Los Angeles, California

THE SKY'S THE LIMIT

Ralph asked me if I wanted to go to the Christmas-tree farm to pick out a tree. That morning, I woke up and got dressed. I went into the kitchen, and my mother was upset that I had my duck boots on. I explained that I was going to cut down a tree and the boots were the most practical shoe to wear. Biting her lip, my mother let me leave the house. When I arrived at Ralph's, he was dressed in trousers with a nice sweater and overcoat – not exactly tree chopping attire. At the farm, he was acting weird, asking me why the sky was full of planes. I didn't know what he was talking about. He pointed to the sky and said, "What does that one say?" When I looked up I saw a plane with a banner that read "Vivian, will you marry me? Love, Ralph." Afterwards, we went back to my mother's house, where my mother reminded me that she couldn't believe I got engaged in my duck boots!

Simple Ways To Get In Shape For The Big Day

So you're getting married. Well, all brides want to look their very best on their wedding day. Hours are spent choosing the perfect gown, hairstyle and makeup. Many brides also take this opportunity to get in shape. Like the rest of your preparations, it's never a good idea to wait until the last minute to get started. However, in between planning the wedding and a never-ending workload, it can seem like an impossible mission. The following simple tips offer an easy way to get in shape for the big day.

•Drink like a fish. Drinking water is probably the single most important trick to weight loss. By making you feel fuller, it helps prevent food cravings even as it flushes out unhealthy toxins.

•Forget about drastic starvation diets or "magic" pills with stimulants. Many are not only ineffective but also have unhealthy effects on your skin, hair and overall stress level.

•Don't skip meals. This is one of the most popular stumbling blocks to weight loss. When you skip meals, your body assumes it's starving and slows down your metabolism to conserve energy. It's important to feed your body every three to four hours.

•Exercise for 20 to 30 minutes at least three times a week. This is a "golden oldie." Exercise actually helps you manage wedding- and work-related stress while burning off extra calories. If you can't get to the gym, then simply walk for 20 to 30 minutes. It doesn't really matter what you do, as long as it's active.

•Try herbal body wraps. Herbal body wraps are a safe and natural way to quickly shape and contour your body. For more information about in-home Herbal Body Wraps, call 1-888-286-3210, ext. 2012.

•Take vitamins regularly. A lack of essential vitamins and minerals can make losing weight more difficult.

•Watch your sugar intake. Sugar is a "high glycemic" substance, which means it causes your body to put out a higher amount of fat storage hormones (insulin), which are directly responsible for loss of skin tone and increased body fat.

•Skip the salt. A diet that is too rich in sodium causes your body to retain water, which can make you look "puffy."

With just a few steps, it's easy to look your absolute best for the walk down the aisle.

A Month of Marriages

June has been the most popular month in which to get married for centuries. The reasoning behind the trend in the 1400s and 1500s was because most people bathed thoroughly only once a year. The annual bath occurred in May. In June, people still smelled fresh, making it a good time to hold special events, like weddings.

Thank The Ones Who Make The Wedding Day Special

In the weeks prior to the actual wedding ceremony, the bride's house will start to look like it does at Christmas. Packages and boxes of all shapes and sizes from various guests and well wishers will be arriving daily. In this time of excitement, organization is needed to keep track of who sent what gift.

One of the most important tasks that the bridal couple must complete is the overwhelming job of writing thank-you notes to all who sent gifts. The job of sending these notes is so time-consuming, because they must be written; a verbal thank you is not enough. The only verbal note that can be sent is a telegram, which can get costly when sending to a large number of guests.

Wedding gifts are given to both the bride and groom. When writing a thank-you note, be sure the signature reflects both of them. Writing the notes is not just the task of the bride, so be sure to put the groom to work. One idea is for the groom to write to his friends and the bride to hers. It is fine to sign only one name, so long as the writer says, for example, "Tad and I thank you for the wonderful toaster."

Make sure the gift is specifically mentioned in the note, keeping in mind that monetary gifts should never be referred to by dollar amount. A guest should be able to see that the couple appreciated, as well as remembered, the gift that was given to them.

The note should say exactly how the gift will be used. Additionally, if the gift needed to be returned, either because it was a duplicate or it simply could not be used, never inform the sender; a simple thank you is enough.

Be prompt in sending thank-you notes. Although it is perfectly acceptable to send a thank you up to three months after the wedding, couples should start writing before the wedding for gifts received in advance. This eliminates a lot of work and informs guests that the gifts were received and not lost during shipping.

Finally, couples should share any special memories they have of their guest from the wedding. Not only will they be thanking the guest for the gift, but most importantly, they'll be thanking him or her for coming to and celebrating the happy occasion with them.

'Twas the Night Before the Wedding

It's the night before the big day, and you are a bundle of nerves. You are worried it will rain. You are worried that Aunt Gertrude will pick a fight with Aunt Betty. Instead of worrying about things that can go wrong, why not concentrate on something more positive like celebrating your impending nuptials with family and friends at a rehearsal dinner? You can relax and keep your mind free of worries.

A rehearsal dinner is usually held the night before the wedding. Guests should include both sets of parents, grandparents, siblings and all members of the wedding party. It's up to you – and your budget – whether you want to invite out-of-town guests or people you don't see that often. It may be a good idea since it will give you more time to chat with them than during the wedding reception.

You don't want any unnecessary stress the night before your wedding, so choose a place that's relaxed and casual. A small restaurant that you can take over for the evening would be perfect, or a private dining room in a hotel or restaurant is another option. A catered dinner in someone's home or a picnic in a park (weather permitting) are also good choices.

Your dinner host is responsible for taking care of the invitations. They should be sent out after the wedding invitations are mailed to give guests enough time to make proper lodging and transportation arrangements. The invitations can be formally engraved, printed from a computer or handwritten on fill-in-the-blank cards. Include directions and parking information. Ask people to RSVP so you can give the venue a proper head count.

Most guests will want to rest up for your big day, so don't be surprised if some make an early exit. If you and a few of your guests aren't ready to turn in just yet, you might suggest that guests gather in someone's hotel room or at a nearby bar. Just don't make it too late an evening or you'll wake up to puffy, baggy eyes. How will all those photos look?

Ten Ways To Relieve Pre-Wedding Headaches

(MS) – From choosing a photographer to fretting over the dresses, the favors, and the food, planning a wedding is arguably a stressful event. With so many options and opinions surrounding a wedding – the bride's, the groom's, both sets of parents, relatives and friends – it's no wonder headache sufferers are feeling the pain.

In times of heightened stress – like planning a wedding – it's not unusual for the frequency and severity of headaches to increase. Follow these tips from the National Headache Foundation, a nonprofit organization which serves headache sufferers, to find relief from headache pain.

1. Breathe. Lie on a firm surface and place one hand on your stomach. Focus on breathing from the abdomen rather than the chest – it promotes relaxation.

2. Massage. Neck and shoulder massages can relieve tension. You can also apply hot or cold packs to these areas of the body.

3. Think. Recall the sound, feel, sight, taste and smell of pleasant things. Use guided imagery to conjure up specific pictures, such as the beauty of a sunset.

4. Relax. Tighten a group of muscles and hold them in extreme tension for a few seconds. Then, relax the muscles while focusing on releasing tension or stress. Start with muscles in the toes and feet, working your way up to the muscles in the neck and head.

5. Stretch. Stretching relaxes the muscles. Stretch each muscle group for five minutes, beginning with feet, ankles and legs, and moving up to arms, torso, neck, shoulders and face.

6. Walk. Walk for five minutes and think calming thoughts. The activity can release endorphins, which are the brain's natural pain relievers.

7. Visualize. Envision your worries and stress being placed inside a large trunk floating out to sea. Visualization can help alleviate pain related to stress headaches.

8. Repeat. Close your eyes and repeat words aloud or to yourself. Choose words like "calm," "relax" or one of your own.

9. Meditate. Focus on inward silence to reach a peaceful state. That way, you can concentrate on one calming thought to relieve tension.

10. Sleep. Maintain a regular sleep schedule to help reduce the occurrence of headaches.

If you suffer from severe headaches or migraines, the NHF suggests tracking the duration and intensity of the pain using a new tool called the Migraine Attack Profile, which can help you better communicate to your healthcare provider about what you're feeling. For more information about headaches and to get a free copy of the Migraine Attack Profile, contact the National Headache Foundation at 888 – NHF-5552 or visit www.headaches.org.

You are bound to get a headache or two while planning for the big day. But at least you will know what to do when the pain strikes.

Father Of The Bride: Dad's Wedding Duties

Something about 1991's Father of the Bride always makes the best of us break down in tears. When George Banks, played by Steve Martin, shoots a round of hoops with his daughter Annie in the driveway. When George watches Annie go out with her fiancé Bryan. When George watches his daughter head off on her honeymoon and then she runs back to him for a final goodbye hug and kiss.

Sure, Dad may be sad that his daughter has found another guy, but that's no excuse to leave him out of the wedding planning. And there is more for him to do than just sign check after check. He may not want to help you pick out the bridesmaids' dresses or go to 10 different stores for your tiara, but he can be an untapped resource for many a duty. Here are some ideas:

•There are invitations to be stuffed, envelopes to be licked and stamps to be applied. Give Dad a stack and he'll be busy for a few hours.

•You need a first dance with your Dad. Let him do some research on a song that will be fitting and find a dance lesson or class that you can take together.

•Give Dad a "to do" list of stuff you can't handle on your own. He can make sure the photographer, florist and band have directions to the wedding and know what time to arrive. He can arrange and confirm transportation for the wedding party to get to the wedding. Maybe you can ask him to pick up or drop off some out-of-town guests from the airport.

•You'll be spending a lot of time discussing ideas with women like your mother and the bridal party. Why not get your father's male perspective of your wedding dress or the wedding rings? He'll be happy that you asked for his point of view.

•If you want more of his input, give him a bigger job. Let him taste food. Take him to a wedding band showcase. Let him research hotels for guests.

•Let Dad be the master of ceremonies of sorts. Have him welcome guests to the rehearsal dinner, wedding and reception. Let him be the go-to guy for questions about the coat check, the restroom location, directions or parking.

And, be sure to thank him for all his love, support and money, too!

Untangling "The Knot"

Weddings are full of their own language and lingo. Some are easy to understand, like "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue" or "getting hitched." Getting married has long been referred to as "tying the knot." But do you know what that phrase means? According to some historians, this expression can be traced back to ancient Rome, when the bride traditionally wore a girdle that was tied in knots. After the wedding, it was the duty of the groom to untie the girdle. Others believe the phrase is more closely associated with ancient "handfasting" ceremonies, which involved tying a cord or ribbon around the wrists of the bride and groom, thus binding them together for life.

Create A Successful Party With Lively Entertainment

The wedding day is one of the most exciting and memorable days in a couple's life. The bride and groom want everything, from the gown to the flowers to the food served at the reception, to be perfect. Most of all, they want the memories of the big day to be special.

The entertainment provided at the wedding reception is critical in determining the success of the event. The choice of music for the reception can make or break the entire party. Regardless of whether you use a band or disc jockey, lively music and a personable bandleader or DJ can help build a mood and play songs that can get the guests dancing.

Hiring the right band or DJ for your wedding can be confusing. Asking good questions, knowing the right answers and getting all guarantees in writing will ensure the selection of reliable, reputable vendors. The following questions and answers, courtesy of Modern Bride magazine, can help you hire the best musicians for the reception.

1. Can I determine the quality of a band's performance by listening to a tape or viewing its video? If you like the sound on the tape and/or the way the band delivers on video, inquire about where you can see the group play at a showcase, an actual wedding or some other place where it is booked.

2. How can I be certain that the band I book will be the one at my wedding? It is essential to get the name of the band in writing on your contract.

3. Does the orchestra have liability insurance? A reputable company will maintain such coverage. Most reception facilities require that the orchestra furnish them with a certificate of insurance.

4. Does the band take breaks? Most bands take a 15-minute break after a 45-minute set. Taped music can be arranged during the breaks or continuous music (at an extra charge) can be planned.

5. Are there additional charges for traveling time, playing during cocktails and overtime? Probably. Ask about that at your initial meeting, and be sure that those charges are clearly stated in your contract and understood before you sign it.

6. Is there a surcharge or sales tax? There is no sales tax on musical services, but there may be some surcharges (i.e. payroll, transportation). Be sure to ask.

7. Does the band have an extensive song list with selections that appeal to a wide range of guests? A good band will be able to play a range of music that spans the decades, from big band to Top 40 to Motown hits, as well as ethnic pieces.

8. Will the band members wear appropriate attire? Unless otherwise noted, and depending on the formality of the wedding, members should wear black tie.

9. Is there a way I can be sure the amplification will not be deafening? Tell the bandleader or DJ of your concern, so if this is not a place where the group has played before, he or she can check out the location to prepare ahead for any acoustical challenges that must be addressed to keep the decibels under control.

10. Does the bandleader or DJ act as master of ceremonies and coordinate the sequence of events at the reception, and if so, should we meet about this before the wedding? The master of ceremonies is usually the bandleader or DJ, and you absolutely should have an in-person meeting to talk over the reception events.

Shower Etiquette

It's a myth that all female guests invited to the wedding should attend the shower. All shower guests should be invited to the wedding, but not everyone invited to the wedding needs a shower invite. Invite bridesmaids, relatives, the bride-to-be and her fiancé's close girlfriends, and her mother and future mother-in-law's friends. If the bride doesn't know some of her fiancé's female friends, you aren't obligated to invite them to the shower. Consult the bride-to-be if you're unsure.

The last thing you want after your wedding is to have something to worry about on your honeymoon. Set aside some time as you plan your vacation to carefully consider travel insurance.

Don't Take Chances With Your Honeymoon

The last thing you want after your wedding is to have something to worry about on your honeymoon. That's why it's more important than ever to set aside some time as you pack your swimsuit, hiking boots and camera, to make sure that you carefully consider travel insurance.

Here are some reasons to include travel insurance in your vacation planning:

TRIP CANCELLATION AND INTERRUPTION

Your vacation investment is at risk. The cost of your trip may not be refunded in the event you have to cancel or cut your trip short.

Following are some of the reasons cruise, tour and travel package customers lose some or all of their vacation investment:

•Personal sickness or injury

•Sickness, injury or death of an immediate family member

•An act of terrorism

•Adverse weather or natural disaster

•Jury duty

•Financial default of travel supplier

Travel insurance, which includes trip cancellation and interruption coverage, is one way to plan for such unforeseeable circumstances.

SICKNESS, ACCIDENT AND MEDICAL EVACUATION

During your trip, you may need to see a doctor, have a prescription filled, receive care at a hospital or deal with an unexpected emergency. Remember: Some health plans don't cover illnesses or injuries incurred away from your hometown. Some plans will cover such expenses, but at a reduced rate. Most health plans do not cover medical evacuation, which can cost $25,000 or more. The Emergency Medical Expense Coverage included with travel insurance can help protect you against unforeseeable circumstances. In addition, travel insurance plans include emergency medical evacuation and the round-the-clock expert support you'll need to handle an emergency, if you are traveling abroad.

CRITICAL FOR INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL

If your plans take you out of the U.S., there are some additional things you should consider. Today, international travelers more than ever need knowledge and information to prepare and protect their well-being. HTH Worldwide, a travel insurance company based in Philadelphia, goes beyond the typical travel insurance offering. Their program includes global health and security services. Among other benefits, you receive breaking news and critical information pertaining to risk of crime and terrorism.

Before your next trip, carefully consider travel insurance. Policy pricing is based on your age and the cost of your trip. Generally, the pricing ranges from four to eight percent of your total trip cost. In today's turbulent travel environment, this is a small price to pay for peace of mind.

HTH Worldwide provides travel insurance services and global health and security information. For more information or for a free quote, visit www.travelhealthinsurance.com or call HTH Worldwide at 888-243-2358.

How To Plan The Perfect Honeymoon

For many couples, planning a honeymoon is just as important as planning the wedding itself. Regardless of where you plan to go, there are some things you should do and some ideas you need to have to make it a memorable experience.

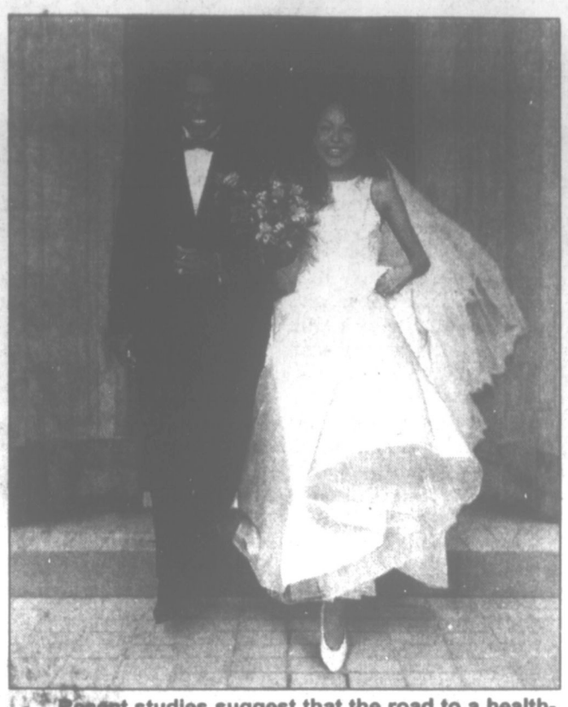
First, you must decide on a budget. If money is not an issue for you, bon voyage! However, if you're like most couples getting married, you're already paying for more than you anticipated. Establish a budget, and use it as a guide. You may also want to consider using a honeymoon registry service like the free one provided by The Honeymoon, www.thehoneymoon.com. Honeymoon registries are a hot new trend because they allow wedding guests to contribute toward specific elements of your honeymoon. With couples getting married older these days, many have no need for additional crock pots, blenders and toasters. That's why shore excursions, parasailing, spa services or tours can all make great wedding gifts.

The honeymoon budget takes on a whole new meaning when you decide to do a "destination wedding," another hot trend. These are gaining popularity as more couples decide to forego the average $20,000 wedding price tag. "These are especially popular with second marriages," says Donna Ennis of GettingRemarried.com, a popular resource for people getting remarried. The first step in planning a destination wedding is to find a travel agent who specializes in honeymoons and destination weddings. This person will help you begin the process of selecting the location to get married in. This is the first priority in planning a destination wedding because legal requirements for marriage vary by destination.

After deciding on a budget, you need to figure out where you would like to go. If you and your spouse want the same type of honeymoon experience, no problem. However, if one of you wants adventure and the other wants to relax in the sun, you need to find a destination that can satisfy you both.

Once you establish a budget and you know where you want to go, you need to decide whether you want an all-inclusive package or if you would prefer to be on your own a little more. For those with tight budgets, an all-inclusive honeymoon has the advantage of one all-inclusive package price. This includes most activities at both all-inclusive resorts and on cruises, though there may be things that are not included. Again, these make great gift items for your honeymoon registry. However, if you wish to be on your own to take in more of the surrounding culture and area, then you may be better off creating "your own" experience.

Now it's time to book and pay for this trip. Many honeymoon suppliers offer specials for early booking. Packages that include air often can offer significant savings because these suppliers buy airline seats in bulk at a discount and then add in a hotel package, and sometimes car rentals to give you significant value. Usually these packages need to be purchased from a honeymoon specialist travel agent, whom you can find from a national network at www.thehoneymoon.com. Here, you'll find travel agent services, honeymoon registries, personal wedding Web pages, and honeymoon information at your fingertips, all from the convenience of your home or office.



Recent studies suggest that the road to a healthier "happily ever after" begins with maintaining a healthy relationship.

Relationship Tips To Help You Live Happily Ever After

If you pass just about any newsstand nowadays, you'll no doubt see headlines such as "Beat Stress," "Get 'Wow'-Worthy Hair" and "Increase Your Happiness" screaming for attention from passers-by. And why not? Who doesn't want to look and feel better?

However, while clearer skin, shinier hair and less stress can certainly make you feel happier in the short run, truly improving your life arguably has a lot more to do with the quality of your relationships. In fact, recent studies from George Washington University, Duke University and the University of Zurich, Switzerland, suggest that having a good relationship may be the key not only to greater happiness but also to a better recovery from breast cancer, heart disease and other illnesses.

In her recently released audiobook From Pain to Passion: Building a Truly Great Relationship, relationship expert Adele Britton provides a road map for creating a joyful life through more positive interactions with loved ones.

Britton offers easy steps for developing the tools necessary to build a great relationship in a disarmingly candid way, coloring her narrative with stories and examples culled from her more than 26 years of experience as a psychotherapist, radio personality and online advice columnist at www.AskAdele.com. Here are several of her top recommendations:

•Know what makes you feel alive and creative. Being in touch with your emotions will empower you and help you communicate better.

•Agree to make the health and happiness of your relationship a priority. It's important to talk about the values and beliefs that are important to you both, including being emotionally available to each other.

•Make sure your communication is effective and "win-win." If you feel drained, defensive or misunderstood, you're battling, not relating. Speaking respectfully to each other is the first step to resolving issues effectively.

•Stop defending your points of view. Be open-minded and generous with one another. Relationships can suffer when one partner insists on being right.

•Don't point fingers. The finger of blame resolves nothing. In fact, it's likely to induce anger, guilt and low self-esteem.

•Know the difference between productive anger and rage. Anger that is expressed recklessly or not at all can explode into destructive rage. Understanding and working positively with your anger is vital to a healthy relationship.

•Borrow, don't possess, your loved ones. Believing that your spouse "belongs" to you invites you to inappropriately speak, think and manage his or her life.

•Don't use the past as an indictment. Healthy families learn from mistakes and adopt new, constructive ways to savor their transformed lives together.

•Think outside your parents' box. For functional, adult relationships, forego childhood beliefs and values. Tune into your own common sense and intuition, creating and following your own goals.

•Make joy, love and passion the focus of your relationships. Embrace conflict as an opportunity to work through and solve problems together.

According to Britton, the inner work described in her book actually makes you more attractive. "People are so consumed with surface issues, like looks and image. But when you neglect the inner work – the work you do to connect more completely and joyfully with yourself and others – then no amount of makeup can help," she says. "What can compare to the true glow of happiness that shines through when you are surrounded by fulfilling relationships?"

Uncovering The Veiled Truth

Though it's merely a piece of sheer white lace, a veil can make a bride feel and look like she is truly getting married.

Veils date back to ancient Greeks and Romans, who used them to fend off evil spirits and demons. They thought the evil spirits would not be able to get to the person behind the veil, hence preserving her for her husband. The fabric became popular in the late eighteenth century in America. One of George Washington's aides saw Nellie, Washington's daughter, sitting by a lace-curtained window and was stunned by her beauty. She recreated the scene at her wedding by making a veil of white lace. And the color of the veil, white, is related to the color of the wedding gown, which represents the purity of the bride.

A veil can be whatever you want it to be, from simple and understated to extravagant and detailed. It can be any length, from below the wedding train to grazing the elbow. It can be plain or decorated with items like pearls, lace or gems.

Whatever you choose, make sure the veil doesn't compete with your dress. A fancy veil will be too much for a detailed gown. But you can dress up a plain dress with a lacy veil.

When trying on veils, do your hair and makeup the way you'll wear it on the big day if you can, to get the full effect of the veil. Then, stand in front of a full-length mirror to see the veil from all angles. A veil may look flattering in the front but may not complement the back of your dress.

Don't forget to take a walk around the house a few times in your veil, especially if yours will be long. You'll look like a princess no matter what kind of veil you wear. But no one wants to ruin their walk down the aisle by tripping on their veil.

It's up to you whether you want to wear a veil. If you don't, you can often opt for a more modern head covering like a tiara, barrette or other headpiece.

Veils have a language of their own. Before you go shopping, teach yourself some veil terminology.

fingertip: hits at the fingertips

bouffant: goes above the head and is often worn without a headpiece chapel or cathedral: long and wide, usually extending past the train mantilla: Spanish-inspired and edged with lace elbow: hits at the elbow

flyaway: accentuates the back and just hits the shoulder

ballerina: hits between the knee and ankle

FOR UNFORGETTABLE MEMORIES TO HAVE AND TO HOLD FROM THIS DAY FORWARD

Though custom has dictated certain procedures, we keep in mind the wishes of the bride and incorporate her wishes. Brides are not bound by rules or traditions.

Sometimes simplicity is the most elegant option. As far back as the 1500s a wreath or circular garland was a popular wedding symbol of everlasting love. We can customize to suit the bride, from traditional bouquets to informal posies.

Today's bride wants her wedding to project an image, to say who she is and to show it's special. The date and location of the wedding are among the first decisions she has to make. The next is chosing a color theme. The color theme is reflected in the attire of the attendants and the invitations. A parasol is an old-fashioned look for a garden wedding. It can be used open for outdoor weddings and closed for indoor ones.

THE PASSION OF THE CHRIST

Rated R - Running Time: 2:07 - Released 2/25/04

There has been no end to the controversy surrounding Mel Gibson's brutal retelling of the most famous story in Christian theology, The Passion Of The Christ, with some people fearing that it could provoke anti-Semitic attitudes among its viewers (this feeling is influenced, no doubt, by Gibson's father's openly anti-Semitic stance). Although Gibson, a devout Roman Catholic, has worked tirelessly to dissuade critics from this viewpoint, allowing not only the Pope but international Jewish leaders to preview the film, all of whom have endorsed it, some still hold the opinion that it could cause trouble, but I think this argument is rather silly. While it is admittedly the most violent depiction of the Passion story I've ever seen—and let's face it, it's a violent story—I don't believe it is any more anti-Semitic than any other such film. It simply retells the account told in the Gospels (adapted by Gibson and co-writer Benedict Fitzgerald), and anyone who thinks it maligns the Jews, well...I think they'd have to take that up with the authors of the source text.

Frankly, almost everyone but Jesus and a few of his followers are painted in a not-too-flattering light in this story—the Jews, the Romans, even the most devoted followers of Jesus who so abruptly turned on him in the end. But if a film like this is to have any validity, it must portray the Jews as they were depicted in the Bible, i.e., as devout religious leaders who felt Jesus was a common blasphemer and were fearful that his widespread acceptance among the Jewish population would bring about a swift retribution from the ruling class, and as equally fearful peasants who knew that associating with him could lead to their own executions, if not by their local leaders then by the Romans who controlled them. In a way, it is man—not the Jews, not the Romans, but the human race itself—which is the perpetual villain in this story; it is all who sin and do not repent who are guilty, and this story simply depicts the first generation who knowingly did so.

Regardless of the film's perceived religious bias, however, there is no doubt that in terms of acting, direction, and production values, it is up there with the greatest films of the genre. This is one of those pivotal moments in a director's career, like Schindler's List was for Spielberg, where the filmmaker cannot possibly hide his, well, passion for the subject matter. This movie has been Gibson's pet project for years, and his love shines through it with such clarity one cannot help but be swept up in its spiritual grandeur; his devotion would not allow him to make this a substandard film. The fact that the film's dialogue is entirely in Aramaic and Latin (and a little Hebrew) lends an authenticity not usually present in English-speaking movies on this subject, and the settings, costumes, and cinematography (by Caleb Deschanel) are without flaw.

The acting is no less superior; although the film is performed almost entirely by Italian actors who will not exactly be household names to American moviegoers, they all, without exception, perform their roles with the commensurate sense of spiritual gravity for the subject matter. The film's star, James Caviezel (another devout Catholic), endows his Jesus with not only the embodiment of love and compassion that are the standard prerequisites, but also delves into more human characteristics, some of which are usually downplayed, like the fear, the anxiety, and the ambivalence toward his mission that would cause most of us earthly types to throw in the towel. Caviezel, who reportedly suffered several injuries during filming (including a separated shoulder, a lightning strike, and a few actual lashes from the whip), is increasingly bloody and broken throughout the film, which begins at Gethsemane and progresses through the resurrection, but also has numerous flashbacks thrown in to include important scriptural references and flesh out some of the supporting characters. Even as we see him being punched, kicked, whipped, and nailed, we return to the clean and unmolested Jesus for these flashback scenes, each of which usually involves his interaction with some particular disciple or follower, the sweet memory of which is brought into sharp relief when we return to the character's witness of the brutal present. In this way, we learn some of the well-known (and some less well-known) details about the Virgin Mary (Maia Morgenstern), Peter (Francesco De Vito), Mary Magdalene (Monica Belluci), Judas (Lucia Lionello), and others. Also offering superb performances are Mattia Sbragia as Jewish high priest Caiphas, Hristo Shopov as Pontius Pilate (who is portrayed with a little more compassion than is probably standard), and Claudia Gerini as Pilate's wife, whose sympathy toward Jesus' mother and Mary Magdalene informs one of the most touching scenes in the movie. Finally, the spectral presence of Satan (Rosalinda Celentano) appears at crucial moments throughout the film; although it is played by a woman, the cloaked figure is really not sex-specific, and its scenes are usually attended by some unsettling visual images. Here is where Gibson allows himself to add some computer-generated artistic flourishes, emphasized by the ominous music of John Debney, whose score adds to the film's emotional grandeur.

The brutality is another particularly controversial and affecting portion of this film; while most artworks and movies involving the Crucifixion have sanitized the violence somewhat, perhaps out of respect for the subject, Gibson chose to show no such deference here. Since his treatment chronicles the passion of Jesus (that is, the suffering), the director shows the cruelty in unflinchingly graphic detail. In fact, I can agree with some critics' charges that the director's approach may be somewhat excessive in terms of violence; I can understand the desire not to sugar-coat what was done to Jesus, especially if one desires to impress on the viewer the gravity of the sacrifice involved, but at times it almost seems Gibson is emphasizing the sadism at the expense of the larger story. The scourging at the pillar, for instance, is a particularly bloody scene that goes on so long, with the vicious Roman soldiers enjoying their task so much, that it begins to strain the limits of necessity, pulling focus away from Christ's pain and devolving into a pointless blood bath.

This movie is no more anti-Jewish than Jesus Of Nazareth, or King Of Kings, or Jesus Christ Superstar, or The Greatest Story Ever Told. But it is definitely more graphic, and therefore more disturbing, than any of those. Devout Christians and devout movie lovers alike may want to see this film, and may want to take their children, just for the sake of education. But be aware that if you do, you may be sitting up late at night comforting a horrified nightmare sufferer. And it may upset your kids, too. ★★★★½

ZEUS, ATHENA HAVE LEFT MT. OLYMPUS – No, this canine pair are not a Greek god and goddess, as their names suggest, but the 2-year-old Jack Russell mixes are neutered and spayed (and that's no myth). "Their owner had to move," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "They need to be adopted together!" Also available for adoption from the Garrett County Animal Shelter are several young black cats, one of which is pictured below, and a large gray male stray cat, who is described as "very friendly." Recently featured adoptables Lou (a longhaired orange tabby), two orange and white kittens, and last week's Siamese mix now have new homes, reported the Humane Society. For more information about adopting a pet from the Animal Shelter, persons may call 301-334-3553.

LAKERS RIP CATAMOUNTS – Two of the nation's better Junior College Division II women's basketball teams went head-to-head last night in McHenry when the Garrett Lakers faced the 13th-ranked Potomac State College Catamounts. Garrett came away with a huge 103-91 win behind a true team effort as five Lakers scored in double figures, led by 19 points apiece from freshman Denae Kennedy, left, and sophomore Jenna Bradford, right. Kennedy added 14 rebounds and 10 assists to her tally in recording a rare triple-double. GC is slated to host the Region XX Tournament on its home floor from Thursday through Sunday, March 4-7.

THE JUCO'S CRÈME DE LA CRÈME – The high-flying Garrett College women's basketball team bounded through the Maryland JUCO Tournament last weekend at Hagerstown Community College, cruising to the crown by an average spread of 25 points over Allegany, Prince George's, and conference arch-rival Howard. Sophomore Jenna Bradford earned the tournament's Most Valuable Player award, and classmates LaSha Anderson and Ashley Liller were named to the All-Tournament Team. Shown celebrating their hard-earned accomplishment, in the first row from the left, are LaTonya Crowder, Denae Kennedy, Ashley Liller, and Tamika Duck. ## GC Lakers Roll To JUCO Crown; Fall To Allegheny, Upset Pot. St.

The Garrett College women's basketball team is coming off a big week, having romped through the Maryland JUCO Tournament by cruising to easy wins over Allegany, Prince George's, and Howard by an average margin of 25 points. Jenna Bradford was named the JUCO Tournament Most Valuable Player, and Ashley Liller and LaSha Anderson were named to the All-Tournament Team.

After stumbling Monday in a 66-61 road loss to CCAC-Allegheny, one of the best teams on their schedule, the Lakers rebounded last night by exploding during the second half to record a convincing 103-91 upset win over national power Potomac State College, which came into the contest ranked at #13 in the country in the women's Division II basketball standings with a 20-2 record.

The Lakers, who boosted their record to 22-4, will attempt to take the next step in their journey to the national tourney when they host the Region XX Tournament. The event will run from Thursday through Sunday, March 4-7, on Garrett's home floor in McHenry. GC opens Friday, March 5, in a 7 p.m. battle with Prince George's.

Garrett made it clear from the outset of the JUCO Tourney that it was out to control its own destiny. The Lakers rolled to an 85-45 drubbing of Allegany College of Maryland Friday, an 86-72 victory over Prince George's Saturday, and an especially sweet championship game throttling of top-seeded Howard Sunday in a 72-49 runaway. That finals game win marked GC's revenge over the Dragons, who had beaten the Lakers the previous week in a duel for the JUCO regular season title.

GC opened Friday's tourney at Hagerstown Community College as the event's second seed, debuting against seventh-seed Allegany. The Lakers wasted no time in showing they had come loaded for bear in crushing the Trojans by 39 points. Garrett had sped out to a 36-24 halftime lead.

Sophomore guard Anderson led the way for the Lakers with a double-double of 23 points and 10 rebounds. Classmate Bradford scored 17 points while dishing out 10 assists and snagging eight rebounds and three steals. Center Tiffany McFarland and guard Liller had 11 points apiece, and Denae Kennedy recorded five assists and three steals. Ashley Gale led the Trojans (9-11, 6-6) with 15 points.

In other JUCO Tournament action Friday, #4 seed Baltimore City defeated #5 Cecil, #3 Prince George's downed #6 Harford, and #1 Howard eliminated #8 Hagerstown.

The Lakers got off to a relatively slow start in Saturday's quarterfinal against Prince George's, and were down by one at the half, 37-36. The Lakers exploded for 50 points in the second half while holding Prince George's to just 35 points.

Liller paced the Lakers with 25 points, including a trio of three-point buckets, while teammate Lovarsha Knox recorded a double-double of 17 points and 13 rebounds, snagging four steals along the way. Bradford and McFarland contributed 11 points apiece, and Bradford snagged nine rebounds.

Three Prince George's players fouled out over the second half of the contest, and GC connected on 28 of 38 free-throw tries.

Howard defeated Baltimore City in the day's other semifinal game.

The Garrett women had their way with Howard during Sunday's championship game, as they slew the Dragons by 23 points, a margin that included a 31-19 halftime lead.

Bradford took her turn in the spotlight during the title game, as the sophomore guard reeled off a double-double of 18 points and 10 rebounds, along with grabbing five steals and handing out five assists. McFarland and Anderson also reached double figures with 16 and 10 points, respectively. Knox led the Lakers to a huge 52-36 rebounding advantage by crashing the boards for 16 rebounds, and Liller added eight rebounds while snagging four steals.

Full details of Monday's loss at CCAC-Allegheny were not available.

Last night's triumph over visiting Potomac State featured Garrett's strength, a superbly balanced offense. Five Lakers scored in double figures, with Kennedy leading the way with a basketball rarity, a triple-double of 19 points, 14 rebounds, and 10 assists, along with four steals, and one blocked shot. Bradford shared team-high scoring honors with 19 points of her own, and added seven rebounds. Anderson recorded 13 points, and Liller and Autumn Beavers contributed 10 apiece. The Catamounts' Charlisa Cummins had a game-high 23 points and 16 rebounds.

The two squads were knotted in a 47-all deadlock before the Lakers exploded for a 56-44 halftime run.

Garrett coach Steve Willison will provide his pre-tourney analysis going into the Region XX Tournament for next week's sports pages.

Rams Fall To Lions, Spartans, Defeat Sentinels, Mountaineers

A pair of Western Maryland Interscholastic League victories sandwiched by a pair of losses this past week wrapped up the regular season for the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team.

The Rams were edged by host Tucker County, 65-62, in double overtime last Thursday, bounced back to record a big 57-48 win over visiting Fort Hill on Friday, stopped Beall on Saturday, 50-40, also in Oakland, and then lost to Bishop Walsh in Cumberland on Tuesday, 68-52.

The results left the Rams with an overall record of 13-9 and a WMIL mark of 5-3, which they will take into the 1A West Region tournament this week. They will host Boonsboro this Saturday.

The double-OT loss to Tucker County on Thursday halted a win streak by the Rams that had reached six games. Southern had edged the Mountain Lions in their first meeting this season, which was played in Oakland.

The Rams led throughout much of the contest, holding a 14-11 edge at the end of the first quarter, a 33-26 advantage at halftime, and a 44-43 lead at the end of the third stanza. The Lions took the lead late in the fourth, but a three-point bucket by Corey Tressler in the closing seconds of regulation knotted the score at 56-56 and sent the game into the first overtime period.

With the score tied at 60-60 in the closing moments of the first OT period the Rams had a final shot, but it was no good, forcing the second extra period.

In the second OT, the Rams ultimately had to foul the Mountain Lions, who hit three of their free throws to account for their winning margin.

Once again, the Rams had the opportunity to win with a three-point shot at the buzzer, but it was no good.

The Rams finished with a 27-23 lead in field goals, but the Lions converted 16 of 29 shots at the line, while Southern made good on five of 11 opportunities.

Tressler finished with a game-high 22 points and eight rebounds for the Rams, and teammate Cory Bosley recorded 17 points and dished out six assists.

POURING IN 26 POINTS and grabbing eight rebounds against the Beall Mountaineers on Saturday for the Southern High boys' varsity was senior Corey Tressler, pictured in mid-air at left in the process of recording two of those 26 points. The performance paced the Rams to a 50-40 victory. In the photo above, Southern's Dewaine Jones gets a rebound underneath while teammate Evan Lantz, left, blocks out in the lane. Lantz went scoreless in the contest, but also pulled down eight rebounds. The Rams concluded their regular season Tuesday at Bishop Walsh and will enter 1A West Region tournament play this Saturday at home against Boonsboro. Photos by John McEwen.

Jeremy Maxwell led the Lions (12-7) in scoring with 18 points, with Adam Helmick and Corey Gsell right behind with 17 points each.

The Rams played one of their best games of the season Friday night in disposing of the Fort Hill Sentinels, a team that rolled over them last month in Cumberland.

Southern jumped out to a 10-3 lead in the first quarter, was up by eight, 23-15, at halftime, and took a 37-28 advantage into the final eight minutes.

The Sentinels (12-7) battled back to cut the Rams' lead to 39-34 at the 3:34 mark, and got as close as three points on a Harley Brooks basket with 2:09 remaining in the game.

But the Rams went to the foul line numerous times in the final two minutes, from which they converted 20 of 23 attempts for an effectiveness of 87%. They were 18-for-21 just in the fourth quarter, with Tressler hitting 10 of 11 in that quarter.

Tressler and Evan Lantz each finished with 18 points to lead the Rams in scoring. They also paced Southern in rebounding, as Lantz grabbed a game-high nine rebounds and Tressler pulled down eight. Each of them was also credited with four assists.

Also reaching double figures and hitting three key three-point buckets was Bosley, who finished with 13 points.

Brooks paced Fort Hill in scoring with 17 points, 13 of which he recorded in the second half. Kenny Harris and Denny Hockman each scored 12 points.

The Southern junior varsity squad won the preliminary game, 51-49 in overtime. Bret DeWitt and Joey Tressler led the Ram jayvees in scoring with 16 and 12 points, respectively. Dustin Beal and Justin Moral each scored 13 for the jayvee Sentinels.

Corey Tressler scored over half of the Rams' points in their win over Beall on Saturday, as he poured in 26 points.

The Mountaineers (9-11, 1-8) won the first half, holding a 7-5 edge at the end of the first quarter and a 16-15 lead at intermission. But three straight buckets by Dewaine Jones and a 7-for-8 effort by Tressler at the foul line in the third stanza gave the Rams a 32-26 lead going into the fourth period.

Tressler hit four more free throws in the fourth quarter, giving him an 11-for-12 effort for the evening.

Also reaching double figures for the Rams was Bosley, who scored 11 points.

The Mountaineers finished with a 14-13 edge in baskets, but the Rams had another outstanding night at the charity stripe, from which they made good on 20 of 25 shots. Beall went 8-for-14 at the line.

Carter Dickel and Roman Raley led Beall's scoring with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

The Southern junior varsity coasted to a 55-33 win in the first game behind a 15-point effort by Joey Tressler and a 14-point performance by Bret DeWitt. Justin Shipe led the Beall jayvees with 11 points.

After staying close with Bishop Walsh in the first quarter Tuesday night, the Rams fell behind in the second period and never seriously threatened the Spartans the rest of the way.

The Rams trailed by three, 16-13, at the end of the first quarter, but were down 32-21 at halftime and 47-35 after three periods.

Giving Southern the most trouble was Chris Hendershot, who led the Spartans with 23 points and 10 rebounds. Steven Amoroso finished with 12 points and eight rebounds.

Leading the Rams was Evan Lantz with 14 points.

The contest was close in terms of field goals, as the Rams trailed by just two, 19-17, and led in three-pointers, 5-2. Once again the Rams hit 87% of their free throws (13 of 15), but the Spartans converted 28 of 35 opportunities (80%) to make up most of the difference in the final score.

A 19-point performance by Joey Tressler led the Southern jayvees to a 52-37 victory in the preliminary game. Joey Frye scored 11 for the BW junior varsity.

Saturday's varsity playoff game vs. Boonsboro will tip off at 7 p.m. Admission for all Maryland playoffs games is $5 for all persons over age 7. The gates will open at 5:30 p.m., according to Matt Redinger, SHS athletic director.

If the Rams, who are seeded fourth in the West Region, are successful against Boonsboro, they will then face the winner of the Poolesville-Hancock game on Monday.

Lakers Eliminated From JUCO Tourney By Cecil In Semifinals

A Maryland JUCO Conference title was not to be this season for the defending conference champions, the Garrett College Lakers, who were knocked out of the tournament in a semifinal round by eventual champion Cecil Community College on Saturday.

The Lakers earned a spot in the semifinals by topping Montgomery-Rockville in a quarterfinal on Friday, 86-80 in overtime, but were then topped by Cecil in a 200-point-plus contest, 109-101.

The Lakers were one of only three teams that had defeated nationally ranked Cecil (26-3) in the regular season, but they could not quite repeat that feat on Saturday.

Cecil went on to upset the top seed, Allegany College, 79-76, on Sunday to claim the JUCO championship.

The season is not yet over for Coach Dennis Gibson and his Laker squad, though, as they will enter Region XX, Division I, play this Saturday at Hagerstown Community College. If the Lakers (25-4) can defeat the Hawks, they will meet Allegany on Sunday in the Region XX title game for a shot at a berth in the national tournament.

In Friday's OT victory over Montgomery-Rockville, Akeem Scott paced the Lakers with 23 points, and also recorded the game-tying basket to send the contest into overtime.

The Lakers were well in control of the game at halftime, holding a 21-point, 44-23 advantage. But Rockville stormed back in the second half, and it took a lay-up by Scott with just seven seconds left in regulation to tie the score at 74 and send the contest into overtime.

Scott was a key factor in the extra period as well, as he converted six of eight free throw attempts. The Lakers took an early lead in the OT stanza and never trailed.

Also reaching double figures for the Lakers were Darren Stackhouse with 14 points, and Adam Morgan and Pat Carwile with 10 each.

Netting a game-high 24 points for Rockville was James Alexander, and hitting 20 was Tavares Cooper. Roland Harris contributed 12 points and Tim Brown netted 10.

Hitting 29 points against the Lakers for Cecil CC on Saturday was Eddie Miller, and right behind him with 28 points was teammate Cantrell Fletcher. Brown scored 23 points.

The Lakers were down by four at halftime, 45-41.

Scott again paced the Lakers with 21 points, while Lavonti Jeter netted 15, Morgan scored 14, James Jones hit 12, and Jon Mann contributed 10.

No other details of the game were received.

Saturday's Region XX contest against Hagerstown will get under way at 8 p.m. The championship game is slated for Sunday at 4 p.m., also at Hagerstown CC.

Ram Girls Cap Campaign By Skinning Tucker's Lions, FH

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball squad snagged the Western Maryland Interscholastic League title this week with a 20-point thumping of Fort Hill that gave the Rams a 7-1 mark on the circuit, two games ahead of the 7-3 records posted by the Sentinels and Allegany. The league-clinching win came on the heels of a Thursday night 67-54 triumph over visiting Tucker County.

SHS's regular season ended at 18-4 overall, and the Rams earned a bye in the opening round of the Maryland Class 1A West Region Tournament, which starts tomorrow night. Southern will be waiting for the results of tomorrow's Northern vs. Williamsport contest in the Cove, and will play the winner of that match-up Monday night.

SHS got a good battle from a determined Tucker squad during the Rams' 67-54 win, as the visiting Mtn. Lions nipped at their hosts' heels throughout an impressive first three quarters. The Rams were only up by an 8-7 margin after one quarter, and held a slim 23-20 lead at the half. The third quarter ended with the same point spread between the two teams, as Southern held a 43-40 lead. SHS went on a 24-14 run over the final eight minutes to pull away from its pesky opponent.

The Rams' evenly balanced offense was on display for the contest, as four SHS players reached double figures in the scoring column. Robbin Gregg scored 17 points while dishing out five assists, Becca Flanagan netted 16 points while grabbing nine rebounds, Sabrina Scheffel contributed 14 points, and Justine Pagenhardt recorded 13 points and six assists. Dani Summerfield and Jessy Pifer each scored 14 points for Tucker.

Southern's junior varsity cruised to a 41-20 win behind a game-high 19-point performance by Sarah Stephens. Britney Taylor had six Mountain Lion points.

Saturday's battle for the WMIL crown, which ended with Southern winning handily by a 64-44 tally, started off with both teams playing scrappy basketball. The first half was close, as the Rams were up just 14-10 after one quarter and 30-25 after the second stanza. Southern turned on the jets in the third quarter with an 18-8 flurry that put the guests up 48-33 as the final stanza opened. The win gave SHS a 7-1 WMIL mark for the year.

Pagenhardt paced the Rams with 26 points, including a pair of three-pointers, and the senior also dished out five assists and grabbed seven rebounds. Gregg netted 17 points, eight rebounds, and six assists. Lindsay Holliday led Fort Hill (9-10, 7-3) with 12 points.

Rams Finish Second (First?) In Bi-County Championships

The wrestling team of Southern High School was favored to win the Bi-County Tournament hosted Saturday by Westmar High, but when the points were tallied at the end of the event, the Rams had to settle for second place, being edged in the competition by Beall.

According to Ram coach Dave Taylor's calculations, however, Southern should have been declared the team winner.

According to Westmar coach Kirk Green, the Mountaineers, whom the Rams had soundly defeated twice in the regular season, finished with 194.5 points to take the team title, while Southern recorded 180.5 for second place. Fort Hill was third with 133, followed by Northern with 98.5, Westmar with 47, and Allegany with 43.

However, Taylor's calculations showed the Rams in first place with 222.5 points, followed by Beall with 209.5, Fort Hill with 141, Northern with 111, Westmar with 49, and Allegany with 38.

Beall won seven individual titles in the tournament, while the Rams recorded four and Northern had two, none of which was disputed.

Winning the title in the 135-pound division for the Rams was Nathan Sines, who pinned Jeff Brant of Beall in the championship bout. Jeff Gregory pinned Northern's Rocco Andrews to claim the 140-pound title, Scott Wildesen won the 160-pound division crown by pinning Matt Marchinki of Westmar in the final rounds, and Chris Bennett earned a technical fall over Northern's Shane Snider to take the title in the 215-pound division.

Northern's champions were undefeated Casey Kamp, who pinned Southern's Josh Armstrong in the championship round of the 103-pound division, and Brock Glotfelty, who recorded a decision over Beall's Chris Lindeman to take the 189-pound class trophy.

Finishing as runners-up, besides Southern's Armstrong and Northern's Andrews and Snider, were Justin Ratliff (119), Daniel Carr (125), Jason Weeks (171), and Dan Goulart (275) of Southern, and Eric Garlitz (130) of Northern.

Weeks took a second place by electing not to wrestle in the finals against Cody Miller of Beall because of a previous shoulder injury. According to Coach Dave Taylor, he decided to not risk re-injuring his shoulder before the regional tournament this weekend.

Finishing third for Southern were Greg Graham by pin in the 112-pound division, Andrew Pritts by technical fall at 130 pounds, Jeremy Gregory by forfeit at 145 pounds, and Justin Fitzwater by decision in the 189-pound division.

Placing third for the Huskies was Nick Payne by pin in the 171-pound division.

Chris Tepper placed fourth for the Rams in the 152-pound division, while Brandon Opel finished fourth for the Huskies at 160 pounds.

Individual champions for Beall were: Brent Walker (112), Nathan Jackson (119), Chris Lewis (130), Dave Winner (145), Kyle Parry (152), Cody Miller (171), and Jason Laber (275). Jared Skelley of Fort Hill won the title in the 125-pound division.

The Rams and Huskies will return to action this Friday and Saturday by competing in the Maryland Class 1A/2A West Region Tournament, which will be hosted by Smithsburg. First-round matches will begin at 4:30 p.m. Friday. The top finishers at the regional tourney will move on to the state tournament the following weekend.

BI-COUNTY CHAMPIONS — There were six individual champions representing Garrett County high schools — four from Southern and two from Northern — in Saturday's annual Bi-County Wrestling Tournament, hosted this year by Westmar High School. In the process of pinning Jeff Brant of Beall above left is Southern's Nathan Sines, who won the 135-pound title. Above right, Jeff Gregory of Southern takes down Rocco Andres of Northern and ultimately pins him in the 140-pound final. Below left, Ram Scott Wildesen controls Matt Marchinki of Westmar and then pins him to win the 160-pound division crown. Below right, Southern's Chris Bennett works his way to a technical fall over Northern's Shane Snider to take the title in the 215-pound division. At bottom left, undefeated Casey Kamp of Northern (right) flies into Southern's Josh Armstrong and later pins him for the title in the 103-pound division. Bottom right, Husky Brock Glotfelty ties up Chris Lindeman of Beall and wins the 189-pound championship by decision. Beall was officially declared the winner of the team trophy; however, some errors in scorekeeping were discovered, indicating that Southern actually won the team title. See story for details. Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. Fish must be caught in Garrett County waters and be registered at Deep Creek Outfitters, 1899 Deep Creek Drive, McHenry.

Mt. Top Hoops Results Noted

The Mt. Top Basketball League playoffs continued over the weekend with a pair of semifinal match-ups.

ConDoerr downed First United Bank in the first contest, 60-51. The first half of the contest was a nip-and-tuck battle, but ConDoerr pulled away over the second half as Ronald Rhodes took the reins. Dennis Gibson paced ConDoerr with 16 points, and Rhodes added 15. Antuon Townsend led First United with 21 points, followed by Greg Mortimer's 14.

The second game was decided by Mt. Top Paving's golden touch from the outside, which helped down Midas in a 77-43 romp. That contest was also a hard-fought battle through the first half, which ended with Mt. Top holding a slim 30-29 lead. Mt. Top went on a tear from there, outscoring Midas 18-4 in the third quarter as it coasted to the win. Matt Stephens led all scorers with 19, and his Mt. Top teammates Jimmy Yoder and Bryan Panther added 17 apiece. For Midas, Greg Inglese scored 14 points, while Joe DiSimone and C.J. Getson each contributed 10 points.

Osselburn Takes A First At State Wrestling Contest

The Northern Youth Wrestling Team competed in the Maryland Elementary and Middle School State Championships, which were held on Feb. 15 at Towson. Among the winners at the event were Kody Osselburn, pictured above, who took first place in the 55 lb., 7 and 8-year-old division.

Other winning wrestlers from the northern team were Justin Opel, third place, 45 lb., 6 and under division; Jason Opel, second place, 100 lb., 9 and 10-year-old division; Josh Duckworth, fourth place, 90 lb., 11 and 12-year-old; and Andrew Ganoe, third, 130 lb., 13 to 15-year-old division.

sity downed SHS, 38-25. Sarah Cosner had nine points for the Rams, and Adrienne Yoder had seven. Lauren Mouse paced FH with 16 points.

Looking down the playoff road, should Southern get on a roll the Rams may have an easy time up until the region championship contest. SHS is the top seed in the region, while second-seed Poolesville and third-seeded Catoctin are both in brackets that wouldn't have either meeting the Rams until the region championship contest.

Sincere Thanks

A word of thanks to everyone who was so supportive during the recent illness and death of Harold J. Griffith. There are not enough words to express how grateful we are for the cards, phone calls, flowers, food and prayers given to us by family and friends.

We would especially like to thank the ER staff at GCMH and the emergency 1st response team and the Northern Rescue Squad. Also special thanks to Dr. Miller, Dr. Robert Coughlin and Dr. Sotiere Savopoulos, Lynn and Carol Newman, Pastor Daymond Schmuck and the ladies at St. John's Lutheran Church in Addison. We will never forget your kindness.

A very special thanks to Roy and Audrey Frazee, who were so helpful and supportive during his radiation treatments and for their continued support afterwards.

Northern Clawed By Falcons, Panthers; Opening 1A At Home

The regular season drew to a close this week for the Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team, as the Huskies were downed last Thursday, Feb. 19, by visiting Frankfort in a 50-32 loss, then on Monday NHS was defeated by Hancock at the Cove by a 47-38 margin. The Huskies take an overall 5-15 mark (1-9 WMIL) into tomorrow night's playoff opener against Williamsport.

The Falcons took off early against Northern, rolling up leads of 18-8 after one quarter and 34-18 at the half. As the fourth stanza got under way, the visitors were up 46-24.

Despite the loss to area powerhouse Frankfort (18-2), the Huskies' young frontcourt gave a promising glimpse of what may be to come next year. Sophomore Sarah Stewart turned in a double-double of 11 points and 10 rebounds, while blocking four shots, and junior Lakin Weimer recorded a team-high 12 points. The Falcon's Julie Cessna put together a masterpiece of 12 points, 10 rebounds, 13 steals, and six assists.

Frankfort won the jayvee game by an unreported margin.

Monday's battle with Hancock featured a strong performance by NHS junior forward Jeseca Gibson, who netted a team-high 17 points. Senior guard Lyndsi Butler added 10 points. Each of those Huskies sank a pair of three-pointers. Stewart hauled down seven rebounds.

The NHS girls open in the 1A West Region Tournament tomorrow night at 6 p.m., when they host Williamsport. The winner of that contest will play Southern Monday night.

FRANKFORT (50)
Nikki Sidaway 1 2-2 4, Whitney Daugherty 2 0-0 4, Janessa Shambaugh 3 0-0 8, Julie Cessna 4 1-1 12, Jennifer Cessna 2 5-6 11, Sarah Park 5 1-2 11. Totals 17 9-11 50.

NORTHERN (32)
Lakin Weimer 4 2-4 12, Sarah Stewart 5 1-2 11, Jeseca Gibson 1 1-2 3, Lyndsi Butler 3 0-0 6. Totals 13 4-8 32.

Three-point goals - Frankfort 7 (Ju. Cessna 3, Shambaugh 2, Je. Cessna 2). Total fouls - Northern 13, Frankfort 10. Fouled out - none.

Husky Boys Fall To Westmar; Open 1A At Home Tomorrow

Despite dropping their final two outings of the year, to Hancock last week and Westmar Friday, the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball squad feels "on the upswing" heading into the Class 1A West Region Tournament, according to NHS head coach Paul Edwards. "We're at home in Round One against Williamsport, and if we win we'll go to Westmar for a shot at revenge against the Wildcats. The guys feel really positive and have been practicing hard all week. There's a new sense of energy now that the finality of the season is sinking in, because one loss and you're out."

Friday night's 75-54 loss at Westmar came in spite of three Huskies making it into the double-figure scoring column–Jason Rice with 18, including four three-pointers; Brent Beachy with 13; and Blake Walker with 10.

The host Wildcats ran wild in the first quarter by taking a 22-10 lead, and were up 37-23 at the half. The Huskies continued to stumble through the third quarter, which ended with Westmar holding a 60-36 advantage.

"We know what we are capable of, and we know we didn't play up to our own level against the Wildcats," Edwards commented. "That's going to be quite a motivator for us."

Tomorrow night's playoff opener will get underway 25 minutes following the conclusion of the NHS girls' contest with Williamsport, which gets under way at 6 p.m. Both games will be played at the Cove.

NORTHERN (54)
Chris Speicher 2 0-0 5, Brent Beachy 3 7-11 13, Blake Walker 3 4-5 10, Billy Jones 2 0-0 5, Eric Johnson 1 0-2 2, Jason Rice 5 4-4 18. Totals 16 16-22 54.

High School Hoops Region Tourn. Slated

The Maryland Public Secondary Schools Athletic Association (MPSSAA) has announced the opening brackets for the upcoming state basketball tournament. Northern and Southern high schools compete in the 1A West Region along with similar size schools from Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties. The NHS girls' and boys' squads both open at home tomorrow night, while SHS's boys open at home against Boonsboro at 7 p.m. Saturday. The Southern girls drew a first-round bye, and do not debut until Monday evening.

In the girls' tourney, the full West Region opening round slate is as follows: Williamsport at NHS tomorrow at 6 p.m., with the winner to play SHS Monday in the quarterfinals; Beall at Smithsburg, and Hancock at Allegany, with the winners to meet in the quarterfinals; Brunswick at Clear Spring, with the winner to take on Catoctin in the quarterfinals; and Boonsboro at Westmar, with the winner to play Poolesville in the quarterfinals.

The boys' tournament will open locally as the Northern squad hosts Williamsport tomorrow night, with tip-off set for 25 minutes following the conclusion of the 6 p.m. girls' playoff contest. The winner of the NHS-Williamsport boys' match-up will play Westmar Monday. The remainder of the boys' West Region opening slate rounds out as follows: Smithsburg at Catoctin, with the winner to battle Allegany in the quarterfinals; Hancock at Poolesville, and Boonsboro at Southern, with the winners to play in the quarterfinals; and Brunswick at Beall, with the winner to take on Clear Spring.

Young Skier Qualifies For Jr. Olympics

Jesse Callender, grandson of Margaret Morris, Kitzmiller, and the late David Morris, has qualified for the J3 Junior Olympics.

His mother, Becky Morris, learned to ski and race at the Wisp ski area. She is a graduate of Southern High School.

Callender lives and skis in Vail, Colo. He started his skiing career in a back pack carried by his mom when he was only 6 months old. He started racing at age 9 with the Buddy Warner League and is now with the Rocky Mountain Division of the United States Ski Association. He has won and placed in numerous races and now has the chance at the Olympic gold, a family member said.

Callender is an honor roll high school student and plays rugby and soccer, and bikes. He trains in June at the Mt. Hood Racing Camp.

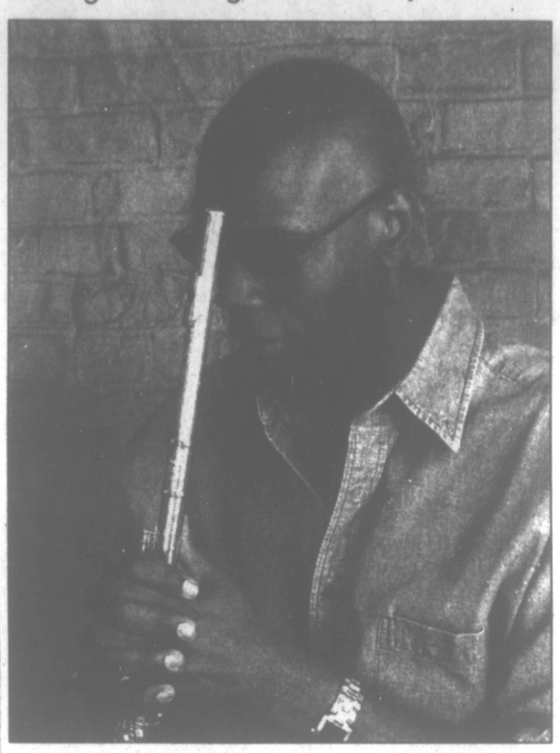
Jazz Flutist Galen To Perform, Speak During Frostburg State's "Day Of Jazz"



Frostburg State University's Black Student Alliance is sponsoring a day of jazz in performance and lecture, featuring jazz flutist Galen, on Monday, March 8, culminating with a performance at 8 p.m. in the Lane University Center's Manicur Assembly Hall. All the day's events are free and open to the public.

The welcome event at noon in Manicur Assembly Hall is a lecture/performance on "Women in Jazz." During the event, participants will learn the five "pillars" of jazz – melody, harmony, rhythm, syncopation, and improvisation – with a demonstration on how each element influences jazz.

At 2 p.m., also in the hall, a second lecture will be presented on "Past, Present, and Future." Then at 5 p.m., the Lane University Center Loft will play host to a jazz poetry slam, providing participants with the opportunity to demonstrate their own compositions with the sounds of jazz. Galen's concert will follow at 8 p.m.

"Galen, a master flutist and lecturer from Montclair, N.J., has a keen ability to transform an audience with the smooth, rich, passionate sound of his flute," said a university spokesperson. "He is an arranger, composer, director, and educator who has performed and recorded with some of the world's greatest recording artists."

For more information, persons may call the FSU Diversity Center at 301-687-4050.

Local Musician Selected For Overseas Tour

Tamara E. ("Tammy") Hall, Swanton, has been notified that she has been selected for membership in the American Musical Ambassadors Band. This highly select concert band, composed of students from all over the United States, will tour several European countries for three weeks this summer.

Miss Hall, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Sunny, Swanton, and Mr. and Mrs. Brian Hall, Orange, Va., is a member of the Southern Garrett High School Marching Band, directed by Richard Clever, assisted by Duane Salisbury. She is a junior at Southern High.

The tour group will visit Paris, Lucerne, Milan, Verona, Innsbruck, Salzburg, Luxembourg City, Belgium, Germany, Winchester, Windsor, London, and the historic beaches of Normandy.

Highlights of the tour will include performances in the concert halls and major parks of Europe, and visits to many sites of musical and historical importance, as well as popular tourist attractions.

The American Musical Ambassadors have taken nearly 7,000 outstanding young musicians to Europe for 32 consecutive years, according to a spokesperson. Conductors of the band are some of the most accomplished band directors in the country, the spokesperson said, and European conductors will serve as guest directors throughout the tour.

The 2004 conductor will be Richard Clary, newly appointed director of bands at Florida State University, and former director of bands at Kentucky University.

The tours are organized and directed by Professor Maxine Lefever, who was a member of Purdue University's band faculty for 25 years.

The purpose of the tour is to foster cultural and personal relationships between students of the USA and the people of Europe.

"AMA students, through their high standards of musical excellence and equally high standards of personal excellence, have indeed served as fine representatives of American youth and as ambassadors of good will through the universal language of music," said Lefever.

Noted Children's Book Illustrator To Discuss His Work

Frostburg State University's Children's Literature Centre has slated a presentation by noted children's book illustrator Robert Bender at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, March 3, at the Frostburg Community Center, 27 Water Street.

Bender started his illustration career working for magazines and newspapers before drawing for children's books. His passion for children's literature began in 1992, when his girlfriend asked him to illustrate a children's book for her. From there, Bender began his career and has illustrated 12 children's books. His artwork has been described as "whimsical," and has been featured in museums throughout the U.S.

Bender will speak about five of his books: Barnyard Song, Lima Beans Would Be Illegal, The A to Z Beastly Jamboree, Ribbit Riddles, and Never Eat Anything That Moves.

The event is free and open to the public. For more information, persons may contact the FSU Children's Literature Centre at 301-687-4420.

THE BUCOLIC MILK ROUTE
by Douglas Scott Arey

One of man's most wistful dreams is to jump onto a time machine, so visit a place that time forgot –
my old milkman's route; a wonderful spot.

I'd pass purveyors of country knick-knacks, always operating kitschy tourist traps, to soon see lush, rolling rural hills displaying gorgeous flowers, with many fancy frills.

And travel past rabbits and red-furred foxes before starting the route, opening insulated milk boxes, all full of many pleasing prizes –
my farmer customers' homegrown surprises.

Big brown eggs, green peppers and grapes, strawberries, cantaloupes, and even steaks, or the farmer's wife had just baked a cake –
but there was always something for me to take.

This wasn't a job, but lots of fun –
no boss hovered over me, just the ol' summer sun.
And as I "worked," under the cool of the trees,
I just loved being foot-loose, and fancy-free as I'd eat lunch beside a bubbling brook – because after this stuffing, t'was no need to cook.
So as I say goodbye, you should never wonder why we savor our memories, as our days pass us by.

THE MOUNTAIN ANTHEMS MIXED CHORUS, under the direction of Menno Beachy, will be in concert at the Faith Evangelical Free Church on Sunday, March 7, at 6 p.m. The church is located along Rt. 135 in Mountain Lake Park. All are invited to attend. The chorus comes from the Allegheny Mountains of western Maryland and western Pennsylvania. The 45 volunteer singers, who are members of the Mountain View Mennonite Church in Salisbury, Pa., present a capella gospel music. The group has been ministering in song for about 42 years. Singers range in age from 15 to 50, and the group has produced 18 recordings. More information about the Mountain Anthems Mixed Chorus can be viewed at www.MountainAnthems.com.

FSU PRESENTS MD SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA – The Cultural Events Series and Allegany Arts Council will present a concert by the Maryland Symphony Orchestra (MSO) at Frostburg State University's Pealer Recital Hall on Friday, March 19, at 8 p.m. Founded in 1982, MSO is widely recognized as a leading cultural asset in the tri-state area. The group is under the direction of Elizabeth Schulze. Violinist Nicholas Kendall, winner of the Young Soloist Competition of the National Symphony Orchestra and the Young Artist Competition of the St. Louis Symphony, will perform. Kendall was a first-prize winner in the 2002 Young Concert Artists International Auditions and also was awarded four special prizes at the PCA Competition. Opening with Respighi's Trittico Botticelliano, the orchestra will then showcase Kendall in Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto. Mussorgsky's classic Pictures at an Exhibition will conclude the program. This event is presented with special thanks to WFWM, public radio from FSU. To purchase tickets or obtain more information, persons may call the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES, or visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.

Gabriella Klein's One-Woman Show, Murdering Cinderella, Slated At OTT

Our Town Theatre in Oakland will present Gabriella Klein's one-woman show, Murdering Cinderella, on March 6 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5, and reservations may be made to see the show by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640.

"Recommended for adult children who vowed they would never be like their parents, Murdering Cinderella investigates the impact of one generation's trauma on the next," Klein's spokesperson said. "Pearl, an only child of Holocaust survivors, must make sense of the history that was handed down to her in order to break the cycle of fear and anger that has been the legacy of her family. As she stumbles from one misadventure to the next, she encounters the ghost of the grandfather and a cast of phantom characters who teach her that the past is never far behind her.

"Pearl's hilarious and poignant quest carries her from Inuvik's frozen north to the grimy underground of London. During this night-long journey, she is forced to examine her own life choices," the spokesperson said.

Jane Avery, artistic director of the theatre, cautioned that the show contains harsh language not suitable for children.

Frostburg State University's Women's Studies Program will sponsor Klein in honor of Women's History Month. She will appear March 8 and 9 at 8 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center's F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre.

Tickets are available FSU's Office of the Division of Performing Arts, Room 302 PAC, Monday-Friday from 9:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Sadie Hawkins Poem Afternoon Slated Sunday

The public is invited to a Sadie Hawkins Poem Afternoon on Sunday, Feb. 29, from 2 until 4 p.m. at the Moomau Library in Petersburg, W.Va. Sponsored by the Grant County Arts Council, the event is free.

"You may bring a favorite poem to share or just come to listen," said a council spokesperson.

Persons requiring accessibility assistance may contact the Arts Council at P.O. Box 988, Petersburg, WV 26847 or at gcac@beaconnet.net before the event.

FSU Seeks Area Dancers For Spring Concert

Frostburg State University is inviting dancers from throughout the tri-state area to participate in "Movin' in Maryland: A Shared Concert Dance Experience," which will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, April 29 to May 1, and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, May 2, as part of FSU's Mainstage Spring 2004 Dance Concert.

The invitation is open to students at colleges, dance studios and public middle and high schools, as well as professional dancers. Each participant will have an opportunity to showcase original choreography. The piece's running time must be no longer than five minutes, and the work must be an original by a faculty or guest choreographer, and set to music on CD. Music shared for the work must begin and end as it is heard on the CD. Space and time will be limited to those participating.

The deadline to make a reservation is March 15. Details will be sent after that date by e-mail. There will be a schedule for rehearsal times for all participants and a dress rehearsal one week prior to the performing dates.

The networking and dance performance experience will feature FSU's Dance Company and a distinguished classical ballet guest performer (to be announced), all under the artistic direction of Dr. Barry Fischer.

For further information, persons may contact Dr. Fischer at bfischer@frostburg.edu or 301-687-4730.

MIDDLE SCHOOL STUDENTS TAKE SAT EARLY – Ten students from Northern Middle School were among 30 seventh and eighth graders who qualified for the Johns Hopkins University Center for Talented Youth (CTY) Annual Talent Search. The 10 students who decided to take the SAT along with many college-aspiring high school students did so last month, and are pictured above. See story. Seated, left to right, are Karina Walker, Ashton Carr, Justine Harvey, and Lindsey Glotfelty. Standing in the same order are Sarah Voelkel, Dustin Stough, Kyle Meyr, Derek McDonnell, Laura Butner, and Elijah Lais.

Middle Schoolers Qualify For SAT Hopkins Program

Ten middle school students who qualified for the Johns Hopkins University Center for Talented Youth (CTY) Annual Talent Search took the SAT along with many college-aspiring high school students on Jan. 24. The CTY Annual Talent Search is open to middle school students who have scored in the 97th percentile or above in mathematics, verbal, or composite score categories of their most recent standardized achievement test.

Acceptable test scores must be averaged on a national U.S. population and reported in terms of percentile rank, a spokesperson explained. At Northern Middle School, the Terra Nova (formerly CTBS) Test is used. This year 30 students in seventh or eighth grade at Northern Middle qualified in at least one area. Of these 30 students invited to participate in the talent search, 10 accepted.

These 10 students submitted a CTY Talent Search application to Johns Hopkins University. The University in turn mailed them a registration packet to take the SAT and sent their names to the SAT program stating that despite their young age, they were eligible to take the test. JHU further requested that the CTY students' scores be reported to their parents and Johns Hopkins University.

Schools with participating students automatically receive the following from CTY: a print-out of their students' SAT scores; a school certificate of recognition; the Talent Search Report describing the performance of the Talent Search group; and an invitation to the state awards ceremony.

Northern Middle School's SAT participants included Karina Walker, Grantsville, daughter of Melinda Gibson and William Walker; Ashton Carr, Accident, daughter of Trip Martin and Rhonda Carr; Justine Harvey, Accident, daughter of Jim and Janet Harvey; Lindsey Glotfelty, Finzel, daughter of Cheryl McKenzie and Barry Glotfelty; Sarah Voelkel, Accident, daughter of Mike and Carol Voelkel; Dustin Stough, Friendsville, son of Scott and Jerry Stough; Kyle Meyr, McHenry, son of Anne Meyr; Derek McDonnell, McHenry, son of Tom and Debi McDonnell; Laura Butner, Accident, daughter of Alice Browning and Tarry Butner; and Elijah Lais, Grantsville, son of Lynn and Jan Lais.

Students taking this test will be invited to participate in special programs for gifted and talented students offered throughout the state this summer, the spokesperson said.

Clark Glotfelty Benefit Dance Set for Saturday

A benefit dance for Clark Glotfelty will be held at the Grantsville American Legion on Saturday, Feb. 28, from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

Admission will be $5, the proceeds from which will assist Glotfelty, who is currently at Johns Hopkins Hospital and requires extended medical care.

Music will be provided by Q-Ball DJs, and donations from local businesses will be raffled off throughout the evening.

Persons must be 21 years of age to enter. Proper ID will be required.

Country Club Mall To Host Scouting Show

The Potomac Council of the Boy Scouts of America, a United Way agency, will celebrate the 94th anniversary of Scouting with the annual Scout Show, to be held at the Country Club Mall on Saturday, Feb. 28.

The theme this year is "Scouting: A Quality Program in a Quality Area." The purpose of the show is to inform the community of the variety of Scouting programs offered in the local area.

Over 25 action displays will be exhibited at the show involving nearly one-half of the youth and adults in the council. These action displays will include such Scouting activities as pioneering, camping, pinewood derby, knots, "turtle races," citizenship, rope-making, caving, Indian lore, and much more.

The participating units include local groups Oakland Troop 22, sponsored by the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club; Grantsville Pack 49, sponsored by the Bethesda Church of the Brethren; McHenry Post 94, sponsored by the Maryland State Police; and Swanton Pack 57, sponsored by the Swanton Community Center.

The Scouting show is free and open to the public.

Miss Umstot, Mr. Stoudt Wed At Historic Pennsylvania Inn

Tracy Martin Umstot and Joseph Neal Stoudt were united in marriage on Saturday, Sept. 6, 2003, during a double-ring ceremony officiated by Susan R. Umstot, sister of the bride, at the historic Oley Valley Inn in Oley, Pa.

The bride is the daughter of Jay and Judy Umstot, Oakland. The groom is the son of Dennis and June Stoudt, Barto, Pa.

The ceremony was held in the garden courtyard of the inn. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, and the marriage was blessed by both sets of parents. The bride and groom were attended by flowergirls Katharine Drennan, niece of the bride, and Hanah Mutter, niece of the groom, and ringbearers Sage Mutter, nephew of the groom, and Riley Drennan, nephew of the bride.

The couple's sisters, Ann Drennan and Amy Mutter, gave a reading during the ceremony. The bride and groom were pronounced married by their families, and a luncheon reception followed at the Oley Valley Inn. The couple shared their first dance to "At Last" by Etta James, honoring their long-awaited trip to the altar.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Southern High School, and the groom is a 1988 graduate of Fleetwood Area High School, Fleetwood, Pa. They are both 1995 graduates of Thomas Jefferson University, Philadelphia, Pa., where they each earned master's of science degrees in physical therapy.

The new Mrs. Stoudt is currently employed by HCR-Manorcare in Laureldale, Pa., as a staff physical therapist. Mr. Stoudt is employed by Commonwealth Orthopedic Associates in Reading, Pa., as clinical director of physical therapy.

The couple spent several days honeymooning in the Poconos. A backyard reception is planned for Sept. 11, 2004, at the couple's home in Fleetwood.

Miss Glotfelty To Wed Mr. Bolyard

Mr. and Mrs. David Glotfelty, Friendsville, have announced the engagement of their daughter Grace Ann to Jamie Darrell Bolyard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Bolyard, Swanton.

The bride-elect is a 2001 graduate of Northern High School and a 2003 graduate of Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland. She is employed as a registered nurse at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1996 graduate of Southern High School, and is the owner/operator of Bolyard Masonry.

The wedding will take place Saturday, March 27, 2004. Although some invitations have been sent, all friends and family are welcome to attend.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Three couples recently applied for their marriage licenses, according to David Martin, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court.

Charles Eugene Friend, 34, and Pamela Corann Beckman, 39, both of Swanton.

Joseph Alan Green, 35, and Danielle Patrice Pelliccio, 36, both of Bowie.

Charlie Joe McKinney, 26, Cisco, Texas, and Cassy Rae Tichinel, 22, Mtn. Lake Park.

Miss Lower To Wed Mr. Moreland

Carolyn Lower and George Porter, Oakland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura Lynn Lower, to Royce Brandon Moreland.

The bride-elect is a 1997 graduate of Union High School in Mount Storm, W.Va. She received a degree in cosmetology from International Beauty School, Cumberland, in 1998. She is employed at Financial Computer Support Inc. as an interface specialist in Oakland.

The prospective groom is the son of Royce and Vonda Moreland, Oakland. He is a 1996 graduate of Southern High School, and employed at Rohmac Inc., Mt. Storm, as a machinist/welder.

No wedding date has been set at this time.

Miss Moreland To Wed Mr. Warsaw

Royce and Vonda Moreland, Oakland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marcella Nikkol Moreland, to Bruce Alan Warsaw II, son of Bruce and Cindy Warsaw, Oakland.

The bride-elect is a 2000 graduate of southern High School. She is employed by Naylor's Contracting and is attending college to become a physical therapist.

The prospective groom is a 1998 graduate of Southern High School and is employed by Nu-Finish Collision Center, Mtn. Lake Park, as an auto body repairman.

A July wedding is being planned.

Tuition Waiver For Foster Care Recipients Given

Students under the age of 21 who have resided in a foster care home in Maryland may be eligible for tuition waiver at a Maryland public two-year or four-year college or university. The waiver applies to any balance on tuition and fees minus any grants and scholarships received.

The student must enroll as a degree-seeking student at a public higher education institution in Maryland on or before age 21. Tuition waivers are administered by the individual college or university.

To be considered for the waiver, the student must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by March 1. The FAFSA is available electronically at www.fafsa.ed.gov, at area libraries or high school guidance offices, or by contacting the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

To be eligible for the waiver, the student must have lived in a foster care home in Maryland at the time he or she graduated from high school or successfully completed a general equivalency diploma examination (GED); or resided in a Maryland foster care home on his or her 14th birthday and then been adopted.

The Maryland Department of Human Resources must confirm eligibility for the waiver. Once enrolled in a degree program, the waiver may be used for five years or until a bachelor's degree is awarded, whichever occurs first. The student must maintain the satisfactory academic progress standards of the institution attended and remain enrolled in an eligible program.

For more information about Maryland's financial aid programs, persons may contact the Maryland Higher Education Commission online at www.mhec.state.md.us or at 1-800-974-1024 or 410-260-4565.

Vendors, Agencies Sought To Exhibit At "Golden" Expo

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging is inviting vendors and agencies to promote products and/or services at the Golden Times Tri-State Expo on Thursday, May 13, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. at the McHenry House at the Wisp Resort.

Hosted by Area Agency on Aging and the Wisp, the exposition will bring together agencies, vendors, health experts, and more to provide information for older adults and their families about products, services, and programs available to meet the needs of an aging society.

The event is following this year's Older Americans' Month theme: "Aging Well, Living Well."

In addition to information from vendor booths and tables, the exposition will offer a variety of free health screenings, educational presentations, and entertainment throughout the day.

"Older adults are the fastest growing segment of our population today," said an agency spokesperson. "We need to make sure they are provided the information necessary to realize their retirement goals. An expo affords an excellent opportunity to showcase a host of resources under one roof. We believe there will be something for everyone."

Vendors and agencies interested in participating in the event may call the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 137, to obtain further information or to receive a registration form.

Deadline Nears For Need-Based Aid Applications

The deadline to apply for most of Maryland's need-based financial aid is March 1. To be eligible, students must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) available electronically at www.fafsa.ed.gov, at area libraries or high school guidance offices, or by contacting the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Maryland's primary need-based programs are the Guaranteed Access Grant and the Educational Assistance Grant.

The Guaranteed Access Grant is open to high school seniors who enroll at a Maryland two- or four-year college or university as a full-time, degree-seeking student. The total family income for a family of four, for example, may not exceed $23,920. The award amount of the Guaranteed Access Grant equals 100 percent of financial need; the minimum annual award is $400 and the maximum award is $11,600.

In addition to the FAFSA, a student must also complete the Guaranteed Access Grant application.

The Educational Assistance Grant is open to current high school seniors and full-time, degree-seeking undergraduates. The amount of the Educational Assistance Grant equals 35 percent of financial need. The minimum annual award is $400 and the maximum is $2,700.

The Maryland Higher Education Commission will administer more than $85 million in financial aid this year to Maryland residents.

For more information about Maryland's financial aid programs, persons may contact the Maryland Higher Education Commission online at www.mhec.state.md.us, at 1-800-974-1024, or 410-260-4565.

4-H Club News

RYAN'S GLADE
by Katelyn Gnegy

The monthly meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club on Feb. 17. Members were reminded that the County Public Speaking Contest will be Saturday, March 13. Katelyn Gnegy gave a talk on her topic for the contest.

The club voted to go bowling on March 28, at 1:30 p.m. Members are to meet at the bowling lanes in Oakland, and the club will provide each member with one game.

The club conducted a Joe Corby pizza fund-raiser, and pizza pick up will be Saturday, March 6, at 10 a.m. at the Ryan's Glade Community Building. Future fund-raisers for the summer and fall were discussed.

The club had 12 members attending the 4-H Ski Day, and 8 members attended the Livestock Association Snow Tubing at the Wisp.

The club had six members to complete the President's Service Learning Award last year. They were Jessica and Andrea Steyer, J. B. and Katelyn Gnegy, and Aaron and Levi Lantz.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 17, at the Ryan's Glade Community Building. At this meeting, the members will finalize their plans for their trip to Washington, D.C.

BITTINGER
Darryl Glotfelty, reporter

The Bittinger 4-H Club elected its new officers for the 2004 year recently. The new officers are president Robbie Glotfelty, secretary Blakely Glotfelty, vice president Scott Bass, and reporter Darryl Glotfelty.

Several Bittinger 4-H Club members participated in January's 4-H Ski Day and February's free snow tubing and pizza activity sponsored by the Garrett County Livestock Association.

This month's meeting featured a program on the hellbender salamander, presented by guest speaker Dan Feller. The hellbender salamander, which is native to the Casselman River, can grow to the length of 22 inches. The population in the Casselman is diminishing in number, and currently is estimated at only 49 hellbender salamanders restricted to a 2- to 3-mile stretch of the river. Feller attributed this decline to sewage plants polluting the river, acid mine drainage, and lack of shade cover from trees.

The Bittinger 4-H Club will host an all-you-can-eat buckwheat cake and pancake dinner on Friday, March 19. More information will be available later.

The Bittinger 4-H Club is seeking new members, and for information persons may contact Marci Glotfelty at 301-245-4543.

NOTICE
GARRETT COUNTY TAXPAYERS!

According to the laws governing my office (Section 14-808/Tax Property), the Tax Collector must advertise and sell properties for delinquent County, State, Town and/or taxes due other taxing agencies.

Delinquent notices were mailed Feb. 4, 2004. We have included all taxes on the property as required by law. However, only delinquent taxes (2002-2003 and prior years) must be paid to avoid a tax sale on the property. Also, personal property taxes for 2002-2003 and prior years are delinquent and become a lien on the real estate (Section 14-808). (If you are involved in a bankruptcy proceeding, please contact our office as soon as possible.) TAX BILLS MAILED JULY 2003 ARE NOT DELINQUENT!

According to legislation (Annotated Code 14-809), the county collector shall proceed to advertise and sell any real property located in any municipal corporation in the county on which municipal corporation taxes are delinquent. Unpaid amounts for municipalities or other taxing agencies were shown at the bottom of the notices. After March 12, all delinquent town taxes must be paid at the County Tax Office in order to guarantee collection of additional costs. ALL SANITARY CHARGES ARE NOW COLLECTED AT THE TAX OFFICE!

Property taxes may be paid at the Tax Office with Discover Card Only. Also, we accept payments by credit card online. To pay by credit card, call 1-800-2PAY-TAX or visit www.officialpayments.com. (Use Jurisdiction Code 3014). There is a nominal fee charged for this service. Cards that can be used are: VISA, MASTERCARD, DISCOVER, and AMERICAN EXPRESS. (VISA will not accept Sewer and Water charges.)

The annual tax sale will be held in May 2004. Additional fees for attorney costs will be assessed after March 12. Please contact our office for the correct figures. After approximately April 15, additional fees for advertising will be included in the total amounts due.

If you should have questions or if we can be of assistance to you, please don't hesitate to call anytime between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

HISTORY LESSON

The Winston Cup Series made its debut at Las Vegas Motor Speedway in 1998, but it was not the first time the series competed in Nevada.

The 43rd race of the 1955 NASCAR Winston Cup (Grand National) schedule was a 200-lap event on the one-mile dirt track at Las Vegas Park Speedway. The race was won by polesitter Norm Nelson, who averaged 44.449 mph in the victory.

DID YOU KNOW

Matt Kenseth, Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Jeff Gordon are the only drivers to start this season with two finishes in the top 10.

"Handling"

Generally, a race car's performance while racing, qualifying or practicing. How a car handles is a function of its tires, suspension geometry and aerodynamics, along with several other minor factors.

INSIDE TALK

Drivers' love for 'The Rock' trumps fans' interest

There was a sense of impending doom hanging over North Carolina Speedway as NASCAR's top stars prepared their cars for Sunday's Subway 400.

The track known as "The Rock" is hugely popular with drivers because it has three distinct racing grooves.

But the track is in a hard place, having already lost its fall race date. Many fear the February date, which often is accompanied by bitter weather, also could go by the wayside.

The campgrounds around the track seemed to have more open space than in previous years, and there were plenty of empty seats for Sunday's race.

NASCAR officials haven't released the schedule for 2005 and beyond, but they've made it clear that they'd like to take the circuit to bigger markets such as New York City. Still, track officials in Rockingham say they're confident they can hang onto their Cup date.

THE RACING 411

NEXTEL CUP

Race: UAW-DaimlerChrysler 400
Where: Las Vegas Motor Speedway
When: March 7, 3 p.m., EST
Race distance: 400 miles, 267 laps
Defending champion: Matt Kenseth
Race record: Mark Martin, 146.554 mph, March 1, 1998.
Qualifying record: Bobby Labonte, 173.0159 mph, Feb. 28, 2003.
Storyline: The series takes a week off after Sunday's race at Rockingham. Matt Kenseth won the 2003 UAW-DaimlerChrysler 400 for his seventh career Winston Cup victory. It was Roush Racing's fourth win in six Winston Cup races at Las Vegas Motor Speedway.

BUSCH SERIES

Race: Sam's Town 300
Where: Las Vegas Motor Speedway
When: March 6, 4 p.m. EST
Defending champ: Joe Nemechek (right)
Race record: Jeff Burton, 135.118 mph, March 4, 2000.
Qualifying record: Matt Kenseth, 169.385 mph, March 2, 2001.
Storyline: The series takes a week off after Saturday's race at Rockingham. Three of the seven races at Las Vegas have been won from the pole. Chevrolets have won four of the seven races at the track.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK

Race: Easycare Vehicle Service Contracts 200
Where: Atlanta Motor Speedway
When: March 13, 1 p.m. EST
Storyline: The series is in the midst of a four-week break after the season-opening race at Daytona.

Atlanta Motor Speedway appears on the schedule for the first time in 2004 and should be among the series' fastest venues. The track has a rich history in NASCAR, dating back to its first Winston Cup race in 1960.

The track took on its current configuration in 1997.

ROCKINGHAM REVIEW

Tight FINISH

Defending series champ Kenseth beats rookie Kasey Kahne by inches

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Rockingham, N.C.

With its future in question because of lagging attendance and a poor location, the track known as "The Rock" lived up to its reputation for dramatic finishes as Matt Kenseth edged rookie Kasey Kahne by inches to win the Subway 400.

Kahne, racing in Nextel Cup for the second time, finished second, ahead of Jamie McMurray, Sterling Marlin and Dale Earnhardt Jr., who now holds a seven-point lead over Kenseth in the season points standings.

But the action didn't end at the finish line as McMurray's and Marlin's car owner Chip Ganassi and other owners gathered in the NASCAR hauler afterwards to discuss scoring issues and resolve questions about whether Mark Martin blocked for Kenseth on a late-race restart.

For most of the race, Kenseth played the rabbit, leading 259 of 393 laps en route to his eighth career victory.

But with 40 laps to go, the complexion of the race changed dramatically.

Just as race leaders Kenseth and Kahne pulled onto pit road, Robby Gordon wrecked on the backstretch, bringing out the caution flag.

It appeared as if Kenseth and Kahne were in danger of falling a lap behind. But when McMurray and the rest of the lead-lap drivers made their pit stops under caution, NASCAR placed Kenseth and Kahne back in the top two spots.

The placement was made using NASCAR's new scoring system which freezes the field once the caution is displayed.

"With the field frozen, McMurray [the leader at the time] couldn't gain positions," NASCAR spokesman Mike Zizzo said.

McMurray's crew protested the decision to no avail.

When the green flag flew for the restart, there was more controversy as Kenseth jumped to a 10-car-length lead while Kahne and McMurray had to spend a couple of laps clearing the lapped car of Kenseth's teammate Mark Martin.

"I definitely could have caught Matt three or four laps sooner if Mark wasn't there, but that's teammates," Kahne said.

Martin and his car owner Jack Roush were summoned to the NASCAR hauler afterwards to discuss the incident.

Said Martin: "I never held the outside lane up — ever, ever, ever. I wouldn't do that."

In the final 30-lap dash to the checkered flag, Kahne, driving the No. 9 Dodge that Bill Elliott drove to victory in the most recent race at North Carolina Speedway, seemed to have the fastest car.

He almost passed Kenseth with six laps to go, then made a bold bid for the win on the final lap.

As the lead duo sped off Turn 4 with the checkered flag waving, Kahne and Kenseth brought the crowd to its feet as they charged toward the finish line in a virtual dead heat. Kahne came up a mere .01 seconds short.

"I was holding on for dear life," Kenseth said.

Also holding on for dear life is the speedway itself, in which approximately 10,000 of its 60,000 seats were unoccupied Sunday.

That disturbs Kenseth.

"I understand the need to market the sport and go to other states," he said, "but as a plain racer, it's sad for me because I love coming here."

Race time

Lead changes:

NASCAR

Defending series champ Matt Kenseth celebrates in Victory Lane Sunday after winning the Subway 400 at Rockingham.

How close was it?

Matt Kenseth's .01-second margin of victory over Kasey Kahne in the Subway 400 was the closest at the track since NASCAR began using electronic scoring in 1993 and the fourth closest in Cup racing since '83.

It was so close that neither Kahne nor Kenseth knew the outcome until their crews radioed the official finish.

On the cool-down lap, Kahne drove to the front straightaway to celebrate only to learn that he'd lost.

"I wasn't sure until I got on the frontstretch and they said I ran second," he said. Still, he was pleased.

"I'm as happy as I can be to run second," he said. "Who wouldn't be at Rockingham? It's such a tough track."

ROCKINGHAM NOTEBOOK

Long gets a ride he didn't expect

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Rockingham, N.C.

For the second week in a row, a Nextel Cup race was interrupted by a car barrel-rolling down the backstretch.

A week after Michael Waltrip rolled at Daytona, Carl Long's car was knocked into the wall and up on its side, then launched into four flips before coming to a stop at the entrance to Turn 3.

The incident began when Brendan Gaughan tapped Joe Nemechek, sending his car into Long's and launching it on its wild ride.

After being checked out at the track's care center, Long was in a joking mood despite destroying his only race car.

"You can't pay $2 at the state fair and get a ride like that," he said.

Slow start for Johnson

Jimmie Johnson, one of the preseason picks to win the season championship, leaves Rockingham 25th in points, 140 behind leader Dale Earnhardt Jr.

JOHNSON

He wrecked on Lap 128, finishing 41st.

He said that as he exited Turn 4, Ken Schrader suddenly veered across the track in front of him in an attempt to enter pit road.

Johnson's car was damaged beyond repair when it slammed into the inside concrete wall. "This is definitely a way that we didn't want to start the season," he said, "but there are still a lot of races left."

Winner tops rookies

With a third at Daytona and a 15th at Rockingham, Scott Wimmer has leaped to the top of the rookie class.

He's fourth in the Nextel Cup points standings. The next closest rookie is Kahne at 21st. Still, Wimmer sees room for improvement. "I think we had a shot at a top-10 [at Rockingham] but ended up a little short," he said.

McMurray wins again at 'The Rock'

Jamie McMurray sped away to his fourth consecutive victory in Busch Series racing at North Carolina Speedway on Saturday.

McMurray's victory in the Goody's Headache Powder 200 ties him with Mark Martin for consecutive Busch victories at Rockingham.

Martin Truex Jr., driving the No. 8 Chevrolet co-owned by Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Teresa Earnhardt, led a race-high 68 laps but came across the finish line two car-lengths behind McMurray.

The race boiled down to a 21-lap dash to the finish following a crash in which the stalled car of Aaron Fike was hit in the left door by the oncoming car of Hermie Sadler.

FEUDIN' DRIVERS

John Andretti — Tony Stewart

After Tony Stewart publicly blamed John Andretti for causing two on-track incidents during practice at Daytona, he sought out Andretti for some one-on-one conversation at Rockingham.

The two sat on the pit wall and talked for several minutes, but Andretti said afterward that he's still upset.

Andretti said he was mostly mad that Stewart made derogatory comments in public before having a private talk.

And he thinks any apology should have been as public as the criticism: "Everybody can say, 'Well that's Tony,' " he said, "but when I have a family and kids that are old enough to understand, it's not good enough to come up and talk to me on pit wall."

Country Club Mall To Host Scouting Show

The Potomac Council of the Boy Scouts of America, a United Way agency, will celebrate the 94th anniversary of Scouting with the annual Scout Show, to be held at the Country Club Mall on Saturday, Feb. 28.

The theme this year is "Scouting: A Quality Program in a Quality Area." The purpose of the show is to inform the community of the variety of Scouting programs offered in the local area.

Over 25 action displays will be exhibited at the show involving nearly one-half of the youth and adults in the council. These action displays will include such Scouting activities as pioneering, camping, pinewood derby, knots, "turtle races," citizenship, rope-making, caving, Indian lore, and much more.

The participating units include local groups Oakland Troop 22, sponsored by the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club; Grantsville Pack 49, sponsored by the Bethesda Church of the Brethren; McHenry Post 94, sponsored by the Maryland State Police; and Swanton Pack 57, sponsored by the Swanton Community Center.

Duhamel planned to pursue dentistry

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Josh Duhamel

Q: Please give me some information on Josh Duhamel of NBC's "Las Vegas." Was his role as Leo on "All My Children" his first venture into acting? –Kandy Lay, Springboro, Ohio.

A: Josh Duhamel, 31, grew up in Minot, N.D., where he played football at Minot State University and dreamed of becoming a dentist before moving to Los Angeles to begin modeling, auditioning for commercials and studying acting.

After landing the title role in a little-seen movie adaptation of "The Picture of Dorian Gray," Duhamel moved to New York in 1999 to join the cast of ABC's daytime drama "All My Children" as Leo du Pres. The role brought him three Daytime Emmy nominations, including one win in 2002 as outstanding supporting actor.

Duhamel, who also guest starred on a 2002 episode of "Ed," currently stars with Topher Grace and Kate Bosworth in the romantic comedy feature "Win a Date With Tad Hamilton!" He lives in Los Angeles and recently announced his engagement to longtime girlfriend Kristy Pierce.

Q: I am an avid fan of Mare Winningham and am surprised that she has never won any awards. Few other actresses can match her. –Frank Edkins, Zephyrhills, Fla.

A: Frank, I hope you will be delighted to learn you are wrong about Winningham's track record. Now 44, she has won two Emmy Awards, one for her leading role in the TV movie "Amber Waves," another for her shattering portrayal of Lurleen Wallace in TNT's "George Wallace."

She won an Independent Spirit Award for her work in the 1995 movie drama "Georgia," a poignant role that also snared her an Oscar nomination as best supporting actress. She also has multiple nominations from the Screen Actors Guild Awards, among other honors, to her credit.

Winningham, who made her TV debut in her teens singing on "The Gong Show," does mainly TV movies and series guest appearances these days to accommodate her family responsibilities (she has four children), but she co-stars with Vincent Kartheiser ("Angel") and Arliss Howard in the 2004 film drama "Dandelion," recently screened at the Sundance Film Festival.

Q: Where did they film Meryl Streep's thriller "The River Wild"? Did she win an Oscar for it? –Claudia in Waynesville, N.C.

A: Streep wasn't even nominated for this 1994 film, which was filmed partly on the Kootenai River and Flathead River in Montana and the Upper Rogue River in Oregon.

Collecting by Larry Cox

Louis Lamour

Q. My late husband was a great fan of Western writers, and I have a large collection of Louis Lamour books and videos. Where can I sell these items? — *Wetherald in Chicago

A. A good place to start might be a visit to your local public library. Go to the reference desk and ask to see the Price Guide: American Book Prices Current. This is a large, annual publication that lists prices for more than 35,000 books, serials, autographs and broadsides gleaned from actual auctions in the United States. This may give you an idea of values. Armed with this information, you can then contact some of the excellent used-book dealers in your area, and they can help you in marketing your collection.

MOVIE POSTERS: Identifying and dating movie posters is simple. The date is generally located in the bottom border of a poster. For example, if you see 41/99, it means that the poster was issued in 1941, and the 99 is an internal reference to the printer. If you see the letter "R," that identifies the poster as a reissue.

Condition is extremely important, and there are at least six degrees of grading: mint, near mint, excellent, very good, good and poor. The difference in value of a mint and poor poster can be dramatic. A near-new poster of "A Hard's Day Night" featuring the Beatles often sells for $500. If it is worn, torn or damaged, it can be worth a fraction of that.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Alan Alda, best-known for his role as Hawkeye Pierce on the long-running TV series "M*A*S*H," has won Emmy awards for acting, writing and directing — something no one else has done.

• It was Louis B. Nizer — obviously a student of human nature — who made the observation, "Some people will believe anything if you whisper it to them."

• Humorist Will Rogers got a rather unusual start in show business. In New York City, he was performing in a Wild West show. Somehow, one of the cows being used in the show escaped and was running loose in the city. Doing what any good cowboy would do, he went out and roped the cow. The next day's papers ran the story, and some people in show business were intrigued. Shortly thereafter he was offered vaudeville roles, and he eventually moved on to perform on Broadway.

• Jack London was at one time America's most famous and best-selling author — and he was the first writer to become a millionaire through his work.

• In the early 1900s, one Dr. Wagner was in possession of a considerable sum of money. For most of his life, he was ignored by his family, but, presumably motivated by the thought of inheritance, they began to pay him a lot of attention when they learned he was dying. When the will was read, they got quite a surprise. As revenge, he bequeathed his left arm and hand to one brother and his right arm and hand to his other brother. Other family members were to receive his legs, ears and nose.

• Martha Stewart, who is so much in the news these days, wasn't always just a domestic maven. She started out in modeling — at the tender age of 13.

Moments in time

• On March 2, 1807, the U.S. Congress passes an act to "prohibit the importation of slaves into any port or place within the jurisdiction of the United States ... from any foreign kingdom, place, or country."

• On March 5, 1815, Franz Anton Mesmer, a German physician who pioneered the medical field of hypnotic therapy, dies in obscurity in Meersburg, Swabia (now Germany). Mesmer believed that invisible magnetic fluids existed in living beings, and that if this invisible magnetic flow was upset, sickness could occur.

• On March 3, 1879, Congress establishes the United States Geological Survey, an organization that played a pivotal role in the exploration and development of the West.

• On March 6, 1928, Gabriel Garcia Marquez is born in Arataca, Colombia. As a child, his grandmother told him fantastic stories of magical events, relating them as if they were fact, which helped shape his own signature writing style, later known as "magical realism." Garcia Marquez won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1982.

• On March 4, 1952, Ernest Hemingway completes his short novel "The Old Man and the Sea," which won the Pulitzer Prize in 1953 and became one of his best-selling works.

• On March 1, 1961, President John F. Kennedy issues an executive order establishing the Peace Corps. Since 1961, more than 161,000 Americans have joined the Peace Corps, serving in 134 nations.

• On March 7, 1999, American filmmaker Stanley Kubrick dies in England at the age of 70. One of the most acclaimed film directors of the 20th century, Kubrick's 13 feature films — which included "Dr. Strangelove," "2001: A Space Odyssey," "A Clockwork Orange" and "The Shining" — explored the dark side of human nature.

Big Dog Marches to Own Drummer

Q. My dog is really big, a giant mutt really, and he just pulls me along on walks. How do I get him to stop this? — *Katie J., Manchester, N.H.

A. Big dogs have been known to do that, haven't they? I've walked my share of them, and being dragged down the pavement is annoying, to say the least. But how do you stop a big, loveable mutt from running out to meet the world?

In your case, some reinforcement training, along with an equipment check, is the first place to start. Schedule extra time daily to reinforce the "heel" command. Don't train during the walk, however; start in a quiet area, such as the yard or an open room. Work on the "heel" and "sit" commands, walking your dog on his leash in wide circles until you get a good response. Reward him for a good performance with a toy or treat.

Check his walk equipment too. Is his collar the right size and width for a large dog? Is the leash sturdy and at least 6 feet long? A secure, properly fitted collar and lead allow you to communicate walk commands more easily. Also, if you're using a choke chain, put it away and try the fixed lead; some dogs get mixed signals from a choke chain.

If a couple weeks of training doesn't bring results, another type of lead may be needed. Consider fitting your dog for a head halter or body harness. These leads take some getting used to, so introductory training is necessary. Reward the dog for good behavior and for obeying commands in the harness so he will associate it with good, not stressful, thoughts.

With devoted training and positive reinforcement, your loveable giant should be trotting along beside you for years to come.

Psalm 63

"Goodness, the winds and rain are increasing by the moment. Oh no! There goes my old umbrella. I guess it couldn't make it through another gale. I shall be at the mercy of the storm unless I can find a shelter."

We all need a dependable shelter when the tragedies of life rain down upon us. Yet, like the pedestrian who didn't replace his battered umbrella with a stronger one, many of us wait until our situation is desperate, then scramble for shelter.

Don't wait until the pelting storms of life turn your spirit inside out. Come to know the love of the Creator of the universe. In Psalm 57:1, the psalmist proclaims, "In the shadow of Thy wings will I make my refuge." You can meet God in His sanctuary as you worship each week. He will shelter you from your fear of the storms in your life.

How Many Times Should I Forgive?

Since there is a finite human limit to the amount of forgiveness most people possess, we may not be emotionally able to forgive someone for a particular offense more than once or twice.

And, we may rightly believe if someone continues to hurt us that we simply must walk away as a means of self-preservation.

After all, this is only human. Furthermore, we may run the risk of hurting our loved ones when we forgive those who wronged them. But God's answer to the question is concerning how many times we should forgive someone is that we should forgive our brother not once, or even seven times, but seventy times seven times. This means that there should be no end to our forgiveness. Consider the prophet Hosea. His wife Gomer was unfaithful to him and was basically a harlot. And yet Hosea forgave her, and when she was in the process of being sold as a slave by her most recent lover, Hosea bought her at great expense and took her back to his home, forgiving her for her infidelity, just as God forgives us for ours.

You must dwell as mine for many days; you shall not play the harlot, or belong to another man; so will I also be to you."

Value Of Daily Multivitamin Use In Older Persons

If all seniors took multivitamins daily, their overall health could be significantly improved making the elderly less likely to need prescription drugs or hospital care. This was the conclusion reached from a recent study by the Lewin Group. Persons over the age of 65 have gradually weakening immune systems, which leaves them more vulnerable to infections. The 5-year estimate of potential savings nationwide from improved immune function and decreased coronary artery disease risk through providing older adults daily multivitamins was listed by the group to be about $1.6 billion. The study assumed that up to 85% of seniors would continue taking multivitamins after 5 years of having their health insurance plan pay for them.

Evidence from numerous studies shows that a significant number of older Americans fail to meet essential energy and nutrient needs through diet alone. Although the research focused on the effect of vitamins on coronary artery disease, and other chronic health problems, additional health care savings can be assumed from a reduction in hospitalizations, nursing home stays, and home health services.

Computer Classes Set At Grantsville Outreach Center

Garrett College has scheduled a variety of computer classes for March at the Grantsville Outreach Center.

Advanced Computer Skills is set for four consecutive Mondays, March 1, 8, 15, and 22, from 6 to 9:15 p.m. The course increases the student's understanding of computers and operating systems. Topics will include Windows operations, files and folders, floppy discs, accessing the Internet, Web pages, and e-mail.

Senior Surfers: The Internet and Web Literacy will also be offered over the same four consecutive Mondays, March 1-22, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. This course is an in-depth look at the Internet – how it works, its capabilities, and how to run various programs to utilize it most effectively. Topics include e-mail and sending attachments, hypertext documents, how to use search engines, and the social impact of the Internet – including privacy, censorship, and fraud. Information on joining discussion groups and the use of related online services will also be covered.

Microsoft Excel I will be offered over four consecutive Thursdays, March 18 to April 8, from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. In this course, the student will learn to create, edit, save, and retrieve spreadsheets. Basic printing commands, graphs, and charts will be introduced. A prerequisite of Introduction to Computers or a working knowledge of the computer is required.

Advanced Microsoft Access is slated for four straight Wednesdays, March 24 to April 14, from 6 to 9:15 p.m. This course is designed to enhance the skills needed for databases and introduces the more complex features of customizing data, changing the appearance of a datasheet, selecting data entry values, understanding forms and subforms, validating data, printing reports, and using table wizards. A prerequisite of Microsoft Access I is required.

For additional information about these classes, persons may contact Terry Beachy at 301-895-3368, or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

ROTARY CONTRIBUTES TO SUMMER READING PROGRAM – The Oakland Rotary presented the Garrett Reading Council with a $500 donation recently to benefit the Garrett County Summer Reading Program. Reading Council founder and Swan Meadow School principal Randee Craig was the guest speaker at a recent Rotary Club meeting, and she provided information on a number of council activities designed to promote parent involvement, including a partnership with the Ruth Enlow Library and Garrett County Board of Education to facilitate the Summer Reading Program, which buys a book for every 5th and 8th grader to read over the summer. Craig's daughter Kenzie, a student Reading Council member and the current Miss Teen Cumberland, spoke to the club about the importance of reading and ways to promote reading. Pictured, from the left, are Rotary president-elect Brenda McCartney, Kenzie and Randee Craig, and Doreen Rogers of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Community College Students Find Success In 4-Year Colleges

The percentage of community college students who earned a bachelor's degree within four years of transferring to a public four-year institution has risen in the past three years, according to the Maryland Higher Education Commission. The findings were based on a study of the last eight groups and contained in the report "Performance of Community College Transfer Students at Maryland Public Four-Year Colleges and Universities."

Of the students who transferred during the 1998-1999 academic year, 48.3 percent earned a degree from their transfer institution within four years. This is the highest four-year college graduation rate achieved by community college students since the commission began collecting these figures.

In addition, the academic performance of community college transfer students during their first year at a public four-year institution has also been improving over the last 10 years. The GPA earned at four-year institutions by community college students transferring in 1991-1992 was 2.58, while the GPA of students transferring in 2000-2001 was 2.70. The GPA achieved by community college transfer students in the past three groups has been the highest on record.

"Our community colleges are not just doing a terrific job preparing students for the workforce, they are also preparing them well to pursue college degrees," said Dr. Calvin W. Burnett, acting secretary of Higher Education. "I applaud our community college presidents and faculty for demanding and expecting the best from their students. Our study shows their efforts are paying off."

Dr. Anthony G. "Tony" Kinkel, executive director of Maryland Association of Community Colleges, echoed Dr. Burnett's sentiments.

"These recent developments are part of a bigger trend that community colleges are seen by the public as the first choice to access higher education, which is a huge shift," said Dr. Kinkel. "In the past, community colleges may have been a second or third choice, but because our courses transfer and because we are flexible and affordable, students are coming to us in record numbers."

The report also showed that the proportion of minority community college transfer students who earned a baccalaureate degree within four years of transferring has increased since the 1991-1992 group. More than 40 percent of all minority transfer students (who include African Americans, Asian Americans, Hispanics, and Native Americans) in the past two groups graduated within four years – the highest yet.

The graduation rate of minority community college transfer students has continually trailed the average of all students, but the gap is closing.

In addition, the average GPA earned by minority community college transfer students in their first year at a public four-year institution reached record highs in the past three groups. Minorities earned a GPA of 2.56 in 2000-2001, considerably above the 2.38 achieved in 1991-1992.

African American community college students who transferred in 1998-1999 achieved a 36.4 percent four-year graduation rate, almost two percentage points higher than African American students who transferred in 1991-1992.

Performance of Community College Transfer Students at Maryland Public Four-Year Colleges and Universities may be viewed electronically on MHEC's web site at www.mhec.state.md.us.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN–The sun spends the early part of March in Aquarius, moving into Pisces on March 11. The amount of daily sunlight increases by about 2 minutes each day in March. In early March the sun rises about 6:50 a.m., and sets around 6:10 p.m., while in late March sunrises are around 6:05 a.m., and sunsets occur at approximately 6:40 p.m. The sun's midday height during March grows from 43 to 54 degrees (45 degrees is halfway from the horizon to the top of the sky). In March the length of twilight is an hour. This means that the fainter stars fade from view an hour before sunrise and the fainter stars reappear an hour after sunset. In mid-March, we have 10 hours of night for star gazing. March 20 is the official start of spring, with the sun rising due east and setting due west over most of the world.

THE MOON–March opens with the two-thirds evening moon near the bright planet Saturn. The moon grows to full on the evening of March 6; this full moon is known as the Sap Moon, Crow Moon, or the Lenten Moon. Just to the right of the moon is the bright planet Jupiter. After March 10 the moon shifts into the morning sky, and is then most easily viewed at dawn. Around March 20 the moon hides in the sun's glare for a few days. On March 24 the crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus. The next evening the moon nearly lines up with Mars. On March 28 the half-full moon again appears near the planet Saturn. This is the best moon shape (resembling the letter "D") to view the moon's craters and mountains with binoculars or telescopes. Along the lighted moon's left edge the rising sun catches the raised crater rims and mountain peaks

THE BRIGHT PLANETS–Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. Venus dominates the early evening sky, blazing in the west. Venus is three times as bright as the next brightest planet (Jupiter); our neighbor world is also a half dozen times as bright as the brightest night star (Sirius). Above and to the left of Venus is the planet Mars, only about 1/100th as bright as Venus. Above the star group Orion is the bright planet Saturn, shining in the star group Gemini. The very bright planet Jupiter dominates the eastern evening sky. On March 4, Jupiter is closest and brightest, hanging in the sky all night long. In late March, the innermost planet Mercury reaches its greatest angle from the sun in the western dusk, and one can look for Mercury very close to the western horizon around 7:20 p.m.

THE STARS–The evening sky's best star sight remains the star group Orion in the southwest. Catch Orion early in the evening, for in the late evening hours Orion hides behind the hills and treetops in the west. Orion's trademark is his belt of three stars in a row. Orion's belt points left to Sirius, the night's brightest star. Another highlight of March evenings is the Big Dipper, which is now pouring its soup into the Little Dipper high in the north.

MARCH ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES–The Frostburg State Planetarium will feature "Jupiter, Medieval Folk, and Hubble's Deep Views" on Sundays at 4 and 7 p.m. These free public programs last about 50 minutes and begin with a brief live tour of the current evening sky. Persons may call 301-687-4270 for further information and directions on how to get to the planetarium.

The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, March 19, at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers are welcome.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure or sky charts, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "Sky Watch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights, that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Seafarer Tim Ross, Friendsville, is a new member of the U.S. Merchant Marine, having graduated from the Unlicensed Apprentice Program at the Paul Hall Center for Maritime Training and Education at Piney Point. He is the son of John Ross and Janet and Lawrence Jefferys.

Ross completed nine months of training that taught him the basic skills of seamanship in order that he may work aboard a U.S. flag commercial vessel. The program is conducted in three segments, with the first 12 weeks of initial instruction taking place at the Paul Hall Center in both classroom and hands-on settings.

Ross then received on-the-job training as he worked aboard the Horizon Hawaii, an operational U.S. flag merchant vessel, for three months. Finally, he returned to the Paul Hall Center for advanced instruction and received his entry rating merchant mariner's document.

SEAFARER TIM ROSS OF FRIENDSVILLE is one of the newest members of the U.S. Merchant Marine, having graduated from the Unlicensed Apprentice Program at the Paul Hall Center for Maritime Training and Education at Piney Point. The 22-year-old seafarer completed nine months of basic seamanship training, three months of on-the-job training aboard the Horizon Hawaii (pictured above), and additional advanced instruction to receive his entry rating merchant mariner's document. See story for details.

Included in his seamanship were basic fire fighting, first aid and CPR, water survival skills, proper sanitation methods, and oil spill prevention, among other topics.

"Because personal discipline and precise work are vital parts of shipboard life," said a Paul Hall Center spokesperson, "some segments of the program are conducted with military-like procedures." The day begins with a formal flag-raising ceremony, marching in formation to and from classes and activities, lowering the flag at sundown, and wearing a uniform.

The Paul Hall Center is a joint union/management facility operated by the Seafarers International Union and its contracted companies. It has been providing basic training and advanced educational opportunities to members of the U.S. Merchant Marine since 1967.

More information on the facility may be obtained by calling its admissions department at 301-994-0010 or via the web site at seafarers.org.

Payne Elected President Of Md. Builders Assn.

Part-time Garrett County resident Howard F. Payne has been elected president of the Maryland State Builders Association (MSBA) for 2004. The MSBA represents builders and affiliated organizations, and places a special emphasis on legislative and regulatory issues facing the building industry on a statewide basis. As MSBA president, Payne will work with the five local homebuilder associations located throughout the state.

An Ijamsville resident and owner of Monrovia-based H.F. Payne Homes, Payne was president of the Frederick Builders Association in 1979 and 2001. He is an executive officer of the Committee for Frederick County.

Since purchasing his own Deep Creek Lake property 25 years ago, Payne has built 12 recreation properties in the area, and he owns the Deep Creek Store-away at Keyser's Ridge. He is currently working on a golf course community off of Gravelly Run Road.

The MSBA notes a close working relationship with the Western Maryland Builders Association (WMBA) and its president, Randy George, and its state directors, Mike Cumerlato and Tom Burke. WMBA Legislative Committee chairman Bob Beachy meets weekly with MSBA on the proposed bills affecting the building industry.

Payne volunteers with numerous service organizations, and supports the McHenry and Oakland volunteer fire departments, Garrett County Arts Council, the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, and Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He is also a member of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Walk For Hospice Slated April 24 At Deep Creek Lake

The annual Walk For Hospice will be held Saturday, April 24, at the Garrett 8 Cinemas, Deep Creek Lake. Registration will begin at 9 a.m., and the walk will start at 10 a.m.

Prizes will be awarded to the top three teams and the top three individuals. A team is defined as two to four members. Prizes will be awarded to those who bring in the most money the day of the walk.

Top team prizes are a Disney World package (including flight, room, and park hopper tickets), a NASCAR racing package to the Richmond International Raceway (including room and tickets), and a limo trip (donated by Markwood Limo) to Uno's for dinner for the team members.

Individual prizes will be awarded to the three top walkers who raise and turn in the most money on the day of the event. The top person gets first pick of prizes, the second gets second choice, and the third gets the remaining prize. The prizes are a $500 Wal-Mart gift certificate, a camcorder, and a PlayStation.

Hospice will also give door prizes at the walk for all participants who sign up for the drawings. All participants will receive one movie ticket, one bag of microwave popcorn, and a bottle of water.

The Garrett County Sportaerobic Team with Brenda Brosnihan will perform a 9:30 a.m.

For more information or to receive a registration form, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151 or in the Grantsville area at 800-521-5252.

ACT PERSONNEL SERVICE, Oakland, is a corporate sponsor for this year's Walk For Hospice. The event will be held Saturday, April 24, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Garrett 8 Cinemas, Deep Creek Lake. See story for more information about the event. Pictured, left to right, are Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, and Tracy Irving, branch manager of Act Personnel.

DONATION GIVEN – Deep Creek Brewing Company donated the proceeds from the recent Brew and Blues Fest to the Garrett County branch of Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Alleghenies. These proceeds benefit the BBBS mission of providing caring adult mentors to children from low-income, single-parent families. Brewers from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia sampled their newest craft beers, local artists displayed crafts, and live music was provided at the recent festival. On the right is Stacey Godwin, Deep Creek Brewing Company manager, presenting a check to Shannon Brode, BBBS county coordinator.

Cash Bash Set By Oakland Vol. Fire Department

As a fund-raising activity, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will hold a Mega Cash Bash drawing on Saturday, May 1, at the fire hall.

Only 1,000 tickets are being sold for the drawing, at a cost of $100 each. There will be 72 cash winners drawn, one every five minutes from noon to 6 p.m. that day. The prizes will range from $100 to a grand prize of $10,000. There will also be six $5,000 winners, six $1,000 winners, and 12 $500 winners.

Free food and beverages will be provided throughout the afternoon to ticketholders. Guest tickets are also available for $10 each. The doors will open at 11 a.m.

Tickets are available from OVFD members, or by telephoning 301-334-3535 or 301-334-3776.

4-H Club News

RED HOUSE
Brittany Green, reporter

Red House 4-H Club president Stephanie Brenneman called the February meeting to order. Amanda Beckman led pledges, Catlin Jones read the secretary's report, and Levi Green read the treasurer's report.

The club received the 2003 club awards. Eli Green delivered a report on the livestock meeting. The club's fund-raisers this month are candle and hoagie sales.

Club members who attended the club swine workshop were Jordan and Kelsey Skipper, Ian Smith, Logan Hinebaugh, Ryan Miller, Travis Sanders, and Rachel, Carrie, and Daniel Skipper.

The demonstrations for this month were presented by Amanda Beckman, Randy Cussins, Michelle Holler, Jordan Skipper, Kerri Skipper, and Rachael Skipper.

The adults who attended the workshop were Lisa Skipper, Kathy Smith, Todd Hinebaugh, Toby Miller, Kathy Sanders, Tim Skipper, Tina Green, and Lisa Brenneman.

ADOPTING GRANDPARENTS IN GRANTSVILLE – The students from Partners After School at Grantsville recently visited the Goodwill Mennonite Home to visit "adopt-a-grandparent" residents for Valentine's Day. Among the honorees is Chauncey Friend, seen above, who recently turned 100. The students sang "Happy Birthday" to him, and delivered cards and happy wishes. The students visit the residents every month, and the program is sponsored by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Grantsville CSAFE Program, and Partnership for Children and Families. Upcoming events include a monthly incentive trip to the Bowler.

Pre-Kindergarten Applications Being Accepted By BOE

Beginning March 1 and ending May 1, the Garrett County Board of Education will accept applications for its pre-kindergarten program. To be eligible for this program a child must have been born between Nov. 1, 1999, and Sept. 30, 2000.

There is a two-step application process:

Interested parents should obtain a copy of the Notification of Interest for Prekindergarten Program documents. These documents can be obtained from the nearest elementary school or from the Office of Pupil Services at the Board of Education in Oakland.

The first document explains the enrollment and selection process for the prekindergarten program. The second document is an information sheet. This information sheet should be completed and forwarded to the Office of Pupil Services, Garrett County Board of Education, 40 South 2nd Street, Oakland, MD 21550. This form can also be taken to the closest elementary school.

Upon receipt of the Notification of Interest for Prekindergarten Program information sheet, the parents will be given or sent a second set of documents. This second set includes a parent letter, a photocopy of the board of education's guidelines for determining the eligibility and selection of pre-kindergarten students, and a Garrett County Prekindergarten Program questionnaire. This questionnaire will need to be completed and returned as soon as possible to the Office of Pupil Services.

The information provided by parents on this questionnaire will be used to determine which children are enrolled in the pre-kindergarten program. The Office of Pupil Services will date and log in all questionnaires.

Any questions about this enrollment process should be directed to Liz Lewis, administrative secretary, Office of Pupil Services, at 301-334-8939.

On Dean's List

Bethany Savage has been named to the dean's list at West Virginia University for the fall 2003 semester. She is a senior in the School of Business and Economics majoring in marketing.

In order to qualify for the dean's list, a student must be enrolled at the university full time and have at least a 3.6 grade-point average.

Last fall, Savage was inducted into the Gamma Beta Phi Society, which is both an honor society and a service organization. She was also recently recognized, along with 46 other seniors, as a four-year member of the Pride of West Virginia University Marching Band, which consists of more than 320 musicians.

She is the daughter of Terry and Carol Savage, Oakland, and a 2000 graduate of Southern High School.

It's Show Time!

If your home is well-priced, in good condition, and easy to locate, it's an ideal candidate for an "Open House." For a successful showing, be sure to list your home with a real estate agent and follow these guidelines:

First, give your property "curb appeal" to draw buyers to it by making sure your home is attractive and clean, and that your lawn and landscaping are well-maintained. This tips-off buyers that the inside of the home will display the same pride-of-ownership as the outside.

Next, on the inside, vacuum carpets, mop floors, sparkle up those windows, and clear items from tables, countertops, etc. This reduces the appearance of "clutter" and increases the impression of roominess. A bouquet of fresh flowers definitely adds charm and warmth to any room.

Another useful item to make available is an "Our Home" book including the home information sheet your agent has prepared, along with photos of the landscaping throughout the year, information about your utilities, and even area details about schools, shopping, transportation, etc.

Finally, leave your home! That's right ... buyers are too self-conscious to ask their critical questions when the homeowners are standing right there. Your agent will be more than qualified to answer potential buyers' questions. Now that you've done all you can to generate interest, your agent will take care of the rest!

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give me a call today!

Farming On The Mountaintop

GC Economic Development Dept. Hires WVU Intern To Develop Farm Survey

The Garrett County Department of Economic Development recently hired an intern, Justin Bond from West Virginia University, to assist Cheryl DeBerry, agriculture marketing specialist, in the development of the county's Agricultural Marketing Plan.

Bond is developing a survey of local farm businesses to collect vital information regarding farms, farm products, and farm suppliers and services throughout the region.

"Once we are able to get a handle on the specific products and services each farm business has to offer," he said, "we can then better develop the goals of the marketing plan."

The survey will not only aid in the development of the marketing plan, but will also be the basis for the creation of a farm directory, noted DeBerry. Farmers may choose to participate in the directory and what information will be included. The information will be published online and may be published into a book, depending on future findings.

"The directory will help link farmers and consumers, and farmers and farm suppliers, thus helping develop a more profitable local market," said DeBerry.

Bond, who graduates this May with a degree in marketing, said he is excited to be gaining valuable real-world experience through the internship, and he appreciates the opportunity to learn lessons outside the classroom.

"I have already learned several things working here that are impossible to pick up from a textbook," he said.

For more information, persons may call DeBerry at 301-334-6960.

Speakers Bureau "Gets Word Out" About Farming

by Debra Spurrier
Maryland Grain Producers Association

What profession combines the skills of a financial planner, a bookkeeper, a futures analyst, and a marketing professional with those of a mechanical engineer, a veterinarian, an environmental steward, and an agronomist?

If you guessed a farmer, you are correct.

Maryland's agriculture industry is more than chickens and corn — it is an economic workhorse that brings safe, nutritious, and great-tasting foods to the table each and every day of the year.

The Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA) Speakers Bureau is excited to share the daily challenges and joys of the world's oldest profession with their informative presentation, available free to schools and civic/service organizations.

"When families sit down to their meal at night, they rarely think about the farmers who produce the food," said a spokesperson for the program. "Our colorful presentation brings consumers in touch with the business of agriculture and how it benefits them."

Did you know that each Maryland farmer feeds, on average, more than 130 people, yet receives only 19 cents from every dollar spent on food? Or, that a family of four could live 10 years off the bread produced by one acre of wheat in one year?

These and other fascinating facts boggle the minds of listeners as they are guided through descriptions of day to day workings of a farm business, economics, production methods, environmental stewardship, and much more. Each presentation is different and personalized by the speaker's own farm experiences.

"Our success in spreading agriculture's message to our consumers through the Speakers Bureau has been phenomenal since its inception in the spring of 2000," the spokesperson said. "The agriculture industry is America's number-one export, with over $53 billion worth of agriculture products sold in 2003, yet many people have never set foot on a farm and actually seen how their food is produced. Our bank of volunteers brings the farm to the consumer with this presentation."

The MGPA Speakers Bureau consists of a unique collection of volunteers who either farm or are involved in agriculture-related businesses or activities. All speakers are trained in public speaking and work hard to offer an exciting presentation about Maryland's agriculture industry.

The Speakers Bureau was developed to reach non-p fit, civic and service organizations with a slide-show focusing on Maryland agriculture. Since February 2001, the group has given presentations to such groups as Rotary, Jaycees, Lions, Ruritan, Optimists, and Chambers of Commerce.

To take advantage of this free service and reserve a presentation in your area, persons may contact the Md. Grain Producers Association Public Relations and Speakers Bureau office at 301-473-7522.

ADDITIONAL CROP INSURANCE – COST-SHARE

Maryland farmers who sign up for crop insurance by the deadline of Monday, March 15, will benefit from an additional cost-share incentive, which Congress recently authorized. The federal funds will be used to pay 15 percent of the producer's net premium at the 70 to 85 percent coverage levels. Maryland farmers are urged to contact their crop insurance agents before March 15 to benefit from the cost-share.

Producers purchasing crop insurance that protects 60 to 65 percent of their average yields will receive a 10 percent cost-share on their crop insurance. Those purchasing crop insurance to protect 50 or 55 percent of their crop yield, will receive a 5 percent cost-share.

"Crop insurance is a key risk management tool for farmers," said Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley. "This federal cost-share helps make it even more attractive."

In 2003, Maryland farmers spent about $3.3 million on purchasing crop insurance and received more than $8.2 million in indemnity payments from that risk management decision.

Crop insurance provides protection against losses in crop production due to natural perils, including drought, hail, frost, excessive moisture, and other adverse weather conditions. New forage seedings are insurable in Maryland for the first time this year. Other crops with March 15 sales closing dates include: corn, fresh market sweet corn, fresh market tomatoes, grain sorghum, oats, potatoes, processing beans, processing sweet corn, processing tomatoes, soybeans, and tobacco. Crop Revenue Coverage (CRC) for corn, grain sorghum, and soybeans is also available to provide protection against a decline in market prices.

USDA Launches New Ewe Lamb Program In GC

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is launching a new $18 million program to enhance the competitiveness of the domestic lamb and sheep industry and re-establish producers' purchasing power. The program, titled the Ewe Lamb Replacement and Retention Program, will pay producers $18 per head for ewe lambs purchased or retained between Aug. 1, 2003, and July 31, 2004.

Michael R. Kozier, executive director of the Garrett/Allegany County Farm Service Agency, said in addition to meeting the purchase-retention dates, producers must retain qualifying ewe lambs for at least one complete offspring lambing cycle.

"Adequate record keeping is a must for this program," Kozier said. "Producers should keep records such as sale receipts as proof of purchase and retention, veterinarian certifications as proof of ewe lamb characteristics, and scrapie program forms."

Documentation must disclose the dates of lamb purchase, birth, and death, (if applicable); lamb identification and control information; the number of ewe lambs purchased; and identification with the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) approved scrapie program. Scrapie is a degenerative disease of sheep and goats that affects the central nervous system. APHIS conducts a voluntary scrapie flock certification program to certify scrapie-free herds.

Kozier said no sign-up date has been announced. Because funding for the program is limited to $18 million, the $18 payment rate will be subject to available funds.

2004 FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM FOR PRODUCERS IN TARGETED STATES

The Federal Crop Insurance Act authorizes the secretary of agriculture to provide financial assistance to producers in 15 targeted states, and the Consolidated Appropriations Bill of 2004 allocates $5 million for this assistance. Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia are included in the 15 targeted states. Furthermore, the 2004 Appropriations Bill directs the secretary to use not less than $3 million to $5 million of the authorized funding to fund additional crop insurance cost-share assistance in Maryland and Pennsylvania, which have operated a state-funded crop insurance premium assistance program in crop years 2001 and 2002.

To assist producers in reducing production, price, and revenue risks, the USDA's Risk Management Agency (RMA) will provide financial assistance to producers purchasing crop insurance policies in the targeted states. The financial assistance will apply to the portion of a producer's premium remaining after the premium has been reduced by the subsidy authorized by the Act. Funding will be provided through the USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation.

For further information on the financial assistance available, interested producers are asked to contact their agent regarding program eligibility and availability. The deadline to obtain crop insurance coverage for 2004 spring seeded crops is Monday, March 15.

Corn, oats, and nursery crops are insurable in Preston County. A list of crop agents is available at the Preston County Farm Service Agency office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza or by using RMA's agent locator at www3.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents.

UNION LENTON SERVICES BEGIN

With the Feb. 25 Ash Wednesday services at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, Union District services on each Wednesday evening of Lent have begun. Using a theme of "Roads," each week will focus on one of the roads traveled by Jesus, and this week's is the Damascus Road. On March 3, Rev. Robert Klier will look at the road to the wilderness.

Everyone is welcome to the services, each set to begin at 7:30 p.m., and the March 3 services will be at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren.

Mt. Grove VFD Slates Dinner

The Mt. Grove VFD, Horse Shoe Run, will hold an "all-you-can-eat" buckwheat cake and sausage dinner on Sunday March, 7, from noon until 5 p.m.

The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 years and under. Proceeds benefit the department's building improvement efforts.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER

An all-you-can-eat buckwheat cake and sausage dinner will be served on Sunday, March 7, at the Mt. Grove Community Building. Serving is from noon until 5 p.m. Adult meals are $6, and for children 12 and under, $3. Proceeds go to Mt. Grove VFD for building improvements.

AAHS SEEKS INPUT

An open forum meeting of the Aurora Area Historical Society is to be held at the Aurora Community Building on March 7 at 3 p.m. Persons with stories, old photos, and histories to share (especially with knowledge of who lived where, what businesses were where, and other information helpful to mapping Union District as it was during the 1920s-1940s) are asked to attend. Pictures of old schools in Union District are also being sought.

LIONS "DIG" AURORA SCHOOL – The Mountain Lions Club hosted Aurora School principal Edna Rothwell recently during a club meeting at the Methodist Center in Aurora. Rothwell informed the civic organization about her agenda for continually enhancing student performance and adult involvement in the education process, and also thanked the Mtn. Lions for constructing benches for the school. Club president David Moran is pictured above with Rothwell as he clears snow away from one of the benches.

MARKETING CONFERENCE

A conference designed to bring attention and assistance to the marketing of home-based businesses, particularly those related to agriculture, is being planned for March 27 at Garrett College. Persons interested in learning more about this aspect of the economy for their own use or for their community are encouraged to attend. Guest speakers will include both Gus Douglass, West Virginia commissioner of agriculture, and Louis Riley, Maryland secretary of agriculture. They will be joined by small-business experts Beverly Williams (founder of American Association of Home-based Businesses Inc.) and C.J. Eades, owner of Marketek LLC. For more information, persons may contact David Moran at 304-735-6413 or Cheryl DeBerry at 301-334-6960, or visit www.morefarmmoney.org.

PERSONAL MENTION

Several area students have excelled in academic areas. Named to the Fairmont State dean's list for fall semester were Melanie Tichnell, Bethany Lantz, and Cathy Sisler. Ryan Feather is one of five Preston High students named a National Merit Scholarship finalist. Five Union District students were inducted into the Excalibur Chapter of the National Honor Society at PHS. They are: senior, Andrew Nelson, and juniors, Holly Keeny, Jordan Lantz, Joshua Mullenax, and Jennifer Sullivan.

Alma and Jackie Snyder celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary on Feb. 4, not Feb. 14.

Celebrating 40 years of marriage this past Sunday, Feb. 22, were John and Shirley (Roth) Parsons of Aurora.

Ted Stieringer returned last Thursday to Aurora after undergoing heart surgery at Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown.

Bernard "Andy" Harsh of Eglon was admitted Wednesday night to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He returned Sunday to his home.

Hazel Durst of Amboy had arthroscopic knee surgery Feb. 18 at Morgantown. She is recovering at her home.

Wayne Mullenax of Horse Shoe Run was a recent surgical patient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He had shoulder repair.

Viola Harsh of Stemple Ridge has reportedly been ill at her home.

Also ill at her home this past week has been Sandra Hauser of Stemple Ridge.

Lois Adams remains a patient at Monongalia General Hospital after undergoing biopsy surgery on Feb. 20.

David Collins returned to his home at Horse Shoe Run on Friday of last week. His wife, Cathy, continues her recuperation from recent kidney surgery.

Thurman Nair of Brookside is again a patient at Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland.

Lorraine Fike of Bridgewater, Va., reports that her son, Rev. Melvin Fike of Polo, Ill., is now able to eat solid foods and to exercise by walking.

A former Eglon resident, Ellis B. Harsh of Bridgewater, Va., is a patient at the University of Virginia Medical Center in Charlottesville as the result of an apparent heart attack on Feb. 21. His wife, Helen (Schlossnagle) Harsh, was scheduled for surgery at Rockingham Memorial Hospital in Harrisonburg, Va., on Feb. 24.

Word was received by relatives here of the death on Feb. 19, 2004, of William "Bill" Edeburn of Fairmont, at the VA hospital in Clarksburg. A son of the late Samuel H. Edeburn and Dorothy Stemple Edeburn, who were residents of Eglon, he was 71. He is survived by his wife, Virgie (Lee) Edeburn of Fairmont. Locally, his brother, Elwood Edeburn of Eglon, and sister, Joyce Dixon of Amboy, are among the survivors.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Army Pfc. Justin L. Simmons graduated from basic combat training on Oct. 24, 2003, at Ft. Knox, Ky.

During the nine-week training course, Simmons received instruction in drill and ceremony, weapons, rifle marksmanship and bayonet training, chemical warfare, field training and tactical exercises, armed and unarmed combat, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history, traditions, and core values. At the present time he is stationed with his unit in Iraq.

Simmons is the son of Allan and Debbie Simmons of Eglon, W.Va. The soldier graduated from Tucker County High School, Hambleton, W.Va., in 2003.

Named To WVU President's List

Kari Anne Harsh of Eglon was recently named to the president's list at West Virginia University for the fall 2003 semester. The English major earned a 4.0 grade-point average.

Harsh was a 2003 graduate of Preston High School, a National Merit Semi-Finalist, and received the Presidential Scholarship to attend WVU, where she now participates in the Honors Program.

She is the daughter of Ronnie and Delores Harsh.

Nutrition Month Seminars Set At Senior Centers

Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging will celebrate National Nutrition Month with two seminars to reinforce the importance of nutrition as a key competent of health, along with physical activity, according to Veronica Padmos, coordinator of the Older Americans Act Programs.

"Healthy eating helps to get the most out of life," said Padmos. "A healthy lifestyle is the key to looking good, feeling great, and being your best at work and play."

One seminar will be held at the Grantsville Senior Center on March 10, and the other will be at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland on March 24. The seminars will start at 8:30 a.m. and end at 12:15 p.m.

The seminars start with a "quick and easy" breakfast tasting and demonstration before keynote speaker Dr. Jennifer Bentlejewski, RD, from the Maryland Extension Office addresses "The Truth About Fad Diets."

Beverly Carvell, also from the Maryland Extension Office, will do an interactive presentation on portion control tips. PACE (People with Arthritis Can Exercise) will be discussed and demonstrated by Elaine Kackley, director of the Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center.

Amy Ritchie, RD, with the Garrett County Health Department will discuss the benefits of eating the proper food to help fight arthritis.

This seminar is free for all ages.

Lunch will be served. A donation is asked of persons 60 and older, and those under 60 will be charged $3.75 for lunch.

For more information or to make a reservation, persons may call 301-334-9431, ext. 140, or toll free at 1-888-877-8403.

No Citations Issued In Single-Vehicle Mishap

The driver was injured, but no citations were issued in a single-vehicle accident Thursday evening on Sand Flat Road near Maryland Highway, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Sarah Pysell, 20, Oakland, lost control of her vehicle on an icy spot in the road when she attempted to avoid another vehicle. Her vehicle struck an embankment and overturned.

Fire and rescue personnel responded to the scene, and Pysell was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment.

In another incident, a juvenile driver lost control of the vehicle on Pysell Crosscut Road, overturned, and struck at tree approximately 10 minutes after the single-vehicle accident on Sand Flat Road, police said.

No charges were filed. The driver and two other juveniles passengers were transported to GCMH by private vehicle.

Todd Vying For Third Term On Oakland Council

Chris Todd is vying for one of three Oakland Town Council seats to be filled in the town's election on Monday, March 8. He previously served two terms on the town council from 1999 to 2003.

During his terms, Todd worked closely on issues concerning the Oakland Cemetery and the Glades Town Park.

"I very much enjoyed my previous terms on the town council and hope to be re-elected to serve again," he said. "Oakland is a great place to live and raise a family, and I would like to be a part of the council that helps to maintain all the positive aspects of the community, while nurturing opportunities to grow in other areas."

Todd has lived in Oakland for 10 years. He is a commercial salesman for Liberty Distributors Inc. and serves Garrett County and surrounding areas. He and his wife Kendra have three children: Landon, Clay, and Kaysi.

Todd's community activities have included involvement with Little League, the Southern Mat Club, and the Mountaintop Soccer Association. He is also a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

FRICTION, GRAVITY, AND SKIING

Q. The ski instructors keep telling me to lean away from the slope, but I'm just naturally inclined to lean inward, keeping my body close to the mountain, which is less scary. Why should I lean outward ?

A. In skiing, nature provides you with two forces, which can each become your friend or your enemy. The way to enjoy the sport is to get these two forces to work together.

Every force is a vector, which means it has a direction as well as a magnitude. The gravity vector g always points straight toward the center of the earth, but we can resolve this vector into two components: one component parallel to the slope, and the other perpendicular to the slope. The mass of your body [m] times gravity [g] gives the force vector known as "weight." The perpendicular component of that force vector holds you to the mountainside, and that force goes under the name of the normal force N. Meanwhile, the parallel component of gravity pulls you down toward the bottom of the hill. The steeper the slope, the greater the parallel component of gravity, and the less the perpendicular component.

Meanwhile, the friction force slows down your skis, and this force always points opposite to the direction you're going – it resists motion, period. If you're zooming along on snow without turning, friction points to the back of your skis. If you're side-slipping down an icy slope, friction points uphill. Change the direction of your skis, and you change the direction of the friction force. Now, the magnitude of the friction force is the product of two numbers: the [coefficient of friction] times the [normal force N ]. The coefficient of friction depends on the snow conditions – fresh powder, icy, whatever. Nature changes that all the time, but you can't change it.

In order to have good control, you want to make that normal force N as large as possible. This means that you want the force vector acting through your feet to be as perpendicular as possible to the surface. By leaning outward away from the mountain, you'll make that perpendicular vector greater.

On the other hand, what happens if you're leaning up against the mountain? The force vector of your weight intersects the mountain at a steeper angle, and so it has a greater downhill component and a smaller component normal to the slope. That condition gives you a smaller friction force, which is proportional to the magnitude of the normal force. That in turn means less traction and less stability, and you tend to sideslip down the hill, often leading to a fall. If you're leaning in toward the mountain, you're making gravity your enemy instead of your friend.

On bunny slopes, none of this matters very much, because the angle of the slope is so small that the normal force N differs very little from your weight (mg). But when you get onto a fairly steep slope, like a 30° angle, and you just stand upright, there's a vector force equal to 50% of your weight pointing down the hill. In that way, you're making gravity your enemy. Tilt your body outward so that it's perpendicular to the slope, and you'll diminish that downhill component. By leaning outward instead of hugging the mountain, you'll change the direction of the forces so that you'll be more stable and in control. You can easily glide down the hill instead of fighting it.

Editor's note: The author, Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen, earned his Ph.D. in physics from M.I.T. On sunny days when "the Face" at Wisp Resort has been groomed and has no moguls, he can be observed careening precariously down that steep slope, incompetently forgetting everything written above.

Loch Lynn Church To Host Evangelist For Youth Rally

The Loch Lynn Church of God has slated a youth rally for 7 p.m. Friday, March 5, with guest evangelist Rev. Bill Snyder of Springfield, Mo. The program will include youth-led worship and drama, and persons of all ages may attend.

Snyder has ministered in several capacities with the Assemblies of God over the past 20 years, including church plantings in Kansas and Florida, and service as campus pastor at Oklahoma State University and as regional director for Chi Alpha Ministries. He currently serves as a national campus recruiter for Chi Alpha. Snyder and his wife Wendy have two children.

The church is located on First Avenue in Loch Lynn. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3221.

THE BIBLE – as viewed from the pew

PERSECUTORS OF THE CHURCH

To those who believe the Bible is a history book, as well as the inspired word of God, I refer you to the Book of Revelation. It was written by John, who also wrote the fourth Gospel and the three short letters of John in the New Testament. John was loved by Jesus. While he was in exile on the Isle of Patmos, John received specific revelations from God. He recorded them, and we now know them as the last book in the Bible, the Book of Revelation.

In Chapter 9, beginning at Verse 3, in Revelation, we see that God is, indeed, in charge, and He will punish those who persecute His children. "And out of the smoke locusts came down upon the earth and were given power like that of scorpions of the earth. They were told not to harm the grass of the earth or any plant or tree, but only those people who did not have the seal of God on their foreheads. They were not given power to kill them, but only to torture them for five months. And the agony they suffered was like that of the sting of a scorpion when it strikes a man. During those days men will seek death, but will not find it; they will long to die, but death will elude them."

My friend, if you are reading this, and do not know Jesus as your LORD and Savior, there is still time for you to make that decision. I recommend that you read the Bible, beginning with the Gospel of John. There you will learn how to acquire eternal life in heaven, rather than an eternity of damnation."

The Judgement of God is coming. Which side will you be on? The decision is yours alone.

THE WISHING WELL
by Lucretia Sines

Kelvin Fearer is a patient at West Penn Hospital because of third-degree burns that he sustained at work. He recently underwent skin grafting and hopes to be home by the end of this week. Cards can be sent to him at 202 Sand Spring Road, Friendsville, MD 21531.

Loretta Harding is a patient at Health South Rehabilitation Center after a minor stroke. Her address is P.O. Box, Friendsville, MD 21531.

Ruth Georg is recuperating after recent surgery. Her address is 770 Bishoff Road, Friendsville, MD 21531.

BIRTHDAY WISHES

Ralph Bowser of Asher Glade will be celebrating his 94th birthday on March 14. Cards can be sent to him at 572 Asher Glade Road, Friendsville, MD 21531.

BLOODMOBILE

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Friendsville fire hall on Monday, March 8, from noon to 6 p.m. Those interested must have their Red Cross Donor Card or two other forms of identification. The need for blood supply is always present. Old and new donors are urged to participate.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

The Friendsville Fireflies and the Snowy Creek 4-H clubs will be sponsoring a spaghetti dinner on Saturday, March 20, from 4 to 7 p.m. The dinner will consist of spaghetti, salad, bread, dessert, and beverage. The price is $5 per adult, $2.50 for ages 5-10, and free for those under the age of 5. Tickets for the dinner can be obtained by contacting any member or also at the door. Proceeds of this event will benefit the Scott and Carol Hunter family, who recently lost their home in a fire.

SCHOOL NEWS

The Friendsville Elementary School recently held its January Academic Pep Rally for students. The Virtue of the Month was "Fairness." Those students who were named as Students of the Month in Fairness were: Leah House, Eric Frazee, Patrick Sines, Derrica Friend, Isiah Smith, Cordel Yoder, Haley Hardesty, and Ryan Stripling. Those students recognized for being "On the Right Track" were Nicole Collins, Nicole Tichinel, Zach Friend, Tyler Ireland, Tiffany Glover, Jacob Rosenberger, Michael Rodeheaver, and Kendra Friend.

There will be no school for students on Tuesday, March 2, for the primary elections.

Fourth graders will be taking the MSA tests on Feb. 25, 26, 27, and March 1. Third and fifth graders will be testing on March 1, 3, 4, and 5. Parents are reminded to please make sure that students are well rested and attend school on those days.

First and second graders will be visiting Hickory Center on Thursday, March 4.

Jump Rope for Heart will be held Friday, March 19.

There will be a noon dismissal for students on Friday, March 19.

Kindergarten registration is under way again. Any child who will turn 5 years old by October 31 is eligible for kindergarten placement. A form was sent home to parents who are reminded to fill it out and send it back in. Pre-K registration is also available after March 1 by calling the office or stopping in for an appointment and interview form. The actual registration will begin in the middle of August.

SNOWY CREEK 4-H CLUB

The next meeting of the Snowy Creek 4-H Club will be held Thursday, March 11, at the Friendsville Elementary School at 6:30 p.m. The program will be about forestry.

NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH

The next sled-riding party for youth over the age of 10 will be held this Friday, Feb. 27, at Herrington Manor State Park. A bus will leave Friendsville Elementary School at 5 p.m. and is scheduled to return back to the school at 8:30 p.m. The first 20 to register will receive a free "Play Hard, Live Clean" hat. This event is for youth ages 4-18. Those under the age of 9 need accompaniment by an adult. For more information, persons may contact JoAnn Ross at 301-746-4210.

The annual Easter Egg hunt has been scheduled for April 4 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the town park for ages 1 through 12.

The next meeting of the Neighborhood Watch will be held Wednesday, March 10, at 6:30 p.m. in the Friendsville Elementary School cafeteria.

WING NIGHT

Wing Night will not be held this Friday, Feb. 26, so that the Friendsville Fire Dept. can prepare for Saturday's Gun Bash. Wing Night will continue next Friday, March 5, from 6 to 9 p.m.

WALKING PROGRAM

"Walkways," a walking program sponsored by Maryland Cooperative Extension, is conducting four two-hour sessions to teach more about walking and healthy eating. These four sessions will be held at the Friendsville Senior Center. The remaining three sessions will be held on March 16, April 20, and May 18, all beginning at 1 p.m. For more information or to register, persons may call 301-334-6960.

RECYCLING NEWS

Friday, March 5, will be recycling day for the residents of Friendsville. Residents are encouraged to continue their support of this project by saving newspapers, glass, and aluminum cans. Items to be picked up should be at curbside by 9 a.m. on the first Friday of every month. Because of inclement weather, they were unable to collect the recyclables on the first of February. The town appreciates all cooperation and patience in these unforeseen incidents.

HEARING SLATED

A public hearing will be held Tuesday, March 9, at the town hall at 7:30 p.m. The topic will be the Somerfield Cable Franchise, and a representative will be there to speak and answer questions. Residents will have the option of receiving cable services from either Somerfield or continue with Adelphia.

IT'S ALL DOWNHILL FROM FRIENDSVILLE when sledding with the Friendsville Community Watch organization. Last month, on one of the coldest nights of the winter to date, the group sponsored a free sled-riding outing and hot dog roast at Herrington Manor State Park. The 21 participants shared a bus ride to the park, and each received a free toboggan displaying the organization's new theme of "Play Hard, Live Clean" as part of its effort against underage drinking. A second sled-riding party is planned for Friday, Feb. 27. The first 20 to register will receive a free toboggan. Any interested youth in Friendsville over the age of 10 may call 301-334-7730, ext. 6534, to request a registration form. Shown in the front row, from the left, are Hershell Allen, Austin Lowdermilk, Emiley Capel, Chris Paugh, Brittany Burgess, Cathy Williams, and Sharyl Coddington. In the back row are Jo Ann Ross, Wendy Allen, Desiree Groom, Sarah Friend, Sonya Thomas, Shayna Kitchen, Holly Wampler, Jonathan Williams, and Christy Thomas. Friendsville Community Watch is sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department.

KOREAN WAR ERA VETERANS WANTED IMMEDIATELY!

Paul Shogren 334-1386 immediately!

First meeting March 11, 10 am, at Southern High School Library

PROTECTING YOUR CHILD'S TEETH WITH DENTAL SEALANTS

Children's Dental Health Month February 1-29

As teeth develop, grooves form on the chewing surfaces of back teeth. These grooves – or pits and fissures – are very narrow and can't be cleaned with regular tooth brushing. Consequently, they make a great hiding place for food particles and bacteria, setting the stage for tooth decay.

Dental sealants can help prevent cavities on chewing surfaces. Sealants are thin plastic coatings applied to the chewing surfaces of back teeth. The plastic acts as a barrier, keeping food and bacteria out, and protecting teeth from decay.

Your dentist can apply sealants without any anesthetic in just a few minutes. Once the teeth have been cleaned, the dentist prepares the chewing surfaces with a special solution to allow the sealant to adhere. The dentist then applies the sealant onto the tooth. The sealant hardens within seconds and can protect the tooth from decay. Regular dental visits are important so that the dentist can determine if the sealants are intact.

Your child's permanent molars should erupt anywhere between the ages of 6 and 8, so it's never too early to talk to your dentist about the value of sealants. In addition to getting sealants, your child can work toward a healthy smile by:

1. Brushing twice a day with an ADA-accepted fluoride toothpaste;
2. Cleaning between the teeth daily using floss or an inter-dental cleaner;
3. Eating a balanced diet and limiting snacks; and
4. Visiting a dentist regularly.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

It seems like a few people that I talked to last week remarked, "Winter's back is broken." Then all of a sudden we are right back into winter weather again. But maybe not in the middle, as we couldn't have another six months of snow and cold even in Bittinger. It is a real possibility that a snow event can show up even in June, but not enough to close your lane or cause any real problems with driving. We are presently in the season of icy driving. While the daytime sunshine melts the snow on the road, the night bottoms off into ice. If the road looks so innocent, don't be fooled, as you really can possibly come across some vicious conditions.

Pastor Pat Pittsnogle is away attending a Family Systems workshop at Massanetta Springs, Harrisonburg, Va. Not even Bittinger is free of family problems, as no place is when it has families like the many we have here.

Margaret Hershberger Wagner was hospitalized for several days taking all kind of tests to try to get to the bottom of some problems she has been experiencing. She came home on Monday, but is resting and not quite up to having visitors yet.

Our sister congregation, Zion in Jennings, is celebrating the 95th anniversary of the church, and had a worship and praise service on Sunday morning. The church was organized on February 28, 1909. Zion, like my Aunt Helen, have had only 20 actual anniversary days so they share this special day. Of course, she is a little older than her 20 birthdays show because of a birthday only every four years (leap years). It is rough when you are a kid, but once you are fully grown it is not so bad.

It is already time for Lent, which means, of course, Wednesday evening church service at Emmanuel at 7:30 p.m. Holy Communion was celebrated at this service, along with the imposition of ashes.

The funeral for Phyllis Vitez is over without me. It seems to be hard to have the courage to face funerals anymore, as they have come too close to myself. Maybe it is because when I was in a coma in 1994 I dreamed about my own funeral. But I know how many people are deeply grieved by the passing of Phyllis, as many people told me last week on the phone. It seems not fair sometimes what fate delivers with loads of suffering in the lives of many faithful, but who have strong character to bear it. In the last 20 years or so, Phyllis had to deal with the death of her mother, the tragic death of her young son, and a serious accident that resulted in serious injury to her husband. She did not quit when it got too hard. She never failed to give me some encouraging words when we happened to meet.

Life is not fair. Don't believe the people who say, "You reap what you sow." Perhaps that is true once in a while, but mainly not true. I know the Beatle song that said, "In the end, the love you take is equal to the love you make." I gave 20 times more love than I got back. Another wise false saying is, "If you try hard enough you can do anything you set your mind on." That is the worst lie of all. There is very little you can do alone unless you have the right help, cooperation, etc., and sometimes, even luck. The only ones who say "life is fair" are those who have everything going right now. If they believe they deserve their good fortunes, perhaps they may have an ugly shock around the corner.

Today was another two-hour delay for schools in Garrett County, with another few inches of new snow and more treacherous driving. Yesterday I got another delivery of fuel oil! I believed the tank was about empty, and Willison Oil of Cumberland responded instantly. They provide excellent service and friendly service, too. It is much better to deal with a business which knows you on a first-name basis and knows your personal circumstances.

I am a loyal customer and big booster of Garrett Automotive. I called and said I needed a major miracle car repair, and immediately Bill is trying to find a decent, used, affordable engine. But it is still not installed yet, so I am still grounded; not that I really want to go anywhere in this weather. The ice was a real obstacle last Sunday morning on the way to church. This coming Sunday morning after church the Mission Task Group will give its primary report.

Next week the Northern High Marching Band will head south for their annual big trip to Disney World in Florida. They will lead the parade on Saturday night at Disney. The band members are still busy with their final fund-raisings and practicing before they enjoy several days in warm climate and sunshine.

I am pleased that the basketball season at Northern is just about finished, as the kids will be home more and not running all around the area to cheer their friends and cousins on to victory. Last week, the final game at Westmar had a somewhat disappointing result. Scotty Bass on the JV team made an outstanding last-minute desperation shot a little past half-court that went sailing in the net for a three-pointer at the end of the game. Although it did not affect the final result in the game, it was exciting to see it go through the net.

Several months ago Lea Stanton told me on the phone that she hopes that her husband Michael might be able to get a transfer to an air force base in Ohio, which would be close enough to home so she would be able to visit more often. I heard a rumor that she might just get her wish this summer, just in time for the wedding of her good friend, Leslie Buckel.

It never ceases to amaze me how fast our kids grow up. I am sure every mother wishes it would not be that way. Those precious childhood years are far too short. Even mothers with grown-up daughters are still very close to them and still longing for the day when a mother can fix any hurt with a hug and kiss. It is as close to God's status as possible for a human being, and any mother would be happy to take away the suffering of her children on herself if she could. But only Christ had that privilege. As one of my former students who was very smart and wise told me when I was agonizing about that I was not a "perfect mother" told me, "There is no such thing as a perfect parent; only those with good enough patience."

Of course, she was not a mother yet or else she would know that for a mother, only perfect is good enough for her dear children. Every hurt they may have a mother feels as much as they do, or if they make a mistake it must be their fault. Motherhood is the hardest job in the world. The world is such a scary place when you know your child is there without you beside them and every mile away they are from you seems like a hundred times; every day away seems like a year.

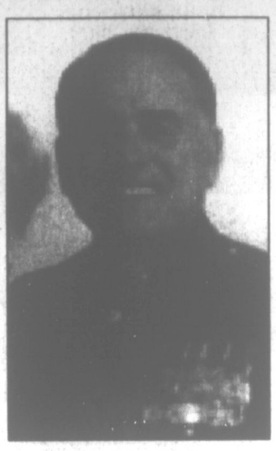
The worst thing about my lengthy hospital stay in 1994 was the separation from my children. Even though it was less than a year, even now it seems like I was away for their whole dear childhood. The worst thing about my illness was they were too young to really remember me when I was healthy and happy. I am afraid they never had a chance to know the real me. That is the most cruel twist of it all. It seems like every hour I should tell them how much I love them and that means, of course, when they are on a trip, it is pure havoc. To not be able to reach out and touch them as much as I want is just very painful. So I guess next week will be pretty hard to stand. Even when they are only across Meadow Mountain at 4-H Camp it is hard for me to bear.

Now I have to watch Claire make the big college decision. I can't believe it is already time for that. Now I know what I must have put my parents through when I was young. The kind and number of risky behaviors, especially participating in one of the riskiest sports in the world, "Eventing," in which any jump on a cross country course is a potential neck-breaking opportunity, or hitch-hiking in Europe, or moving to what most people believe is the most dangerous city, New York.

I now regret the anxiety I must have caused to my Mother and Daddy. I am glad I kept in touch with them as much as possible wherever I had gone. No matter how exciting and wonderful the place I was, I always was homesick at least a little bit. I could hardly stand to stay at the University of Maryland, even for one weekend. As Aunt Betty pointed out when she was at college in Westminster, she only could get home at Christmas. I don't think I could stand that when I was at college, and not when my girls go away. Even now after a whole life someplace else, my aunts seem to still think of our family farm as "home." The hill, fields, and woods hold so many memories of people, some who have already gone. If love some way saturated where it existed, these acres must be glowing with endless love. So many generations loved across the generations and much love even between species. I can remember dozens of bovines, equines, dogs, and cats that received and gave love to their human companions. I guess that really what a home is made of is love.

My nephew, Robbie Glotfelty, was a member of the Honor Band at West Virginia University on Saturday. He was one of five students who represented Northern High School. His dad Rodney and grandmother Ruth attended the concert. This is the second year that Robbie participated in the WVU Honor Band.

MLP Church To Host Evangelist, Decorated Vet



Evangelist and decorated Vietnam War veteran Dr. Chuck Cofty will be the featured guest speaker at a wild game dinner slated for 5 p.m. Saturday, March 6, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. The dinner is sponsored by the Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church, and the following day, Sunday, March 7, Cofty will preach at each of the church's three Sunday services, at 9:45 and 10:45 a.m., and 7 p.m. The Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church is located along Broadford Road.

During three years of Vietnam War service Cofty participated in 16 major ground operations. He received the Bronze Star with Combat V, Combat Action Ribbon, Purple Heart, Meritorious Service Medal, Navy and Marine Corps Commendation, and two Presidential Unit citations. After 22 years in the military, he retired at the rank of major and began pursuing a formal Bible education.

While lecturing on tactics during a cross service assignment with the U.S. Army in the Arizona desert, Cofty founded and pastored the Huachuca Independent Baptist Church (later Grace Baptist) of Sierra Vista, Ariz., where he served until he was transferred to the Hampton Roads area of Virginia. He has also served as a pastor in Decatur, Ala. Cofty left the pastorship to enter full-time evangelism with his own Sharper Sword Ministries.

During his military career, Cofty attended several colleges and universities as he studied the field of behavioral science. He later earned a bachelor's degree in church administration and a doctor of divinity degree from the San Francisco Baptist Theological Seminary.

For further information on the wild game dinner or services at the Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3234.

Missionary To Native Americans To Speak In MLP

Rev. Mel Erickson, a nationally appointed Assemblies of God home missionary to the American Indians, will be speaking at 6 p.m. this Sunday, Feb. 29, the Mt. Top Christian Assembly of God Church in Mtn. Lake Park.

Erickson is the coordinator of Native American Ministries in North Dakota, where he works with pastors of Native American churches and oversees many activities, one of which is a summer outreach program to Indian reservations. That program features an outreach training camp, where volunteers learn evangelizing skills before going out to the reservations to conduct missionary work. These volunteers have presented videos, shared personal witnessing, and distributed thousands of Bibles and other items of Christian literature.

Erickson has coordinated the building of 11 new church buildings since 1994 on reservations in North Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, South Dakota, and Oklahoma. He has recruited the volunteer labor of "Maps groups" and recreational vehicle enthusiasts, and also conducted much of the fund raising for those projects.

Erickson and his wife Corliss both graduated from North Central Bible College in Minneapolis, Minn., and reside in Minot, N.D. They served as missionaries on the Ft. Totten Indian Reservation with the Devils Lake Sioux Tribe in North Dakota for 20 years. They raised their family there. They have six grown children and 18 grandchildren. They adopted three Indian children and have also nurtured many foster children.

The Mt. Top Christian Assembly of God is located at 2655 Maryland Highway, next to 84 Lumber. For further information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-8422.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE
OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
308 CHESTNUT ST.
FRIENDSVILLE, MD 21531

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Lonnie Folk and Darla R. Folk, dated March 21, 2002 and recorded in Liber 910, Folio 725 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., at the Court House Door, Oakland, on

MARCH 5, 2004 AT 10:00 AM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $6,000 in the form of cash, certified check, or in any other form suitable to the Substitute Trustees in their sole discretion, shall be required at the time of sale, except no deposit shall be required of the secured party, its successors or assigns. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited and the property may be resold at the purchaser's risk and expense. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The purchaser is responsible for any amount in excess of $500 of outstanding water bills, if any, incurred prior to date of sale. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. In the event the sale is not ratified for any reason, the purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit. Additional terms, if any, to be announced at sale. Purchaser agrees to pay $245.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents.

Special Events Coordinator
Garrett County Chamber of Commerce

If you have great people skills, are a team player, and can juggle a number of tasks in a very demanding environment, this may be just the job for you. Guaranteed for at least ONE YEAR, 40 hours per week, this full-time position with benefits (after a 90-day probation period), starts April 1, 2004, and is located in Oakland and McHenry. This is a progressively professional position in a fast-growing industry.

Successful candidate will be responsible for working with Garrett County organizations, municipalities, and Chamber of Commerce "partners" on creating, organizing, advertising, staging, executing, and evaluating Special Events. The Special Events include existing ones, such as Autumn Glory, the County Fair, and the Highland Festival. "Partners" include Chamber members, non-profit organizations, institutions, ad hoc committees, or any group that is attracting or has the potential to attract large groups of visitors to Garrett County. Position reports to Chamber senior staff.

Minimum Position Requirements:

- Good competency with Microsoft Word and preferred experience in Excel
- Excellent management skills with emphasis on events management/promotion
- Detail-oriented with good organizational skills
- Excellent communication skills.
- Flexibility to work occasional weekends with some out-of-town travel
- Knowledge of events' logistics and market competition
- Proven grassroots organizational skills and volunteer recruitment management
- Enthusiasm for promoting Garrett County as a tourism attraction

Position offers:

Competitive salary with benefits including holidays and sick days with paid vacation, health insurance, and simple IRA after initial probationary period.

To apply, send resumé to: Deb@garrettchamber.com or Deb Clatterbuck, 15 Visitors Center Drive, McHenry, MD 21541, by March 12, and be prepared to start training April 1st.

IF IF IF. ALL ALL ALL

If you will seek the Lord and be converted every day; If you will of your own spiritual choice be free and joyous in God; If with gladsome consent of heart to His gracious call you come wearing the yoke of Christ - the yoke of obedience and service - All your murmurings will be stilled, All your difficulties will be removed; All the perplexing problems that now confront you will be solved.

Children's Programming Slated To Start At Grantsville Library

The Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library has announced that children's programming will begin in mid-March. In the past, the only children's programming at the library was the Summer Reading Club. Now, with the aid of a federally funded grant as well as the extra space available in the new building, the library is able to provide children's programming from mid-March through the end of June 2004, according to a library spokesperson.

This year the Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library obtained a Library Services and Technology Act grant, which was a $40,000 grant to introduce library programming for children ages 5 and under in the Grantsville Library service area.

The goal of the grant, called the Grantsville Grows grant, is to improve literacy and pre-literacy skills in young children through library programs and services for children ages birth to 5 and their caregivers. The federal grant provides books, other materials, and furniture for the new Grantsville Library.

Close to 500 children's picture or easy books, as well as a small number of literacy resource books for parents and caregivers, will be added to the Grantsville library collection as part of the grant.

Other materials added to the library will include flannel boards and stories, story telling props, reading manipulatives, and children's music compact discs. The grant also provides for a project director to help administer the grant, and plan and present children's programs at the new library.

As a part of the grant project, the project director and library officials conducted a needs assessment survey in the Grantsville area from mid-December 2003 to the end of January 2004.

The needs assessment survey asked parents, grandparents and caregivers of children ages birth to 5 the most desirable types of programs for the needs of the Grantsville community and the most convenient times and days for the community to attend library programs. The survey also asked what children's picture books survey respondents would like the library to add to its collection.

The information gathered from these surveys was used to plan children's programming and services at the Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library.

The children's programs will include preschool story hour, family story hour, and special events. Preschool story hour will be on alternate Tuesday mornings from 11 to 11:45 a.m., beginning March 23.

Preschool story hour is designed for children ages 3 to 5 and their caregivers and will follow guidelines suggested by the Johns Hopkins University Center for Reading Excellence.

Family story hour will be on alternate Monday evenings from 7 to 7:45 p.m., beginning March 29.

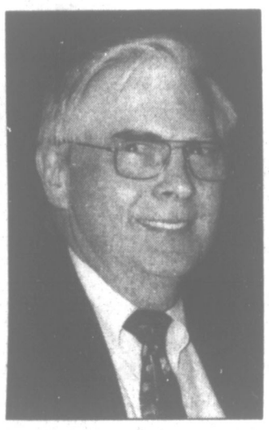
Special events programs will be announced when the library has more information. The library plans on providing one special events program per month from March to June 2004.

Family story hour and special events programs will be geared to children ages birth to 5 and their caregivers because of the requirements of the grant, but children of all ages are invited to attend with their families.

All children will have another chance to enjoy activities at the library this spring when the Grantsville branch will hold its grand opening on Friday, April 16, from 3 to 6 p.m. Activities will include performances by local school music departments, face painting of story book characters, and children's book readings by county commissioners, library staff, and others.

Persons with questions about children's programming and services at the Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library may call Emily Townsend at the library, 301-895-5298, or e-mail Emily@relib.net.

Naumann Given Title Of Certified Medical Director



The board of directors of the American Medical Directors Association (AMDA) Certification Program recently announced that Walter Naumann of Accident has been granted the title of Certified Medical Director in Long Term Care (CMD). The AMDA CMD program reinforces quality of care to residents in nursing home facilities. Dr. Naumann is one of 64 physicians who have completed the CMD requirements in 2003.

The CMD was implemented to enhance the profession of medical direction and to reinforce the leadership role of the medical director in providing quality care. The CMD program recognizes the clinical and administrative roles of the medical director and requires indicators of competence in both areas. Certification is based on experience that incorporates fellowship programs, board certification in a medical specialty, American Medical Directors Association sponsored comprehensive courses in medical direction, continuing education programs, and administrative experience.

Naumann has provided care to residents in nursing homes since 1980, and currently serves as the medical director for Cuppett & Weeks Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, Oakland, and Dennett Road Manor Skilled Nursing Facility, Oakland.

He and his wife Sandra live in Accident, where he has his private practice. He also serves residents at Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville, and Cortland Acres Nursing Facility, Thomas, W.Va.

Last Day To File Set For Oakland Town Elections

The last day to file for office in the Oakland Municipal Election is Friday, Feb. 27, at 4 p.m.

Oakland municipal election will be held Monday, March 8, with polls open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The mayor and three council members will be elected. The terms will expire for Asa McCain, mayor; and Kenneth Gotsch, Margaret Jamison, and Mary Lou Stemple, councilpersons.

Others now serving are Frank Custer, Lynn McDaniel, and Harvey "Jay" Moyer.

Any resident of Oakland over the age of 18 may register to vote in the municipal election at Oakland City Hall during regular office hours until 4:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 27. The town of Oakland maintains a separate register of voters; however, if persons have registered at the county Board of Elections after Jan. 1, 1990, and are a resident of Oakland they are automatically qualified to vote in the municipal election.

The deadline for obtaining absentee ballots is Monday, March 1, at 4 p.m.

IT'S THEIR FAULT – Everybody knows there's no surer way to bring rain than washing cars, so today's wet weather can be blamed on all these folks who were lined up to give their vehicles a bath this week. It was indeed a beautiful week to be outside, to rinse away all the dust and dirt and begin to think of spring. Car washes in every town were crowded for days as folks took advantage of the warmth. The balmy temps were just an appetizer, though. Snow will be back, as all Garrett Countians know, and is actually predicted for this weekend. Such is life on the mountaintop. Photo by John McEwen.

Oakland Bypass Project Garners Additional Funds

A recent addition of $1.5 million to the proposed Oakland bypass project could move construction along quicker than previously expected given the state's tenuous budget situation, according to local and state officials. Last month's decision by the Maryland Department of Transportation was fueled by a review of agency income that determined extra money was available from the existing coffer, and by prodding from House minority leader Del. George Edwards of Garrett County.

Earmarked for the design phase of the project, the new money will allow engineers with the consultant team of Whitney, Bailey, Cox, and Magnani and DMJM-Harris to begin designing the roadway as early as the middle of this month. Their initial work will include studies of the environmental impacts of the project. The funding represents slightly less than half of the projected $3.7 million needed to fully complete the road design, State Highway Administration officials said.

The additional money will not be require an increase in transportation revenues, as it comes from money already in the SHA budget. The $1.5 million could have gone anywhere in the state, but Edwards's efforts were the deciding factor in securing the funds for the local project, which has been listed as the "top transportation priority" of the Garrett County commissioners and the town of Oakland for a number of years.

"About the most forceful I've ever seen George Edwards speak is when he addresses the need for an Oakland bypass," Oakland mayor Asa McCain remarked of the delegate's advocacy for the project. "He's spelled out the need in no uncertain terms many times for state officials, and has worked hard for the idea. He deserves full credit for pushing this along."

Edwards, who has often pointed out that the last major new road project in the county dates back to the completion of Interstate 68 nearly three decades ago, was characteristically understated speaking of his own efforts. "I've been talking to the transportation people for a long time about

HEAVYWEIGHT REGIONAL CHAMP — It was a close match in the heavyweight final of the 1A/2A West Region high school wrestling tournament, held last weekend at Smithsburg, but Southern High School's Dan Goulart (pictured above) emerged as the regional champion in that division by eking out a 2-1 decision win over Andrew Pressnell of Middletown High School. Goulart, who is now ranked #2 in the entire state in his division and sporting a personal season record of 28-5, will lead a group of six Garrett County grapplers to the Maryland state championship this weekend at College Park. Other regional champions from the county are Goulart's teammate Scott Wildesen and Casey Kamp of Northern High School. Wildesen won the 160-pound division title and is ranked #1 in the state in his division with a record of 28-3. Kamp is 28-1 and is also the state's top-ranked grappler in the 103-pound division. Also qualifying for the state event by finishing among the top four at the regional tourney are Southern's Daniel Carr and Nathan Sines, and Northern's Eric Garlitz. ## Citizens, Opinions Fill GC Hall As Lake's Future Is Examined

A large lecture hall at Garrett College was filled Monday night with an overflow crowd of well over 100, as full- and part-time area residents, business owners, and employees of lake oriented industry offered their opinions on the future of the Deep Creek Lake area. The session, which was moderated by county planning director John Nelson, gave citizens a formal opportunity to identify growth and development issues and voice concerns that were heard by a representative of Environmental Resources Management (ERM), the private consulting firm charged by the Garrett County commissioners with examining the lake area's growth.

ERM is slated to study the issue into December, at which point the consultant will offer a range of recommendations for the county commissioners to consider as they guide the lake's future. "The commissioners have identified three priorities for the lake's future as the ERM study proceeds," Nelson told the audience in his opening remarks. "One, to ensure continued economic growth in the lake area; two, to maintain the environmental quality of the lake and its watershed; and three, to maintain a high quality of life in the area."

While the comments of the approximately 30 citizens who actually spoke touched on all three of those issues, the predominant theme expressed was evident concern that the lake area's development was nearing "critical mass," as area resident Randy McCloud put it. "No one years ago thought Ocean City or Gatlinburg, Tennessee, would look like they do today," McCloud said. "Do we want Route 219 to look

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Gears Up For 2004 Season

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) is gearing up for an "extraordinary 2004 season," according to Beth Johnson, executive director.

The mission of the organization is to bring high-quality performing arts and arts education to Garrett County. Tickets are now available by contacting the GLAF office Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at 301-387-3082.

Complete information is available on the GLAF web site at www.artsandentertainment.org.

Season sponsors for GLAF are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Deep Creek Mountain Resort, and the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. Funding is also made possible, in part, by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Grand Dérangement will kick off the season on Friday, April 2, at 8 p.m.

Daniel LeBlanc's desire to produce contemporary traditional music brought him to develop an innovative concept of high-energy Celtic dance and Acadian music. "The crew embarks on a voyage to give one school performance plus a dynamic event for the community at the Garrett College Auditorium," said Johnson.

Tickets are $15 for adults and $5 for youth (12 and younger). Sponsor partners for this performance are Garrett Self Storage and Total Biz Fulfillment.

The Mum Puppettheatre of Philadelphia will present The Velveteen Rabbit on Saturday, May 1, at 7 p.m.

This classic story of childhood and love is Mum's signature family show, which has "made audiences all over the world gasp with delight to see a stuffed toy become real," said Johnson.

The performance includes hand puppets, rod

Highland Fest Plans Taking Shape For June

Plans are under way for the upcoming 17th McHenry Highland Festival, which is slated for Friday through Sunday, June 4-6, at locations in McHenry and Deer Park. As in years past, the 2004 Highland Fest will feature music, dancing, games, demonstrations, and displays, along with several new activities, including a golf tournament.

The annual event is becoming a springtime version of the Autumn Glory Festival, according to event coordinator Jerry McGee, who noted that although rain soaked festival-goers last year, the 2003 Highland Festival still proved to be a success. "Last year's rainy beginning to the festival was not a great deterrent, proving that the fest can be successful in spite of the weather," McGee said. "The rain did not dampen spirits for long, as performances continued and activities were moved inside buildings. After surviving that experience, board members are making sure they are prepared for whatever Mother Nature offers."

Hearing Set For Salem Children's Trust Funding

The Senate Budget and Taxation Committee will conduct a public hearing for SB 609 on Monday, March 8, at 11 a.m. in Annapolis.

Introduced by Senator John Hafer, the proposed legislation asks that a state debt of $500,000 be created for the Maryland Salem Children's Trust Inc. Located near Frostburg, the nonprofit corporation's main goal is to provide a Christian home and therapeutic environment for neglected and emotionally disturbed children.

The grant, which requires matching funding, would be used for the construction and capital equipping of a school building with classrooms, kitchen and dining room, media center, mobile computer lab, therapy room, art and music room, restrooms, and community room.

Persons wishing to testify on the bill may call Hafer in Annapolis toll free at 800-492-7122, ext. 3565.

Delegate George Edwards has crossfiled the bill as HB 809. The House Appropriations Committee, however, has yet to schedule a public hearing.

DOWNTOWN OAKLAND UNDER WATER — Today's rains and melting snows have significantly raised the level of local streams and rivers, which is also what happened the day that this photo was taken on Liberty Street in Oakland. However, at that time the town was not protected by several flood control dams. The submerged automobiles indicate that the photo was probably taken in the mid-1930s. The background is a view of Second Street, looking south from the intersection of Liberty and Green streets. The dark building right in the center is none other than that of Sincell Publishing Inc. ## Unofficial Results From Tuesday's Election Released

The Garrett County Elections Board has released the unofficial results from the county's 19 precincts following Tuesday's presidential primary. Only about 24 percent of the nearly 17,000 registered Garrett County voters cast a ballot.

Incumbent George W. Bush received 2,475 votes, or 100 percent of the local Republican ballot, for president. Among Democrats, John F. Kerry won with 708 votes, or 53.51 percent. John Edwards received 429 votes, or 32.43 percent of the local Democratic vote. All the other Democratic candidates for president received less than 40 votes.

For the U.S. Senate race, Republican E.J. Pipkin received 590 votes, or 31.94 percent of the ballot. His closest competitor was John Stafford with 366 votes, or 19.82 percent of the local Republican vote. Democrat incumbent Barbara A. Mikulski easily defeated her challengers with 1,086 votes, or 86.26 percent of her party's ballot. Her closest competitor was A. Robert Kaufman with 125 votes.

In the U.S. Congressional race, Republican incumbent Roscoe R. Bartlett received 2,021 votes, or 76.35 percent of the ballot. His challenger, Scott L. Rolle, had only 626 votes from Garrett County Republicans. Kenneth T. Bosley won the local Democratic ticket with 293 votes, or 29.48 percent of the ballot,

Oakland's New Third Street Bridge Could Be Completed By Spring '05

A new Third Street bridge could be constructed in Oakland by next spring – that is if an agreement can be reached with CSX, the Maryland Historical Trust gives its final approval, and bids for construction are advertised soon.

The Garrett County commissioners, Oakland mayor Asa McCain, and engineer Dwight Emory of the county's roads department met this week to discuss the project.

"Let's get this thing going," said Gregg. He noted that replacing the closed CSX owned bridge has been an ongoing issue for about five years. Several items have delayed construction of a replacement bridge, including issues with CSX, property owners, funding sources, and the Maryland Historical Trust, as well as disagreements between the county and town.

"We're closer than we've ever been," said Emory about completing the project. Final structural plans were submitted this week and traffic flow plans will be submitted next week to the required authorities, he said.

Bids for construction could be advertised by the end of April, and if construction starts this fall, the bridge could be finished in six months, Emory said. He stressed, however, that he could not give any definite date for project completion.

SHS, NHS Bands Allocated $5,000 For New Uniforms

The Garrett County commissioners this week allocated a $5,000 grant to each of the county's high school bands for FY 2005. The funding is earmarked specifically for band uniforms.

The funding follows last week's request by the Southern High School Band Boosters for financial help in purchasing new uniforms. To replace the band's current 17-year-old attire will cost the boosters $31,000, or $403 for each uniform.

The boosters recently made a $10,000 down payment on the garments and are conducting several fundraisers to pay off the remainder of their bill.

The Northern High School Band recently purchased new uniforms. Its $5,000 will be kept in an account for future uniform purchases.

Fall Bear Hunt Proposals To Be Presented At Beall On March 10

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Wildlife and Heritage Service will host a public meeting from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, March 10, to announce plans for a proposed black bear hunt that would take place this fall. The meeting will take place in the auditorium of Beall High School, located along East Main Street in Frostburg.

Details of the proposed regulations will be presented and public comments specific to the proposed bear-hunting regulations will be taken at the session. Public comments will also be accepted via e-mail at customerservice@dnr.state.md.us, or via the U.S. Postal Service at Black Bear Project, 1728 King's Run Road, Oakland, MD 21550. The comment period ends April 2.

The proposed black bear-hunting season is a split-season that is scheduled to take place Monday through Saturday, Oct. 25-30 and Dec. 6-11, in Garrett County and that portion of Allegany County that lies west of Evitt's Creek.

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED BEAR HUNT REGS.

•Hunting Hours — 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset.

•Licensing and Stamp Requirements — A regular hunting license, junior hunting license, senior hunting license or nonresident hunting license is required to hunt black bear. In addition to holding one of the above hunting licenses, black bear hunters must purchase a black bear hunting permit. Hunters entitled to hunt without a license must purchase a black bear hunting permit.

•Bag Limit — Only one bear may be harvested between any "permittee" and "subpermittee" team of hunting partners. A hunter may kill no more than one bear per season.

•Legal Hunting Devices — Any weapon/ammunition that is legal to harvest a deer is legal to harvest a black bear (including rifle, shotgun, muzzleloader, handgun, and archery equipment including a crossbow).

•Dogs — Dogs cannot be used to hunt black bear. However, trained tracking dogs may be used to find dead or wounded bears. The dog handler must maintain physical control of the tracking dog at all times and only the hunter may carry a firearm or bow while tracking the bear. Prior to tracking the bear, the hunter must notify by

Seminar To Address Income Potential Of Native Plants, Herbs, and Flowers

Local and regional experts on flowers, herbs, and native plants will conduct seminars on marketing and professional gardening techniques during the upcoming Rural Enterprises Conference at Garrett College, set for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, March 27. The conference is being sponsored by the Garrett-Preston Rural Development Coalition (RDC).

The specific topics that will be discussed are: the production and marketing of cut flowers the uses of native plants; using herbs to produce natural health care products; and the creation of herbal and honey-based products.

Bob and Sally Ambrose will discuss the production and marketing of cut flowers. The Ambroses grow vegetables and approximately 2 acres of cut flowers on Ridgeview Acres Farm, in Stahlstown, Pa., including annuals, perennials, and woody ornamentals in a combination of open fields and greenhouses. They sell their fresh vegetables, cut flowers, and dried flower products at the Ligonier Country Market and to country clubs, grocery stores, retail florists, and floral wholesalers.

Liz McDowell and Ron Boyer of locally-based Elkridge Nature Works will explain how they custom design ecotours, outdoor classes, and nature programs, and raise native plants in their nursery. During a seminar titled "Native Plant Opportunities," McDowell and Boyer will explain how to enhance biodiversity by creating one's own rain garden, butterfly garden, or backyard habitat using native plants.

Garrett College agriculture program director Willie Lantz will profile the college's Alternative Agriculture Center as he outlines commercial opportunities for growing native plants. Using funds from the Maryland Rural Council, Lantz oversees a project involving the growing of native plants for use by a commercial nursery and as a study of climate and soils. This and other opportunities for growers will be discussed.

Rustic Class owner Tammy Perrine of Homer, W.Va., will present a seminar titled "Herbs from the Ground Up." Using herbs she grows or purchases from other growers, Perrine makes a line of natural body care products, which she sells under the Mountain Clear label. Working with massage therapists, she recently developed massage oils to add to her product line.

Nancy Elizabeth Nimmich of Honey Grace Farm in Oakland will speak about her experiences in the field of herb gardening. Nimmich and her business partner Madonna Pool produce herbs and honey, herbal products including soothing salves and herbal honey, and beeswax candles.

The conference is presented by RDC in cooperation with Garrett College, GCNet, Maryland Cooperative Extension, West Virginia University Extension Service, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and Sincell Publishing/ The Republican.

For more information on the Rural Enterprises Conference, persons may contact Cheryl DeBerry at 301-334-6960 or visit the Web site www.morefarm money-.com.

DAYLONG SEMINAR SET FOR "BUDDING" ENTREPRENUERS — The growing opportunities for starting a new business or raising additional income by producing, packaging, and marketing flowers, herbs, and native plants will be highlighted during the upcoming Rural Enterprises Conference, set for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 27, at Garrett College. Local and regional experts including Ron Boyer , shown above, of Elkridge Nature Works will discuss topics including the production and marketing of cut flowers the uses of native plants; using herbs to produce natural health care products; and the creation of herbal and honey-based products. The Garrett-Preston Rural Development Coalition is sponsoring the event, and for information persons may call Cheryl DeBerry at 301-334-6960 or consult the Web site www.morefarmmoney.com. ## Grantsville Youth Charged In Three-Vehicle Accident

A chain-reaction accident that occurred on Durst Road Saturday injured a Pennsylvania woman, according to the Maryland State Police, who charged a Grantsville youth for causing the 5:41 p.m. mishap.

Salisbury resident Dorothy Hare, 68, was westbound when she slowed down as she made a right turn into a private driveway just west of Bittinger Road. As she made the turn, a 1978 Ford F-150 pickup operated by a 17-year-old Grantsville resident struck her vehicle in the rear. The impact forced the woman's 1996 Honda Accord into the back of an unoccupied vehicle that was parked in the driveway.

Hare was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The other driver, who escaped injury and whose name was withheld because of age, was charged with failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the accident scene.

Authorities Warn Residents About Suspicious Calls

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation and Crime Solvers are warning residents to hesitate answering questions from people who may call requesting credit card information.

GBI has received several complaints from local citizens who have been contacted by "professional sounding" people who claim to be with their credit card company.

These suspected fraudulent callers were often able to recite the victim's credit card number and then ask for additional personal information or additional card numbers.

It is suspected that the callers may have received the victim's credit card number from a lost or misused receipt.

Persons who have been contacted in this manner are urged to use caution and determine if the request is justifiable. Persons who are suspicious about the nature of the call should simply hang up the phone and contact his or her credit card company as soon as possible to report the incident and verify the questionable call.

Mowbray Named Assistant Director Of Social Services

Director Rick DeWitt, Garrett County Department of Social Services, announced last Friday that Erica Carlson Mowbray has been appointed assistant director for services for the local department.

Mowbray, LCSW-C, received her master's degree in social work from West Virginia University in 1992 and is an honors graduate of Frostburg State University. She has served at the Garrett County DSS, a local office of the Maryland Department of Human Resources, since August 1995.

She worked in a DSS unit supported by Victims of Crime Assistance funds, administered through the Maryland Department of Human Resources Office of Victim Services. Mowbray also served as the county's coordinator of the Maryland Critical Incident Stress Management Team, which provides stress management education and post-traumatic incident support to emergency medical and law enforcement personnel.

In 1996, as a Child Protective Services (CPS) investigator, she received the agency's first grant through the Children's Justice Act Funds to purchase cell phones for CPS workers and special cameras for photo documentation of children.

"I am pleased to announce Erica's new role," said DHR Secretary Christopher J. McCabe. "I believe that she, Rick, and other members of the leadership team will work well together as the local agency strives to work more closely with county government, the Garrett County Board of Social Services and the community."

Mowbray resides in Oakland with her husband Wayne and her children Andrew and Leah.

Youth Struck By Vehicle; Escapes Serious Injury

A Friendsville youth who was reportedly walking in the roadway on Deep Creek Drive Saturday was slightly injured when he was struck by a vehicle. No charges were filed in the 7:11 p.m. accident, which was investigated by the Maryland State Police.

The unnamed juvenile was walking south "in the southbound lane," the report stated, when he was struck by a 2000 Chevrolet Blazer traveling in the same direction. The driver, Lauren O'Brien, 19, Oakland, was not injured.

The youth was transported by a private vehicle to Sacred Heart Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for "minor injuries," police said.

Deputies Make Several Drunk Driving Arrests

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made several drunk driving arrests this past week.

An Oakland man was arrested and charged with drunk driving after police observed his truck crossing the center and white lines on Garrett Highway just north of Foster Road early Tuesday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Matthew Ray Beachy, 22, failed field sobriety tests, and he was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving while impaired by alcohol (DWI), and failure to drive right of center, police said.

He was later released.

In a separate incident, Michael Christopher Auvil, 23, Friendsville, was arrested and charged with drunk driving after deputies stopped his vehicle for not having an operable rear tag light early Sunday morning, police said.

Auvil failed sobriety tests, and was charged with DUI, DUI per se, and DWI. He was also issued a repair order for the tag light and taillights, police said.

He was later released.

Early Wednesday morning, Zachariah Kelly Fowler, 24, Middlebourne, W.Va., was arrested after deputies observed his 1985 station wagon swerving on Garrett Highway just south of Kings Run Road.

He was charged with DUI, DWI, negligent driving, and failure to drive right of center, police said.

Alzheimer's Assn. Sets Benefit Gala; Seeks Volunteers

The local branch of the Alzheimer's Association has set its first Forget-Me-Not Gala for 8 p.m. to midnight Friday, May 14, in Cumberland. The fund-raiser will feature music of the 1950s, '60s, and '70s, performed by the Chinese Bandits. Hors d'oeuvres will be provided by the Oxford House, and the event will include a silent auction and cash bar.

"The purpose of the gala is to raise funds and awareness for the work of the Alzheimer's Association in Allegany and Garrett counties," said association development coordinator Mary Ellen Mitchell.

The gala's organizing committee, a group of volunteers interested in lending assistance to all aspects of the event, is being formed. Any persons interested in participating in the planning process are asked to contact Mitchell at 1-800-696-6830, or by e-mail at maryellen.-mitchell@alz.org as soon as possible. The committee's first meeting will take place on Thursday, March 11, at a time and location that will be determined by the response of potential volunteers.

The Alzheimer's Association is looking for partners in the business community for sponsorship opportunities and to donate items for the silent auction, and businesses interested in providing support may also contact Mitchell.

Tickets for the benefit gala are available from Mitchell at $35 per person.

"The theme for the gala will focus on the lifestyle and favorite places in downtown Cumberland," said Mitchell. "In keeping with the evening's theme of 'Remembering Downtown Cumberland of Bygone Years,' the event will be hosted in the Allegany County Museum, which focuses on the rich history of the county and the stores and sights of downtown Cumberland."

The 2000 census estimates that there are over 2,600 people with Alzheimer's in the two counties, and over 10,000 people affected by the disease when family members and caregivers are factored in the count. The Alzheimer's Association is noted as the world leader in raising support for research. The nonprofit organization provides education and support services at little to no cost to aid families coping with the effects of the disease.

MARCH IS NATIONAL NUTRITION MONTH IN GARRETT COUNTY, as proclaimed by the county commissioners this week. To celebrate the month, Area Agency on Aging will conduct two programs whose theme is "Nutrition and Exercise – Perfect Partners." The programs will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the Grantsville Senior Center on March 10 and at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, on March 24. Seated, left to right, are Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday. Standing are Ronnie Padmos, Area Agency on Aging; Dr. Jennifer Bentlejewski, Garrett County Extension Office; Beverly Carvell, Extension Office; Elaine Kackley, director of the Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center; and Sadie Liller, Garrett County Health Department. AWARENESS MONTH PROCLAIMED – The Garrett County commissioners signed a proclamation Tuesday declaring March as Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month. Colorectal cancer is the second leading cause of cancer-related deaths in Maryland. Pictured above, front row, left to right, are Commissioners Ernest Gregg, David Beard, and Fred Holliday. Back row, left to right, are Tamara Forrester, office manager, Garrett Surgical Group, representing Charles Walch, MD; Bethany Browning, RN, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Health Education; Sharon Rounds, RN, Garrett County Health Department, coordinator, Cancer Screening Programs; Rebecca Parks, RN, Garrett County Health Department, supervisor, Cancer Screening Programs; Gail Dever and Connie Savage, Garrett County Health Department, Outreach; and Ihor Zakaluzny, MD, surgeon. See story on page C-12.

tween patients, families, and healthcare professionals in order to enhance patient safety and reduce the incidence of medical errors," said Denise Liston, vice president of clinical services. "Everyone has an important role to play, and we're proud to be part of this effort."

Patient Safety Awareness Week was launched two years ago by PULSE (Persons United Limiting Substandards and Errors) and the Department of Veterans Affairs National Center for Patient Safety, both of which are collaborating with NPSF (National Patient Safety Foundation) on this year's event.

McCain said the town was also working on a final agreement with CSX. "Hopefully, that will come in within the same time frame," he said. The Maryland Historical Trust must also review the final plan.

Emory reported, however, that unexpected rights of way had to purchased and easements secured before the project could proceed. Because of property owner issues, he explained, a second bridge design with a new alignment had been submitted. He noted, however, that previously approved federal funding would not cover any new rights of way.

Additional federal funding for acquisition could be applied for, but doing so would delay the project for at least another year, Emory noted, because a special consultant would have to hired, an assessment conducted, and more paperwork filed.

But in lieu of applying for federal funds, the state, county, and town could proceed with the project now by using local funds, he explained.

"I think we will save time if we allow the mayor to handle the acquisition," Gregg said. He noted that money could be saved as well.

McCain agreed to handle the acquisition and construction easement issues on the condition that the town and county agree on how to share the local cost of the bridge project. From previous discussion, he said, it was his understanding that the cost would be split 50/50.

Commissioner Fred Holliday disagreed with that perception. He said it was his understanding that all the local share was Oakland's.

The last official cost estimate of the entire project was $1.75 million, said McCain. The federal government will pay 80 percent, and the state/local share is 20 percent. If CSX contributes to the project as expected, the remaining local share would be about $90,000. With a 50/50 split, Oakland and the county would be responsible for about $45,000 each.

"I would hate to see this stopped because of a lack of $50,000 on the county's part," said Gregg about the project.

Commissioner Dave Beard made a motion that the county pay 50 percent of the local cost, up to a maximum of $50,000, for the new bridge. The commissioners voted, and the motion passed.

Gregg noted that though it will pick up half the local monetary cost, the county has actually contributed more than 50 percent to the project because of the Garrett County Roads Department's involvement – in particular, Emory's numerous hours of work.

McCain, also noted that he has contributed numerous hours, and that the county, as well as the town, would benefit from the new bridge.

Oakland will own the bridge and be responsible for its maintenance, while the county will be responsible for its inspection. Since the county already has an inspection contract with the state which covers the county's many bridges, the actual cost to the county to inspect the Oakland bridge will not be much, said Gregg.

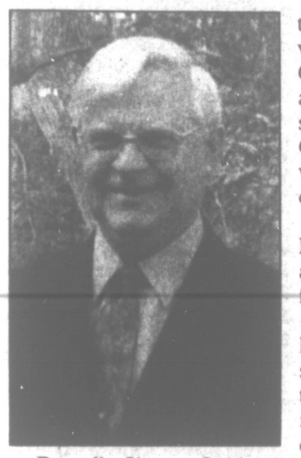
"It breaks down to about $3,600 to $4,000 per bridge," said Emory.

The key reason for getting the new bridge open is for emergency traffic, stressed McCain. Snow plows and school buses have also been greatly inconvenienced by the old bridge's closure.

"It's been delayed too long," said Beard about the construction of a new bridge.

REMEMBER TO RECYCLE, OAKLAND! A new opportunity to help conserve resources and lengthen the life of the landfill is being offered to every resident of Oakland this week, as the first collection of recyclables will take place tomorrow, March 5. The town council amended its refuse collection ordinance last fall to allow for the collection of newspaper and cans. Participation in the program will be voluntary. "Hopefully, the curbside convenience will encourage more people to recycle, thus saving landfill space," said Mayor Asa McCain. The mayor said that if the recycling effort is successful, tonnage fees at the landfill may be eventually reduced, or at least not increased. All residents are urged to take part by placing newspapers and cans in separate bags outside by 7 a.m. on the first and third Friday of each month. Bags must be left in the same place where trash is picked up, but not in a bin or any other enclosure. They must be in plain view for the collection crew. Recycling bags are available at the town hall, or people may use their own if they are clear, translucent blue or translucent white, and strong enough to hold 25 pounds. Newspapers may include thin glossy inserts, but other items such as catalogs, magazines, and any type of mail should not be included. Cans may hold both ferrous (tin/steel) and aluminum mixed. All cans must be rinsed out. (And ignore the photo as far as how to sort — the cans and newspaper are to be put in separate bags.) So come on, Oaklanders — join in the recycling effort, for the good of the planet. For more information, persons may contact the mayor at 301-334-2691.

Sines Appointed To Governor's Emergency Management Council



Russell Sines, Oakland resident and local businessman, has been appointed to Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr.'s Emergency Management Advisory Council (GEMAC).

GEMAC brings together individuals with public safety, intelligence, communications, and information technology backgrounds. Sines will be one of 15 new appointments who will critically analyze the state government's ability to handle natural and man-made disasters and recommend ways to further ensure the security of the Maryland public.

The members will advise the governor on grants management, working with local emergency managers and first responders, public health, and other policy and operational areas regarding emergency management.

"Those of us involved with public safety and emergency management should take a step back from time to time and evaluate where we are going," said Maj. Gen. Bruce F. Tuxill, the adjutant general for the state of Maryland. "The GEMAC will help ensure we're headed in the right direction."

Sines was nominated by Delegate George Edwards as a representative of manufacturing.

"I am very honored to have been selected," Sines said. "It's a great challenge to serve this council. I feel it is a privilege to serve the citizens of the entire state of Maryland as I look specifically at concerns in the western portion of the state. I am very honored."

Sines is the owner and operator of My O Management Services Inc., which incorporates Deep Creek Ready Mix, Sears of Oakland, and Midas Auto Repair. He resides in the Sang Run area with his wife Susan.

GEMAC will examine emergency management programs "through the lens of an all hazards approach," said a spokesperson for the governor.

"The role of emergency management has expanded to address terrorism as well as natural disasters," said the Governor's Office of Homeland Security director Dennis Schrader. "The all-hazards approach requires sustainable readiness to be effective and will require constant analysis and strategic advice."

Judge Frederic N. Smalkin was named GEMAC chairman on Sept. 9, 2003. Appointees to the Governor's Emergency Management Advisory Council do not require senate advice and consent. GEMAC will annually assess the state's emergency management capabilities, identify areas of improvement, and make recommendations.

The council, originally known as the Civil Defense Advisory Council, was created in 1950. Later, as emphasis shifted away from Cold War civil defense, the group was renamed the Emergency Management Advisory Council in 1981.

Taking Shape

The rain prevented last year's event from breaking the attendance record set in 2002. McGee credited a shift in emphasis to more local activity and cooperation with non-profit organizations for the record-breaking attendance. "The entire community really got involved and supported that festival," said McGee, who added that organizers would like to see that spirit continue, and are already pleased to see more area businesses and individuals becoming involved with this year's event.

The 2004 Highland Festival will get under way with a Celtic kick-off reception and concert set for 6 p.m. Friday night at the Lodge at Wisp. The featured performers will be the energy-filled Celtic band Coyote Run and the popular Scottish bard Carl Peterson. Last year's concert was a sellout event, so persons interested in attending this year are encouraged to purchase tickets early.

Saturday's main festival program will take place from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The fest will feature music performances, athletic games, animal displays, a British car show, clan displays, and bagpipe bands. Several new activities are being planned, including a falconry demonstrations and rides offered in an authentic Irish jaunting cart. Activities for children are also planned for that day. Children under 12 will be admitted free with a paying adult.

The closing ceremonies will lead directly into Saturday evening's festivities, as a parade is being planned from the fairgrounds to the Deep Creek Brewing Company, site of the Ceilidh (Scottish party). Wolf Creek Session will be the featured performers at the Ceilidh.

The Kirkin' o' the Tartans will take place at 9 a.m. Sunday at St. John's Episcopal Church in Deer Park, where Scottish music, a blessing of the tartans, and a concert by the Garrett College Pipes and Drums will take place. Shortbread and refreshments will be available at the church.

A St. Andrews-at-Wisp Golf Tournament is also being planned for Sunday.

"It's exciting to feel the enthusiasm building," said board member John MacGowan, "for the increased involvement and expansion of the festival weekend."

For further information, persons may consult the McHenry Highland Festival Web page at www.highlandfest.info.

GCMH Plans Patient Safety Awareness Week

Garrett County Memorial Hospital is sponsoring a variety of activities the week of March 7-13, which has been designated as Patient Safety Awareness Week, a national initiative involving hospitals and healthcare organizations throughout the United States.

The activities are being designed to raise the level of awareness of patient safety, as well as to help reduce medical errors.

People are being encouraged to clean out their medicine cabinets during this week and discard any outdated medications or old prescriptions no longer being used. Individuals who have questions about their medications, or who are taking both prescription and over-the-counter medications are being encouraged to bag their medication and bring them to the hospital pharmacy for a "check up." People may be taking duplicate medications with different names or medications that have potential harmful side-effects when taken together, a spokesperson said. A licensed pharmacist will check medications for these discrepancies.

Participants will receive a free 7-day pill box and universal medication forms to help keep track of their medications for future doctor visits. This program is being offered free to interested individuals.

Medications should be brought to the GCMH pharmacy between the hours of noon and 2 p.m., Monday through Friday, March 8-12. Other times are available by appointment, which can be made by calling 301-533-4100.

Other internal safety programs are being organized to encourage safety among healthcare workers at the hospital. Crossword puzzles, prizes, and handwashing promotions are among the internal plans.

The theme of Patient Safety Awareness Week is "Patient Safety: The Power of Partnership," the spokesperson said.

"The purpose is to nurture a true partnership be-

Odds and Ends...

• Using the new computer-screen voting machines on Tuesday was a breeze; however, something needs to be done to provide much better privacy for voters. At the Mountain Lake Park precinct poll (Dennett Road School), there was a long line of machines, side by side, and virtually no partitions between them. With relative ease, one could watch how someone else voted. The big, old, heavy voting machines are now dinosaurs, but that curtain did provide total privacy.

• On behalf of the Southern and Northern high school bands and band boosters, this writer extends sincere appreciation to Garrett County commissioners Gregg, Holliday, and Beard for providing $5,000 to help Southern purchase new uniforms, and an equal amount to Northern for a similar purchase in the future. Our society in general does not appreciate or value music and other arts nearly as much as other disciplines, despite the fact that every single study that has ever been done has proven that participation in the arts greatly enhances achievement in academics. It's obvious that our three commissioners do indeed appreciate our high school student musicians, and recognize the value of what they do.

• Oakland residents are reminded that the first pick-up of garbage in the town for recycling purposes will be this Friday. Newspapers and cans (tin, steel, and aluminum) should be separated into bags. This will ultimately save everyone money by extending the life of the county landfill, not to mention that such practices will improve the environmental health of the planet in general. It is thus strongly hoped that Oaklanders will enthusiastically participate, joining with the residents of Accident, Friendsville, and Kitzmiller, who are already taking part in their own town recycling efforts. Perhaps more local municipalities will soon follow suit.

• A 24% turnout at Garrett County polls Tuesday is a pathetic response, to say the least. Granted, the races were few for Republican voters. However, the one significant GOP race was that of Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and challenger Scott Rolle. It is likely that Bartlett will be re-elected for another term, so those who have a problem with him, but did not vote on Tuesday, should not be heard uttering a single complaint about Rep. Bartlett.

• It's evidently a go for a Maryland bear hunt — basically a Garrett and Allegany county bear hunt, that is. While there remain good arguments against having any hunt, at least the proposed hunt is greatly limited. We do wish to reiterate that most of the "bear problems" folks have been experiencing are man-made, as more and more of the bears' natural habitat is being taken away, and as more and more of them are being fed — in effect, befriended — by human beings. It is simply not true that the number of bears is too large, and that bears pose a definite, life-threatening danger to humans. Much will be learned from the initial hunt, including whether or not future hunts will be permitted.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I have lived in Garrett County for almost my entire life and I am over 50 years old. It is extremely troubling to me to see Deep Creek Lake become almost an urban area. It only takes a look or two at the lake area to see homes built so close together you could almost watch your next door neighbor's TV.

The reason people "used to" come here to Deep Creek Lake was to enjoy the beauty of the lake, the trees, and foliage. They liked getting away from their urban areas. Sorry to say the beautiful scenery and privacy of Deep Creek Lake are leaving one home or business at a time. One can hardly find a piece of shoreline, or look upon a hill around Deep Creek Lake where there aren't buildings under construction. The once beautiful views of the lake are being obstructed by overdevelopment.

Poor people of this county take heart, for if all this overdevelopment of Deep Creek Lake continues, you may be able to buy a piece of it, for it won't be worth much.

Wake up, commissioners, and people of Garrett County, before it's too late.

Sincerely,
Norma J. Rodeheaver
Oakland

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to several issues. First is the malpractice rates for doctors. A lot of us agree with you that something needs to be done about the increases. But what about the poor people? A lot of them pay one-quarter of their pay just to maintain health insurance. That's pretty rough on someone who makes $15,000 a year and not a million.

If the government favors the doctors, then they need to favor cheaper insurance for the less fortunate ones. I for one doubt that if the doctors get their insurance rate dropped that we will see a decrease in our bills. The typical American says, If you don't like your pay, then look at another profession. A lot of people don't prefer to, but they don't have a choice.

I for one look for my taxes to increase. This country is hurting financially. A couple of weeks ago in a city newspaper there was a graph of the last several presidents. Mr. Bill Clinton was the only one who left office with a government surplus. Within a year this country is in more debt than ever before. Some blame it on Sept. 11.

I am not a Republican or Democrat, but every time a Republican gets in office, we go head over heels in debt.

He needs to worry more about this country than the rest of the world. If we keep losing all the American jobs, pretty soon we could all be working in sweat shops and cotton fields.

Sincerely,
James A. Tasker

P.S. It's time for the working people to stand up and speak.

To the Editor:

On May 29, 2003, The Republican was kind enough to print my letter about the dangers which we are going to experience if Yucca Mountain nuclear hazardous waste disposal plans around the nation are not halted.

Two recent articles reinforce the need for everyone to seek vehicle and homeowner's insurance for damage or loss due to radioactive spills.

First, how many readers noticed the February 5 article in the Cumberland Times-News, "I-68 may become a route for nerve warfare leftovers, which reported on page 5A that "spent radioactive uranium rods" are routinely transported through the area?

Second, the Hagerstown Daily Mail reported on January 8, 2004, on page A3 that a pickup truck hauling radioactive medical waste crashed on Interstate 70 in Frederick County.

Believe me, the Daily Mail article is a harbinger of what's coming to Mountain Maryland, as radioactive waste (such as the spent nuclear fuel rods) is constantly shuttled through area roads.

A word to the wise? Either obtain insurance for your vehicles and homes to cover such hazardous materials, or start monitoring and protesting the use of your roads and railroads for these nuclear by-products.

Homeland Security Secretary Tom Ridge loves to talk about the dangers which may come from a "dirty bomb" detonated by terrorists, but in all likelihood the "dirty bomb" you will first experience in your neighborhood will be one which results from your own government's mishandling of radioactive wastes.

Sincerely yours,
Douglas Scott Arey
Westover

To the Editor:

I have read in the past of concern that wind turbines might appear on Backbone Mountain and would be unsightly. In the past several weeks, I've been reading of the concerns of many about a cross that may be erected near the overlook in Oakland.

Is anyone concerned about the new billboards appearing quietly along Rt. 219? Is anyone wondering how many more will appear? Tall signs, short signs on any property that can be rented/purchased between I-68 and Oakland.

Now they are truly eyesores and something to be seriously concerned about.

Kathe Kane
McHenry

To the Editor:

Thank you for your hard work, making The Republican a truly "news-full" paper, and thank you for fairness in printing letters expressing opposing views of a given issue.

I agree that many man-woman marriages have failed or are failing. However, many successful marriages are still in evidence, bringing goodness into community and national life. In addition, we have seen and heard testimonials of hundreds of failing marriages being healed with renewed love and happiness because the spouses have been willing to seek help. Usually the renewal is better than the first honeymoon as they learn the secrets of serving one another as opposed to continually insisting on self-gratification.

No person nor institution on earth is perfect. In spite of this fact, our adult children, along with so many others, are able to sincerely express their gratitude for their home life with their parents. They see that we are ready to correct our mistakes and work at doing better with God's bountiful help. Our children have married, working at making two more good homes, providing five fine grandchildren. It has been a continually rewarding experience.

Now, I know that you believe in The Republican newspaper to the point of working hard to keep it alive and well by correcting mistakes and fixing the machinery when it breaks down. Millions of us believe in the vitally important institution of family as God meant it to be. Please don't trash what He established and makes beautiful and beneficial in our world. Rather, help us to encourage this good thing.

Thank you,
Irene E. Hixon

To the Editor:

It is with regret that I must write to you again. The article you received from city hall that ran on 2/19/04 titled New Amendments Added to Garrett County's Water, Sewer Master Plan is again trying to slander the residents of Windy Lane.

Mr. Moyer's statement about the health department requesting that Oakland correct failing wells and septics in the Windy Lane area is almost right, except that this time they "demanded" it, not requested. As far as "may annex it" (Windy Lane), MDE said we'd have to "annex in" in order for Oakland to get the monies. We'd prefer not to annex in after running into critical behavior at city hall meetings. Remember, we offered to annex in if they gave us water and sewer within the year like they do the higher priced properties.

We are presently working with the MDE (Maryland Department of the Environment), Delegate George Edwards, and the Garrett County Health Department to resolve this problem in a more rewarding, satisfying, and mature way. Our sewers are polluting a protected water source. You are running through it when it floods on Memorial Drive. We have E. coli in our water. We don't particularly want to pay a water and sewer bill, but we are tired of this situation. Our homes are not worth anything if the land doesn't perk. That is why we are adamant about getting water and sewer.

I do want to commend Mr. McCain for all the positive things he has done for Oakland. Thank you. Not complaining – just explaining!

Diana Ashby

To the Editor:

Hip, hip hurrah many times over for the editorial last week. It is so good to know that rational heads exist. Do you want to run for president? I'll help.

For all those who really, really believe the Bible reigns supreme in 2004 as it did when written by people in the Before Christ and the early After Death era, chew on these for awhile and then look at Mr. Bush's call to arms of his faith based voters:

"Marriage shall not impede a man's rights to take concubines, in addition to his wife or wives." (II Sam, 5:13; I Kings 11:3; II Chron 11:21 ).

"A marriage shall be considered valid only if the wife is a virgin. If the wife is not a virgin, she shall be executed." (Deut 22:13-21).

Marriage of a believer and a non-believer shall be forbidden." (Gen 24:3; Num 25:1-9; Ezra 9:12; Neh 10:30).

And the ever popular: "If a married man dies without children, his brother shall marry the widow. If he refuses to marry his brother's widow or deliberately does not give her children, he shall pay a fine of one shoe." (Gen. 38:6-10; Deut 25:5-10).

And on and on it goes. As a Christian and a believer in God's creation of man in his own likeness, I was given a mind and the ability to reason. With that thought, I stop! Too much press is being given to this ridiculous waste of our tax money. Remember, we pay the salary of the politicians who squander their time on things like this. Remember that when you vote!

Joyce Schroyer
Friendsville

To the Editor:

Cut me a break on the corrupt Garrett County government. If one is not breaking the law then technically one would not have to worry about having to deal with any of those "bad, mean people." Standards have to be set, regardless of the crime. Whether from poor judgment, a mistake, a temporary lapse of sanity, or whatever the reasoning may be, once the deviation from the law has occurred the consequences should be accepted.

We live in a society where the majority of people will not accept blame for their actions, instead blaming other people, and therefore turning attention away from themselves and playing the victim. "Why, it must be someone else's fault; it's not fair" (stomp, stomp, stomp). The behavior is very childlike to be penalized for one own's wrongdoing then turn around and say, "Yes, but I was only doing this and Johnny down the street was doing much worse things and he's not in trouble; it's not fair."

I believe one of the reasons crime is so rampant in the area I reside in is the fact that the smaller crimes are overlooked or are not punished adequately or severely enough, so the deviant behavior not only continues, it becomes more prevalent and leads to more serious crimes.

In closing, unless there is some factual information from law-abiding persons about true corruption in Garrett County government, then I maintain my stance. I believe that overall the various levels of the legal system in Garrett County are doing an outstanding job. Take a look around. Compared to most other places, there is a sense of security, a feeling of being safe that is taken for granted. This is because the system in Garrett County is working. Appreciate this fact and the people who are doing their jobs.

This issue was almost as ludicrous as the man from "Maryland" who had an open container of alcohol and was drinking while driving and felt he was victimized because he got stopped by a law officer. (Note the key word, "law.")

Sincerely,
Shannon M. Sanders
Mulberry, Florida
(former Garrett County resident)

P.S. If more serious crimes are being committed, I believe there is a "tip line" to report crimes. Don't complain about corruption if you are a part of it by being complacent.

To the Editor:

As I have often stated, I thoroughly enjoy reading the editorial page of our local paper. I think The Republican newspaper really serves us well. I can hardly wait to read the responses to our brave editor's most recent editorial.

I agree most strongly that there are much more important issues to debate, discuss, and bring to the table this election year, for the sake of our great democracy. But, once more this issue of gay marriage very often brings more emotional response than reasoned or informed response. I have noticed that in recent weeks many of the letters are from folks who don't "see past the end of their own nose" and think that life, the world of others, is just what their own life experience is. When we view things from such a narrow perspective, we often become very sure of ourselves and very judgmental of others.

This problem is certainly reflected in Angela Paugh's letter about the local after-school program. She so beautifully expresses her desire that others would become informed before they judge, tear down, and criticize. Miss Paugh asks that others stop and "see the big picture."

This phrase brought home to me a common theme running through the letters of criticism recently toward Mr. McEwen's and

WE'RE GETTING WARMER . . . WARMER . . .

Ah, the promise of spring is sweet. The fragrance is in the air and it gives everyone hope, I think. Of course we will still have a snow squall or two. There will surely be at least a few more school delays and windy, snowy days, but we all know we're through the worst of it. As each day of warmth goes by, we are that much closer to the balmier time of year, and that is a fine thought.

The windows being open and the air flowing through one's house brings something else to mind, though, and after months of being housebound with three boys, my husband, and two cats, I am inspired to at least think about sand-blasting my house — from the inside. Now, don't get the wrong idea here. I am not a clean freak. In fact, I'm so much the opposite that a far more appropriate title for me would be a Freak o' Clutter. I just don't care that much. When life marches along at such a swift pace, with the boys involved in all sorts of things and the craziness of work and other obligations, the house gets neglected. I used to really worry about it, but I've decided there are worse things to be. Unfortunately, we are not doing a great job of teaching the boys to be overly neat. I can see that some of it is simply genetic. Robert is somewhat orderly, just by nature. The floor of his room is usually visible at least, unlike his two brothers' room (they share), which looks most of the time like Godzilla has taken a wrecking ball to it. So Rob takes after his dad, and the two other boys have inherited their mother's less tidy nature. It takes all kinds, right?

So add this lack of tidiness to a long winter and what do you get? A house drowning in clutter, that's what. As the months of ice and snow drag by, the pathways in the home narrow. In the front hall, snow pants creep out to the middle of the floor, followed closely by stray mittens, boots, and an assortment of knitted hats. I think somehow these things multiplied all on their own. Perhaps it's some sort of new biology taking place right under our noses. But now that the weather has turned warm, the boys have no use for those boring winter clothes and have dragged out their sweatshirt jackets. The snow pants and mittens and such remain there, as if we still have two feet of snow on the ground, but now it's all getting sort of dusty and forgotten, walked on with wet, muddy shoes, and pushed aside like yesterday's news. I pass it every day and think, "Man, we gotta clean this place up." And then I go do a crossword puzzle, pet the cat, or see what's on the tube.

But the weather this week is changing me. I'm getting that eagerness to purge, to sort, to fold and, yes, even to put away. I was inspired enough to go to the dollar store and buy a huge container for all the Legos of our home, strewn about and lurking around every corner. They are in the bathroom, on the floor, behind the stereo, on the mantel, in the cat's bowl. I mean everywhere. I have this daydream of how I'll go around and get them all. I'll pick up every single block, every guy, every window or lever or tiny stick shift or helmet or headlight, and put them all in the box. A very satisfying dream indeed. In the winter, when we're stuck in the house and too cold to stray far from the fireplace, I don't feel like doing these things. But there's something about that pre-spring air. Something clean. Something that drives even the messiest of us to dream of a cleaner, less-Lego-y home.

My husband laughed at me over the weekend because I went out into the snow to hang sheets on the line. I couldn't resist. The air was fairly warm, and I love the scent of line-dried sheets. I slipped around a bit and had to endure him taking a picture of his wife standing in snow to hang out the laundry. But do the sheets smell sweet? Yes, indeed, they do.

So just when we all were sick to death of cold, we have been granted warmth. Just when I was sure I would never be inspired to clean again, I am ready to jump into it. There's always something coming around the corner to help us along, to jumpstart our lives, to inspire. This pre-spring weather is just the thing. I hear that snow is coming again this weekend, but it'll just be a little. And the weeks will pass, and the sun will shine, and spring will most certainly come. And maybe, just maybe, my house will be a little neater. There's always hope, huh?

Mr. Schlossnagle's excellent letters and points of view. Many of us just need to work harder to "see the big picture," to "look beyond our own noses" so we can realize that not only do others see and feel things differently, but also that there is evidence through history and the present that things are not just exactly as we see and know them.

Marriage, for instance, was not started as a protector of a religious issue, but as an issue of protection of civil property. And, we need to see that crosses do enhance the view for some folks, but not for all. And we do need to know that religions other than Christian do have organizations that practice good works of good faith. And we do need to know that many people work hard every day to provide and care for their families and for the community, but at low-paying jobs that do not provide health care, IRAs, or 401K's. What would our lives be like without their productive services? What are their lives like without the percs that others take for granted? Do people stop and think – see and become aware?

In this election year Mr. Schlossnagle mentioned the real possibility that voters may be stupid. I think a lot of folks are just not informed, but need to be. If they are not informed and choose not to be, then maybe they are stupid. If they choose not to see "the bigger picture," then that is sad – it's not that scary.

To the Editor:

Well I finally did it, something I swore I would never do. It happened last week with the unexpected two-hour delay of schools in Garrett County. I attribute my actions to the shock of finding out that I could have hit the alarm and stayed in bed for an extra 15 minutes, but I hadn't listened to the radio and thus I fell victim to an age-old tradition.

Before I could even think, the words flowed smoothly from my lips to the ears of my 12-year-old son. "When I was your age they would never have had a delay on a day like this. We had school no matter how bad the weather was...

My hand flew to cover my mouth. Growing up we had to endure hundreds of tales that began with the words: "When I was younger or back in the olden days," lovingly shared by our father.

Can someone explain to me how we went from a county that prided itself in hardly ever calling school off to having a two-hour delay following, what I would consider, a very light robin snow? Perhaps because I grew up here my thinking is clouded by memories of going to school in all sorts of weather. Were our bus drivers better skilled to handle the adverse conditions? Were we a tougher generation? I think the answer is no! Most of the bus drivers driving our children now also grew up in Garrett County and I have complete faith that they know how to handle a little snow and ice. And as far as the kids go, I honestly believe they are tougher now than when I was a their age. I've seen them file into school wearing nothing but shorts and T-shirts on days we are hardly above zero. I don't know who makes the decision to cancel school or have the delays, but I'd guess they didn't grow up here and can't remember the days when it did take a little extra effort to catch the bus.

Now, readers, before you jump to conclusions and totally misunderstand me, I fully believe that there are days when there should not be any school. I also agree that the safety of all Garrett County children should come first. I simply question whether we are using our snow days wisely? I'll question that even more when June arrives and our kids are sitting in hot schools trying to concentrate when they could be outside enjoying the few warm days we do get here on the mountaintop.

It scares me to think what my future grandchildren may someday tell their children: "When I was a kid, the school year didn't end until after the Fourth of July.

Something to think about.

Sincerely,
Tammy Mattingly

Dear Ms. Mattingly,

In the "good old days" we didn't have thousands of law suits being filed every day either, which is part of the reasoning behind closing schools in even slightly foul weather.

To the Editor:

I want to comment on the public meeting which took place March 1. A community task force and hired research firm will study the environmental impact of issues identified at that meeting on the Deep Creek watershed. I wholeheartedly agree with the many citizens who raised issues of traffic, pollution, road congestion, and even aesthetics as they impact quality of life, as well as the natural environment. And it would be nice to think that the commissioners would choose to limit growth based on these quality of life issues. But they won't.

My parents bought a house on Deep Creek in 1972, and I moved into that house a couple months ago. I have seen the increased development and understand, based on the poverty that I was aware of growing up, that real estate development has added significantly to the overall economy of the county. So, looking at the big picture, as our commissioners are doing I am sure, there is little incentive to stop the real estate development that has become synonymous with economic development in this county. The financial effects of this development have ensured better education, health care, and social services, and have the potential to widen roads, build bike trails, support arts and cultural institutions, all of which provide incentives for large companies offering high-paying jobs to move into this area.

I would suggest that we citizens who have identified the negative effects of this growth come together and identify the potential economic development that could replace this real estate development, and supplant (watch Fred Holliday smile) the tax revenues we enjoy from that growth. Real estate development should follow economic development, not lead it. When real estate growth leads, then the sector to logically follow is the service sector. And while the service sector (tourism in particular) provides many jobs, they are not the high-paying jobs in high dollar industries that could be providing a substantial portion of the tax base. It is time for a new economic sector to be enticed to the area. And if the new economic development happens outside the watershed, those areas (nearly 90% of the county) will be able to share the wealth and responsibility of Garrett County's prosperity.

Finally, I would suggest that we can use the results of the past growth to create the incentives for research and development or banking or some other sector to move in, not only by building the entertainment and recreation offerings in the area, but also by continuing to expand higher education to support new industries, by strengthening and making visible the high-quality and unique cultural arts programs presented here, and by protecting the natural beauty by regulating real estate development.

Thank you,
Natalie Atherton

To the Editor:

I am writing concerning the new eligibility criteria for pre-kindergarten. It came to my attention while inquiring about enrolling my daughter for the 2004-2005 school year.

The very first requirement is to fall into a "low-income" category, which is a child that is eligible for free or reduced lunches. They are automatically eligible. Also, if they have been enrolled in the Head Start program, they are automatically eligible.

If they are enrolled in Head Start, then why can't they stay there until they are 5? Where does this leave room for the children whose parents exceed the income levels? Oh, they can wait another year, because their parents make too much money and that makes them so much smarter.

Secondly, if a child has a special need such as speech, language, emotional disturbances, etc., and lives within the school district, he is automatically eligible. My thought of that is, if a child truly has a special need, he should be first on the list.

Then thirdly, if the child has no documented need and lives in the school district, he will be eligible. Documented need can come from the health department, which only serves "low income" families.

My question is, since when is income a criteria for the public school system in which I pay taxes every year? I was told that "low-income" children are usually the ones to struggle in school. I'm sure that there are children whose parents are over the "income level" who struggle in school. So, does that mean that my children have to suffer and not get enrolled because our income is too high? This is supposedly a guideline for the whole state of Maryland. So does this mean that "low-income" children are stupid and the "higher-income" children are smarter?

I believe that this is offensive and is discrimination to "low income, middle-income and high-income" families. What does the money a family makes have to do with a child's need for education? I am in no way speaking against people who need state assistance. I feel that if you really need it, it is there. Yes, there are many who take advantage of the system, but that is not my concern.

Where are the rights of our children? If the Board of Ed or the MSDE doesn't stand up for our children, it is our duty as parents to stand up for what is right and not let our children be discriminated against. I know the more "low-income" children the county enrolls in pre-k, the more money the county can request. That is written on the new papers that are attached to the enrollment forms. The forms also say, "no child left behind." What a joke that is. It is obvious that many children will be left behind because of income. I think it is sad that the Board of Ed or the MSDE is more concerned about how much money they can make and not the education of all children in Garrett County.

So who is going to look out for our children? Who is going to make sure that all children are treated equally no matter what kind of income is in the household? I know I am going to stand up for my daughter. I am sure there are others of you who have this same problem. What are you going to do about it?

Sincerely,
Christy Kisner

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Mark A. Phillips' letter from last week's edition. I would like to comment on his generalization that, in the 34 years of his existence, he has never heard of a Muslim or Buddhist "taking to the streets to help people in need." I cannot speak for the Muslim community; however, I can give Mr. Phillips insight on the general Buddhist community.

First, let me give a brief synopsis of what Buddhism is. The name Buddhism comes from the Sanskrit word "buddhi," which means to wake up, and thus Buddhism is the philosophy of awakening. Two thousand, five hundred years ago, Siddhartha Gotama, or the Buddha, was enlightened at the age of 36 after six years of study and meditation. He was deeply moved by the suffering he witnessed and resolved to find the key to human happiness.

Also, Buddhism is not a religion in the Western sense. To many, Buddhism goes beyond religion and is more of a philosophy, or "way of life." The Buddhist path can be summed up as: to lead a moral life, to be mindful and aware of thoughts and actions, and to develop wisdom and understanding. It explains a purpose to life, the apparent injustice and inequality around the world, and it provides a code of practice or way of life that leads to true happiness. It is often a misconception by the Western world that in Buddhism, the Buddha is seen as "God." This is false.

Buddhism is also a belief system that is tolerant of all other beliefs or religions. Buddhism agrees with the moral teachings of other religions, but Buddhism goes further by providing a long-term purpose within our existence, through wisdom and true understanding. Real Buddhism is very tolerant and not concerned with labels like Christian, Moslem, Hindu or Buddhist; that is why there have never been any wars fought in the name of Buddhism. That is why Buddhists do not preach and try to convert – they only explain if an explanation is sought.

There are also many types of Buddhism, including Tibetan Buddhism, Zen Buddhism, Theravada Buddhism, and Vajrayana Buddhism; however, they are all based on the same philosophy.

Mr. Phillips may not have heard of the charitable work done by Buddhists across the globe because they do not feel the need to advertise the good that they do. Buddhists see help given to others as an expression of their religious practice just as other religions do, but they believe that it should be done quietly and without self-promotion. A simple search on the Internet reveals the many efforts of the Buddhist community, including the Buddhist Peace Fellowship, the Buddhist AIDS Project, the Zen Hospice Project, the Buddhist Alliance for Social Engagement, the Prison Dharma Project, the International Campaign for Tibet, the Free Burma Coalition, and the list goes on.

Although this letter only gives a brief response to Mr. Phillips' letter, I hope that it gives added insight to our community about the philosophy which I, and many others, follow. Buddhists are and always will be actively involved in humanitarian and charitable efforts. We are all responsible for the preservation of fundamental human rights such as freedom, equality, and dignity, regardless of what spiritual path we claim.

Thank you,
L.M. Jose

Dove Center To Receive Help From Foundation

For the seventh consecutive year, the Alan Shawn Feinstein Foundation in Rhode Island will divide $1 million dollars among nonprofit agencies throughout the country helping to fight hunger, and assisting them to raise funds during March and April.

Each participating agency will get a share of the $1 million equal to their proportion of the total amount raised by all participants. The participating agencies will report all cash, checks, and food items (which will be valued at $1 per item or per pound) received during March and April to the Foundation. Mr. Feinstein's match will then be sent to these agencies by June 30.

The Dove Center provides shelter, counseling, and advocacy services to victims of domestic violence and sexual assault, as well as homeless women and children. During a family's stay in shelter, all food is provided free of charge; therefore, monetary and food donations are extremely helpful to the agency in operating its shelter program.

"State-wide budget cuts have created service provision challenges for agencies such as ours," said Dove Center executive director Heather Hanline. "Support from the community has become increasingly important to us, especially in light of the fact that the bed-nights provided in our shelter facility doubled from fiscal year 2002 to 2003. Participation in the Feinstein Challenge could prove to be very beneficial to us, as our community support is already overwhelming."

Hanline added that schools are encouraged to participate in the drive, on behalf of an agency. The Feinstein Foundation plans to give 50 $1,000 cash awards and national recognition to the schools making the best efforts. The school would be responsible for reporting their efforts on a form provided by the Foundation.

Persons interested in assisting the Dove Center in its participation on the Feinstein Challenge may do so by donating food or making a monetary contribution at the Dove Center's business office at 12978 Garrett Highway, Suite 201, Oakland, MD 21550. For more information on this project or on Dove Center services, persons may call 301-334-6255 or 301-334-9000 (24 hour helpline).

Bypass Garners

getting more money for the bypass project," he said. "The money was up a little bit so they added it in. It's a big plus."

New transportation projects that complete thorough evaluation of design and engineering, and begin acquiring right-of-way properties, are candidates for future addition to the construction program and are more likely to be built, according to SHA officials.

Funding of $1.68 million was already allocated for right-of-way acquisition last year in the 2004-09 MDOT Consolidated Transportation Program. An additional $5.2 million is needed to complete right-of-way purchases for the 2.4 mile bypass, which will be initially constructed as a two-lane road. The state is pursuing purchases of enough rights of way to upgrade to a four-lane roadway if needed in the future.

A proposal by Gov. Robert Erhlich to boost revenues for the state's Transportation Trust Fund could jumpstart the bypass project in a big way, according to David Moe, chairman of the Garrett County Transportation and Infrastructure Committee. The increased revenue would come from sources such as increased DWI and moving violation penalities, a slight hike in vehicle registration fees, and a transfer of the rental car tax from its current allocation to the general fund into the trust fund.

"The governor has bipartisan support for increasing the Transportation Trust Fund, and his administration projects the increases to generate an additional $320 million per year for transportation needs," said Moe.

"If the governor's proposal passes this session and goes into effect in July, I'm hoping we can get a steady influx of that money to use for our needs here," Edwards stated. "Garrett County has transportation needs just like other parts of the state, and we've been waiting a long time for new projects like the Oakland bypass to get going. Money like that could move that project right along, and into the construction phase within the next three years or so."

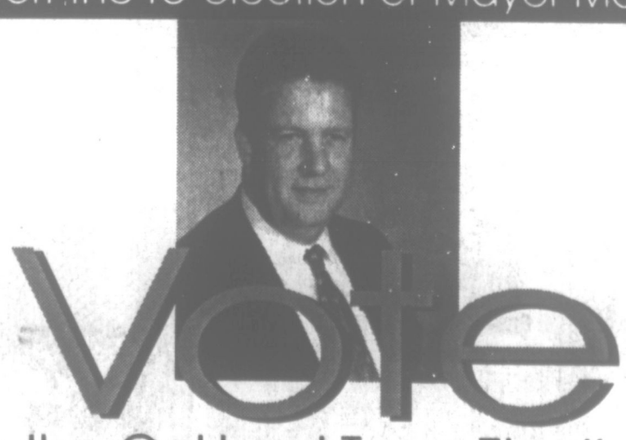
Support the re-election of Mayor McCain



Vote
In the Oakland Town Election
Monday, March 8, 2004, 9a.m.–6p.m.
The Town can go in two directions:
1. Over regulations, mandatory programs, stifled growth, no youth activity and serving only special interest;
OR
2. Serving all its citizens with cooperative planning that maintains a healthy main street business community and protected residential investments, while improving housing, preserving the train station and developing the town parks and walking trail system.
To assure the positive direction of the second example, elect the proven team
Mayor–Asa McCain
Council candidates–Peggy Jamison • William Ringer • Chris Todd

Gotsch To Run For Second Term On Oakland Council

Kenneth Gotsch, current Oakland town council member, has announced that he will run for another term.

After he was elected two years ago, he said he felt it was important to be educated in the affairs of municipal government, so he enrolled in the University of Maryland's Academy for Excellence in Local Governance. Since then, he has completed all required coursework, and will be the first Oakland councilperson to graduate from the program this summer at the University of Maryland.

During his term, he has served on the Maryland Municipal League Legislative Committee, which allows the citizens of western Maryland to have a voice and encourage the state legislature to pass legislation favorable to municipal function.

Also during his term, he was responsible for parks and recreation for the town of Oakland. "I was able to trim the rather large losses that it had experienced for the two prior years. During both years, I began the work of gaining an overview of our current ordinances and began to work toward codification," said Gotsch.

In addition, he serves on the Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Committee, and said he is quite pleased that Oakland will begin a curbside recycling program in March.

"I have a vision of Oakland's future that includes growth, yet preserves its current downtown and its rich history," said Gotsch. "Oakland should continue to be an interesting, vital, and safe place to live. We need plans in place to control the negative effects of growth on current residences and businesses. To keep our neighborhoods viable and family friendly they must be both safe and enoyable for families.

"During Maryland's current budget squeeze, the council needs to wisely invest the town's revenues with the future plans of Oakland clearly in focus. We need to work with our smaller downtown businesses in order to keep our downtown healthy.

"Through my academy courses I have learned what other towns have been able to accomplish in the area of development that keeps the hometown look but also accommodates growth. Available data shows that businesses that make the effort to fit the town they locate in are more successful."

He added that the town government needs to continue improving its ability to communicate with its citizens regarding current town activities and opportunities for citizen involvement.

"Oakland is blessed with many talented individuals who care deeply for their community," said Gotsch. "I wish to continue to work with the citizens of Oakland to make it even better."

In the community, he has served as den leader for four years and as Cub Scoutmaster and Cub Scout committee chairman. He also serves his church in various capacities, and has worked with MGATE to secure grants that Garrett County schools eventually were awarded.

Gotsch served on the Oakland Zoning Appeals Board; currently plays in the Community Band and Oktoberfest Band; and is a coach in the Mountaintop Soccer Association.

Before moving to Garrett County, he worked for Motorola as supervisor of a test engineering department. His background is in electrical engineering and software development.

He resides in the William Offutt home on Second Street with his wife, Dr. Patricia Gotsch and their four children, Zachary, 15; Abigail, 13; Megan, 8; and Timothy 6.

Williard Ringer Seeks Return To Oakland Council

Willard Ringer has filed his candidacy in the upcoming election for the Oakland town council, slated for Monday, March 8. Ringer is a lifelong Oakland resident, who served on the town council member for 10 years from 1993 to 2003, never missing a regular council meeting.

Ringer's service to the town includes experience as the Oakland water/sewer superintendent. He also served as the town's inspector during construction of the Broadford Water Plant and the 8-inch water line from the plant to Second Street in Oakland, and was the inspector during the construction of Broadford Lake/Park.

The candidate listed his past successful stances as including support for the construction of the new 800,000 gallon water storage tank on Crook Crest; support for conservative spending that helped keep the tax rate the same during his tenure on the council; and his work with the mayor and fellow council members to improve the town.

On pending matters, the candidate said he supports the proposed Oakland bypass and CSX Third Street bridge construction projects.

"Being retired, I have the necessary time it takes to devote to the responsibilities required of someone serving on council," Ringer said. "I have a thorough knowledge of Oakland and its history. I know what it takes to help Oakland continue to thrive through keeping the best interest of the overall town in mind. I understand what it means to serve all residents in all neighborhoods."

White Seeking Oakland Town Council Seat

Aaron White will be on the ballot in the March 8 Oakland municipal election, as he is seeking to gain one of three available seats on the town council.

White, who has been a resident of Oakland for 26 years, says he "promises a fresh perspective" to many of the issues before the council.

"Parts of Oakland have been under-represented in the past, and I hope to remedy that situation," he said.

White resides with his wife Erin White, who is a teacher at Southern High School, and their two daughters, Ingrid and Morgan.

White says he urges Oakland voters to participate in Monday's election "and thus get the representation they deserve" for the coming year.

Jamison Seeking Seventh Term On Oakland Council

Peggy Jamison is seeking her seventh term as a member of the Oakland Town Council. She is currently completing her twelfth year on the council and second year as its president.

Jamison, who has lived in Oakland for 20 years, also represents the council on the Garrett County Memorial Hospital board of governors and serves as a liaison to the Oakland Planning Commission.

"I have been honored to serve the residents of Oakland these past 12 years and look forward to the opportunity to continue to do so," said Jamison.

Her more notable accomplishments include her work on Main Street projects and with Oakland businesses. "I am proud of the work of the Oakland Main Street Program and its committees," Jamison said.

She has been actively involved with the Main Street Program since its inception and has served as the chairman of the Main Street board of directors. She is currently the chair of the Promotions Committee.

"Oakland is truly a 'Great Small Town,' which offers residents and visitors the friendliness and warmth of a small town and the retail and shopping opportunities that allow our merchants the ability to prosper and grow," said Jamison, who has owned a home in Oakland for 18 years.

She is a member of St. John's Lutheran Church at Red House and a member of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club.

The Oakland election will be held Monday, March 8.

Oakland Town Election Slated For March 8

The Oakland municipal election will be held Monday, March 8, with polls open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Mayor Asa McCain will run unopposed for his ninth consecutive term in office.

Vying for the three positions on the town council are Aaron White, Willard Ringer, Chris Todd, Peggy Jamison, and Ken Gotsch.

Others now serving on the council are Frank Custer, Lynn McDaniel, and Harvey "Jay" Moyer.

The town of Oakland maintains a separate register of voters; however, if persons have registered at the county Board of Elections after Jan. 1, 1990, and are residents of Oakland, they are automatically qualified to vote in the municipal election.

McCain To Seek Ninth Consecutive Term As Mayor

Asa McCain is seeking a ninth consecutive term as mayor of Oakland in the town election, set for Monday, March 8, at Oakland City Hall.

McCain said that during his tenure, Oakland has prospered residentially, historically, recreationally, and commercially.

Polls are open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Board Of Ed. Meeting Slated

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, March 9, beginning at 4 p.m.

During public session, which begins at 5:30 p.m., the board will review the proposed 2004-2005 school calendar, hear the single audit report for FY03, receive an update on diploma regulations, and review the FY2005 budget request.

Action items will include personnel recommendations, board policies, and 2004 graduation date, with possible action being taken on the FY05 budget request.

Additionally, at 7:10 p.m., the board will recognize the achievements of the Southern High School Stock Market Team and News Bowl team. Lisa Bender will also be recognized for being named the State Financial Teacher of the Year runner-up.

Time is set aside at 4 and 7 p.m. for public comment on any topic. The board will meet in closed session from 4:05 to 5:30 p.m., and reconvene in open session immediately thereafter. The public is invited to attend.

Swanton Center To Serve Supper

The Swanton Community Center will serve a buckwheat cake and sausage supper on Saturday, March 13. Serving will begin at 4 p.m. and continue until the food is gone. Pancakes will also be available.

The cost for the meal is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. All proceeds benefit the community service projects of the center.

What to Do About Fever Blisters (Cold Sores)

In any given year, about 20% of the US population will experience cold sores or fever blisters. The typical lip blister not only causes pain and discomfort, its appearance for many can be the cause of a certain amount of emotional distress. Fever blisters usually hang around for 7 to 10 days in individuals with normal immune systems. Things that may bring on one or more fever blister lesions include exposure to ultraviolet light, malnutrition, a recent illness, or a menstrual period. Almost half of the population carries the virus that causes blisters in an inactive state.

Prescription products approved for treatment of fever blisters include penciclovir cream, acyclovir ointment, and valcyclovir. Docosanol cream is an over-the-counter product also approved for improving fever blisters when applied several times daily, at the first signs of symptoms. If exposure to ultraviolet light is a known trigger, applying lipstick or balm with sun screen before the exposure and every 2 hours thereafter may prevent an outbreak. Other over-the-counter protectant products that may help soothe the irritated area include camphor and phenol gel, benzocaine, and benzyl alcohol.

"Write Away" Conference Set For May At GC

Garrett College's fourth annual "Write Away" writer's conference is scheduled for Saturday, May 15, at the Continuing Education and Training Center of the college. As in previous years, the conference will feature four consecutive sessions, beginning at 9 a.m. and concluding by 3:15 p.m. Each session will focus on a particular type of writing and will be led by a professional writer with expertise in that field.

"Write Away provides an opportunity for people who enjoy writing to meet other writers and improve their skills," conference coordinator Joan Crawford explained, adding that previous experience is not necessary to participate in the conference. "Anyone with a thought or an image to express can be a writer," she said. "All you need is a pen and paper or a computer. The seminars will show you effective ways to express those ideas."

Crawford, who has taught literature and writing courses at the college for three decades, will lead "Memoir Writing" from 9 to 10:15 a.m. This seminar is designed to help participants describe unforgettable characters, re-create childhood memories, and narrate personal experiences to leave a record of their world for future generations.

"Writing Publicity," will be led by Peggy Santamaria from 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. Santamaria is a public relations writer for the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Previously, she wrote news and feature articles for The Republican newspaper and for various civic and non-profit organizations. This seminar will present correct and effective ways to write news and feature stories for persons who write publicity for clubs, businesses, schools, and other organizations.

Following a 45-minute break for a brown bag lunch, Dr. Greg Jenkins will lead a "Fiction Writing" seminar from 12:30 to 1:45 p.m. The session will show participants how a writer converts ideas into stories. Jenkins teaches English and Speech courses at Garrett College, and has also taught at Frostburg State University and Potomac State College. The author of several books, Jenkins has also had numerous short stories published.

Ginny Grove, former teacher in the Garrett County schools who is currently an adjunct instructor at Garrett College, will lead the "Writing Poetry" seminar from 2 to 3:15 p.m. This seminar will present various forms of poetry — serious, comical, and absurd — for those who enjoy expressing their thoughts poetically. Grove has had poetry published in literary journals.

The conference fee is $5 for one or two sessions, and $10 for three or four sessions. All Garrett College and high school students will be admitted free. Garrett College students will also receive co-curricular credit for participating.

Interested persons may register for Write Away by calling 301-387-3069.

Thomas Theatre Slates Auditions

Valley Ridge Theatre in Thomas, W.Va., will host auditions for its spring production, The Trial of Goldilocks, this Saturday and Sunday, March 6-7. The auditions will take place from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and from 6 to 8 p.m. on Sunday.

The performance dates for the production will be Friday through Sunday, April 23-25, and Friday and Saturday, April 30 and May 1. There are 19 roles available, which can be played by children 8 or older or adults. Previous acting experience is not required.

Described as a "fairy tale fantasy" by its author, Joseph Robinette, The Trial of Goldilocks is a modern take on an age-old fairy tale.

"Is Goldilocks guilty of breaking and entering? Or did the Three Bears, who were part of a secret gang of woodland thugs, set her up? The play takes place in a courtroom, where lawyers for both sides argue their clients' cases before an aged, hard-of-hearing judge. The jurors jump in to help reenact the story, playing everything from furniture to animals. All the characters speak in rhyming verse, making for a fun, clever play sure to be enjoyed by both children and adults." (From the play description).

Persons interested in auditioning but who are unable to make the announced audition times may call the theatre at 304-463-3365

FSU FACULTY RECITAL SLATED – Frostburg State University music faculty members Ellen Grolman, left, and Mark Gallagher, right, will present a free recital of music for the cello and clarinet at 8 p.m. Friday, March 12, in the Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall. The latest installment in FSU's Faculty Artist Series, the program will include "Duet, Op. 22" by F.A. Kummer, "Ten Images (Gifts in Miniature for Deborah Scherr)" by Luna Pearl Woolf, "Tango for 2" by Ruth Schonthal, "Sonata for Cello and Clarinet" by Phyllis Tate, and "Craftsbury Trio" by Gwyneth Walker. The duo will be accompanied on piano by Betty-Jane Phillips. For more information, persons may call the FSU Department of Music at 301-687-4109.

Broadway Follies Premiering At Preston High

Broadway Follies, an original musical theatre revue, will premiere at Preston High School in Kingwood, W.Va., this Friday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m.

The revue was conceived and written by R.J. Nestor, David Scoville, James R. Spadafore, and Aubrey G. Young. The music was arranged and orchestrated by Nestor and Young. Spadafore will conduct the orchestra.

"More than simply a revue," said Nestor, "Broadway Follies integrates a compelling storyline to tie its musical numbers together." It contains such classics as "Bosom Buddies" from Mame, "Mister Snow" from Carousel, and "One" from A Chorus Line.

The cast is composed of music and theatre students from West Virginia University, as well as two graduates from the WVU College of Creative Arts.

"Creating Broadway Follies has been a complicated process," noted Nestor, who is also a cast member. "[We] first created a working outline and wrote a few scenes to use for the audition process. We saved most of the writing until after the cast was selected, which gave us an interesting perspective on the development of the characters."

"Casting was not easy," added Spadafore. In addition to Nestor, cast members include Ann Kincaid, Christian Concordia, Wendy Gathers, and Joanie Brittingham.

Preston High School is located at 400 Preston Drive and can be reached from Rt. 26, about ¼ mile south of the intersection with Rt. 7. The auditorium will open at 7 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door for $5.

Art Commentary

"Elementary Expression" Gets Good Grades

by Ken Bauer

Last Friday I was listening to smooth jazz while reading a giant book illustrated with colorful collages and sprinkled with words that tell a story about a blue hippopotamus. Where can one do this in Oakland? At the Gallery on Alder Street, of course. A fun and creative show of art by elementary students is currently featured in the Gallery's "Back Room."

Why fun? Because you can see and feel the innocence, freedom, and glee in the movement of children's hands and the concentration on their faces reflected in their paintings and drawings. In the crayon drawing of "The Cat," for example, the big red cat seems to smile with his whole body. Another drawing of overlapping leaf-like shapes delicately outlined by lightly colored, short radiant lines all arranged vertically on a yellow piece of construction paper conveys a gentle and silent sense of motion.

Why creative? Because it appears that the students were introduced to various art principles and designs by their teachers. Then the students were encouraged not to copy, but instead to use those ideas as "spring boards" to inventing and innovating designs of their own imaginations.

The cut-out drawings of Greek urns are just one example of this. The emphasis in these drawings is on pattern, repetition, and rhythm. All of the urn surfaces follow a similar format of patterns at the top, a scene in the middle, and patterns again at the bottom. Some of the patterns depict "classical" abstract shapes and configurations – as the Greeks might have used. And some of the patterns diverge from the past and are more whimsical and subtly inventive in their use of spirals, musical notes, stars, flowers, and fish repeated over and over, with flowers on swirling vines and with variation in each repetition of theme. It is beautiful to see what kids can do when allowed and encouraged to express themselves.

Two collaborative books featured in the exhibit, "William's Great Adventure" (Parts 1&2) by Carolyn Collen-DuBose and her students at Friendsville Elementary are, I believe, a brilliant example of this whole creative process with kids and self-expression. These are picture stories about William, a blue hippopotamus, and where he came from and his adventures on the Nile River in Egypt and on the Youghiogheny River in Garrett County. The attention to detail is inspiring. Everything you see in these books is thoughtfully related to the whole project. Even the covers are carefully designed to be an integral part of the story. If I tell too much, the experience of discovering the details and how they work together to create a unified whole will not be as much fun; you just have to see these books of hand-made paper and colorful felt images for yourself.

There are other works in this show that I would love to tell about. I just picked the ones that brought something to my mind immediately. This show in general reminds me that being creative is not just making some "thing," nor is creativity merely the process of making it. "Elementary Expression" reminds me that we create when we are expressing our true self – that which we truly are. And what are we but loving, creative beings, like the loving creative source from which we come?

The show at the Gallery on Alder Street includes art work by children attending Friendsville, Grantsville, Dennett Road, and Broad Ford elementary schools. The Garrett County Arts Council will host a public reception on Saturday, March 6, from 1 to 3 p.m., and "Elementary Expression" will be on exhibit through March 27. I hope you will visit the Gallery, ask Steve or Guy to put on some smooth jazz (or country or rock – whatever you want), and enjoy this show.

For more information, please call the Gallery at 301-334-6580 or visit the arts council's web site at www.garrettarts.com.

"ELEMENTARY EXPRESSION" is the title of an exhibit currently on display at the Gallery in Oakland. The artists are children from the Friendsville, Grantsville, Dennett Road, and Broad Ford elementary schools. A public reception in their honor will be hosted by the Garrett County Arts Council on Saturday, March 6, from 1 until 3 p.m. The exhibit features drawings, paintings, and collages depicting Grecian urns, pirate ships, cave art, posters promoting reading, and the adventures of a hippopotamus in Garrett County. The cat pictured here was drawn by Haley Lowdermilk, a pre-K student at Friendsville. The cave art is by Lauren Adams, fifth grader from Grantsville, and the reading poster is by Jordyn Livengood, fifth grader from Dennett Road. "Elementary Expression," which coincides with the 43rd annual celebration of National Youth Art Month (March), will be on display through March 27. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. (See guest review of exhibit.)

Celtic Festival To Be Held On St. Patrick's Day

Highland Arts Unlimited will present a Celtic Festival on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Church-McKee Arts Center on the campus of Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va.

Three popular acoustic Celtic groups will perform: Rachel Eddy and Scott Phillips from Morgantown, W.Va., Shanty Irish from the Cumberland area, and Fieldstone from northwest Pennsylvania.

Tickets are available at the door, and are $15 for general admission and $10 for most students. Potomac State students with college ID may attend for free.

Eddy and Phillips have performed extensively in the area at festivals, clubs, and gatherings. Eddy is an accomplished Celtic fiddle player and also performs on tenor banjo, claw hammer banjo, and mandolin. She has joined the teaching staff of the Augusta Heritage Center for the 2004 summer program. Phillips will accompany her on guitar and bodhran.

Shanty Irish is the house band for the annual Cumberland Celtic Festival, playing a mix of Irish pub and rebel tunes. Shanty Irish likes to add a little Irish and local history to their music, said a spokesperson. The band features guitar, fiddle, whistle, bodhran, ullieann pipes, and vocal harmonies.

Fieldstone plays traditional songs, ballads, jigs, and reels from the Celtic lands as well as original numbers featuring the vocals of Bekki Titchner and the instrumental interplay of Paul Fehrenbach and Mark Titchner. The band recently released its third CD of traditional and original music. Fieldstone tours regionally, including performing at the Cumberland Celtic Festival and the Laurel Mt. Music Series in Kingwood, W.Va.

Highland Arts Unlimited is a non-profit volunteer group dedicated to bringing quality music, drama, dance, and visual arts programs to the community of Keyser, and surrounding areas. This is Highland Arts' 31st season.

Programs are funded in part by membership contributions, grants from the West Virginia Commission on the Arts from the West Virginia Division of Culture and History, and the National Endowment for the Arts. Further financial assistance comes from Potomac State College and the Mineral County Board of Education.

For ticket and membership information, persons may call 304-788-1069 or 304-788-1461. Reserved tickets may be obtained by calling 304-788-6821. Plenty of tickets will be available at the door, said the spokesperson.

GCCB DONATES FIRST SGMB UNIFORM — As a demonstration of its support for local student musicians, the Garrett Community Concert Band has donated the first uniform to the Southern Garrett Marching Band, as the Band Boosters organization has ordered new uniforms for the fall marching season. The approximate total cost of the replacement effort is $30,000, and the cost of one uniform is $403, which is the amount donated by the GCC Band. Pictured above from left are: Skip Case, president of the GCC Band; Richard Clever, Southern High School band director; and Tom Woods, school principal. It has been 17 years since the award-winning Southern Band has had new uniforms. The Garrett Community Concert Band, which has a number of local high school and college student members, also sponsors an annual college scholarship, applications for which are available in the guidance offices of Southern and Northern high schools.

GLAF Season

puppets, shadows, and masks. It will be held at Garrett College auditorium. Tickets are $12 for adults and $5 for youth (12 and younger).

Two "Build Your Own Puppet" workshops will be held simultaneously in the afternoon of May 1 at 2 p.m. in the Garrett College Art Gallery for children in grades 3 through 8.

Parents are invited to attend. There is room for 15 participants in each workshop. Cost is $8 for youth grades 3-8, and $10 for adults. The event sponsor for the day's activities is LAOC, with sponsor partner F&M Bank.

GLAF's annual Spring Benefit, "Amazing Grazing IV," will "delight" the supporters of the organization on Saturday, May 22, noted Johnson. The event will be highlighted by a sampling of foods and drink, representing the Triple Crown regions of the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, and the Belmont Stakes.

Music will be provided by Harry Kight and his "Jazz All-Stars." The evening will feature a live and silent auction of items donated by local businesses.

Amazing Grazing IV will be held at Will 'O the Wisp at Deep Creek Lake from 6 to 9:30 pm. Tickets are $40 per person.

Ernie Hawkins, an internationally touring acoustic guitar virtuoso, will take the can Environment: Voices and Choices." The free events for the whole family begin each evening at 7 p.m. with local performers.

At 7:30 p.m., the Maryland Humanities Council will present performances of such historical environmentalists as Henry David Thoreau (July 5), Teddy Roosevelt (July 6), and Rachel Carson (July 7). "Attendees are in for a treat on July 8 with Garrett County's own Meshach Browning, John Garrett, Coal Stories, and more," said Johnson.

Chautauqua is made possible by Garrett College, Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland Humanities Council, and Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, with sponsor partner Heilig Plumbing and Heating.

Aug. 16 through 21 will mark the 4th anniversary of Music on the Mountain, and the rebirth of the "critically acclaimed" Deep Creek Symphony.

"It is almost impossible to describe the nature of this phenomenon, as each consecutive year it has evolved in an explosion of musical activity surpassing its previous year in scope and professional excellence," noted Johnson.

According to music director David Wroe, "Music on the Mountain is one of the finest professional music festivals in the United States of America."

Music on the Mountain is also "about a bringing-together of the community and the Deep Creek Symphony does that in style," said Johnson, with Beethoven's 9th Symphony on Tuesday, Aug. 17.

This festival highlight stage at Garrett College on Saturday, June 19, at 8 p.m.

Hawkins plays and sings in the East Coast Piedmont & Texas steel-string flattop finger-picking traditions. Performances consist of dazzling rags, soulful ballads, gospel, African instrumentals, and anecdotes of blues, according to Johnson. Tickets are $12 for adults and $5 for youth (12 and younger).

Hawkins will teach a 1½ hour blues guitar workshop in the afternoon prior to the concert. The workshop will be held at the Garrett College Art Gallery, beginning at 2 p.m. Cost is $30 for the workshop alone or $40 for workshop and concert.

There is a maximum of 10 participants. Event sponsor for the day's activities is Wisp Resort Hotel and Conference Center, with sponsor partner Judy and Jan Finkel.

The Garrett Community Concert Band will once again hold its free Fourth of July concert. The Sunday celebration will be held under the huge tent on the college lawn, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The setting is "the perfect location to round out the evening with the ideal vantage point to view the community fireworks display immediately following the concert," said Johnson.

The event sponsor is Sincell Publishing Company, with sponsor partner Sandra and Ihor Zakaluzny.

The Independence Day celebration is the kick-off to the Chautauqua Festival, which will be held July 5 to 8 under the same tent on the Garrett College lawn.

The theme for the 2004 Chautauqua is "The Americas," brings Garrett Choral Society and the Greater Uniontown Chorale together for the first time to form a 100-plus chorus in singing Beethoven's famous "Ode to Joy."

On Friday, Aug. 20, the Deep Creek Symphony will team up with the Wisp Resort in an outdoor pops concert titled "Salute to the Silver Screen," closing with fireworks and cannons for the "1812 Overture."

Singing remains a theme of the concert finale on Saturday Aug. 21, with Barber's orchestral song cycle "Knoxville: Summer of 1915."

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival co-presents Music on the Mountain with the Sprenger-Lang Foundation of Washington, D.C. Event sponsors for the weeklong festival are First United Bank and Trust, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Robert and Marcene Huebner, Nancy and Fred Learey, and Will O' the Wisp. Sponsor Partners for Music on the Mountain are Margaret Kaiser and Eric Tribbey, M&T Bank, Doug and Rebecca McClive, and Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival brings back the National Players on Friday, Oct. 1, with Romeo and Juliet.

The community performance will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Garrett College Auditorium. In its 55th year of touring, the National Players has earned a unique name and place in American theatre. It is committed to the development of young theater audiences, and will offer Shakespeare school programs (Sept. 30 and Oct. 1) in addition to this community performance. Tickets are $12 for adults and $5 for youth. GLAF's sponsor partner is Mettiki Coal Company.

Wrapping up the 2004 season will be the United States Marine Band, "The President's Own," on Sunday, Oct. 3, at 2:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of Southern Garrett High School.

The concert is free, but it will require tickets. Tickets are available by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541. There is a limit of four tickets.

MeadWestvaco will co-present this finale.

Daniel O'Connor led the group in a game called Match the Sweethearts. A discussion was held about glasses for the Lions Club. The members also talked about the Teen Leader Weekend and a dance camp that is to be held at Jackson's Mill in March.

Grant Memorial Hospice Offering Volunteer Training

Grant Memorial Hospice will offer volunteer training on March 8, 15, 22, and 29 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. in the conference room of the Rural Health Initiative building, Petersburg. The facility is located at the south end of Dr. Bensenhaver's parking lot at Grant Memorial Hospital along Hospital Drive.

"Volunteers are a vital component of Hospice care," said Joyce McNeill, social worker and Hospice patient services coordinator. "They can be the highlight of the day for the patient and his or her caregiver."

The volunteers have visited with patients and their families, prepared the newsletter for the "Light Up a Life" program, stuffed envelopes to send letters and brochures to area Hospice supporters and physicians, and put together an information booklet.

They have also taken soup or provided a meal for the patient and the family, provided respite to caregivers, played the piano for a bereavement program, prepared bereavement literature and cards, provided support at bereavement gatherings, and assisted with documentation at team and board meetings.

"Attending the training does not obligate you to become a Hospice volunteer. And videos are available for those who may not be able to attend the training," said McNeill.

To learn more about Hospice and becoming a volunteer, persons may call McNeil, June Kuykendall, RN, or Kristi Smith, RN, at Grant Memorial Hospice at 304-257-1026, ext. 550.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER AT MT. GROVE

An all-you-can-eat buckwheat cake and sausage dinner will be served from noon until 5 p.m. on Sunday, March 7, at the Mt. Grove Community Building. Proceeds will benefit the Mt. Grove Volunteer Fire Department for building improvement.

SERVICES CONTINUE

Next week's Union District Lenten service will be held on Wednesday evening, March 10, as Brookside Church of the Brethren plays host to the meeting, and Rev. Glenn Nissly will speak on "The Road Home." The service is at 7:30 p.m.

SCHOOL NEWS

Participants in Preston County Math Field Day from Aurora Elementary were: fourth grade, Samantha Blossom; fifth grade, Lonnie Junkins; and sixth grade, Dylan Radford and Aron Lipscomb. Mr. Mullins took those participants to the Feb. 9 event.

A science fair will be held at the school March 29 and students are submitting their classroom projects this week.

The school spelling bee was held Feb. 13, with Ashley Jarvis, Stacey Kemphfer, Caitlin Norwish, Kristin Stemple, and Kimberly Wotring representing the fifth grade. Sixth grade participants were Melissa Elliott, Aron Lipscomb, Ashley Mauldin, Dylan Radford, and Olivia Sigley. Ashley Mauldin, sixth grade, and Ashley Jarvis, fifth grade, were the winners and will serve as representative and alternate, respectively, to the Regional Spelling Bee on March 18.

MT. LIONS TO MEET

March 18 is set for a spouses regular meeting of the Mountain Lions Club, at the Union Ambulance squad hall. Michelle O'Connor of Aurora will be the guest speaker on "Marketing Volatility – Riding Out Market Ups and Downs."

For this special meeting the Mt. Lions invite nonmembers to attend. Those who would like to attend may make reservations by contacting David Moran, president, at 304-735-6413, or 304-288-9533. Reservations must be made prior to Monday, March 15, and dinners are $5.50 each.

PERSONALS

Older youth from the Maple Spring Church attended the Saturday night showing of "The Passion of the Christ," and report a very emotional experience.

David and Wilma Mae Teets were guests of her sister, Eileen Rembold, in Pittsburgh from Wednesday to Friday, when they returned to their Horse Shoe Run home.

Mrs. Viola Harsh reportedly remains very ill at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Donald Roth has returned to his home at Horse Shoe Run, but is traveling to Morgantown daily for treatment.

A family dinner Saturday evening, Feb. 28, at the home of Leonard, Tammy, Daniel, and Michael Parsons, Horse Shoe Run, celebrated the Feb. 29 birthday of Leonard's mother, Shirley Parsons. Also attending were his father and brother, John and Steve, and Shirley's mother, Bernice Roth Winters.

OBITUARY

William "Bill" Edeburn, 71, Fairmont, died Thursday, Feb. 19, 2004, at the Louis A. Johnson Medical Center in Clarksburg.

He was born January 31, 1933, at Kempton, Md., a son of the late Samuel Herbert Edeburn and Dolly Stemple Edeburn. Also preceding him in death were three sisters, Dorotha Velma Edeburn, Betty Vought, and Marjorie Ingraham; one brother, Eugene Edeburn; two brothers-in-law, Hobart Vought and Bill Ingraham, and three sisters-in-law, Jessie Edeburn, Neva Edeburn, and Ruby Edeburn.

He is survived by his wife of 48 years, Virgie (Lee) Edeburn; three brothers, J.H. Edeburn and wife, Helen, of Dunbar, Pa., Elwood Edeburn of Eglon, and Norman Edeburn of West Milford; two sisters, Joyce (and William) Dixon, Aurora, and Neva (and Blaine) Anderson, Mt. Pleasant, Utah; 24 nieces and nephews and their spouses, and several great-nieces and nephews.

Mr. Edeburn served in the U.S. Army from 1953-55 and was a member of the U.S. Army Reserves for six years. He was a member of the Everlasting Covenant Church in Fairmont.

Services were held at Fairmont with Pastor James Saunders, Rev. Gerald Gray, and Pastor Lane Lee officiating. Interment was in the West Virginia National Cemetery at Pruntytown. Carpenter and Ford Funeral Home of Fairmont was in charge of arrangements. Condolences may be addressed to Mrs. Edeburn at P.O. Box 2202, Fairmont, WV 26555-2202.

Rams Record Playoff Wins Over Boonsboro, Poolesville

Back-to-back outstanding scoring performances by junior Corey Tressler have led to a spot in the 1A West Region semifinals for the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team and Coach Tom Bosley.

The 6-2 forward scored a total of 49 points in two convincing playoff victories, a 58-37 win over visiting Boonsboro on Saturday and a 60-42 drubbing of Poolesville Tuesday evening, also on the Rams' court. He finished with 21 points against Boonsboro and poured in 28 vs. Poolesville.

The wins upped the Rams' overall record to 15-9 and will send them into a regional semifinal against Allegany this evening at Fort Hill High School in Cumberland.

The Rams got off to a sluggish start Saturday evening against Boonsboro, and trailed the Warriors by two, 11-9, at the end of the first quarter. Behind a 10-point effort by sophomore Andrew VanBogelen, Southern out-scored the visitors in the second period by an 18-6 margin to take a 27-17 advantage into the locker room at halftime.

The third quarter was virtually even, ending with the Rams on top by 11, 40-29, and they out-scored the Warriors in the final period by an 18-9 margin to secure the 21-point win.

Eleven of Tressler's points were recorded in the third period.

VanBogelen also reached double figures with 12 points, while Brad Reese pulled down seven rebounds and Cory Bosley dished out seven assists.

The Rams went 16-for-20 at the foul line in the final quarter, as the Warriors were forced to foul.

Leading Boonsboro in scoring were Jay Love and Cory Shea, each with seven points.

Besides Tressler's excellent scoring performance against Poolesville on Tuesday, the Rams produced one of their finest defensive efforts this season.

Tressler and his teammates wasted no time taking control of the game, scoring the first six points and building a 13-4 advantage by the end of the first quarter. Tressler scored 10 of those 13. They stretched their lead to 25-13 by halftime, and maintained a 12-point edge in the third period, which ended with the Rams up 36-24.

The Falcons rallied slightly in the final quarter, as their leading scorer, Gary Ward, recorded 13 of his total of 27 in that frame. But the visitors could get no closer than 40-31 at the 5:55 mark.

Tressler responded with four straight points, followed by a three-pointer by Dewaine Jones to give the Rams an insurmountable 51-34 advantage with just 2:06 left in the game.

Tressler finished with eight field goals, an 11-for-15 effort at the foul line, and eight rebounds. Evan Lantz reached double figures with 10 points, and also grabbed nine boards, while Jones was right behind with nine points. Bosley and Karl Hillen were credited with six and five assists, respectively.

Ward needed just 10 points to set a new Poolesville scoring record, which he accomplished, but Coach Bosley still praised the defensive efforts against Ward, particularly those of Hillen and VanBogelen.

"Ward had to fight hard for every point because of how well Andrew and Karl played him," Bosley said. "They both did a great job."

Ward was the only Falcon who reached double figures, as Vince Riggs with seven points was the second-highest scorer.

The loss ended Poolesville's season at 15-8 overall.

"This was definitely one of the biggest wins we've had in a long time," Bosley concluded.

Allegany, the Rams' opponent in tonight's semifinal, topped Southern in both regular-season meetings, the first by a comfortable 68-50 margin, but the second going to overtime and ending at 65-59.

"This has the makings for an outstanding basketball game," Bosley said, noting that he hoped many fans will accompany the Rams to Fort Hill this evening.

Westmar will meet Clear Spring at 6 p.m. in the other 1A regional semifinal, and the Southern-Allegany game will begin 20 minutes following the completion of the first game.

Matt Redinger, SHS athletic director, said that Southern fans may want to get to the Fort Hill gym as early as possible to secure seats.

The boys' 1A West Region championship game will be played Saturday.

Arsenal Girls Play Strong In Recent Bridgeport Tourn.

Three girls teams from the local Arsenal Soccer youth league turned in some fine performances during a tournament in Bridgeport, W.Va., that took place on Sunday, Feb. 22.

Two teams participated in the U-14 division, winning four of the seven games they played and tying one game. Leading scorers for Arsenal in the U-14 division were Lauren Neville, Kayla Petrella, and Joanna Guy, who scored four goals apiece. Other top scorers were Brittney Scheffel with three goals and Kerry Conroy with two. Morgan Anderson and Kimi Stephens provided strong defense as goalkeepers for the teams.

The U-12 girls also played well, just missing the championship game by dropping a heartbreaker in the semifinals. The Arsenal squad tied its first outing in a 0-0 defensive deadlock, then triumphed in its second game 1-0 behind a Katie Anderson goal. Goalkeeper Vickie Stevens turned in outstanding performances in the net as she recorded the consecutive shutouts.

The U-12 team was ousted from competition in the next round, when they lost the third game and missed the finals on a goal differential tiebreaker giving them a third place finish.

SOARING FOR TWO of his 28 points against Poolesville Tuesday evening in a 1A West Region quarterfinal was Southern High School's Corey Tressler, above, who has scored 49 points in two post-season contests. The 6-2 junior forward led the Rams to a big 60-42 win over Poolesville, and also recorded 21 points Saturday in a 58-37 victory over visiting Boonsboro. Weaving through heavy traffic with the ball in the photo below is Southern's Andrew VanBogelen, who excelled on defense for the Rams against Gary Ward, one of the most prolific scorers in the region. Also in the photo at left is Cory Bosley (#5). The Rams will play again tonight at Fort Hill against Allegany in a West Region semifinal. The winner of that game will meet the winner of the Westmar-Clear Spring contest in the region championship game. Photos by John McEwen.

AYSO Offering Coaching, Safe Haven Courses

The Casselman Valley American Youth Soccer Organization will offer coaching courses on March 6 and 13. Casselman Valley AYSO offers age specific courses for under-6, under-8, under-10, and youth play.

The under-6 and under-8 soccer specific courses will begin at 8:30 a.m. on March 6 and will last 2 to 3 hours. The under-10 course will begin at 1 p.m. and will run until 4:30 p.m. The youth and under-12 course will begin at 11 a.m. on March 13 and last until 4:30 p.m.

AYSO courses are the product of child development specialists as well as soccer experts, according to a spokesperson. They are designed to prepare the coach to teach the game with age-appropriate skills and principles of play.

In addition to the soccer specific courses, Casselman Valley will also offer the Safe Haven course at 8:30 a.m. on March 13. Safe Haven is designed to prepare adults for working with child athletics. The course was created through a project of the National Council for Accreditation of Coaching Education.

Course content includes abuse, dealing with bloodborn disease, risk management, treatment of common injuries, social and psychological aspects of working with children, and the role of athletics in the development of a young person.

This course is not soccer specific and will benefit any person involved with youth sports, the spokesperson said.

All the courses offer certification and are free to Casselman Valley AYSO participants. A small materials fee will be charged to others wishing to take the courses.

All of the courses will be held at the Springs (Pa.) Mennonite Church. For further information, persons may contact Lynn Lais at 301-895-5932 (day) or 301-895-3310 (evenings).

Ram Girls Roll Over Northern, Alco On Way To Region Finals

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball squad cruises into tomorrow night's 7 p.m. West Region 1A championship in Cumberland against Poolesville with two tourney wins under its belt. The Rams romped over Northern Monday, 62-39, and last night rebounded from a sluggish first-half showing last night to flatten Allegany in a 53-36 runaway.

After drawing a first-round bye, SHS hosted Northern, which had downed Williamsport in its opener, and the Rams proved to be inhospitable hosts. Southern jumped out to a 16-7 first quarter lead, and was up 30-12 at the half. The Rams took a 44-27 lead into the final eight minutes.

One of Southern's keys to victory was a balanced offense that placed four players in double figures, as guard Justine Pagenhardt paced the output with 16 points. Sabrina Scheffel hit for 14 points, Becca Flanagan had 13, and Robbin Gregg netted 10. Flanagan hauled down 10 rebounds, and Gregg added five steals and five assists.

Husky senior Lyndsi Butler tallied 20 points to record game-high scoring honors in her final outing for Northern, and junior Jeseca Gibson contributed 13 to the NHS effort.

The going was tough last night against Allegany, which brought a 16-8 record to the semifinal contest at Fort Hill. After moving out to a 14-10 first-quarter lead, the Rams sputtered in the second quarter as Alco went on a 13-8 run to grab a 23-22 halftime lead.

Southern was its own worst enemy during the first half, as the Rams turned the ball over a dozen times, and over a portion of the second quarter brought the ball up the court with six straight possessions that failed to net a point. "Our offense was sputtering," SHS coach Don Stemple said of the poor first half performance. "During the break I told them that defense is where it all starts. That's what won it for us. We were fortunate they only had 23 points in the first half when we played as bad as we did."

Their coach's challenge lit a fire under the Rams, who scored almost immediately with a pair of Gregg foul shots after the second half tip-off to take a 24-23 lead. Then, just 35 seconds into the stanza, the Campers took their last lead of the night with a field goal that put Alco up 25-24.

At that point Southern went to work and didn't look back. Kendra McLaughlin connected on a short jumper, then Gregg followed with a bucket from the baseline to put SHS up 28-25 with 4:55 remaining in the quarter. Over that time frame the Rams went on a 12-3 run, highlighted by a Flanagan bucket that drew a foul, and a successful free-throw for a three-point play. SHS's 18-5 tally over the third stanza, and a stingy Southern defense that forced five Camper turnovers, gave the Rams an insurmountable 40-28 lead as the fourth quarter got under way.

Allegany opened the final stanza with a three-pointer, but SHS shrugged off the basket and embarked on an eight-point run that put the Rams up 48-31 with 4:13 remaining. At one juncture, after Pagenhardt sunk a pair of free throws, Southern was up by 20 points, 53-33.

Game-high scorer Gregg netted 18 points, 11 in the second half, and dished out eight assists, grabbed eight rebounds, and snagged one steal. Flanagan, who sustained a possible broken nose in a second-half collision, contributed 16 points and also hauled down eight rebounds, and Pagenhardt recorded six assists.

The Rams tallied a big 32-20 advantage in the rebounding department.

Erin Wilson scored 15 points and Casey Wilson had 11 for Allegany, which finished the season with a 16-9 record.

Scheffel was noted by the SHS coaching staff and her teammates for outstanding defensive play in the second half that helped shut down the Campers. "Sabrina came to me during the intermission and asked for the opportunity to guard their best player, Erin Wilson," Coach Stemple recalled. "When a player comes to you and steps up with a request like that, you've got to give her the chance, and she did exactly what she said she would do."

Southern travels to Fort Hill again for tomorrow night's region championship against Poolesville. The Falcons gained gained their finals berth by besting Catoctin last night, 52-36, and bring a 20-4 record to bear against the Rams' own 20-4 mark. The showdown will be broadcast live on 92.3 FM The Train.

Dr. Fedde Cards Ace In Florida

Dr. William Fedde, Oakland, celebrated his birthday February 16 by hitting his first-ever hole-in-one at Silverthorn Country Club in Spring Hill, Fla.

Fedde aced the 11th hole, a 179-yard par-3 hole, with a 4-iron. Witnesses playing the same round with him were Oakland natives Sonny Browning and Don Parsons. Also in the foursome was Gus Cook of Cumberland.

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team took a thriller in its homecourt playoff opener Friday with a 34-32 squeaker over Williamsport, but the curtain came down on the Huskies Monday at Southern when the Rams took a 62-39 quarterfinal win in Oakland. (See SHS account for details.)

Northern drew on a balanced performance on both ends of the floor to down the visiting Wildcats Monday, as NHS had two players, junior Lakin Weimer and sophomore Sarah Stewart, score eight points apiece, and two others, Lyndsi Butler and Jeseca Gibson, tally six points each. All of Butler's points came on two three-pointers, and Gibson sank one trey, as the long range shooting helped play a huge part in the outcome of the two-point NHS victory. Stewart and Weimer also crashed the boards for 11 and nine rebounds, respectively.

Williamsport had the game-high scorer by far as Lindsey Plonter hit for 17 points, but the next-highest Wildcat scorer had just four points, and the visitors failed to connect on a single three-point attempt.

NHS fell behind in the early going of the hard-fought battle, and was down 6-4 after one quarter of play. The Huskies trimmed the deficit to one point at the half, 12-11, then methodically embarked on a grinding 13-8 third-quarter run that put them up 24-20 as the final stanza opened. Northern needed every point it could get, as Williamsport put together a 12-10 fourth quarter performance that nearly caught the Huskies in the end.

The season-ending loss at Southern on Monday left Northern with a 6-16 mark for the season, a respectable showing in the face of some huge obstacles for first-year head coach Dave Yoder, who had to make do with an always-small varsity roster that at one point dwindled to just six players. The Huskies lose just one senior, the multi-talented Butler, to graduation this spring.

GC Ice Fishing Contest Winners Are Announced

The winners of the Garrett County Ice Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, for the week ending February 29 are:

Smallmouth bass, 21 in., caught by Garrett Hoffman, Swanton.

Northern pike, 7 lbs. 10 ozs., 30-3/4 in., caught by Don Hershfeld, McHenry.

Yellow perch, 1 lb. 15 ozs., 14 in., caught by John Dees, Swanton.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. Fish must be caught in Garrett County waters and be registered at Deep Creek Outfitters, 1899 Deep Creek Drive, McHenry. The ice fishing contest will continue until the lakes of Garrett County are no longer frozen.

NHS Downs Williamsport Before Falling To Westmar

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball squad took an opening-round win over Williamsport in the 1A West Region Tournament Friday by a 67-62 margin on their home court, but were eliminated from the post-season in an 86-63 quarterfinal loss Monday at Westmar. NHS's season ends at a 10-14 mark.

The Huskies opened up on Williamsport early by jumping out to a 15-7 first quarter lead. The visiting Wildcats rebounded over the second quarter to cut the gap to 27-22, but Northern regained its traction in the third stanza to garner a 47-38 advantage heading into the final eight minutes. The Huskies needed every bit of that lead to come away with the win, because Williamsport put on a strong showing over the fourth quarter with a 24-20 run.

NHS guard Jason Rice garnered game-high scoring honors in his last contest on the Cove court with 20 points, and added seven rebounds. The senior was joined in the double-figure scoring column by a pair of sophomores, as Brent Beachy netted 18 points and Blake Walker contributed 10. Playmaking guard Chris Speicher dished out five assists. Williamsport (12-11) was led by 17 points apiece scored by Will Roney and Phillip Jordan.

Monday's quarterfinal match-up in Lonaconing got off to a rough start for Northern, as NHS was down 23-11 after the first quarter. The host Wildcats went up 39-21 at the half, then pulled away with a 22-15 third-quarter tally that gave them a 61-36 lead as the fourth quarter got under way.

The Huskies were led by Walker's 16-point performance, which featured a perfect 6-for-6 tally from the foul line. Junior Eric Johnson and Beachy recorded 12 points each. Westmar's Jason Lee led all scorers with 29 points, hitting 11 field goals, including five of the six Westmar three-point goals. Kevin Smith scored 18 points for the Wildcats while Dan Duncan scored 17 points and had nine rebounds. Westmar's win upped its mark to 16-4.

The Huskies and head coach Paul Edwards will have a rebuilding year ahead as they lose four seniors, Rice, Frantz, Thomas, and Jones, to graduation. However, the nucleus of a fine squad is already in place, as Northern's underclassmen have shown a great deal of promise, especially over the second half of the season.

Lakers Fall In Region XX Finals To AC, But Still Alive

For the second time this season, the Garrett College men's basketball team met its arch rival, Allegany College of Maryland, and returned home with a loss, as the nationally ranked Trojans topped the Lakers in the Region XX Division I championship game on Sunday, 67-45.

The tournament was held at Hagerstown, where the Lakers defeated the Hagerstown CC Hawks on Saturday, 71-67, to earn a spot in Sunday's final.

The Lakers, who are 26-5 overall, are still not finished with the season, however. Because Region XX of District III is hosting the tournament at Allegany College, the top two teams in the region are invited to participate. Garrett, as the runner-up, will face Region XV champion Monroe from the Bronx, N.Y., this Saturday at 5 p.m. If the Lakers are successful in that matchup, they will play the winner of the Allegany-Clinton (S.C.) Junior College contest on Sunday at 2 p.m. Clinton is the Region X champion.

The Lakers shot the ball well from the floor in Saturday's game against Hagerstown, but had to hang on in the final minutes after enjoying a halftime lead of 42-28. They finished with a 25-for-52 effort in field goals, and were 8-for-20 from three-point range.

The Hawks chipped away at the Lakers' lead in the second half and narrowed the lead to four points on two occasions, 60-56 with about seven minutes to play and 65-61 at the three-minute mark. But they could get no closer.

Darren Stackhouse led three Lakers in double figures, as he finished with 17 points, while Akeem Scott recorded 13 points, six rebounds, and five assists. Antonio Alston contributed 11 points, with nine of them earned on three long-range buckets.

The Hawks, who finished the season with a 17-11 record, were led by Andre Brooks with 17 points and 10 rebounds. Rexson Kenley netted 15 points, Thomas Johnson scored 13, and Terrell Kittelberger contributed 11.

The Hawks managed to hit just 34% of their shots from the floor (21-for-62).

The Lakers finished with a 39-37 edge in rebounds.

In the one and only regular-season meeting between the Lakers and Allegany, Garrett built an impressive lead, only to see it fade in the closing minutes into a 60-54 loss. That victory avenged for the Trojans a 55-52 overtime loss to Garrett in last year's Region XX title game.

Horrendous shooting proved to be the downfall for the Lakers in Sunday's game, as they hit a miserable 12.9% in the first half (4-for-31), missing their first 13 attempts. They made good on only 24.2% for the entire game (15 of 62).

The Trojans held a 28-14 lead at halftime, and the closest the Lakers got in the second half was 13 points (42-29) after a steal and a lay-up by Scott at the 12:54 mark.

A 10-2 run by Allegany in the final five minutes sealed the Lakers' fate.

Scott led the Lakers with 15 points and six rebounds, and was named to the all-tournament team, along with Stackhouse.

Pacing the Trojans was tournament MVP Mike Castro, who recorded 17 points, 16 rebounds, and two blocks. Dwayne Shackleford hit 14 points, and Tyronne Beale finished with 12 points and nine rebounds.

"I believe our guys really let down because they put so much energy into winning the Hagerstown game, and also knew that, win or lose, we would still be in the district playoffs," stated Coach Dennis Gibson. "We played flat, and the energy level displayed by Allegany showed that they didn't have to play a game on Saturday.

"I was very disappointed in how we played, especially because of the great crowd we had down there," he continued. "But we have a great team that has accomplished many, many things this year. And we did it with only one returnee from last year."

Gibson is confident that his team is capable of getting one more shot at Allegany this season, assuming Allegany defeats Clinton in the other semifinal.

"Monroe (23-8) could very well be the toughest team we will have faced all year," he said. "They are very aggressive and have great size and shooting. They went to the national tourney last season.

"But I will be very surprised if our team is not ready to compete on this level. We've been a top 25 team in the country all year long, and we have five sophomores graduating who do not want to make it their last game.

"If we do what we are capable of doing, we can beat Monroe, and then most likely get one more shot at AC," he said.

LAKERS FALL TO TROJANS — The Garrett College men's basketball team is enjoying one of its most successful seasons in school history, having won 26 of 31 games this year, but one of those defeats occurred Sunday afternoon in the finals of the Region XX Division I championships. The Lakers had their poorest shooting effectiveness of the season and fell by a 67-45 margin. Taking a defensive stance for the Lakers in the above photo are #32 Akeem Scott and #30 James Hippolyte. Holding the ball is Allegany's Sterling Ledbetter, and #33 is Winston Robinson. Scott led the Lakers with 15 points and six rebounds. He was named to the all-tournament team. Garrett's season is still not over, as they will enter district play this Saturday against Monroe of New York. If they are victorious, then they will probably get one more shot at Allegany on Sunday. The Lakers nearly upset the nationally ranked Trojans earlier in the season, building a big lead in the game, but then fading in the closing minutes and losing, 60-54. # Top National Talent In McHenry For Women's Region XX Hoops

GC Targets Region Title, NJCAA Bid In Front Of Home Fans

A case of "home sweet home" could be all the Garrett College women's basketball team needs this weekend to boost the Lakers through the Region XX Tournament in McHenry, and into the upcoming "March Madness" of the National Junior College Athletic Association.

Garrett plays host to the Region XX Tournament from start to finish, and the action gets under way tonight with a 7 p.m. contest pitting eighth seed Hagerstown against ninth seed Harford. Friday's slate features the winner of that game going up against top-seed Potomac State College at 1 p.m., and fourth-seed Baltimore City battling fifth-seed CCAC Allegheny at 3 p.m.; the winners of those two games tomorrow will face off in a semifinal battle slated for 5 p.m. Saturday. In the other Friday bracket, second-seed Howard will match up against seventh-seed Cecil at 5 p.m., and third-seed Garrett plays host sixth-seed Prince George's in the 7 p.m. nightcap; the victors in those two contests will square off in Saturday's other semifinal at 7 p.m.

The Region XX championship will be decided in a 2 p.m. finals showdown Sunday, with the winner packing their bags for the National Tournament in Overland Park, Kan., slated for Wednesday through Saturday, March 17-20.

The newly crowned Maryland JUCO champion Lakers have their work cut out for them, as their homecourt Region battle, one of 24 women's Division II regional showdowns underway across the country, boasts some of the best — and most explosive — squads in the NJCAA. Three of the top four squads in team scoring average in the national Division II stats will be shredding the nets this weekend. Falling in line just behind top-scoring Monroe Community College's 90.7 points per game average are Region XX scoring machines Potomac State, at 89.97 ppg; Garrett, at 89.76 ppg; and CCAC-Allegheny, at 84.27 ppg. The Catamounts, currently ranked 13th in the national polls, also have two of the top five individual scoring leaders in the country — Charlisa Cummins in fourth place at 22.27 ppg, and Erika Alt in fifth place at 21.48 ppg. The top average in Division II is a 29.96 mark held by Mott Community College's Delores Hughley.

The tough Region XX tourney field contains each of the teams that handed the Lakers their four season losses against 22 wins. The Lakers lost twice to CCAC Allegheny, 66-63 and 66-61; split with Howard last month, dropping a 74-62 contest before roaring back to take a 72-49 win; and split with Potomac State, rebounding from November's 101-92 loss to down the Catamounts last week in a 103-91 season finale.

Despite that tough competition lying in wait, the Lakers know they have to take things one game at a time. "We really can't look beyond our first game with Prince George's," cautioned Garrett coach Steve Willison. We beat them by 30 points in our first meeting this year, but they've been improving steadily and we only won by 10 points when we faced off in the JUCO Tournament. PG has a lot of big, strong players, and they are exceptionally well-coached by Marvenia Collier, who I have a lot of respect for. She gets the most out of her athletes."

A coaching development on the Lakers' bench could impact on Garrett's game, as Willison's "right hand," assistant coach Thea Garland, will be absent because of a death in the family. Garland drew high praise from Willison for her hard work and success in managing GC's stingy defense and player substitution schemes.

"It's not going to be easy not having Thea there, but we know family has to come first," the Laker skipper said. "She's done a phenomenal job with our subbing, as she's rotating our girls enough to put five to eight players in double scoring figures almost every game, and keep everyone happy and focused on winning. The rotating depth she manages has won a lot of games for us by wearing other teams down.

"That depth, and our speed, will have to key a win over Prince George's and will ultimately decide our tournament hopes," Willison continued. "Our guards are going to have to be faster than ever, on both offense and defense. We've gone away from our press defense over the second half of the year and gotten comfortable running an extended zone defense that starts at midcourt; that's where we like to use our guards' quickness to trap opposition ball handlers. Everyone, including the guards, are going to have to crash the boards too, because we're going to need all the rebounds we can get."

The Garrett coach, who complimented "the largest, loudest crowd I've ever heard," during last week's homecourt upset of nationally ranked Potomac State, said that fans who come out for this weekend's battles

Three Local Grapplers Earn Titles At Regional Tourney

Injuries to three of their top wrestlers led to disappointment for the members of the Southern High School wrestling team at last weekend's 1A/2A West Region Championships, held at Smithsburg High School.

The Rams, coached by Dave Taylor, had to settle for seventh place in the 21-team tournament, while the Northern High squad, under coach Scott Stough, finished 11th. However, the Rams did have two regional champions and two other qualifiers for this weekend's state tournament, while the Huskies will send one champion and a third-place finisher to the state event.

Either having to withdraw from the competition, or losing in early rounds because of injuries were Southern's Justin Ratliff, Jason Weeks, and Chris Bennett.

Ratliff, a freshman who holds a 20-6 record in the 119-pound division, could not compete because of damaged rib cartilage he sustained during practice last week.

Weeks, who amassed a record of 24-6 for his senior season, was weakened by a nagging shoulder injury, faced two state-ranked wrestlers in the 171-pound division, and lost both of those matches.

Bennett, also a senior, saw his high school career end abruptly when, in his first match, he was thrown off the mat by his opponent and dislocated his elbow. He finished the season with a record of 26-3 in the 189- and 215-pound divisions.

Earning regional titles for the Rams were junior Scott Wildesen in the 160-pound division and senior Dan Goulart in the 275-pound class. Also qualifying for the state tournament were freshman Daniel Carr (24-11), who placed fourth in the 125-pound division, and junior Nathan Sines (27-8), who earned a fourth place in the 135-pound division.

Wildesen, who is currently 28-3, dominated his opponents, winning 13-3 in the semi-finals against Jeff Sprecher of Smithsburg and blanking Chuck Crocken of Winters Mill, 8-0, in the title bout. He is ranked #1 in the state for his weight class.

Goulart defeated three strong opponents en route to his regional title, edging Ralph Stambaugh of Francis Scott Key, 3-2, in the semifinals, and getting by Middletown's Andrew Pressnell, 2-1, in the championship round. Goulart will go into the state tournament ranked #2 in Maryland's heavyweight division. His record for this season is 28-5.

Northern's Casey Kamp, a sophomore who holds the best record in Garrett County with a 28-1 mark in the 103-pound division, rolled over his opponents at regionals. He defeated Gleason Sweeney of Walkersville in the semifinals, 11-2, and whipped Tim Crocken of Winter Mills, 9-1, in the title match.

Teammate Eric Garlitz, a senior, also qualified for the state event with a third-place finish in the 130-pound division. He edged Quillen of Smithsburg, 2-1, in the consolation finals.

Winning the team title was South Carroll with a score of 141. Williamsport was second with a score of 115.5, followed by Walkersville, 111.5; Francis Scott Key, 96.5; Middletown, 87; Beall, 80; Southern, 79; Smithsburg, 78; Brunswick, 61; Liberty, 51.5; Northern, 50; Winters Mill, 34; Century, 33.5; Fort Hill, 33; North Hagerstown, 30; South Hagerstown, 25; Catoctin, 17; Boonsboro, 14; Allegany, 9; and Tuscarora and Westmar, 0.

This weekend's 1A/2A Maryland State Tournament will be held at the University of Maryland's Cole Field House in College Park. Preliminary rounds will commence at 2:30 p.m. Friday, and the championship bouts will get under way at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

SMC Wrestlers Perform Well In "Toughest" Event

Twelve members of the Southern Mat Club and one Southern High School wrestler were among 1,000 participants last weekend in what's called the "toughest one-day wrestling tournament in the East."

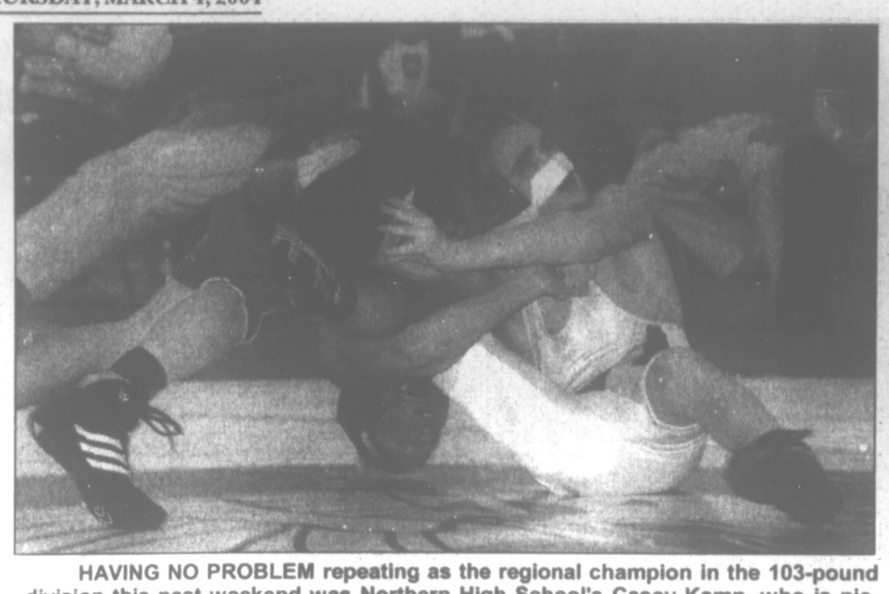
The tournament at Pennsylvania State University included wrestlers from kindergarten through the 12th grade. Seven of the Southern wrestlers placed within the top four in their age and weight categories: Jakob Scheffel finished second; Ryan Bennett, Scott Cooper, and Coy Ozias finished third; and Justin Fitzwater, Lex Ozias, and George Scheffel finished fourth. Some of the wrestlers had as many as 30 competitors in their category. Also wrestling for the Southern Mat Club were Nicholas Brandt, Lee Custer, Ryan Fitzwater, Jesse McComas, Davey Sweitzer, and Jason Warnick.

The Southern Mat Club has attended the State College Wrestling Tournament for about the last five years, and every year the number of participants grows and so does the level of competition.

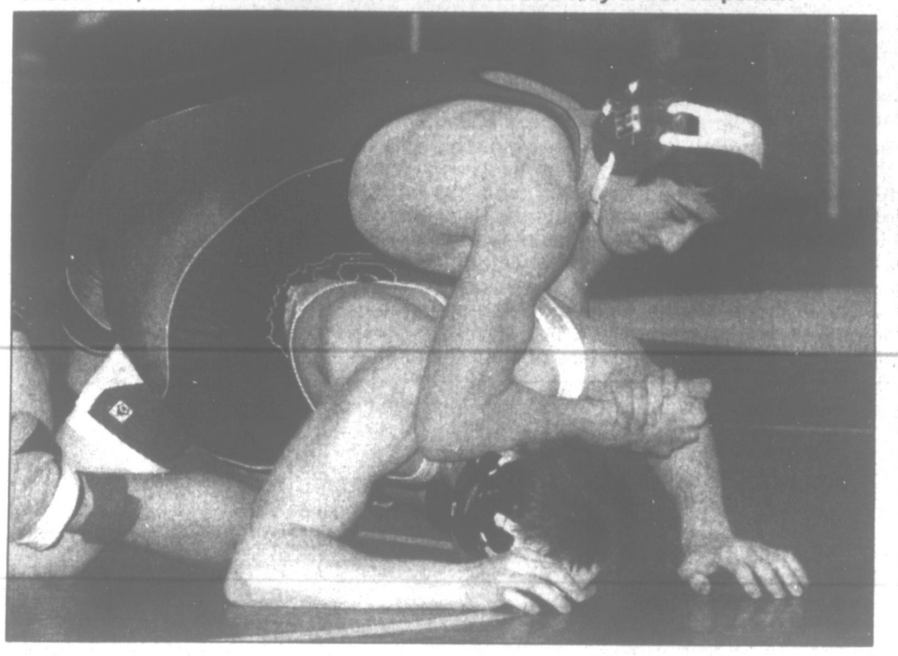
"The caliber of wrestling at this tournament is phenomenal," said Darryl Ozias, who coaches the Southern Mat Club along with George Scheffel and Terry Murphy. "Our kids competed with wrestlers from all over: New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. The fact that seven of our wrestlers earned trophies is a testament to the way they get-after-it in practice, week in and week out."

Also last weekend, three other members of the Southern Mat Club competed in a tournament in Buckhannon, W.Va. Justin Ashby won second place, Travis Newton captured third, and Matthew Shaffer took fourth.

The mat club will end its season this year with a pizza dinner and swim party at the Wisp on Sunday, March 28, at 2 p.m.



HAVING NO PROBLEM repeating as the regional champion in the 103-pound division this past weekend was Northern High School's Casey Kamp, who is pictured above left working toward a lopsided 9-1 win over Tim Crocken of Winters Mill in the title bout. Below, Southern's Scott Wildesen controls Crocken's brother Chuck and goes on to win the championship in the 160-pound division via a 8-0 point win. Wildesen's teammate Dan Goulart, who is pictured on the front page, won the regional title in the heavyweight division. Also qualifying for the state tournament, to be held this weekend at College Park, are Nathan Sines and Daniel Carr of Southern, and Eric Garlitz of Northern. Photos courtesy of Del Carpenter.



READERS SUPPORT LOCAL ATHLETE — Local world-class whitewater paddler Shanna Powell, a member of the U.S. women's whitewater team that recently competed in Australia, received considerable financial support for her trip from readers of The Republican. Nearly two dozen checks were received by Powell, a native of Friendsville, totaling $1,525 from donors who responded to a fundraising campaign conducted by The Republican. Powell is pictured above far right with her teammates (from left) Daren Eddy, Devon Barker, and Ali Wade. Those who donated money to her were: Laura K. Orzechowski Smith, Falls Church, Va.; Dr. Michael and Linda Wolf, Friendsville; Scott and Terry Stough, Friendsville; Len and Kathy Eiswert, Oakland; Jeff and Patty Rice, Frostburg; Katie Zanger, Swanton; the Northern Middle School Student Council; AFSCME Local #1834, Garrett County Roads Workers, Oakland; and 14 others who asked to remain anonymous. Shanna extends her appreciation to all who are supporting her.

Wrestling Club From Bavaria To Compete Here

The Western Maryland Wrestling Club will present an introduction to freestyle and Greco Roman wrestling by providing training and then hosting a dual meet with the ISARIA Wrestling Club from Bavaria on Saturday, April 17.

Practices will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the Northern High School wrestling room on the following dates: March 8, 10, 15, 17, 22, 24, 29, and 31; and April 5, 7, 12, and 14.

In order to participate, one must have a club membership ($5 dues) and hold a valid USA Wrestling card, which can be purchased for $23 at the first practice session.

Those desiring more information may telephone Scott Stough at 301-746-5080.

will see some great hoops action. "Our region has some of the finest women athletes in the country. Most of these teams are big, strong, and very fast, and play an exciting brand of up-tempo basketball. It will be fun to watch, no matter who you are rooting for — of course, however, we hope to see a lot of blue and white in the stands cheering for the hometown team.

"We're out to bring home another trophy for Garrett College, and we need all the help we can get from our fans," concluded Willison.

Lake's Future

like LaVale? Is there a critical mass we can identify in terms of development?"

Clive Graham, ERM's project manager for this study, and Doug Porter, president of the Growth Management Institute, took notes on each speakers' comments. Porter's firm has been secured by ERM to assist in its study, as the second firm "brings a national perspective on growth issues," Graham said. Both consultants commented after the meeting that they were very impressed with the turnout and input.

A number of speakers echoed McCloud's comments, and the resort town of Gatlinburg and its "carnival-like atmosphere" was repeatedly cited as an example of what many of those in attendance did not want the lake to become.

Other speakers raised concerns over increasing traffic, naming Glendale and State Park roads as especially subject to heavy amounts of vehicles that are viewed as dangerous for pedestrian traffic, and possible impediments to the timely response of emergency vehicles such as fire trucks and ambulances.

The capacity of sewage treatment facilities in the face of increased use, especially on busy weekends, also came under scrutiny, with Public Utilities director Mark Tonkavich, speaking from the audience himself, replying that as his department was admittedly playing "catch-up" in certain areas, it was making steady progress in keeping up with development.

Several speakers stressed the need for job creation in the lake vicinity, saying that without business and commercial development to employ area residents, the locale could "get out of balance." While high-tech telecommunications was the most mentioned form of job creation, Mike Cumerlato of Yellowstone Log Homes pointed out that the lake also generates employment for those not skilled in the high-tech field.

"Construction companies in the area are offering good salaries, health benefits, sick leave, and more — all the things people are asking for — and they provide jobs for folks who don't have a college degree," Cumerlato said, adding that special care needs to be taken in considering changes so that blue collar workers already in the workforce don't lose their jobs.

Part-time DCL resident Jennifer Jones, who said she drove 3½ hours from her Northern Virginia home to attend the meeting, stressed that she saw the top priority of the task as "the need for public participation. We need to decide, all of us, do we start with an 'economic development lens' or a 'quality of life lens,'" she said. For her part, Jones commented that based on her experience, she feared the lake area "was turning into a Northern Virginia type of subdivision. When I drive in and see the sign for the 'scenic view' along Route 219, I have to ask myself, 'where is that scenic view now'?"

John Cobb commented that he would like to see a mix of residential properties that provided for retirees, full-time employed residents, weekend residents, and vacationers. "Right now I'm concerned that things are heavy on the rental and weekenders' side as opposed to full-timers," he said. "However, more and more developers seem to be building their own homes and moving their families to the lake, and that's a positive thing, because they'll share in our concerns and in the problem-solving process."

Garrett Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross, while welcoming the discussion, stressed his organization's stance that enforcement of existing regulation is preferable to new restrictions on growth, a concept echoed by Jonathan Kessler in his remarks. "In a recent survey, 82 percent of chamber members responded that they believe no new zoning is needed, and 62 percent disapproved of the new vacation home amendments," said Kessler.

In summarizing his impressions of the evening for the county commissioners the following morning, ERM's Graham said, "It's clear many people feel very passionately about the lake's future, and have a wide range of opinions. The lake attracts a lot of different people for a lot of different reasons, and they have invested their persons as well as their checkbooks in it. What happens to that investment can be impacted by others who invested for differing reasons, so we need to take a comprehensive look at what people want. That's our job.

"One thing is clear," Graham added. "The solutions will be homegrown, because the expertise is already here."

ERM will be making summaries of its ongoing study available to the media, and these will be published in The Republican as they are received. Persons wishing to provide additional comments for the consultant's consideration can do so through the Garrett County Planning Office.

Never Ready to Say Goodbye

We're never ready to say goodbye to someone we hold dear.
If it were up to us, Ralph,
We'd always keep you here.
But God has reasons of His own and plans we do not know,
and these are always for our good,
though it may seem not so.
Our arms are empty, and our hearts are filled with tears and grief, for we who loved each day with you,
now find those days too brief.
Yet if only we could heaven see,
We'd know you're happy there,
and we would never call you back when such great joy you share.
And so we'll trust you to God's great care and know some day, once more,
We'll hold you to our hearts again when we reach heaven's shore.

4-H Club News

NORTH GLADE
by Samantha Gibson
Reporter
January

The North Glade 4-H Club held its January meeting on Friday, Jan. 16, at the 4-H building. There were 14 members present. The meeting was opened by president Mike McConnel, and roll was taken by secretary Emily Lipscomb.

The program for this meeting was about how to give a demonstration, and was given by leader Debbie Friend.

The members discussed how well they did with the community service project in December. Many donations were received on the Warm-Up Tree and canned food boxes that were placed in Anchor Mart. The donations were distributed to local families in the North Glade/Swanton community.

Members were reminded to turn in their record books to Debbie. The newly elected 2004 officers were reminded to attend the officer training at Southern Middle School.

A 4-H ski day was held on Jan. 30, and the Livestock Association tubing and pizza party was held on Feb. 1.

The activity for January was an afternoon of ice skating at the YMCA in Cumberland. The county council meeting was held on Jan. 28. Each member is required to give one demonstration for each project selected for 2004. Members will need to check the monthly newsletter to see what month they are assigned to give a demonstration.

Fund-raising ideas were discussed. Members expressed an interest in purchasing shirts or jackets for club members.

After discussing the old and new business, Debbie Friend gave her presentation on how to give a demonstration, which included a slide show.

Sara Ashby, the club photographer, took photos of the new 2004 officers. The Clover members talked about farm animals and made Valentine boxes.

Snack was provided by the Gibson/McClosky family.

February

The North Glade 4-H Club held its February meeting on Feb. 20 at the Swanton Community Center. There were 11 members present.

President Mike McConnel called the meeting to order, and asked secretary Emily Lipscomb to take roll. The program for this meeting was public speaking, and each member came prepared to give a speech in front of two judges.

The speeches started with junior members Tyler Gilpin, Todd Custer, and Lindsay Lipscomb. The next group of speeches were given by intermediate members Kari Bernard, Lee Custer, Mike McConnel, Derek Gilpin, Samantha Gibson, Emily Lipscomb, Rachel Winegardner, and Rebecca Winegardner. Each speaker received a blue ribbon this year.

Those attending the January ice skating trip to the Cumberland YMCA were Rachel and Rebecca Winegardner, Samantha Gibson, Nicole McClosky, Derek Gilpin, Lee and Todd Custer, Emily Lipscomb, Mike McConnel, parents, and other friends or family members.

The possibility of making homemade soup and rolls to sell for the winter fundraiser was discussed. There were concerns about the best way to do this, and the parents decided that they needed to do some more checking into it.

The club's March activity will be bowling at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland on March 14 at 2 p.m. The cost for members will be $5, and they will bowl two games. Persons interested in participating should call Cheryl Winegardner at 301-387-9887.

After the speeches, snack was handed out by the Winegardner family, and then the judges gave out the ribbons.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, March 19, at 6 p.m. If the weather is good, it will be held at the 4-H building; if not, members will be contacted.

The family in charge of snack and clean-up for the March meeting is the Custer family.

Adorable Adoptables

AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTION from the Garrett County Animal Shelter this week is a female black Lab mix who was brought in as a stray. Also found wandering around near Deep Creek Lake was a large collie mix. "This guy is so friendly and obedient that he must have an owner somewhere," said a Humane Society spokesperson. If the owner does not claim him soon, he will be up for adoption. Those definitely looking for new homes are Jellybean, a young female feline whose owner had to give her up, and a female orange tabby, who was picked up as a stray and purrs a lot. "Last week's gray male cat was adopted, but the two Jack Russell mix dogs are still at the shelter," spokesperson said. "Please give them a home." For more information about adopting these pets, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Air Force Airman Nathan W. Fitzwater has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and military customs and courtesies; performed drill and ceremony marches, and received physical training, rifle marksmanship, field training exercises, and special training in human relations.

Airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Fitzwater is the son of Ralph and Joyce Fitzwater of Oakland. He is a 2003 graduate of Southern Garrett High School.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled for this week at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Further information on the programs, and the park's snowshoe rental concession, can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

•Sat. 3/6: A U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service bird bander will present "A Bird in the Hand," a 45-minute activity that will include the trapping of several wild birds, begins at 10 a.m.; and a one-hour snowshoe hike departs at 1 p.m.

•Sun. 3/7:"Tricky Tracks," a one-hour activity during which participants will learn to identify various animal tracks and make their own casts of tracks, will begin at 10 a.m. ($1 per participant); and a winter scavenger hunt will get under way at 1 p.m.

To My Dearest Robert Elburn Jr.

I love you with all of my heart. You could never imagine the heartache and pain I feel without you to share my life. We can overcome this obstacle because our love is strong. Absence makes the heart grow fonder. Now I see how another life could have the power to take over mine, because you are my best friend. I will always love you Robby! We can get through this if we have each other.

Forever Yours,
June

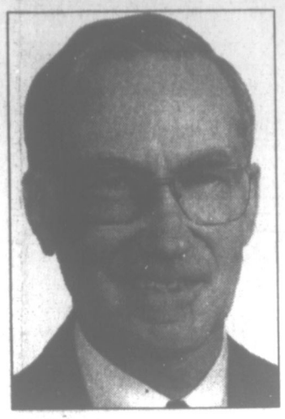
Bishop S. Clifton Ives To Visit St. Paul's UM Church



S. Clifton Ives, resident bishop of the West Virginia Area of the United Methodist Church, will be present at the Sunday worship service at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland on Sunday March 7.

The bishop will speak during the worship service at 9:45 a.m., and will be the guest of the congregation at a luncheon immediately following the service. Later in the afternoon, the Co-operative Parish Laiety will meet with Bishop Ives.

Ives was born in Farmington, Maine. He is a graduate of the University of Maine (B.A. in history), and the Boston University School of Theology, (M.Div., 1963: D.Min, 1983).

Bishop Ives served local churches in Maine from 1961 to 1986, and served as district superintendent from 1986 until 1992. He was a delegate to General and Jurisdictional Conference (1972-92).

At the 1992 Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference, he was elected a bishop and assigned to the West Virginia area. Bishop Ives is presently serving as president of the General Board of Church and Society.

He is married to the former Jane Petherbridge, and they are the parents of three children.

T. Patrick Kerr, pastor of St. Paul's, extends an invitation to the community on Sunday to meet and greet Bishop Ives.

St. Paul's is located on the corner of Fourth and Oak Street in Oakland. The sanctuary is fully handicapped accessible from the Oak Street side.

A nursery will be available for children infant through age 4. Children age 5 through 5th grade will have a children's worship provided.

The United Methodist Women of the church will host and provide the luncheon. For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2391.

Masons To Meet

Oakland Lodge #192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, will meet in regular communication next Tuesday, March 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Paul B. Naylor Temple, 3 S. First Street.

Trestle board items include annual trust fund reports and election of corporation officers. Refreshments will be served following the communication.

All members and visiting Master Masons are welcome to attend.

Lunch, Lenten Services Open To Community

Lenten services open to the entire community are being held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church each Wednesday around noon. A light lunch will be served each Wednesday throughout the season of Lent, followed by a 10-minute Lenten meditation and worship.

Pastors from the community will offer their services in these ecumenical gatherings. Among those scheduled to preach are Rev. Vickie Minnich (on March 10) and Rev. Mark Hickman (on March 31). Other speakers are to be announced. (Rev. Charles Teets spoke at this week's service.)

The lunch is served from 12:05 to 12:30 p.m. each Wednesday, with the meditation to follow from 12:35 to 12:45 p.m. The community is invited to attend. Donations will be appreciated.

For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2391.

CHAMBER RECOGNIZES GC COMMISSIONERS – The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce board of directors, during a recent meeting, adopted a resolution honoring the Garrett County commissioners, collectively and individually, for their "leadership for business" and "the fulfillment of their pledge four years ago to eliminate the personal property tax for businesses." Chairman Bob Browning read the resolution on behalf of the board of directors and the nearly 600 chamber members. He called the commissioners' leadership for business "a realization of the potential for reinvestment of that savings by businesses in new and better paying jobs." Chamber president Charlie Ross presented Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Fred Holliday, and Dave Beard with plaques during a brief ceremony at the courthouse on Tuesday. "This leadership was acknowledged not only as a pledge fulfilled but as a trust," Ross said. "The plaque reads: 'and to entrust the savings to new economic development.' It means that the next move is ours, to take the tax savings and turn it into an investment that will produce an even better quality of life and more economic and personal prosperity." ## Bear Hunt Proposals telephone or in person a local regional Natural Resources Police officer. The hunter may dispatch the bear only during legal shooting hours and by means legal for bear hunting. The hunter must also have written permission from the landowner or land manager before tracking the bear with dogs.

•Bait/Attractants — Hunting with the aid of bait is illegal. Planted fields where normal agricultural planting, harvesting, or post-harvest manipulations are used are not considered bait. The use of smell and sound attractants that provide no substance for bears to consume is allowed (e.g. food smells, scent lures, predator calls).

•Hunter Participation — With the exception of personnel aiding or assisting in the retrieval of a dead bear, only those hunters possessing a bear-hunting permit are allowed to participate in the hunt.

•Contact between Hunting Partners — Each member of a permittee/subpermittee hunting team must maintain constant contact with each other at all times during the hunt.

•Driving — The act of driving bears is permitted by hunters in possession of a bear-hunting permit.

•Bear in a Den — A bear in a den may not be killed or chased from the den.

•Legal Black Bears — Any black bear is considered legal game.

•Hunting Area — The legal hunting area will include all of Garrett County, and that portion of Allegany County that lies west of Evitt's Creek.

•Tag, Field Dressing, & Checking Requirements — A proper field tag must be completed and attached to the bear carcass before moving it from the kill site. The proper field tag will be provided with the bear-hunting permit. All bears must be field dressed at the kill site. Proof of sex must remain attached to the bear. A black bear may be quartered or separated into pieces to aid in retrieval. However, proof of sex must remain attached to at least one hindquarter and the head and hide must remain attached to each other until the animal has been checked in at a checking station. All harvested bears must be taken to a designated checking station by the permittee/subpermittee hunting team by 8 p.m. of the day the animal was harvested. Hunters shall also bring their hunting licenses and bear-hunting permits to the check station. If it is not feasible to take the bear to the checking station by 8 p.m. on the day of harvest, then the successful hunter must call the appropriate Wildlife and Heritage Service office by 8 p.m. on the day of harvest to report the kill. The successful hunter will then be required to bring the carcass to the checking station on the day following harvest within 24 hours of the kill. At the checking station, hunters will be required to forfeit a premolar from the skull of the bear to the Wildlife and Heritage Service. A possession tag will be provided to a hunter when the bear is checked in at the checking station. This possession tag will serve as proof that the hunter legally acquired the bear and any meat, head, hide, skull, or other parts from the bear. The possession tag must be kept with the meat and any bear parts until they are consumed or disposed of.

•Bear Hunting Permits — Hunting permits will be allotted on a private/public land basis. A portion of the bear-hunting permits issued will be "Private Land Only" permits. Private land is considered to be any property within the bear-hunting area that is not owned or managed by DNR. The remaining portion of the bear-hunting permits will be valid for hunting on either private land or public land (Public land is considered to be any property within the bear-hunting area that is owned or managed by DNR.) Those hunters who hunt bears on private land must have written permission from the landowner prior to hunting on such property.

•Fluorescent Orange — Bear hunters and any personnel aiding in the retrieval of a legally harvested bear must wear fluorescent orange in accordance with general hunting regulations.

•Phone-in Requirement — The Director of the Wildlife and Heritage Service (WHS) possesses the authority to cancel the bear hunt at any time during the bear-hunting season based on seasonal harvest. The permittee will be required to check-in daily after 8:30 p.m. to determine whether or not the hunt will remain open each subsequent day of the bear-hunting season.

•Sale of Bear Parts — No bears or bear parts may be sold.

W.Va. Trio Jailed For Drugs After I-68 Traffic Stop

Three Jefferson County, W.Va., residents were arrested by Maryland State Police troopers just west of Friendsville Sunday night after a quantity of suspected marijuana was found in their vehicle.

Melissa Jean Parsley, 20, and Kara Weschler Conner, 21, both of Martinsburg, and Joshua Adam Dailey, 22, Charles Town, were traveling east on Interstate 68 when their Mercury Tracer was stopped for speeding west of Blooming Rose Road. The 11:56 p.m. stop resulted in a search undertaken by state troopers who had detected the odor of suspected burnt marijuana coming from the car's passenger compartment. The search uncovered a container with 15½ grams of the alleged drug inside, and rolling papers in Conner's purse.

All three were charged with possession of marijuana, and additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and speeding were filed against Conner and Parsley, respectively.

Each of the suspects were later released from the Garrett County Jail on their own recognizance.

PARENTS SOUGHT FOR AFTER-PROM – The Southern High School prom is slated for April 24, and with that event comes the annual after-prom party. Parents are being actively sought to help plan and throw this year's party, which is themed "My Big Fat Greek After-Prom." Pictured are parents Rob and Barb Michael at last year's "South of the Border" party, which was deemed a huge success because of the hard work of many volunteers. The next planning meeting for this year's event will be held on Weds., March 10, at 6:30 p.m. in Lisa Bender's classroom at Southern. Parents are needed to attend the organizing meetings. Those taking part in the planning stages will be given the first opportunity to chose their chaperoning timeslots. For more information, persons may call the school at 301-334-9447.

SMS RAM Notes

by Tabitha Ringer

A literary club was formed this year. The club will be publishing a literary magazine containing poems, short stories, essays, art work, and photographs from sixth, seventh, and eighth grade students. The club will also be submitting "Notes From Southern Middle School" to The Republican newspaper at various times during the school year. The advisors for this club are Ms. Dianne Rice and Mrs. Sara Ramsey.

Joe Bever, an eighth-grade student, has advanced to the state level of the Geography Bee. Joe will represent SMS at the state bee on April 2.

The volleyball team, coached by Mrs. Helen Stephens, played against area teams this year. The team members was very proud that they had uniforms. The team worked hard on improving its skills during the season.

State testing for SMS is in full swing this week. For sixth and seventh graders, testing took place Feb. 25, 26, 27, and March 1. Eighth grade testing was March 1, 3, 4, and 5.

This was the tenth year of Service Club basketball for girls and boys grades 5 through 8. Service Club replaced Tri-County Basketball which was played for many years. The regular season ran from November to February. Paul Pacella is the director of the boys' teams, and Ken Witte is the director of the girls' teams.

GC Set To Host Math, Science Summer Center

The Maryland State Department of Education recently announced the schedule of upcoming Maryland Summer Centers for students who are gifted and talented and are entering grades 3 through 12. These centers will give students the opportunity to work in settings and with resources not available during the regular school year. Garrett College will host the Center for the Integration of Mathematics and Science from June 27 to July 3 for students entering grades 6 through 10.

This center will offer students a "unique opportunity for real-world problem-solving which integrates science, mathematics, and technology," said a spokesperson.

Students will be involved in simulations of catastrophic events developed in conjunction with the Challenger Learning Center in Wheeling, W.Va.

These simulations will be conducted in distance learning classrooms using desktop video conferencing to teach space geometry and statistics. Problem-solving using data from simulated catastrophic events such as volcanic eruptions and hurricanes will be continuous throughout the program.

Technology, including computers and graphic calculators, will utilize image processing techniques to enhance understanding and learning of core concepts.

The students will engage in critical thinking assignments both individually and as part of a group, and they will have the opportunity to help design several of the learning activities.

Brochures and application forms are available from schools and local gifted and talented education coordinators. Information and application forms may also be found on www.marylandpublicschools.org/summercenters.

Applications must be postmarked by Thursday, April 15. Mail completed application to: Nancy J. Priselac Garrett College, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541.

Seniors Selling Southern High Collectibles

The Southern High School senior class is now selling Cat's Meow collectibles of Southern High School. Cat's Meow collectibles are two-dimensional, wooden, miniature handcrafted replicas of significant structures and points of interest across the United States and around the world. Begun in 1982 by Faline Fry Jones, the Ohio-based company produces these collectibles for decorating and capturing memories of places people have visited or lived.

The Cat's Meow of Southern High School will be available in the school book store, which is open during school hours. The piece sells for $19.95, with proceeds benefiting the senior class.

Receives Award

Bill Stoner, a recent McDaniel College (formerly Western Maryland College) graduate, has been awarded the Future Young Professional Award by the Maryland Association for Health, PE, Recreation and Dance. He is currently employed as a motor development specialist in Carroll County Public Schools.

A 1999 graduate of Southern High School, he is the son of Freddie and Joyce Stoner.

MARYLAND SUMMER CENTERS NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS

Maryland Summer Centers offer programs through out the state and during the summer for students gifted in the areas of art, music, dance, theater, technology, and science, or for students with an interest in engineering or law and government. Students may find out more by visiting the following web site: www.marylandpublicschools.org/summercenters. For students who would prefer to call for more information the number is 1-410-767-0821 (ask for Stephanie Zenker, program manager). Students may also stop by the guidance office to look at information we have on the various centers. Scholarship opportunities are available. Applications must be postmarked by April 15. Maryland Summer Centers are sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education.

STUDENTS PLACE NATIONALLY IN NEWS BOWL

Two different News Bowl teams in Dave Bender's classes recently placed among the top 20 in a national current events quiz. Bobbie's Flying Buttresses achieved first place in the state of Maryland and 15th nationally. Joe's Jivin' Jesuits finished 2nd in Maryland and 19th nationally, and Calvin's Predestined Rams were 3rd in Maryland. The News Bowl Contest is a national current events quiz contest. The Cumberland Times-News donated daily newspapers for students to use as they studied current events. After two months, September and October, the students participated as a team in answering 50 current events questions. The national quiz was taken over the internet on a specified date.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND HOLDS YOUNG SCHOLARS PROGRAM

The University of Maryland will hold a Young Scholars Program for rising juniors and seniors from July 11 to 31. Students can experience campus life and earn three college credits in a course of their choosing. There is a tuition fee and a residence hall fee if they want to stay on campus. Students can learn more about the program and apply online or download an application by visiting www.summer.umd.edu/youngscholars or by calling 1-877-989-SPOC.

USA FUNDS ACCESS TO EDUCATION SCHOLARSHIPS

Postmark deadline is March 15. Seniors planning to pursue a post-secondary education will be awarded $1,500 scholarships, renewable on an annual basis. Eligible applicants must demonstrate financial need. Approximately 50 percent of the recipients will be a member of an ethnic minority group or have a physical disability. Selection of recipients will be based on financial need, past academic performance, leadership, participation in school and community activities, work experience, career and educational aspirations and goals, and future potential. Additional information and applications can be obtained by logging onto www.usafunds.org.

JACK AND DOROTHY SMOUSE SCHOLARSHIP

Deadline to return application to Guidance is Friday, March 19. A $2,000 scholarship will be awarded to two Southern Garrett High School seniors who are on track to graduate. The seniors must be planning to pursue post secondary education or training in a trade, preferably in a health-care related area. Priority will be given to students who are completing the Allied Health course requirements, but students planning to pursue any career in the health field are encouraged to apply. The application includes an essay to be written by the student describing financial need and including a statement about why he/she is deserving of this award, indicating school and community involvement, volunteer and work experience.

NATIONAL FEDERATION OF INDEPENDENT BUSINESSES (NFIB) FREE ENTERPRISE SCHOLARS AWARD

Postmark deadline is March 31. At least 100 high school seniors nationwide will each receive a $1,000 scholarship. Selection criteria include: nomination by a member of NFIB (call 1-800-634-2669 for assistance in locating a NFIB member), rank in the top 25% of graduating class, and have above-average class rank, GPA and SAT/ACT scores. Applications can be downloaded from www.nfib.com/education. A limited number of applications are available in guidance.

GARRETT COMMUNITY CONCERT BAND SCHOLARSHIP

Deadline is April 30. The Garrett Community Concert Band will award a $500 scholarship to a high school senior who plans to attend an accredited college for fall 2004 and who plans to continue participation in instrumental music or to pursue a degree in music. Auditions are not required. Students do not have to plan to pursue a degree in music.

EDUCATIONAL COMMUNICATIONS SCHOLARSHIP FOUNDATION

Deadline is May 15. A minimum of 200 awards, $1,000 each, will be distributed to students based on GPA and SAT/ACT scores. Also considered will be involvement in activities and financial need.

ANGIE M. HOUTZ MEMORIAL FUND

Deadline is June 1. Given in memory of Angie Houtz, a Naval anaylst, killed in the Sept. 11, 2001 terrorist attack at the Pentagon. The $1,000 scholarship will be given to a student who plans to attend a Maryland two- or four-year public college. Eligible candidates must have at least a 3.0 GPA. Selection will be based on academic achievements and community service. Interested seniors need to download the application at www.angiemhoutzmemorialfund.com or angiefund@yahoo.com.

MARYLAND ASSOCIATION OF PRIVATE CAREER SCHOOLS SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Deadline is March 31. Scholarships of varying amounts are available to students interested in attending a private career school in Maryland. Scholarships are available for the Diesel Institute of America, International Beauty School, cosmetology programs, schools of massage, broadcasting programs, medical assistant programs, and computer and automotive technology programs. Applicants must complete an application and include their high school transcript, two letters of recommendation, and a letter of eligibility for their career school of choice.

MARYLAND FARM BUREAU SCHOLARSHIPS

Deadline is April 1. The Maryland Farm Bureau will offer 10 $1,000 scholarships. Applicants must be high school seniors starting college in the fall of 2004 or be full-time students at any community college or four-year institution. Applicants or their parents/guardians must be members of the Maryland Farm Bureau. Seven of the scholarships will be offered to agricultural curriculum majors, and three scholarships will be offered to non-agricultural or agricultural curriculum majors. ## SHS School Improvement Meeting Set Southern High School's 2003-04 School Improvement Team will hold its monthly meeting on Monday, March 8, at 3:30 p.m., in the media center.

Team members work to create and implement goals and strategies for the school, according to Tom Woods, principal.

Coordinator Of Hickory Attends NASA Workshop

Bruce Taliaferro, coordinator of the Hickory Environmental Education Center, attended a History of Winter workshop at Lake Placid, N.Y., during the week of Feb. 15-21. Teachers from schools designated as NASA Explorer Schools attended the event, which was the fourth annual.

The 30 participants collected ice cores from three area lakes for analysis of their crystalline structure. Snow pits, called "hasty pits," were dug to expose snowfall layers and to identify the types of crystals at each layer.

Taliaferro and his colleagues built snow shelters and slept outside in –18°F temperatures. One afternoon was spent climbing a 50-foot-high ice cliff, he noted.

"Although our area is not as extreme as Lake Placid, we have enough snow and cold temperatures to make applying the ice and snow protocols learned at the workshop feasible here," Taliaferro said. "I completed a snow density/ice crystal formation lesson on Monday with 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students from Swan Meadow using equipment given to me by NASA. The lesson was well received and I intend to continue with it as long as the weather allows."

Additional information about NASA's History of Winter program may be found at www.blueice-online.org.

Lula P. Weeks
(July 30, 1937 to April 9, 2000)

I am not so far from you
Just a little way behind
Past the cares and past the pain
Far past my earthly bonds.

When you feel you miss us most
As years go drifting by
Each memory will prove to you
That our love will never die.

For memories are but a touch
From the father's gentle hand
To heal your pain and mend your hearts
To help you understand.

That while I left you far too soon
I did not leave alone
For the Father sent His angels
To gently take us home.

Take comfort when you think of us
Keep our love alive in your hearts
And with the warmth of each memory
We will never be apart.

Michael Waltrip is making a name for himself in racing

By ALAN TAYS
Cox News Service

In NASCAR, there's no escaping a famous name. When Michael Waltrip lived with Kyle Petty back in the '80s, "We'd go sign autographs and nobody would ever ask how I was doing or how he was doing," Petty recalls. "They'd always ask him how his brother was and ask me how my father was. We used to just laugh about it because it was like nobody paid attention to us."

Of course, Kyle Petty is Richard's son. Michael Waltrip is Darrell's brother.

That was then, when the name "Waltrip" meant "Ol' D.W.," a controversial three-time Winston Cup champion and thorn in the side of Dale Earnhardt.

This is now, when the name "Waltrip" means Michael, a non-controversial two-time Daytona 500 champion and former protégé and close friend of Dale Earnhardt.

Sixteen years and two months separate Darrell and Michael Waltrip.

"Even though we're brothers, we're total different generations," says Darrell, 57, now a commentator on Fox's NASCAR broadcasts.

When Darrell drove in his first Winston Cup race in 1972, Michael, now 40, was 9.

When Darrell won his first Winston Cup championship in 1981, Michael was 18, just beginning to drive stock cars.

When Darrell won his third and last Winston Cup championship in 1985, Michael was 22. Their careers intersected that May at Charlotte Motor Speedway in the Coca-Cola World 600, when Darrell won and Michael, making his first Winston Cup start, finished 28th.

"I didn't help him a lot," Darrell Waltrip says. "That's how come he ended up living with the Pettys and that's how come he ended up driving for Earnhardt. It was almost like he said 'Look, if those guys are not your friends, I'll make them mine.' Just to kind of thumb his nose at me, I think."

Dale Earnhardt didn't hold his feud with Darrell Waltrip against Michael. Even before they were married in 1993, Michael and Buffy Waltrip were close to Earnhardt and his wife, Teresa, who often invited the pair to join them on their boat in the Bahamas during off weeks.

It was during one of those retreats that Michael brokered an official end to the Earnhardt-Darrell Waltrip feud.

In 1998 Dale Earnhardt Inc. fielded the No. 1 Pennzoil Chevy driven by Steve Park. But in a crash during practice at Atlanta in March, Park sustained injuries that would sideline him for several months.

Meanwhile, Darrell Waltrip had lost sponsorship for his No. 17 Chevy. He wanted to sell his team, but he didn't want to quit driving.

Waltrip didn't know what he was going to do until he got a call from Michael in the Bahamas. If Earnhardt asked him to take over the seat while Park recuperated, would he do it?

Waltrip agreed and wound up making 13 starts for DEI.

Earnhardt hired Michael Waltrip to drive a third DEI Chevy in 2001 and it took Waltrip just one race in a DEI car to justify Earnhardt's faith in him.

With Dale Earnhardt Jr. on his bumper, he won the 2001 Daytona 500. But as Waltrip and the rest of the world would shortly learn, Earnhardt was dead. His No. 3 Chevy had slammed into the outside wall in Turn 4.

"He wasn't just my owner. He was my friend," Waltrip said.

Waltrip's second Daytona 500 victory in 2003 was far less dramatic than his first. He was in the lead when rain stopped the race after 109 of 200 scheduled laps.

Now, he has his sights on bigger game — a season championship. He feels the team's 15th-place finish in points last year is deceiving.

"We were top five at Phoenix. We won Talladega. We had a great car at Rockingham and broke. We had a great car at Homestead but blew a tire. So the performance is there."

Which driver, he is asked, would he pick as the favorite for the title?

"I would pick me," he says.

MICHAEL WALTRIP; No. 15

- Primary sponsor: NAPA
- Owner: Teresa Earnhardt
- Crew chief: Richard Labbe
- 2003: He won the Daytona 500, won at Talladega in September and stayed in the hunt for much of the season before a late slump dropped him to 15th.
- 2004: He finished 38th at Daytona and 33rd at Rockingham and is 39th in the points standings.
- Forecast: Waltrip should continue the improvement he has shown since joining the Earnhardt team.

NASCAR NOTEBOOK

Humpy: All-star event should stay in Charlotte

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Atlanta

There are signs that the location of NASCAR's all-star race, formerly known as The Winston, could change.

When Winston sponsored the circuit, Lowe's Motor Speedway in Charlotte was the logical site for the race because it was close to Winston's headquarters in Winston-Salem, N.C.

But Nextel's corporate offices are in Reston, Va., where the closest track is Richmond International Raceway.

Officials at NASCAR and the Richmond track have said that Richmond would be an ideal host for the race.

But Lowe's Motor Speedway President H.A. "Humpy" Wheeler, who has hosted the all-star race every year but one since its inception, said the race should stay in Charlotte.

"No other all-star event in professional sports has produced the drama and excitement this event has for nearly two decades," Wheeler said. "Serving as the home venue for this event, we have worked hard to build equity and make the NASCAR Nextel All-Star Challenge a real fan favorite."

Battle cry: 'Field filler'

ARCA regular Andy Belmont was among the non-Nextel Cup regulars who attempted to earn a starting spot in the Subway 400 at North Carolina Speedway, but he doesn't consider himself a "field filler."

"When our guys read that we were field fillers in the local papers, it did me a favor," Belmont said. "Knute Rockne or the Gipper couldn't have made a more motivational comment. We may always be in the class of have-nots, but you can be certain that we will work harder than ever to improve where we are."

Belmont crashed during practice and did not qualify. And he said he didn't get a call from NASCAR or get paid to show up, as some have speculated.

"There are lots of racers just like me all over this country that would give their grandmother's eye teeth just to race at the Cup level," he said.

"Restrictor plate"

An aluminum plate with four holes that is placed between the base of the carburetor and the engine intake manifold. The plate reduces the flow of air and fuel into the combustion chamber, decreasing horsepower and speed.

LOOK AHEAD

March 7 — UAW-DaimlerChrysler 400, Las Vegas Motor Speedway
March 14 — Golden Corral 500, Atlanta Motor Speedway
March 21 — Carolina Dodge Dealers 400, Darlington Raceway
March 28 — Food City 500, Bristol Motor Speedway
April 4 — Samsung/Radio Shack 500, Texas Motor Speedway

Edwards thrilled as 'heir apparent' to Martin

A major changing of the Nextel Cup guard is expected to occur in three years when Craftsman Truck Series driver Carl Edwards takes over the No. 6 Ford driven in the Cup series by Mark Martin.

In the postrace interviews after Edwards' victory in the Dodge Dealers 250 at Daytona International Speedway, team owner Jack Roush said Edwards was, "the heir apparent to the No. 6 car after [Martin] retires."

Roush, who also owns the No. 6 driven by Martin, said his young truck driver would spend this season and two more in either trucks or the Busch Series before moving to the Cup level and replacing Martin, who likely would retire at that point.

Edwards seemed pleased to hear Roush talking publicly about the plans.

"It's an honor, and it motivates me to work harder every day to be the best driver I can be," he said. "The emotional part of me just can't believe it. It gives me chills." — Rick Minter

Former driver drowns

Four-time NASCAR Winston West Series champion Roy Smith drowned last week when a commercial fishing trawler sank off northern Vancouver Island.

Smith, 59, was a crew member of the 80-foot Hope Bay, which foundered in heavy seas about 60 miles north of Vancouver Island in Queen Charlotte Sound, said Dennis Kimoto of the Rescue Coordination Center in Victoria.

Smith competed in the Daytona 500 three times and was inducted into the Canadian Motorsport Hall of Fame in 2002. His best finish at Daytona was 10th in 1982.

Track in Washington?

State lawmakers in Washington are working to clear the way for construction of an 80,000-seat track aimed at attracting NASCAR events.

International Speedway Corp. is scouting 500- to 1,000-acre sites in Washington and Oregon for a $200 million-plus facility to stage NASCAR races.

INSIDE TALK

Sales of Waltrip's book another gauge of sport's popularity

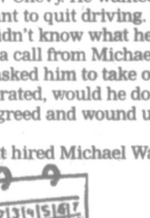
By MIKE TIERNEY
Cox News Service

An impressive body of evidence buttresses NASCAR's claim as the No. 2 sport on television.

The latest example can be found in the unlikeliest of places — the Books section of The New York Times on Feb. 29. The new autobiography of driver-turned-announcer Darrell Waltrip, "D.W.: A Lifetime Going Around in Circles," cracked the list for hardcover nonfiction at 15th.



"Are there words in it, or just pictures?" Fox Sports chairman David Hill kidded D.W. the other day.

This picture could not be clearer: The stock for stock-car racing remains bullish.

WORD!

"I'd like to see them maybe run the race during the spring or summer months because the weather usually is not great when we come here in February."

JAMIE McMURRAY (at right)

Commenting on speculation that North Carolina Speedway might lose its Nextel Cup race in the wake of poor attendance at the Subway 400. McMurray was the winner of the track's Busch race Feb. 21.

Kim Gillum has joined the staff of the Deep Creek branch of Long & Foster Realtors as a sales associate, according to branch manager John Macy.

A real estate professional since 2000, Gillum was a top lister/producer with Century 21 Potomac West in Cumberland. She was among the company's top producers with 40 closed transactions and over $2,500,000 in total sales revenue in 2003.

Gillum has earned her GRI designation, and was named the 2001 Historic Highlands Rookie of the Year based on the highest number of closed transactions. She was also noted as the 2003 Historic Highlands Board Rookie Realtor of the Year, as well as a HHAR Million Dollar Top Producer for 2001, 2002, and 2003.

May "Mini-Mester" Slated For Adults By Garrett College

A new concept in adult education—a three-day May Mini-Mester—will be offered by the Center for Lifelong Learning at Garrett College Monday through Wednesday, May 17-19, in the Continuing Education Center.

The mini-mester is designed to give active adults opportunities to "broaden their horizons" through learning experiences that develop new interests and skills, according to program coordinator Patty Kelley. "We want to give adults a taste of college that will encourage them to keep on learning," she said. "This format of short courses will also let us see what people are interested in so we can plan for future offerings."

The mini-mester will offer a variety of 12 short courses, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each of three days. Courses offered in the mornings will meet all three days, while afternoon courses will meet one day only. Three courses are scheduled in each of two morning periods, from 9 to 10:45 a.m., and from 11 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Students will choose one course in each of these periods.

Morning courses meeting from 9 to 10:45 a.m. each day are: Accessing the Internet, taught by James Wood; The Genius of Johannes Vermeer, taught by Jon Boone; and The Civil War in Maryland and Garrett County, taught by Larry Cosner.

Courses scheduled from 11 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. each day are: The Lewis and Clark Expedition, taught by Paul Shogren; Basics of Digital Photography, taught by James Bower; and Introduction to Appalachian Music, taught by Patty Looman.

Following a lunch break, two afternoon courses are scheduled each day, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Students will be able to choose one course each afternoon. On Monday, Joan Crawford will present an audio visual program, The Four Seasons of Robert Frost, and Rob Corley will instruct How to Spot and Avoid Scams. On Tuesday, Dana Shimrock will teach Navigating the Library Maze, and Ron Boyer and Liz Mc Dowell will teach Alien Invasion (Bugs). On Wednesday, Gus Johnson will teach Skies Over Garrett, and Al Feldstein will present a slide show giving a Postcard History of Garrett County and an Overview of North Branch Coal Towns.

Courses in the mini-mester have been selected to appeal to a variety of adult interests, explained Kelley, who added she expects adults with diverse educational backgrounds to participate. "This is the first time we have scheduled a group of courses in a short time period," Kelley stated. "Other community colleges have offered similar short programs that have been very successful. Many people who retire are very active as volunteers and still have a desire to learn. We think the mini-mester format will appeal to them."

Kelley has coordinated planning for the mini-mester, meeting monthly with a group of community residents interested in providing educational opportunities for active adults in the Garrett County area. Members of this group are Adina Brode, Ronnie Padmos, John Grant, Ivan Rowe, Ruth DiPaolo, Charles Strauss, Jack Turney, and Joan Crawford.

Members of the advisory committee who have been meeting with Kelly to plan the mini-mester are Adina Brode, Ronnie Padmos, Ruth DiPaolo, Jack Turney, Charles Strauss, Joan Crawford, and Ivan Rowe. Persons who enroll will receive a blue card that will entitle them to attend campus activities and to use the college library free of charge. Activities will include a pass to all Laker home basketball games, other athletic events, and many co-curricular programs in the academic year 2004-05.

Brochures containing information about courses and instructors, costs, and registration forms will be available at the college and at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. Preregistration is recommended. Further information may be obtained by calling the Continuing Education Office at 301-387-3069.

TEAMING UP FOR THE TROOPS – Proctor Kildow American Legion Post #71 in Oakland joined forces with Wal-Mart recently to provide assistance to wounded soldiers who have returned from Iraq and Afghanistan. Post #71 raised $1,000 with a chicken barbeque benefit, and the Oakland store matched that amount. The funds were used to purchase personal care items for returning soldiers hospitalized at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Bethesda. "Those brave men and women are shipped back as soon as possible, therefore many are without any personal care items and effects during their hospital stay," explained Legion member Tom Bittinger, noting that the American Red Cross will ensure the items get to those recuperating soldiers who need them the most. Pictured are Legion member and store employee Carl Rebele, left, and Bittinger.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Daniel J. Gallagher, son of Lori J. Gallagher of Accident, recently graduated from the U.S. Coast Guard Recruit Training Center in Cape May, N.J.

During the eight-week training program, Gallagher completed a vigorous training curriculum including classroom academics and practical instruction on water safety and survival, military customs and courtesies, seamanship skills, first aid, fire fighting, and marksmanship.

Gallagher is a 2003 graduate of Northern High School.

Navy Ensign James M. Fletcher, son of Maria V. and Robert L. Fletcher of Kitzmiller, was recently commissioned to his current rank after completing Avlation Officer Candidate School at the Naval Aviation Schools Command, Pensacola, Fla.

At the school, Fletcher received intensive training in naval warfare, seamanship, navigation, engineering, naval leadership, naval history, military indoctrination, and physical fitness.

Straightening out the hunks on 'Amy'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Adrian Pasdar

Q: Please tell us about Tim Omundson, who plays District Attorney David McClaren, Amy's new love interest on "Judging Amy." He is really special! –Barbara Ormonde, Ontario, Calif.

A: And a totally different actor! Tim Omundson, whom some readers find a catch in his own right, plays Maxine's boss, Sean Potter, on "Amy."

That's Adrian Pasdar, previously of "Mysterious Ways" and the cult series "Profit," as David McClaren. His complete bio has appeared in this column many times before, so suffice it to say that the handsome Pasdar, a 36-year-old Massachusetts native, is married to Dixie Chick Natalie Maines, with whom he has a son, Jackson Slade Pasdar, about to turn 3.

Q: We loved the rendition of "My Little Corner of the World" sung on the Friday, Feb. 6, wedding episode of NBC's "Ed." Who performed it? –Grampa Coyote and Grammy Linda via e-mail.

A: The Hoboken, N.J.-based trio Yo La Tengo performed the song. You'll find it on their compact disc called "I Can Hear the Heart Beating as One."

By the way, NBC, as always, seems to be going to absurd lengths to keep its options open. Even as its own promo spots were announcing "the final episode of 'Ed,' " the network still refused to confirm whether it was canceling the ratings-challenged show.

Q: I am glad to see "NYPD Blue" back on ABC's schedule, but honestly, is the network trying to kill the show, yanking it off the air all those weeks? –Helen in Chicago.

A: While "Blue" still commands respectable ratings whenever ABC runs one of the season's 22 new episodes, the show tanks when a rerun airs. To avoid that, ABC simply pulls the show for a couple of months each season to test another series, then returns "Blue" to the lineup for an unbroken string of new episodes to close out the season.

As for the future of the show, ABC recently announced it has ordered 22 more episodes for the 2004-05 TV season. As it now stands, that season is scheduled to be the show's swan song, but the network always could reverse that decision if they decide the show is still performing strongly.

Q: While watching the 1958 movie "House on Haunted Hill," I spotted an actress named Julie Mitchum, who bore a passing resemblance to Robert Mitchum. Are the two related? My mother says no. –Marc Clark via e-mail.

A: Actress Julie Mitchum, who died at age 88 in February 2003 of complications from Alzheimer's disease, was indeed the sister of Robert Mitchum.

"Have I Forgotten Anything?"

"Well, I think I am ready to head out the door now. I had better check and see if I have forgotten anything. Let's see...here are my keys, my credit cards, my laptop, my cell phone, that new pager I'm supposed to try. Is there anything else? Goodness, I nearly forgot the most important item...my Bible!"

In our busy world, it is difficult, if not impossible, to remember everything. Our brains are usually in overload mode and just simply short circuit! That is why we must keep the most important things...those that we cannot do without... first and foremost in our consciousness.

We must remember God first, for all of the success in the world cannot bring you happiness without God's peace within you. Mark 8:36 points out, "For what does it profit a man to gain the whole world and forfeit his life?"

Won't you carry God with you? Worship Him each week and learn about the important place your Heavenly Father occupies in your life. You will be glad that you didn't forget God.

A Report Card of Life

In order to help children while in school, parents will often tell them to work hard and do their best to help prepare them for their future. In addition, the students receive report cards on scheduled days to document their progress in the various classes in which they participate. Adequate studying and preparation for tests is essential for learning, gives the child more confidence and is associated with less anxiety and fear each time these report cards are issued. Similarly, our walk through life is preparation for our final report card, when someday we will have to meet our Heavenly Father. Each day of our lives, we are given tests that can help make us better individuals. Although we do not receive ongoing reports on the conduct of our lives, we should have a strong sense that we are doing exactly what God wants us to do. Are we being compassionate and kind to others? Are we forgiving and generous with our loved ones and friends? Do we reflect a good example to our children and coworkers? Do we try to follow God's laws and attend our church or synagogue on a regular basis? By being a better person today we will have less anxiety and fear of the day when we are eventually called to give an account of our lives. And someday, we may hear the Lord tell us, "you have been a good and faithful servant, come into my house and share my happiness.

"Trust in the Lord, and do good ...

Vitamin A's Effect On Various Cancers

Everybody knows that taking vitamins is good for you. New research is showing that adding vitamin A to your diet can have an additional protective effect for people with a history of skin cancer. In one study of almost 2,300 individuals, taking an oral dose of 25,000 units of vitamin A daily for 5 years significantly reduced the incidence of squamous cell carcinomas (skin cancer) in those with a moderate risk of such cancer. In another 6-month study, a vitamin A derivative called tretinoin prevented almost one-third of the precancerous lesions that were expected. Ongoing research is looking at the use of vitamin A for treating skin cancer lesions through stimulation of the maturing tumor cells so that they develop into "normal" cells instead.

Another study conducted at the University of Texas concluded that in people who have undergone surgery, radiation therapy, or both for head and neck cancer, high doses of vitamin A retinoids can reverse or suppress precancerous lesions in the mouth. Some studies have also suggested a link between vitamin A consumption and a reduced risk of breast cancer in certain premenopausal women.

ACM Awards Scholarship To Local Resident

Loretta L. (Lori) DeWitt, Mtn. Lake Park, recently received the Mildred M. Ott Memorial Scholarship for the 2003-04 academic year at Allegany College of Maryland, the ACM Foundation recently announced.

She is pursuing an associate degree in nursing toward her goal of becoming a surgical nurse. DeWitt took prerequisite courses at Garrett College before enrolling at ACM.

Her health-care interest stems from eight years as a rehabilitation technician, certified nursing assistant, and geriatric nurse's aid. Most of her work was done at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

She is the daughter of Joe DeWitt Jr., Oakland, and the mother of a son named Jeremy.

Program Helping Businesses With Employee Training

Maryland has recently made available a new program aimed at assisting small business (those with 50 or less employees) and businesses involved in the health care industry with the costs of providing training to existing employees to upgrade their skills.

Through Maryland Business Works, qualified businesses in the state can receive grants to cover up to 50 percent of the cost of training their current workers. The program is administered locally by the Western Maryland Consortium.

Grants of up to $3,000 per employee participating in training are available, with the business providing a dollar-for-dollar match to the grant funds.

"Training is expected to lead to either a job promotion or a wage increase for the trainees once the training is completed," said Jonathan Wynn, Garrett County supervisor, Western Maryland Consortium. The training period cannot exceed six months.

The program can cover costs such as tuition, books and fees for classroom-based training, in-house staff training, or instruction provided by consultants.

Western Maryland businesses that have taken advantage of this opportunity include the Washington County Hospital, the Appalachian Parent Association, and Commlink Systems.

For more information about Maryland Business Works or to apply for training funds through the program, persons may call Wynn at 301-334-8445. Funding for the program is limited, and businesses are encouraged to apply as soon as possible, he noted.

Office XP Class Set At Garrett

A one-session Office XP: Mail Merge crash course is set for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, March 25, at Garrett College's McHenry campus. A one hour lunch break is included.

This course is designed for the experienced Office user. Topics to be covered include merging names and addresses with another document, Mail Merge Wizard and Toolbar, creating form letters and directories in Word, printing labels and envelopes, e-mailing merged messages, utilizing data sources, and merging from Access and Outlook.

For more information or to register, persons may call Kista Wilt of GC's Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3069.

Agency Seeks Volunteers For Snow Removal

The Area Agency on Aging, a department of Garrett County Community Action Committee, is seeking volunteers and/or vendors to either shovel or plow snow for senior citizens in their communities.

"We have had numerous calls from seniors requesting help in removing snow from their sidewalks and or driveways. In some cases, the older person resides at the end of a long road not plowed by the county and is unable to get out," said a agency representative. "Unfortunately, the agency has not had a resource available to assist those individuals. This has been an extremely harsh winter, and all of us have struggled with bitter temperatures and snow removal. It is particularly difficult for older adults who may be suffering from various health conditions."

The agency proposes to develop a list of individuals willing to shovel snow and plow driveways and private roads.

"We would like to recruit not only volunteers, but persons willing to perform the necessary work for reduced fees," said the representative. "Although many seniors are able and willing to pay for the service, others are on fixed incomes and cannot afford a large fee.

"This would be an excellent project for high school students seeking community service hours. The agency would be more than happy to match students with older adults in their communities needing snow shoveled."

Persons interested in volunteering or offering their services for a reduced fee should contact the agency at 301-334-9431, ext. 140.

The agency also encourages residents to assist their elderly neighbors during bad weather.

"This can be as simple as checking to see if they need anything from the store when you are making a trip or offering to shovel their walk after a storm. Simple kindness like this is not forgotten. You just may be rewarded with some homemade cookies," said the representative.

Class Slated On Protecting Kids In Cyberspace

A public awareness seminar titled "Protecting Your Child in Cyberspace", will be presented Friday, March 26, at the Grantsville Outreach Center. The 90-minute session will be offered twice that evening, beginning at 6 and 8 p.m.

"The Internet offers children many opportunities for learning, constructive entertainment, and personal growth," said seminar facilitator Cpl. R. Lantz of the Computer Crimes Unit of the Maryland State Police. "At the same time, parents are concerned about the risks kids face online. The challenge for parents is to educate themselves and their children about how to use the Internet safely."

The class will focus on topics including the positives and perils of the Internet, chat room safety tips, sexual predators, minimizing chances of on-line exploitation, e-mail safety, and numerous safety tips.

There is no charge for the seminar, but registration is required due to limited seating. For more information, or to register, persons may contact Terry Beachy of the Grantsville Outreach Center at 301-895-3368, or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Massage Therapy Class Scheduled

The Massage Therapy professional continuing education curriculum has been slated by Garrett College. The slate includes a communicable disease update and a session in ethics, both of which are required for license renewal in Maryland. Other featured courses include "Ethics of Truth in Massage Therapy Relationships" and "Reiki II."

Many other continuing education opportunities for licensed massage therapists are listed in the already published spring schedule of continuing education offerings. Persons interested in additional information about these offerings, or who would like to be added to a mailing list, may call the Continuing Education and Training Division office at 301-387-3069. Students interested in registering by phone, and paying with a credit card, may do so by calling the CET office.

Cancer Prevention Workshop Slated At Health Dept.

The Garrett County Interagency Cancer Committee is sponsoring a free cancer prevention workshop on Monday, March 22, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the first floor conference room of the Garrett County Health Department, Oakland. Guest speaker will be Dr. Sotiere Savopoulos.

In addition to information on other cancers and cancer screenings, the event will focus on colorectal cancer. Persons who have questions about cancer, what screenings they should have and when, and what services are available to help link them to these screenings are encouraged to attend the workshop.

The event is for both men and women. Refreshments and door prizes will be available. For more information or to register, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7770.

Scout Troop 5004 Celebrates World Thinking Day

A tradition since 1926, Girl Scouts celebrated World Thinking Day recently by thinking of one another with love and friendship. Through this day, girls learn to "think globally and act locally" so that they can increase international understanding by developing and participating in activities that promote cross-cultural awareness right in their own cities, towns or villages.

This year, the girls of multi-level Troop 5004 lived up to the Girl Scout Promise to serve both the global and local communities by putting their global thoughts into action.

The troop celebrated its global community by visiting with recent missionaries to Russia, Don and Carol Moss. The Mosses spent their Christmas and New Year's helping orphans in Russia through the Volunteers in Mission Program sponsored by the United Methodist West Virginia Conference.

The troop in turn had helped the Mosses by making Christmas ornaments and cards for the orphans. The couple brought pictures of their trip, souvenirs, and even a fresh pot of borscht to share with the girls when they returned.

"It was a real eye opener for our girls to see not only another country but also kids their age growing up in a totally different environment," said Elizabeth Huxford, Brownie leader. "We gained a new perspective of a world beyond the girls' own experiences."

One of the troop's community projects this year is providing cookies to the House of Hope and the Friday, April 2, American Red Cross bloodmobile being held at St Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. Through the Girl Scout Gift of Caring Program people can sponsor cookies for the girls' chosen charities.

"It provides a way for those who may not wish to purchase cookies for themselves to still help the troop and in turn help their community," said Huxford. "In the past two years the girls have donated over 300 boxes of cookies to charity through this program."

Those who would like to sponsor boxes can do so at one of the many cookie booths the troop will hold on weekends at Arrowhead and Foodland Fresh.

On World Thinking Day, girls participate in international activities and contribute money to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund for the promotion of Girl Guiding/Girl Scouting around the world.

For younger girls, these activities focus on language, clothing, music, and food from around the world. For older girls, projects address the common interests, needs, concerns, and feelings of other people.

Troops may share stories of visits to other countries, learn about the traditions of people in another country, exchange letters or postcards with pen pals around the world or research differences in the Girl Scout uniform throughout the global sisterhood.

Troop 5004 consists of 27 girls, three leaders – Huxford, Melissa Walch, and Mary Rosser – and many family volunteers.

For information, persons may contact Elizabeth Huxford at ehuxford@gcnet.net.

FSU To Host Six-Week Math/Science Program

High school students interested in math and science and looking for something to do this summer may want to consider the Frostburg State University Upward Bound Regional Math/Science Center.

According to an FSU spokesperson, the goal of the Regional Math/Science Center (RMSC) is to help interested and qualified high school students develop the skills necessary for successful admission into and completion of college programs that will lead to careers in mathematics and science.

For six weeks during the summer, eligible students, at no cost to them, attend a residential program at Frostburg State University. They work to improve their math and science skills while conducting an environmental science research project. The students are exposed to hands-on laboratory and field-based experiences to facilitate learning and inspire career goals.

In addition to the academics, students participate in recreational activities and culturally stimulating field trips that are designed to promote enthusiasm and individual growth. During the school year, the RMSC staff keeps in touch with the students to provide academic support and motivation. Students who are accepted into the program are expected and encouraged to continue in the program until they graduate from high school.

"The Regional Math/Science Center provides an excellent opportunity for students to meet others who share their academic interests, to get a head start on college preparation, and to challenge themselves to excel," the spokesperson said. The program is funded entirely by a grant from the United States Department of Education. This summer, the six-week program will tentatively run from June 27 to Aug. 6.

Currently the program has openings for students residing in many areas, including Garrett, Preston, Tucker, and Mineral counties.

To be eligible for the summer 2004 program, students must currently be in the eighth, ninth, or 10th grade. Students also must have an interest in math and/or science and meet the U.S. Department of Education income criteria or be a potential first-generation college graduate. Students currently enrolled in Upward Bound or Talent Search programs automatically meet those criteria.

For more information and an application, persons may contact the Regional Math/Science Center office at 1-800-646-6004 or 301-687-4295 or visit the Web site at www.frostburg.edu/clife/mscenter/.

Oakland Rotary Supports Local Literacy Council

The Oakland Rotary recently presented a $300 check to the Garrett County Literacy Council. Accepting the check was Camille Spurr, who told the club that the contribution would be used for public awareness and advertising.

It is important that non-readers hear the great news that volunteers are available to help them learn to read, she said.

"Rotary has a long history of supporting literacy projects," said president Bob Stephens. "This year the local club will receive the Governor's Citation for its contributions to literacy. One of the contributions was making sure that all 1,100 children whose families were in the annual Christmas project received an age-appropriate book for Christmas."

During literacy month in February there have been speakers at club meetings to raise awareness of literacy. The local club is also working with Rotary District 7350 to include a literacy project as part of the annual District Conference in May. Rotarians from District 7350 will be delivering books to students at Crellin and Friendsville Elementary Schools and will also be reading to those students.

"The project will fit nicely with Rotary International's slogan of 'Lend a Helping Hand'," said Doug Riley of District 7350. "Literacy is not a luxury, it is a necessity, and we must do everything we can to promote literacy".

ROTARY DONATES TO LITERACY COUNCIL – The Oakland Rotary Club recently presented a $300 check to the Garrett County Literacy Council. The council will use the funds to raise public awareness about literacy. "Rotary has a long history of supporting literacy projects," noted club president Bob Stephens. During its annual Christmas project, the club distributed 1,100 books to local children. See story for more information. Pictured is Stephens presenting the check to Literacy Council representative Camille Spurr.

TOO MANY KITTENS, TOO FEW HOMES – Pictured is one of the more than 60 litters that were brought into the Garrett County Animal Shelter last summer. That equals 240 to 300 unwanted kittens. Many were rescued or adopted, but far too many were not and had to euthanized, noted a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. In a collaborative effort to help reduce the pet overpopulation and to promote the benefits of having pets altered, the Humane Society, Animal Shelter, and local veterinarians are again recognizing March as Spay/Neuter Awareness Month in Garrett County. This year's theme is "Be PETriotic: Spay or Neuter." As in previous years, $25 discount certificates toward the procedures are available to county residents for their pets. The certificates are redeemable at all three of the county's veterinary hospitals, as well as Dr. Miller's office in Salisbury, Pa. See story for details.

Humane Society, Animal Shelter, Vets Joining Forces For Spay/Neuter Month

This is the fourth year the Garrett County Humane Society, Garrett County Animal Shelter, and local veterinarians are joining forces to recognize March as Spay/Neuter Awareness Month. This year's theme, "Be PETriotic: Spay or Neuter," was adopted from the Doris Day Foundation's Spay Day USA, which was observed this year on Feb. 24.

"By caring for our animals," said local Humane Society member Lisa Baker, "we are helping our community in many ways."

The benefits of spaying or neutering pets are numerous, she added. For example, altered animals do not contribute to the overpopulation problem, so fewer end up homeless in the streets or animal shelters. Additionally, the spay and neuter operations help to resolve undesirable behaviors in pets, such as aggression, spraying, and roaming.

"So, this lessens the burden on the animal shelters and the taxpayers," Baker said. "It's the PETriotic thing to do."

More than 1,000 animals were brought into the Garrett County Animal Shelter in 2003. Of that number, 356 animals were rescued or taken to "live-shelters," 188 were adopted, and 88 returned to their owners, according to the shelter.

The euthanasia rate was down, but 554 animals still had to be euthanized, noted animal control officer Bonnie Zimmerman. "A large part of this number was from the 60-plus litters of kittens that were brought in last summer," she said. "A lot of them were too small or too sick to be adopted."

The 60-plus litters of kittens equals 240 to 300 kittens, according to Baker. "And there was obviously not enough homes for 240 or more kittens," she said.

The Humane Society reminds residents that they can help alleviate these problems by having their pets altered and by bringing to the shelter strays from the neighborhood, which will prevent those cats and dogs from reproducing even more feral offspring.

As in previous Spay/Neuter Awareness months, the Humane Society and Animal Shelter are offering county residents $25 discount certificates toward their pets' spay or neuter procedures. The certificates are redeemable at all three of the county's veterinary hospitals, as well as Dr. Miller's office in Salisbury, Pa. These discounts were made possible by donations from many area businesses and individuals, who will be noted on the certificates.

"Last year, more than 200 certificates were given out, so that should mean 200 more animals have been altered," said Baker. "But we still have work to do." She also noted that cat and dog licenses cost much less for animals that have been altered, and that the new cat ordinance takes effect on July 1.

Persons interested in obtaining a certificate must visit or call the Animal Shelter at 301-334-3553 to obtain them. However, only two certificates are allowed per family.

To further help residents get their pets spayed or neutered, the Countryside Animal Hospital and Casselman Veterinary Services are again offering an additional $10 off these procedures during the month of March. Interested persons may call the hospitals for more information.

"Please spread the word about Spay/Neuter Month and be PETriotic," said Baker.

FRIENDSVILLE FIREFLIES 4-H CLUB

by Teresa Friend

The February meeting of the Friendsville Fireflies was held at Friendsville Elementary School on Feb. 17. Bradley Friend, our president, called the meeting to order.

We were to do public speaking and the judges were: Jarred Hauser, Julia Sines, Gary Long and Brad Friend.

Bradley Friend introduced and welcomed our judges and we began our public speaking. Aaron Calhoun's speech was on North Carolina, Ashely Calhoun spoke on the Harrisburg Sport Show, Teresa Friend's topic was her goat Breana, and Beth Long's speech was on her life and what she wants to do when she finishes college. Bradley Friend's speech was on his dogs, Brian Friend's speech was on his favorite hat, and Keaton Thomas's was on his favorite characters, the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.

Aaron Calhoun and Keaton Thomas won for the juniors, Brian Friend won for the Clovers, Teresa Friend and Ashely Calhoun won for the intermediates, and Bradley Friend and Beth Long won for the seniors. The judges got a gift for taking the time to judge us. The kids got gifts for winning and participating.

We also had snack that was provided by Keaton Thomas. Next, the meeting started and we talked about more fundraisers and what we will be doing in March, which will be bowling and pizza on March 7. Also, we will be doing a benefit spaghetti dinner for the Hunter family, whose house burned down. The dinner will be held March 20 from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Friendsville Elementary School. The price will be $5.00 for adults and $2.50 for ages 5-10. It will be hosted by the Friendsville Fireflies and the Snowy Creek 4-H clubs.

LIONS HELP WITH COMPANION DOG – The Friendsville Lions Club recently made a donation toward a companion dog for Lucas Mitchell of Markleysburg, Pa. "Lucas is an autistic child who has benefited greatly by receiving a companion dog by the name of Teagin," explained a club spokesperson. Teagin accompanies Lucas in his travels to church, to school, and back home again, where Teagin resumes his duties as a "regular" family dog. Lions Club president Michael Lawson and his wife Chantay presented the check to the Mitchells at their home. The Lawsons said they were impressed with how Teagin reacted when they first entered the home and met him as a regular dog and how his attitude and demeanor changed when his vest was place on him and he became a working dog for Lucas. "We wish the Mitchell family the best as they continue on their journey with Teagin," said the spokesperson. In the photo on the left are Lucas and Teagin. At right is Michael Lawson, left, presenting the check to Lucas's parents, Sarah and Nick Mitchell.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

The Friendsville Fireflies and the Snowy Creek 4-H clubs will be sponsoring a spaghetti dinner on Saturday, March 20, from 4 to 7 p.m. The dinner will consist of spaghetti, salad, bread, dessert, and beverage. The price is $5 per adult, $2.50 for ages 5-10, and free for those under 5. Tickets for the dinner can be obtained by contacting any member or also at the door on the 20th. Proceeds of this event will benefit the Scott and Carol Hunter family, who recently lost their home in a fire.

SCHOOL NEWS

The next PTO meeting will be held Thursday, March 11, at 4 p.m.

Jump Rope for Heart will be held Friday, March 19.

There will be a noon dismissal for students on Friday, March 19.

Spring school pictures will be taken Monday, March 22.

Kindergarten registration is under way. Children who will turn 5 years old by October 31 are eligible for kindergarten placement. A form was sent home to parents, who are reminded to fill it out and send it back in.

Wing Night is every Friday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Friendsville fire hall. Proceeds support the Friendsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept. Inc.

FRIENDSVILLE COMMUNITY WATCH

The next meeting of the Friendsville Community Watch will be held Wednesday, March 10, at the Friendsville Elementary School at 6:30 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

ACCIDENT

THE GARRETT COVENANT HOUSE

The Garrett Covenant House, located in the Accident Community Building, officially opened on Feb. 25. The Garrett Covenant House is a licensed medical day program serving adults 16 years and over with all levels of functioning.

During its first week in operation, the average attendance was 10, but it is licensed for 30 participants. They have been working on many craft projects along with exercising, taking walks, going to the library, and having sing-alongs with a guitar, plus lots of socialization. A 10-day-old baby goat paid a visit one day. Breakfast, lunch, and snacks are served. For further information, persons may call 301-746-7404.

ACCIDENT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Miss Maryland will visit students on Thursday, March 11.

The Accident Elementary School will hold its annual Book Fair March 15-19.

Jump Rope for Heart will be held Thursday, March 18.

NORTH STAR 4-H CLUB

The next meeting of the North Star 4-H Club will be held Tuesday, March 9. The members will be doing public speaking.

TOWN NEWS

A strategic planning meeting will be held Tuesday, March 9, at the town hall at 7 p.m. Discussion will be facilitated by Terrell Ellis to discuss the Strategic Planning Revitalization Program. This is a public meeting to solicit the community's input and development goals for Accident.

Strategic Planning committees will be set up to help identify development opportunities, the town's resources, and the financing required to develop Accident's unique areas. All interested persons are urged to attend.

ACCIDENT CULTURE AND HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Accident Culture and Historical Society is presently working on creating a historical drama to present to school-age children about the history of the people in the Accident area and how this history touches them. The drama will be presented at the Drane House. Meetings are held every third Monday in the Accident town hall at 7:30 p.m. They welcome all who would like to help with this project.

First Impressions Count!

What's the first thing buyers see when they drive by your home or arrive for a showing? Your front yard, of course. You'll generate more interest in your home's interior features if your exterior is tidy and well-maintained.

A recent study at the University of Florida reported that homes with well-groomed yards sell an average of 15 days faster than homes with neglected lawns. Here are some ways to make a good first impression:

Do the obvious by mowing your lawn and running the weed-eater along edges, sidewalks and driveways. Keep your plants and shrubbery well-watered, and place mulch around your trees and flower beds where appropriate.

As the snow melts, it's extremely important to tidy up leaves, twigs, and other objects that may have been hidden all winter. Always keep your walkways and driveway clear of debris, for looks and for safety.

Repair fencing and make sure all of your outdoor lighting is operating properly. If you've recently made major outdoor improvements or invested in landscaping services, be sure to mention these on your home's information sheet, and even include "before and after" photos in your home album for buyers to see.

You'll find that improving your yard by taking the time to landscape and care for your lawn will pay off by beautifying your home (and neighborhood) and possibly even raising overall property values!

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give me a call at the office, or on my cell phone at 301-501-DALE!

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

If you believe in the saying about March that it comes "in like a lion and out like a lamb" or "in like a lamb and out like a lion," then it looks like we are faced with another month of winter at least. Indeed, it did come in like a lamb, so be prepared. Even though we still have plenty of snow on the ground, the first day of March was unusually warm at 60 degrees, which is not really that cool even for the summer around here. At least we are approaching the most hopeful time. The first verse of "June is Busting Out All Over" is a countdown to summer which I remember when singing in the Glee Club in elementary school. It is hard to believe that now I look forward to the beginning of summer vacation from the school year, even more so than when I was a pony-crazed kid. Now I am looking forward to getting more of a chance to spend a decent time around here with my too-fast-growing daughters.

I feel just dreadful this early Tuesday morning since Claire and Caitlin had to leave at 3 o'clock in the morning (or I should say, in the middle of the night). Anyway, I got no sleep before I had to kiss them goodbye for their big week at Orlando, Florida, on their annual band trip. I couldn't seem to go to sleep after they departed either so only got about an hour of sleep the whole night. Rodney and Marci Glotfelty and Kevin Bass went along as chaperones. Scotty Bass, Robbie, Blakely, Darryl, and Elliot Glotfelty were also with the band and are now in the sunny South.

The really big news last week was a big, wonderful surprise party in honor of my Aunt Helen Englar on her "20th" birthday. Although she only had a chance for 20 birthdays so far, no mere 20-year-old girl could collect that many beautiful grandnieces and handsome grandnephews as she had in attendance (as she pointed out that the best looking table was the one where a bevy of five young Bittinger beauties sat, plus some grandnieces from New York state.) Not that her grandnephews are not also good-looking, but young teenage boys are slower to achieve the final polish on their looks.

Of course, Helen is actually 80 years young although she so far she has had only 20 actual birthdays since she is a February 29th leap year baby. I only realized just now that she only has a birthday in a presidential election year. Can you name the presidents who won the election beginning in 1924 and every four years hence? I am only sure of about half of them.

This Tuesday was Maryland's primary election day. This year I didn't think the Bittinger polling place would be very busy since almost everyone in Bittinger is a registered Republican so there is not much choice or interest in voting in the primary. Now the regular election will be another matter. I hope that the Democrats can come up with a good enough electable candidate to turn around the downhill slide that this country is taking. Where will we find that hundreds of billions of dollars to pay for the war in Iraq? Are we going to raid Social Security that makes Americans more secure, so that we can afford to pay for that war? The only real winner now is the people who invested in either weapons or in the oil business. In fact, right now, my mother said gasoline is at the highest price she ever paid in her whole lifetime. Our relationship with our long time allies in Europe is never so poor as now.

But let us leave that dismal picture to return to a more happy story of about 50-or-so-year-old guests from all over Maryland, as well as a couple cousins from Delaware, plenty of Garrett Countians, Baltimore area cousins, neighbors and fellow quilters from Westminster, several classmates from Grantsville High School, including Maxine Broadwater and Betty Huff, some classmates from Frostburg State College, and a healthy group from Syracuse area of New York state, her little sister, Dorothy, and Dot's son and daughter-in-law and two second cousins of my girls. But, of course, the longest-traveled pair were Ralph and Betty Hummell from Olympia, Wash.

Ralph and Betty's daughter Elizabeth wrote a special song for the event, "What can you do for an aunt who turned 20? You can't buy her a drink, as she is not yet 21."

Some of Helen's western Maryland cousins present were Harriett Buckel, Rhea Hetrick, Dorothy Teets, along with daughter Vicki and son-in-law Bruce Taliaferro of McHenry, Miriam Brenneman, Junior Brenneman, and wife Mary Ann. Cousin Bernadette Hessen from St. Albans, W.Va., and cousins Alberta Nolder and husband Paul, and cousin Marie Blank and son from Carroll County were there to help celebrate. Helen also has a neighbor who is actually another cousin on the Brenneman side of the family.

Both the Brenneman and Glotfelty families of the Bittinger area were indeed fruitful, so Helen has many relations scattered to the four winds, although a lot stayed pretty close to their childhood home. The planners of the party chose a Grange Hall near Hagerstown, midway between where she spent most of her adult life and the making of many friends. Although the weather on Sunday was almost spring-like, it was not quite good enough to use the traditional mid-state gathering place for Helen's cousins, Fort Frederick, where her first and second cousins convene for their annual September Cousins' Picnic.

It was hard not to mention the plans for the Big Event in this column, but it would have ruined the surprise for Helen, so lots of people who would have liked to attend did not find out through this column. Actually, just a few key people in each world that Helen touched did a good job of spreading the word to their peers. For any of my readers who missed it and would like to send her a card, her address is Helen Englar, 51 Westmoreland Street, Westminster, MD 21157.

Margaret Hershberger is a patient in in Morgantown hospital and faced surgery on Tuesday morning. She is in our prayers for a rapid recovery.

A favorite traveling game of my girls and me is the Alphabet Game, where you look for a word beginning with alphabet letters in sequence. It is a rare trip if you can get the Q and Z in the right place. Between Bittinger and D.C., there is only one Q along the interstate, unless you get off somewhere there is a Dairy Queen. On the trip to Helen's party we were not ready for the Q just past Cumberland, so we had to hang up the game until we were homebound. Of course, it is probably impossible to find a word beginning with X, so we allowed exemption of the word Exit. But we did the whole alphabet when we got to Jennings and scored the big Z on the sign for Zion Lutheran Church. It is not a big sign, so if you don't know it is there you would probably miss it. It is nice to finish the game with that sign, as that church also had an important birthday on Sunday, February 29, marking its 95th anniversary. It was nice to play the same game with my teenage daughter as we used to enjoy when they first started to learn to read.

Meredith was so overcome by missing her big sisters that she called Claire's cell phone first thing this morning and got a good report of the trip on the plane. The weather is lovely down there and they only had a two-hour plane flight between Pittsburgh and Orlando. It feels like it is so much farther away than that to me because a day without my girls is a day without sunshine for me. I can't wait for Sunday to come. Meredith shares the same sentiments as I and even our poor dog Boo really misses them when they are not around. She always eagerly awaits them at the end of the school day.

Torrey Poholsky is recovering from wisdom teeth surgery.

Rob and Barb Michael, Monty and Nancy Pagenhardt, and Lenny and Sally Poholsky had dinner at Savage River Lodge on Saturday night.

Last week visitors of Ethel Buckel were Beulah Moon, Sally Poholsky, Rob and Meredith Vagnetti, and Arnold and Barbara Feather, Oakland.

SGCRWC SETS YEAR'S FIRST MEMBERSHIP MEETING – These officers of the Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club – from the left, president Bea Crosco, secretary Judy Wilt, vice president Ann Rebele, immediate past president Nita Roberts, and secretary Arzella Parsons – gathered for their annual planning meeting recently. The agenda included discussion on the development of a membership meeting schedule, level of legislative support, political campaign activities, fund-raiser ideas to support the club's school supplies program, and community involvement. Following a short winter hiatus, the SGCRWC will host its first membership meeting of the year at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 17, at Mountain Glade Adult Day Services in Oakland. The public is invited, and for information persons may call 301-387-4026.

CHURCH

A call to prayer and self denial service will be held Thursday March 11, at 11 a.m. at Otterbein U.M. Church. All women of the community are invited to attend this time of prayer and meditation to focus on physical, spiritual, and emotional health and healing of women. Lunch will be served following the service.

The Swanton Community Center will host a buckwheat/pancake and sausage dinner on March 13, with serving beginning at 4 p.m.

PERSONALS

Howard Friend is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Leslie, Tracy, and Anthony Beckman arrived from Ohio Saturday to spend the weekend with Leslie's parents and brother, Melvin, Dotty, and Andrew Beckman. On Sunday Leslie and Tracy traveled to Baltimore to visit Leslie's cousin, Sherman Harvey, who is a patient in Johns Hopkins Hospital. Anthony stayed with his grandparents during that time. Leslie and family returned to their home in Ohio Monday afternoon.

Denver and Alverta Sweitzer took their granddaughter, Amanda Sweitzer, on a shopping trip to Morgantown Sunday for her birthday.

Bob, Delores, and Debbie Baker, Canton, Ohio, arrived Sunday to spend a few days with Luella Baker and other family, and to attend the funeral of Delores's brother David Rounds, who died Friday. His funeral was Tuesday.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Conservation Funding Sign-up Now Under Way

David P. Doss, state conservationist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Maryland, has announced that Maryland received approximately $5,327,300 in fiscal year 2004 conservation funding for financial assistance to Maryland's farmers through the USDA Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), part of the 2002 Farm Bill.

The sign-up period for submitting an application for EQIP funds began on February 23 and ends on April 9. Farmers should contact their local NRCS or Soil Conservation District office, located at USDA Service Centers, for more information on the eligible conservation practices, the application process, and receiving conservation technical assistance through EQIP.

"Over the past eight years, NRCS Maryland has provided farmers with $18 million in EQIP funds to pay for conservation projects that address natural resource concerns and protect water quality," said Doss. "EQIP will help farmers address some of their most pressing local natural resource concerns. The conservation programs and increased funding levels provided by the 2002 Farm Bill offer farmers a tremendous opportunity to improve and conserve natural resources."

Practices eligible in the countywide funding competition include: conservation systems and practices relating to cropland, grazing land, forest land, and irrigation/nurseries. These practices will be determined on a county-by-county basis to best address local conservation needs.

EQIP provides cost-share assistance from 25 percent to 75 percent of the cost of certain conservation practices, such as grassed waterways, filter strips, manure management facilities, contour buffer strips, livestock exclusion, and prescribed grazing. Incentive payments can be made for up to three years to encourage farmers to perform land management practices such as nutrient, manure, and integrated pest management.

EQIP sign-up information is on the Internet on the NRCS Maryland homepage at www.md.nrcs.usda.gov in the Programs Section and is also available from the local NRCS office. In addition to the program application form, there is additional application information, a list of practices and costs, and specifics on Maryland's ranking process, including criteria used to evaluate applications.

USDA Notes Commodity Loan Lending Rates

The interest rate for 1995 and prior crop year commodity loans disbursed by USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) during March 2004 is 1.250 percent, unchanged from February 2004. For 1996 and subsequent crop year commodity and marketing assistance loans, the interest rate for loans disbursed during March 2004 is 2.250 percent, unchanged from February 2004. The interest rate for farm storage facility loans approved in March 2004 is 3.625 percent, down from 3.750 percent in February 2004. The interest rate for sugar storage facility loans is 4.625 percent for March 2004, down from 4.750 percent in February 2004.

Past monthly releases announcing interest rates charged by CCC on commodity and marketing assistance loans disbursed for that particular month reflected the interest rate charged the CCC by the U.S. Treasury for that month. This was the interest rate specified by the CCC since Jan. 1, 1982, but the process of establishing the interest rate was changed by a provision of the Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996 (the Act), enacted on Apr. 4, 1996.

Section 163 of the Act requires that monthly interest rates applicable to commodity and marketing assistance loans are to be 100 basis points – or 1 percent – greater than the rate determined under the applicable interest rate formula in effect on Oct. 1, 1995. This formula resulted in a rate equivalent to the amount the U.S. Treasury charged the CCC for borrowing for the month.

The provisions of Section 163 of the Act are not retroactive. Accordingly, this and subsequent monthly interest rate announcements will carry two sets of rates: one for 1995 and prior crop year commodity loans and one for 1996 and subsequent crop year commodity and marketing assistance loans.

Further program information is available from USDA Farm Service Agency's Financial Management Division at 703-305-1386.

Preston County Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
Preston County FSA Office
425 E. Main St., Suite 420, Kingwood, WV 26537-1793
304-329-1923

FARM SERVICE AGENCY ANNOUNCES CROP ACREAGE REPORTING DEADLINES

The Preston County Farm Service Agency reminds farmers of the importance of filing timely Crop Acreage Reports. Reports of crop acreage are required for participation in many USDA-FSA farm programs.

Programs in which a Crop Acreage Report is required include: the Direct and Counter Cyclical Program (DCP), Commodity Loans and Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs), the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP/CREP), Farm Storage Facility Loan Program, and the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP).

Acreage reporting deadlines for the 2004 crop year for West Virginia farmers are as follows: May 31, all small grains (oats, wheat, and barley); July 15, all other crops not specifically named (corn, alfalfa, clover, grass, legumes, lespedeza, lettuce, mixed hay, peas, commercial produce, strawberries, timothy, and vetch); September 30, aquaculture, ornamental horticulture, ginseng, turfgrass sod, mushrooms, Christmas trees, and floriculture.

For further information regarding Crop Acreage Reports, persons may either visit the Farm Service Agency located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza or telephone 304-329-1923.

4-H Club News

TRAILBLAZERS
Candace Blamble, reporter

The February meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club took place at Yough Glades Elementary School.

Candace Blamble and Emily Cosner reported on Ski Day at the Wisp. The members discussed a club trip to Kennywood. Enrollment forms, project records, and guide books were distributed. The club sponsored a canned food drive, which was coordinated by Emily Green.

Chad Harvey and Melinda Smith read their prepared speeches. Candace Blamble, Jennifer Cosner, Emily Green, Emily Cosner, and Carrie Rush read their radio spots. Brad Lilly read his given speech.

Refreshments were provided by the Cosner family. The next meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club is set for Thursday, March 18.

NORTH STAR
by Kevin Haenftling

Members of the North Star 4-H Club attended the county council meeting on February 25 at Garrett College. Those who attended were Darlene and Rachel Schmidt, Nancy, Dean, and Kara Savage, and Bonnie and Kevin Haenftling. Some items of discussion were Achievement Night, District Show, livestock barn, public speaking, and learn by doing. The next meeting will be announced in the Party Line.

Members of the North Star 4-H Club attended the movie Miracle at the Garrett Eight Cinemas on Saturday. Those who attended were Robert, Annamay, Karen, and Dante Broadwater, Brett Stanton, Anita Gardner, Nancy, Dean, and Kara Savage, Darlene and Rachel Schmidt, and George, Bonnie, and Kevin Haenftling.

Quality assurance training was held at Garrett College on Monday for 4-H members taking one or more of the following projects: lamb, goat, swine, beef breeding, and dairy. Those who attended from the North Star 4-H Club were Brittany Gank, Brett Stanton, Rachel Schmidt, Kara Savage, and Kevin Haenftling. Those who won door prizes from our club were Brett, Brittany, and Kevin.

The North Star 4-H Club met on Feb. 10 at the Accident fire hall. There were six members, six adults, and two guests present. The roll call was "Name your best Christmas present ever." Brett Stanton and Kara Savage led the pledges.

Annamay Broadwater gave a report on the Christmas party. Rachel Schmidt, Kevin Haenftling, and Annamay and Robert Broadwater all reported on the annual planning meeting that was held in January. Kara Savage gave a report on the officer training workshop that was held on Jan. 15. She also reported on the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention that she attended.

Members who gave demonstrations were Rachel Schmidt, public speaking; Kara Savage, sewing; and Robert Broadwater, swine.

Rachel Schmidt showed her certificate she received from the American Rabbit Breeders Association. Her rabbitry is now registered as Pamdara's Rabbit Tree. Annamay was voted in as club photographer since Corey and Christina House resigned from the position.

A committee was formed to go over the bylaws. Those on the committee are Brett Stanton, Annamay Broadwater, Kara Savage, Rachel Schmidt, Kevin Haenftling, and Anita Gardner as the adult leader.

Other committees were formed for fund-raising, Fourth of July activities, parade, and fair booth. Those on the committees are Annamay and Robert Broadwater, Kara Savage, Kevin Haenftling, Rachel Schmidt, Brett Stanton, and Brittany Gank. Adult leaders for the fund-raising committee are Nancy Savage and George Haenftling; for the 4th of July activities and parade are Bonnie Haenftling and Anita Gardner; and for the fair booth are Nancy Savage, Karen Broadwater, and Bonnie Haenftling.

Members were reminded of the February 4-H county council meeting, public speaking on March 13 at 9 a.m. at Garrett College, and that speeches will be given at the March meeting.

The next meeting will be March 9 at the Accident fire hall. Anyone interested in checking out our club may do so. Crafts begin at 6:30 p.m. and the meeting will start at 7 p.m.

PUBLIC NOTICE
REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS - ENGINEERING SERVICES

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Maryland, is seeking proposals from interested firms for the engineering, inspection, and construction management services necessary for the Memorial Drive Area Infrastructure Project. The scope of the project will include the design and inspection of a water distribution system, wastewater collection system (the majority of which should be gravity), stormwater collection system, and road design.

Services required would include preparation of bid documents, review and certification of bids, inspection and management of the installation/construction of the infrastructure noted above as well as the acquisition of necessary right-of-ways. The Town has sketched out possible locations for the water and sewer lines, which may be reviewed at Oakland City Hall during normal business hours.

Interested persons should obtain an Engineering Proposal Submittal Sheet from Oakland City Hall, 15 South Third Street, during normal office hours. Sealed proposals marked "Memorial Drive Area Infrastructure Engineering Proposal" along with the Proposal Submittal Sheet must be submitted to Oakland City Hall by 2:00 p.m. on March 22, 2004. Questions may be directed to Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691. EOE.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE
OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
308 CHESTNUT ST.
FRIENDSVILLE, MD 21531

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Lonnie Folk and Darla R. Folk, dated March 21, 2002 and recorded in Liber 910, Folio 725 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., at the Court House Door, Oakland, on

MARCH 5, 2004 AT 10:00 AM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $6,000 in the form of cash, certified check, or in any other form suitable to the Substitute Trustees in their sole discretion, shall be required at the time of sale, except no deposit shall be required of the secured party, its successors or assigns. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited and the property may be resold at the purchaser's risk and expense. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The purchaser is responsible for any amount in excess of $500 of outstanding water bills, if any, incurred prior to date of sale. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. In the event the sale is not ratified for any reason, the purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit. Additional terms, if any, to be announced at sale. Purchaser agrees to pay $245.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents.
